GERMAN AND U. S. RELATIONS BECOME MORE TENSE

ROOSEVELT TO BROADCAST TO WORLD MONDAY

President's Night Address To Be Heard In 14 Foreign Languages

STATEMENT SAYS TALK TO BE OF MAJOR IMPORTANCE

Executive Temporarily Ignores Nazi Charge He Ordered Shooting

By Douglas B. Cornell

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt ignored for tonight a Nazi declaration that he had given the navy shooting orders and wanted to incite the American people to war, but he will broadcast an address of "major importance" Monday night to the American people and to the world.

The subject matter was not disclosed when the temporary White House announced arrangements for the speech.

But there was no reason to doubt that it would deal with the explosive international situation, if not in some of its more troublesome aspects, at least in a general way.

That could be ascertained from the advance announcement that the president's words would be of major significance and would be heard not only by the American people but also by the entire world in re-broadcasts in 14 languages.

A matter of immediate speculation was the possibility that Mr. Roosevelt would discuss the full implications of a naval action in the North Atlantic Thursday between a German submarine and the United States destroyer Greer. While neither vessel was hit, apparently, the incident brought strong repercussions both in Germany and the United States.

A Nazi communique, released in Berlin today through the official news agency DNB, said the Greer case proved Mr. Roosevelt had issued shooting orders to the navy and was trying to provoke incidents to force the American people into the war.

Reporters relayed a summary of the communique to the president through William D. Hassett, a presidential secretary. No comment was forthcoming but soon afterward Mr. Roosevelt's speaking plans were disclosed.

Some persons having close connections with the temporary White House suggested that Mr. Roosevelt's reaction to the communique might take the form of strengthening his publicly proclaimed determination that sea lanes to Iceland must be kept open, that delivery of war supplies to foes of the axis must be "more greatly safeguarded" and that "we must do everything in our power" to crush Hitlerism.

It was noted, however, that any new steps to carry out these policies probably would not be announced to the

HOME-BUILDING PLANS APPROVED

Final Setup For Half Million Dollar Project Is Arranged

Members of the local unit of the United States Housing authority met Friday night and formally approved acceptance of the $500,000 sum allocated to carrying out a housing project for Monroe.

B. A. Trousdale, Jr., chairman of the local board, stated Saturday that he is informed that the money will be received here inside of a week or ten days time. The Ouachita National Bank and Central Savings Bank and Trust company were named as the local depositories by the board.

Inside of the next few days, a federal auditor will arrive in Monroe to set up a bookkeeping system and to arrange for the opening of offices to be maintained here for the project.

Architects have already been instructed to prepare plans for houses that are proposed for erection.

One housing project, for whites, will be located near the city limits on Jackson street and the other, for colored, will be located out Texas avenue, according to plans that have already been announced.

MESSAGE CENTER OF ARMY PUT IN HERE

A Second army message center, equipped with a telephone switchboard and a teletype machine, has been installed here on North Second street directly adjacent to the license bureau.

The center maintains 24-hour service and transmits and receives messages pertaining to official affairs of the Second army. It was established Thursday and will remain here as long as the quartermaster depot operates. The depot is scheduled to be here until the maneuvers are completed early in October.

Stage Being Set For Grand Finale In Louisiana To War Games

WITH THE SECOND ARMY ON THE ARKANSAS-LOUISIANA BORDER, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The scene was being set tonight for a grand finale to Second army's war games as the Seventh army corps concentrated its 75,000 men in north Louisiana to withstand the mechanized thunderbolts of swift infantry, cavalry and armored divisions sweeping down from Arkansas.

With their month of maneuvers ending next Friday, strategists of both the Almat and Kotmk armies predicted a pitched battle would develop by Tuesday.

The 5th and 6th infantry divisions, the 2nd cavalry division and the First armored division—forming the Kotmk army—caught up today with the Almatians, represented by the Seventh army corps, and with superior speed forced them to prepare for a fight.

The three ex-national guard divisions under Major General Robert C. Richardson, Jr., had as their goal a retreat south of the Red river in central Louisiana, but the bulky, slow-moving units were quickly overtaken by the streamlined regular army divisions.

Moving along a 60-mile-long east-to-west front, Major General Clarence S. Ridley's provisional corps, formed by the 5th from Fort Custer, Mich., and the 6th from Fort Wood, Mo., drove into Louisiana close on the heels of the Almat force.

The First armored division, arriving from Fort Knox, Ky., unloaded its more than 2,000 vehicles—including some 425 tanks—near Minden and Shreveport in Northwest Louisiana. Entering maneuvers for the first time since it was formed as the nation's premier panzer unit last year, Major General Bruce McGruder's fast-moving, hard-striking force faced the Almatians' west flank, but was restrained from action until Monday.

When the Second army maneuvers end Friday, the 2nd armored division will join the force and Lieutenant-General Ben Lear will move his 130,000 troops into position north of the Red river to engage in mimic warfare with Lieutenant-General Walter Krueger's Third army of 260,000 men, massed in southwest Louisiana. WOMAN KILLED AS PLANE HITS HOUSE

WINSLOW, Ariz., Sept. 6.—(AP)—A 63-year-old woman at work in her kitchen was killed and an aviation private slightly injured yesterday in the plunge of an army transport plane into an adobe house.

Mrs. Nazario Garcia was thrown against a stove when the plane, carrying four men, crashed onto the roof after taking off from the nearby airport. She died three hours later of burns, multiple injuries and shock. Her husband, Jacoba Garcia, suffered bruises.

Private D. D. Melton of the Seventh Transport squadron, was treated for head cuts.

CLAIM AIRPORT DESTROYED

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—(AP)—An airport at Ismailia on the Suez Canal where the British built extensive shops for the assembling of American warplanes was destroyed last night in a devastating luftwaffe raid on the canal area and Alexandria, 150 miles to the west, German reports said tonight.

NAZIS EXECUTE THREE HOSTAGES AFTER SHOOTING

Take Trio Of Communists From Concentration Camp And Shoot

GERMANY'S COMMANDER IN PARIS REFERS TO WARNING

Number Of Red' Suspects Are Given Long Terms In Prison

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Three French hostages, reported selected from among Communist prisoners of a concentration camp, were executed by a German firing squad at Paris today in reprisal for an attack in which a German sergeant was slightly wounded three days ago.

Unofficial advices reaching Vichy reported that the three Frenchmen were removed from the Drancy camp near Paris at dawn, lined up before a wall and shot to death. They were not identified.

General von Schaumberg, commander of the city of Paris, in a military announcement published in Paris newspapers called attention to his warning of August 22 that hostages would be executed if further attacks should be made on German troops in the Paris region.

"Despite this warning," the announcement said, "a member of the German army has been the victim of a new attack September 3. Inquiry has shown the guilty party could have been none other than a French Communist. As reprisals for this dastardly action three French hostages have been shot."

The wounded German sergeant, who also has not been identified, suffered only a flesh wound and was reported recovering. He was shot once in the shoulder as he walked on the street near the East station.

The Drancy camp has been used for imprisonment of most of the French Communists arrested during demonstrations in Paris and its suburbs.

An inner cabinet meeting was held today at which the minister of the interior, Pierre Pucheu, who is in

MAIL BUSINESS NOW ON BOOM

Handling Postal Service For 200,000 Soldiers Stimulates Business

In the handling of incoming and outgoing mail from the Monroe postoffice as base for the 200,000 soldiers of the Second army, the office here is confronted with its biggest task, Postmaster J. R. Wooten said Saturday.

All outgoing mail from the local soldiers here on maneuvers is handled from the local postoffice and the task of handling the great volume is taxing the local facilities to the utmost. Special auxiliary quarters have been set up in the basement of the postoffice building to care for the overflow.

Eighteen employes of other postoffices have been detailed to Monroe and 20 substitutes, local people, are employed as well as four from the railway mail service.

Incoming mail is all separated at Little Rock, Ark., and sent to Mon-

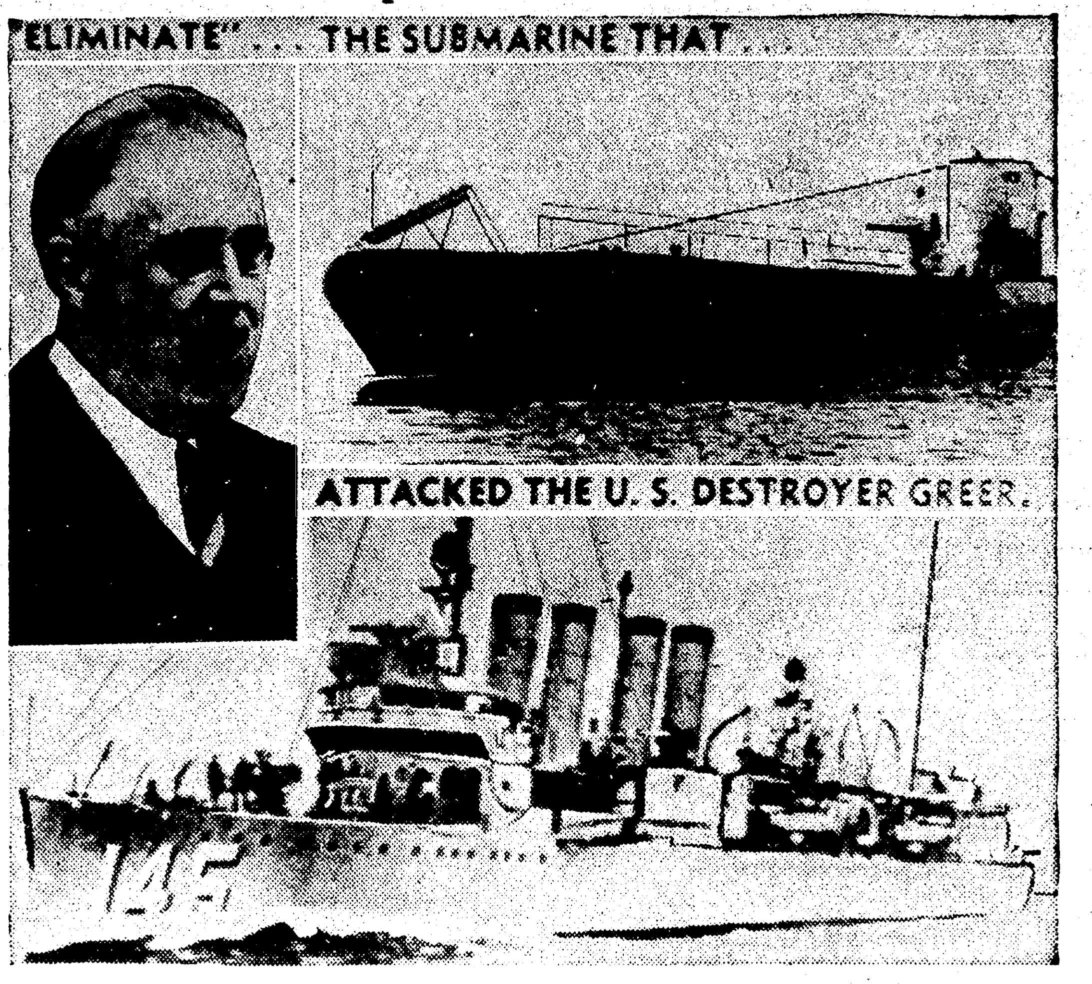
President Speaks After U-Boat Attack



Shortly after a German submarine attack on the U. S. S. Greer, President Roosevelt issued a statement in which he said "elimination" of the submarine was sought by the United States navy. The president will make a world-wide broadcast Monday night and it is expected he will discuss the submarine attack further at that time.

Nazis Admit 2 Torpedoes Fired At U. S. Destroyer

Communique Describes Encounter As Lasting Almost 12 Hours

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—(AP)—A German submarine fired two torpedoes at the United States destroyer Greer, a German communique acknowledged today, but it declared that the American warship was the aggressor and acted on orders of President Roosevelt who, it alleged, is trying "to incite the American people into war against Germany."

According to the official German version, the destroyer attacked first in Icelandic waters the Germans have declared to be inside their blockade zone and the U-boat commander, not knowing the destroyer's nationality, acted justifiably in exercise of the primitive right of self-defense.

The communique, issued through DNB, located the opening clash about 200 miles southwest of Iceland and described the encounter as lasting almost 12 hours.

Shortly after noon last Thursday, the statement said, the submarine "was attacked," and almost until midnight the destroyer chased the U-boat and dropped depth bombs.

According to the communique, two hours and nine minutes elapsed between the time the destroyer attacked at 12:30 p. m. and the U-boat discharged two torpedoes at 2:39 p. m.

The German statement concluded: "If American naval sources, namely the United States navy department, claim that the attack was started by the German U-boat the purpose of such an assertion can only be to give at least an appearance of justification to the attack by an American destroyer on a German U-boat in violation of neutrality.

"The attack itself is proof that Mr. Roosevelt, contrary to his claims, has already, at an earlier time, given general orders to American destroyers

LONG'S PROGRESS EQUIPMENT SOLD

Press And Other Items Go For Only Fraction Of Real Values

HAMMOND, La., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Former Governor Earl K. Long today made an unsuccessful effort to purchase the big press of the defunct and bankrupt Progress, one-time political newspaper of Huey P. Long and his machine, which was sold at auction here today.

Long dropped out when the bidding went above $3,000 and the press finally was knocked down to former Representative Norman R. Hamilton, publisher of the Portsmouth, Va., Star, for $12,800, a fraction of its original value. Long bought two automobiles, one for $180 and another for $255.

Other machinery went at low prices, three linotypes selling for $2,655, $1,250 and $625, and a Ludlow type-setting machine sold for $2,015.

The modern, two-story building was purchased for $7,350 by the Keystone Realty company. Others bidding on the building were Earl Long, R. R. Reid for B. Stern and company of Amite, and Sam Marten.

Long told other bidders afterward he had made bids merely in an attempt to raise the prices, because of his stock holdings in the Progress. He sold back many of the items on which he had made successful bids to others attending the auction.

Long bought the complete bound files of the Porgress for one dollar, and was given the paper's "morgue" material on the Long family. He made successful bids for an engraving camera at $30, 366 assorted size galleys at

4 AIRMEN DIE IN SHIP TORPEDOING

Seven Others Among American Fliers Landed At British Port

GLASGOW, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Four American airmen en route to England for service with the R. A. F. perished in the torpedoing of their ship by a submarine whose commander, one Irish survivor said, came to the surface and asked, "What caused the explosion?"

Seven others among the 11 American flying recruits aboard were landed at a British port yesterday. Two of them were injured.

The names of the dead were not available immediately. The survivors were announced as:

Tom Griffin, Mississippi.

Rivers Grove, Georgia.

Norman Echord, Kansas City, whose mother lives in Seattle, Wash. He left Kansas City August 19 to join the American Eagle squadron in Britain.

Jack Gilliland, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Gilliland of Pittsburg, Kas.

James Jordan, San Francisco.

B. F. Mayes, Texas, who sustained arm injuries.

Robert Pereshin, California, whose leg was broken.

Echord, Gilliland, Grove, Mayes and Griffin trained with the British air unit at Tulsa, Okla. All 11 fliers received additional training in Canada.

William Beattie, Belfast seaman aboard the torpedoed ship, said that after the attack the submarine came to the surface amidst the survivor-laden lifeboats and rafts.

In a conversation with the U-boat commander, described by Beattie as a German in his early twenties, the Irish seaman related the latter disclaimed that his craft had fired a torpedo.

"He seemed ashamed of what he had done and asked us what caused the explosion," Beattie related.

CONSULAR OFFICERS SENT TO NEW POSTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The state department announced today that 22 American consular officers who were expelled from Germany and Nazi-dominated areas in Europe, have been assigned to new posts in Switzerland, Eire (Ireland), Portugal, Egypt, England, Turkey, Spain, and Haiti.

Among them were:

Buford G. Rogers, Mount Olive, Miss., vice consul at Bordeaux, appointed vice consul at Bern, Switzerland.

COMMISSIONS AVAILABLE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Naval reserve commissions are available for 1,450 young college graduates who wish to enter active service ashore or afloat as junior engineering officers, the navy department announced today. The navy said it would accept men between 20 and 28 years old who have completed four years work in an accredited university or college, including two years of college-grade mathematics and courses in physics, chemistry and trigonometry.

Interpreting The War News:

Britain Not Ready To Try Invasion

By Edward E. Bomar
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

Young King Peter's suggestion that the British invade Italy promises to keep until he reaches his nineteenth birthday a year hence.

"[illegible] e [illegible] me is ripe," as the royal Yugoslav youth told an interviewer, but rather for continuation of the long aerial hammering of Sicily which has been in progress for weeks and the telling attacks on Libya-bound Axis convoys being made by British submarines.

Chances are plans for anything more serious than hit-run raids on Italy, or anywhere else in Europe, are on the high command's future spike just now.

As summer wanes in the desert country, making decisive military operations feasible, what seems immediately ahead of the British is a renewed struggle to hold on in the Mediterranean.

Successful invasion of Italy would demand expulsion of German and Italian forces from North Africa and a Br. ish advance 800 miles westward to Tripoli, opposite Sicily. The avenue of Axis attack on Suez via Asia Minor would have to be blocked meanwhile, Crete either retaken or made harmless as a base for flanking air raids, and the remnants of the Italian navy scattered or destroyed. It's not a program for a week-end.

What neutral military authorities confidentially look for first, as winter approaches in Russia, is a determined Axis rather than British offensive in the Mediterranean. This time Nazi rather than Italian forces are expected to lead the way.

The convoy attacks hint an energetic attempt to build up the Italian forces in North Africa into a formidable spearhead for a new thrust at Egypt from the Libyan desert.

On the other land approaches to Suez, via Asia, German forces are reported massing in the Balkans opposite uneasy Turkey.

The invasion of Russia may put Adolf Hitler's legions into position to drive southward from several other [illegible]ections at the same time the attempt [illegible] made to close the Libyan jaw [illegible] the Axis trap. Still other possibilities include an attempt to drive through Spain to North Africa by way of Gibraltar.

The approach of fall is a sure harbinger of sharper fighting in the African and Asian desert country. Libya normally starts to cool off appreciably in mid-September, and October bring a definite break in the blasting summer heat. The period of blinding sand storms is past.

For the prospective test of strength, both sides are more nearly ready than last year when the Italians failed so miserably in both Libya and Greece. Countering the Nazi march through the Balkans to Crete is the British occupation of Syria and the juncture made with Russia in Iran. Now, just as German troops and warplanes have stiffened Italy, the presence of British and Russian forces in Iran serve as insurance that the Turks will not knuckle under to the Nazis.

Recent months have brought a stream of munitions to the British from England, the United States, India and the dominions, along with troop reinforcements, to replace the losses sustained last spring in Greece and Libya.

The outlook for successful British defense of the iddle East is thus more promising than it was a year ago, though it [illegible] not encourage the idea that Ital[illegible] invaded soon.

Reds Say Nazis Are Hurled Back From Leningrad

MOSCOW, Sept. 7 (Sunday).—(AP)—The Red army claimed today to have driven the Germans out of vital approaches to Leningrad with fierce counter-attacks while the Red air force gave full backing with "massed blows" upon invading panzer troops, infantry and artillery.

The Soviet midnight communique again declared the battle raged on all fronts yesterday. But the fight in the Leningrad sector was the greatest and the most vital of the Russian-German war which entered its 12th week today.

The giant rival armies fought in the northwest over battlefields darkened by rain and fog.

Dispatches to the army newspaper Red Star declared the troops of Marshal Klementi Voroshilov, defending Russia's second city, mopped up one occupied zone south of Leningrad, pinched off another German armored wedge, penetrated the German lines at several points and crushed one major Nazi air base in never-ceasing counter-thrusts.

The Russians also were employing

2 FLIERS KILLED AND FOUR HURT

Mishaps Occur Within Period Of Six Hours In Shreveport Area

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 6.—(AP)—In scattered plane and auto accidents in the immediate area, two army fliers met death today and four were injured within a six-hour period.

Returning from a graduating class picnic on the Barksdale field reservation, Aviation Cadet Clifton Edward Rountree, Jr., 23, of Whaleyville, Va., was instantly killed late today and his three companions were injured, two severely, in an automobile crash.

Cadet Rountree was to have graduated September 12 from the Barksdale bombardier school. Seriously injured were Cadet Rufus Herman Green of Hobbs, N. M., and Cadet Gerald Frank Dunn, of Yakima, Wash. Cadet Joseph Barry Morningstar of Bronxville, N. Y., was also injured.

Earlier today one arm flier was killed and another injured today when two planes crashed within a two-hour period in separate accidents. Both planes fell into the Red river.

Second Lieutenant William H. Binns, 25, of Albany, Ga., pilot of an army observation plane (O-38) died when the plane struck high tension wires over the river about three miles north of the municipal airport and plunged into the middle of the current.

Accompanying Binns in the fatal flight was Second Lieutenant Ira Hassler, observer, who climbed out of the wreckage, swam to the river's bank and then returned to the plane in an attempt to rescue the pilot. Both men were stationed temporarily at the municipal airport with the 16th observation squadron. Hassler suffered no apparent injuries, Barksdale field authorities said tonight.

Two hours later, at the southern edge of the local airport, Lieutenant James H. Mangan and a Sergeant Tooney of the 17th attack bombardment squadron, also temporarily stationed there, escaped miraculously from the river after their twin-motored A-20A bomber crashed into the muddy river.

Lieutenant Mangan suffered a broken nose, Barksdale officials said. The plane disappeared almost immediately in 40 feet of water. The two men grabbed a tire which had broken at the impact, using it for a life preserver. Failure of one of the motors was blamed for the forced landing in the river.

SOMETIMES PAYS TO GET WIRES CROSSED

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 6.—(AP)—It sometimes pays to get your wires crossed—at least during army maneuvers—it was demonstrated by Major Roy Stephens of the 45th division intelligence section.

During this week's battle the 45th division was pitted against the Fourth army corps and the intelligence section was searching for the positions of the enemy troops.

Major Stephens picked up the field telephone and asked for his own Eighth corps headquarters.

"Sorry, sir," said Sergeant Don Froeming, wire chief, "the wires seem to have been tapped and we can get only the enemy."

"Well give me them," said the major.

"The enemy, sir?" asked the surprised sergeant. The reply was affirmative.

After a series of delays the major finally was connected with a high ranking officer of the enemy.

"This is intelligence," said the major, leaving out just what intelligence. "What's the dope?"

The officer then proceeded to reveal exactly where the forces were situated. Major Stephens said he had a very clear voice.

EACH ACCUSED BY OTHER IN U-BOAT ATTACK ON SHIP

Nazis Claim American Vessel Fired First, Submarine In Defense

SAY ROOSEVELT ORDERED SHOOTING TO BRING WAR

Some Leaders Think Hitler Staged Attack To Gain Japanese Aid

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The navy department bluntly disputed tonight a claim from Berlin that the destroyer Greer had been the aggressor in an engagement with a German submarine off Iceland and reiterated that "the initial attack was made by the submarine on the Greer."

The navy department issued the following statement:

"Notwithstanding German contentions appearing in today's press that the Greer was the aggressor in its action with the submarine, the facts are the same as originally stated by the navy department—namely, that the initial attack in this engagement was made by the submarine on the Greer. It was then, and not until then, that the Greer counter-attacked."

The navy's original announcement Thursday night said that the Greer, "en route to Iceland with mail, reported this morning that a submarine attacked her by firing torpedoes which missed their mark. The Greer immediately counter-attacked with depth charges."

Berlin today claimed that the Greer, a destroyer, attacked first, and that the U-boat used its torpedo tubes in self-defense. An exactly similar claim was made for the Greer yesterday by President Roosevelt. The submarine fired first, he said, and the Greer dropped depth-bombs in self-defense.

To its published claim, Germany added a strong denunciation of President Roosevelt and American policy, which occasioned little surprise here, and for the time being, at least, elicited no official comment. Berlin charged:

That the assertion that the Greer was acting in self-defense "can only be to give at least the appearance of justification to an attack by an American destroyer on a German U-boat."

That it proved President Roosevelt had, contrary to his published statements, issued "general orders to American destroyers not only to report positions of German ships and U-boats but, beyond that, to attack them."

And that "Mr. Roosevelt in this way

COLLEGE READY FOR RE-OPENING

Orientation Program Scheduled For Monday Morning

All freshmen entering Northeast Junior college are expected to attend an orientation program at the college Monday at 9 a.m. There will also be a meeting for them in the college auditorium Monday afternoon.

Registration starts for sophomores Monday noon and for freshmen Tuesday afternoon. The college's five buses will run to school on Monday and Tuesday but parish buses will not operate and this will mean that some of the students will have to get to college in their own cars or by other means, Dean C. C. Colvert said.

A faculty meeting was held Friday afternoon and again one was conducted Saturday at 10 a.m.

Dean and Mrs. Colvert entertained the faculty members at their home Friday night when a barbecue supper was served.

The college is starting off with bright outlook for the new year but the attendance is still to be determined and may not equal that of a year ago because of the fact that so many students are enrolled in the army, the dean said.

A number of new teachers have been engaged for the new year in carrying out an expansion program for the institution.

The First armored division, arriving from Fort Knox, Ky., unloaded its more than 2,000 vehicles—including some 425 tanks—near Minden and Shreveport in Northwest Louisiana. Entering maneuvers for the first time since it was formed as the nation's premier panzer unit last year, Major General Bruce McGruder's fast-moving, hard-striking force faced the Almatians' west flank, but was re-strained from action until Monday.

When the Second army maneuvers end Friday, the 2nd armored division will join the force and Lieutenant-General Ben Lear will move his 130,-000 troops into position north of the Red river to engage in mimic war-fare with Lieutenant-General Walter Krueger's Third army of 260,000 men, massed in southwest Louisiana. WOMAN KILLED AS PLANE HITS HOUSE

WINSLOW, Ariz., Sept. 6.—(AP)—A 63-year-old woman at work in her kitchen was killed and an aviation private slightly injured yesterday in the plunge of an army transport plane into an adobe house.

Mrs. Nazario Garcia was thrown against a stove when the plane, carry-ing four men, crashed onto the roof after taking off from the nearby air-port. She died three hours later of burns, multiple injuries and shock. Her husband, Jacoba Garcia, suffered bruises.

Private D. D. Melton of the Seventh Transport squadron, was treated for head cuts.

CLAIM AIRPORT DESTROYED

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—(AP)—An airport at Ismailia on the Suez Canal where the British built extensive shops for the assembling of American warplanes was destroyed last night in a devas-tating luftwaffe raid on the canal area and Alexandria, 150 miles to the west, German reports said tonight.

NAZIS EXECUTE THREE HOSTAGES AFTER SHOOTING

Number Of Red Suspects Are Given Long Terms In Prison

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Three French hostages, re-ported selected from among Com-munist prisoners of a concentration camp, were executed by a German firing squad at Paris today in reprisal for an attack in which a German ser-geant was slightly wounded three days ago.

Unofficial advices reaching Vichy reported that the three Frenchmen were removed from the Drancy camp near Paris at dawn, lined up before a wall and shot to death. They were not identified.

General von Schaumberg, com-mander of the city of Paris, in a military announcement published in Paris newspapers called attention to his warning of August 22 that hostages would be executed if further attacks should be made on German troops in the Paris region.

"Despite this warning," the an-nouncement said, "a member of the German army has been the victim of a new attack September 3. Inquiry has shown the guilty party could have been none other than a French Com-munist. As reprisals for this das-tardly action three French hostages have been shot."

The wounded German sergeant, who also has not been identified, suf-fered only a flesh wound and was reported recovering. He was shot once in the shoulder as he walked on the street near the East station.

The Drancy camp has been used for imprisonment of most of the French Communists arrested during demonstrations in Paris and its sub-urbs.

An inner cabinet meeting was held today at which the minister of the interior, Pierre Pucheu, who is in

Handling Postal Service For 200,000 Soldiers Stimulates Business

In the handling of incoming and outgoing mail from the Monroe post-office as base for the 200,000 soldiers of the Second army, the office here is confronted with its biggest task, Postmaster J. R. Wooten said Satur-day.

All outgoing mail from the local soldiers here on maneuvers is han-dled from the local postoffice and the task of handling the great volume is taxing the local facilities to the ut-most. Special auxiliary quarters have been set up in the basement of the postoffice building to care for the overflow.

Eighteen employes of other post-offices have been detailed to Monroe and 20 substitutes, local people, are employed as well as four from the railway mail service.

Incoming mail is all separated at Little Rock, Ark., and sent to Mon-

President Speaks After U-Boat Attack

Shortly after a German submarine attack on the U. S. S. Greer, President Roosevelt issued a statement in which he said "elimination" of the submarine was sought by the United States navy. The president will make a world-wide broadcast Monday night and it is expected he will discuss the submarine attack further at that time.

Nazis Admit 2 Torpedoes Fired At U. S. Destroyer

Communique Describes Encounter As Lasting Almost 12 Hours

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—(AP)—A German submarine fired two torpedoes at the United States destroyer Greer, a Ger-man communique acknowledged to-day, but it declared that the Ameri-can warship was the aggressor and acted on orders of President Roose-velt who, it alleged, is trying "to incite the American people into war against Germany."

According to the official German version, the destroyer attacked first in Icelandic waters the Germans have declared to be inside their blockade zone and the U-boat commander, not knowing the destroyer's nationality, acted justifiably in exercise of the primitive right of self-defense.

The communique, issued through DNB, located the opening clash about 200 miles southwest of Iceland and described the encounter as lasting al-most 12 hours.

Shortly after noon last Thursday, the statement said, the submarine "was attacked," and almost until mid-night the destroyer chased the U-boat and dropped depth bombs.

According to the communique, two hours and nine minutes elapsed be-tween the time the destroyer at-tacked at 12:30 p. m. and the U-boat discharged two torpedoes at 2:39 p. m.

The German statement concluded: "If American naval sources, namely the United States navy department, claim that the attack was started by the German U-boat the purpose of such an assertion can only be to give at least an appearance of justi-fication to the attack by an American destroyer on a German U-boat in violation of neutrality.

"The attack itself is proof that Mr. Roosevelt, contrary to his claims, has already, at an earlier time, given gen-eral orders to American destroyers

LONG'S PROGRESS EQUIPMENT SOLD

Press And Other Items Go For Only Fraction Of Real Values

HAMMOND, La., Sept. 6.—(AP)—For-mer Governor Earl K. Long today made an unsuccessful effort to pur-chase the big press of the defunct and bankrupt Progress, one-time political newspaper of Huey P. Long and his machine, which was sold at auction here today.

Long dropped out when the bidding went above $3,000 and the press finally was knocked down to former Repre-sentative Norman R. Hamilton, pub-lisher of the Portsmouth, Va., Star, for $12,800, a fraction of its original value. Long bought two automobiles, one for $180 and another for $255.

Other machinery went at low prices, three linotypes selling for $2,655, $1,250 and $625, and a Ludlow type-setting machine sold for $2,015.

The modern, two-story building was purchased for $7,350 by the Keystone Realty company. Others bidding on the building were Earl Long, R. R. Reid for B. Stern and company of Amite, and Sam Marten.

Long told other bidders afterward he had made bids merely in an at-tempt to raise the prices, because of his stock holdings in the Progress. He sold back many of the items on which he had made successful bids to others attending the auction.

Long bought the complete bound files of the Porgress for one dollar, and was given the paper's "morgue" material on the Long family. He made successful bids for an engraving cam-era at $30, 366 assorted size galleys at

Seven Others Among American Fliers Landed At British Port

GLASGOW, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Four American airmen en route to England for service with the R. A. F. perished in the torpedoing of their ship by a submarine whose commander, one Irish survivor said, came to the sur-face and asked, "What caused the explosion?"

Seven others among the 11 Ameri-can flying recruits aboard were landed at a British port yesterday. Two of them were injured.

The names of the dead were not available immediately. The survivors were announced as:

Tom Griffin, Mississippi.

Rivers Grove, Georgia.

Norman Echord, Kansas City, whose mother lives in Seattle, Wash. He left Kansas City August 19 to join the American Eagle squadron in Britain.

Jack Gilliland, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Gilliland of Pittsburg, Kas.

James Jordan, San Francisco.

B. F. Mayes, Texas, who sustained arm injuries.

Robert Pereshin, California, whose leg was broken.

Echord, Gilliland, Grove, Mayes and Griffin trained with the British air unit at Tulsa, Okla. All 11 fliers re-ceived additional training in Canada.

William Beattie, Belfast seaman aboard the torpedoed ship, said that after the attack the submarine came to the surface amidst the survivor-laden lifeboats and rafts.

In a conversation with the U-boat commander, described by Beattie as a German in his early twenties, the Irish seaman related the latter dis-claimed that his craft had fired a torpedo.

"He seemed ashamed of what he had done and asked us what caused the explosion," Beattie related.

CONSULAR OFFICERS SENT TO NEW POSTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The state department announced today that 22 American consular officers who were expelled from Germany and Nazi-dominated areas in Europe, have been assigned to new posts in Switz-erland, Eire (Ireland), Portugal, Egypt, England, Turkey, Spain, and Haiti.

Among them were:

Buford G. Rogers, Mount Olive, Miss., vice consul at Bordeaux, ap-pointed vice consul at Bern, Switzer-land.

COMMISSIONS AVAILABLE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Naval reserve commissions are available for 1,450 young college graduates who wish to enter active service ashore or afloat as junior engineering officers, the navy department announced today. The navy said it would accept men between 20 and 28 years old who have completed four years work in an ac-credited university or college, includ-ing two years of college-grade mathe-matics and courses in physics, chem-istry and trigonometry.

Interpreting The War News: Britain Not Ready To Try Invasion

By Edward E. Bomar
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

Young King Peter's suggestion that the British invade Italy promises to keep until he reaches his nineteenth birthday a year hence.

"The time is ripe," as the royal Yugoslav youth told an interviewer, but rather for continuation of the long aerial hammering of Sicily which has been in progress for weeks and the telling attacks on Libya-bound Axis convoys being made by British submarines.

Chances are plans for anything more serious than hit-run raids on Italy, or anywhere else in Europe, are on the high command's future spike just now.

As summer wanes in the desert country, making decisive military op-erations feasible, what seems imme-diately ahead of the British is a re-newed struggle to hold on in the Mediterranean.

Successful invasion of Italy would demand expulsion of German and Italian forces from North Africa and a British advance 800 miles westward to Tripoli, opposite Sicily. The ave-nue of Axis attack on Suez via Asia Minor would have to be blocked meanwhile, Crete either retaken or made harmless as a base for flanking air raids, and the remnants of the Italian navy scattered or destroyed. It's not a program for a week-end.

What neutral military authorities confidentially look for first, as winter approaches in Russia, is a determined Axis rather than British offensive in the Mediterranean. This time Nazi rather than Italian forces are ex-pected to lead the way.

The convoy attacks hint an ener-getic attempt to build up the Italian forces in North Africa into a formid-able spearhead for a new thrust at Egypt from the Libyan desert.

On the other land approaches to Suez, via Asia, German forces are reported massing in the Balkans op-posite uneasy Turkey.

The invasion of Russia may put Adolf Hitler's legions into position to drive southward from several other [illegible]ections at the same time the at-tempt is made to close the Libyan jaw of the Axis trap. Still other possi-bilities include an attempt to drive through Spain to North Africa by way of Gibraltar.

The approach of fall is a sure har-binger of sharper fighting in the African and Asian desert country. Libya normally starts to cool off ap-preciably in mid-September, and Oc-tober bring a definite break in the blasting summer heat. The period of blinding sand storms is past.

For the prospective test of strength, both sides are more nearly ready than last year when the Italians failed so miserably in both Libya and Greece. Countering the Nazi march through the Balkans to Crete is the British occupation of Syria and the juncture made with Russia in Iran. Now, just as German troops and warplanes have stiffened Italy, the presence of British and Russian forces in Iran serve as insurance that the Turks will not knuckle under to the Nazis.

Recent months have brought a stream of munitions to the British from England, the United States, In-dia and the dominions, along with troop reinforcements, to replace the losses sustained last spring in Greece and Libya.

The outlook for successful British defense of the Middle East is thus more promising than it was a year ago, though it [illegible] not encourage the idea that Ital[illegible] invaded soon.

Reds Say Nazis Are Hurled Back From Leningrad

MOSCOW, Sept. 7 (Sunday).—(AP)—The Red army claimed today to have driven the Germans out of vital approaches to Leningrad with fierce counter-attacks while the Red air force gave full backing with "massed blows" upon invading panzer troops, infantry and artillery.

The Soviet midnight communique again declared the battle raged on all fronts yesterday. But the fight in the Leningrad sector was the greatest and the most vital of the Russian-German war which entered its 12th week today.

The giant rival armies fought in the northwest over battlefields dark-ened by rain and fog.

Dispatches to the army newspaper Red Star declared the troops of Mar-shal Klementi Voroshilov, defending Russia's second city, mopped up one occupied zone south of Leningrad, pinched off another German armored wedge, penetrated the German lines at several points and crushed one major Nazi air base in never-ceasing counter-thrusts.

The Russians also were employing

Mishaps Occur Within Period Of Six Hours In Shreveport Area

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 6.—(AP)—In scattered plane and auto accidents in the immediate area, two army fliers met death today and four were injured within a six-hour period.

Returning from a graduating class picnic on the Barksdale field reser-vation, Aviation Cadet Clifton Edward Rountree, Jr., 23, of Whaleyville, Va., was instantly killed late today and his three companions were injured, two severely, in an automobile crash.

Cadet Rountree was to have gradu-ated September 12 from the Barksdale bombardier school. Seriously injured were Cadet Rufus Herman Green of Hobbs, N. M., and Cadet Gerald Frank Dunn, of Yakima, Wash. Cadet Joseph Barry Morningstar of Bronx-ville, N. Y., was also injured.

Earlier today one arm flier was killed and another injured today when two planes crashed within a two-hour period in separate accidents. Both planes fell into the Red river.

Second Lieutenant William H. Binns, 25, of Albany, Ga., pilot of an army observation plane (O-38) died when the plane struck high tension wires over the river about three miles north of the municipal airport and plunged into the middle of the current.

Accompanying Binns in the fatal flight was Second Lieutenant Ira Has-sler, observer, who climbed out of the wreckage, swam to the river's bank and then returned to the plane in an attempt to rescue the pilot. Both men were stationed temporarily at the municipal airport with the 16th obser-vation squadron. Hassler suffered no apparent injuries, Barksdale field au-thorities said tonight.

Two hours later, at the southern edge of the local airport, Lieutenant James H. Mangan and a Sergeant Tooney of the 17th attack bombard-ment squadron, also temporarily sta-tioned there, escaped miraculously from the river after their twin-motor-ed A-20A bomber crashed into the muddy river.

Lieutenant Mangan suffered a brok-en nose, Barksdale officials said. The plane disappeared almost immediately in 40 feet of water. The two men grabbed a tire which had broken at the impact, using it for a life pre-server. Failure of one of the motors was blamed for the forced landing in the river.

SOMETIMES PAYS TO GET WIRES CROSSED

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 6.—(AP)—It sometimes pays to get your wires crossed—at least during army maneuv-ers—it was demonstrated by Major Roy Stephens of the 45th division in-telligence section.

During this week's battle the 45th division was pitted against the Fourth army corps and the intelligence sec-tion was searching for the positions of the enemy troops.

Major Stephens picked up the field telephone and asked for his own Eighth corps headquarters.

"Sorry, sir," said Sergeant Don Froeming, wire chief, "the wires seem to have been tapped and we can get only the enemy."

"Well give me them," said the major.

"The enemy, sir?" asked the sur-prised sergeant. The reply was affirm-ative.

After a series of delays the major finally was connected with a high ranking officer of the enemy.

"This is intelligence," said the major, leaving out just what intel-ligence, "What's the dope?"

The officer then proceeded to re-veal exactly where the forces were situated. Major Stephens said he had a very clear voice.

EACH ACCUSED BY OTHER IN U-BOAT ATTACK ON SHIP

Nazis Claim American Vessel Fired First, Submarine In Defense

SAY ROOSEVELT ORDERED SHOOTING TO BRING WAR

Some Leaders Think Hitler Staged Attack To Gain Japanese Aid

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The navy department bluntly disputed to-night a claim from Berlin that the de-stroyer Greer had been the aggressor in an engagement with a German sub-marine off Iceland and reiterated that "the initial attack was made by the submarine on the Greer."

The navy department issued the fol-lowing statement:

"Notwithstanding German conten-tions appearing in today's press that the Greer was the aggressor in its ac-tion with the submarine, the facts are the same as originally stated by the navy department—namely, that the initial attack in this engagement was made by the submarine on the Greer. It was then, and not until then, that the Greer counter-attacked."

The navy's original announcement Thursday night said that the Greer, "en route to Iceland with mail, re-ported this morning that a submarine attacked her by firing torpedoes which missed their mark. The Greer im-mediately counter-attacked with depth charges."

Berlin today claimed that the Greer, a destroyer, attacked first, and that the U-boat used its torpedo tubes in self-defense. An exactly similar claim was made for the Greer yesterday by President Roosevelt. The submarine fired first, he said, and the Greer dropped depth-bombs in self-defense.

To its published claim, Germany added a strong denunciation of Pres-ident Roosevelt and American policy, which occasioned little surprise here, and for the time being, at least, elicit-ed no official comment. Berlin charged:

That the assertion that the Greer was acting in self-defense "can only be to give at least the appearance of justification to an attack by an Amer-ican destroyer on a German U-boat."

That it proved President Roosevelt had, contrary to his published state-ments, issued "general orders to American destroyers not only to re-port positions of German ships and U-boats but, beyond that, to attack them."

And that "Mr. Roosevelt in this way

Orientation Program Scheduled For Monday Morning

All freshmen entering Northeast Junior college are expected to attend an orientation program at the college Monday at 9 a.m. There will also be a meeting for them in the college auditorium Monday afternoon.

Registration starts for sophomores Monday noon and for freshmen Tues-day afternoon. The college's five buses will run to school on Monday and Tuesday but parish buses will not operate and this will mean that some of the students will have to get to college in their own cars or by other means, Dean C. C. Colvert said.

A faculty meeting was held Friday afternoon and again one was con-ducted Saturday at 10 a.m.

Dean and Mrs. Colvert entertained the faculty members at their home Friday night when a barbecue supper was served.

The college is starting off with bright outlook for the new year but the attendance is still to be deter-mined and may not equal that of a year ago because of the fact that so many students are enrolled in the army, the dean said.

A number of new teachers have been engaged for the new year in carrying out an expansion program for the institution.

GOLDFISH AIDED BY COLD WATER

Memories Found To Be Much Better Than When In Warm Liquid

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Writer)

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—(AP)—If you want your goldfish to develop a good mind, put him in cold water.

This was explained to the American Psychological association today by John W. French, Princeton university, who has been studying how to make a goldfish remember.

Goldfish, in case you didn't know, are smart and can be taught to do cute tricks. French taught several dozen to swim a maze.

This was a system of tunnels, all brightly lighted, having several blind alleys, and one proper exit. It led into a shaded chamber, whose tones a goldfish likes after garish light. In this chamber the fish received a bite of food.

These goldfish were good. In 30 tries, on the average, one every four minutes, they learned the maze so well they could do five runs without an error. A fish was allowed to poke a nose into a blind alley, but if he went in enough to admit any part of his tail, that was an error.

Having learned, the goldfish were stored for a day in a milk-bottle of water. In some bottles the water was 83 Fahrenheit, in some 60 and some 39.

After this day at a fixed water temperature, the fish were taken out again and tried in the same maze, to see if the temperatures had any effect on their memories. The maze water was at room temperature.

The results were startling. The fish from the 83 degrees water made almost twice as many errors as those from the 39 degree bottles. Mentally the warm water goldfish were virtually half-wits. The 60 degree water fish came out midway between the other two groups in remembering.

French did not say how often a goldfish should be put in cold water to be kept really bright.

The scientific reason for this experiment is a search for animals on which reliable measurements can be made of the effects of temperature on mind. It's not beyond reason to expect that something useful to humans can be learned.

BLIND MAN INVENTS PARACHUTE DEVICE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 6.—(AP)—A blind inventor, Harry P. Trusty, has demonstrated a device for getting a parachute squad out of a transport plane in a hurry.

"It seems to do the job," was the terse comment of J. M. English, resident technical officer observing the test for the British air commission yesterday.

Sandbags with parachutes attached were placed on the seats which moved on a track leading to a door of the airplane and sent them off into space.

"We can do the same thing with fully armed troops," said Trusty, "and can send 24 of them out of a transport plane in six seconds."

ROLLEIGH'S MEN HONORED GUEST

Big Ball Given For Them By City Of Austin While On Maneuvers

The Second Battalion of the 204th coast artillery, anti-aircraft regiment, commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Louis F. Rolleigh, of Monroe, and composed of batteries from Monroe, Ruston, Minden, and Natchitoches, now stationed at Camp Hulen, Tex., spent five days on maneuvers in the Bastrop State park, a mountainous pine woodland about 30 miles from Austin, Tex.

During the maneuvers, the men spent a day and night in Austin, where they were royally entertained. The boys were encamped in Zilker park, one of Austin's show places and recreation resorts. They had free access to the pool and to the University of Texas.

One of the outstanding events was the dance at Baron Springs pavilion, which was a formal invitation affair presided over by the mayor and his wife as well as by presidents of civic clubs. A select list of young girls responded upon special invitation accompanied by their chaperones. This event was the first that Austin people had staged for soldier entertainment.

The men, at last reports, are back at camp with fond memories of their recent visit. Right now they are black-topping the parking areas to facilitate handling the 37 m.m. guns.

MARY GOSS HOME GETS DONATIONS

The Mary Goss home for aged negroes acknowledges the following contributions in cash and supplies for the month of August: Sig Masur, $1; Henry Biedenharn, $1; Mrs. Allan Sholars, $1; W. R. Hammock, 50 cents; Mrs. C. E. McKenzie, 50 cents; cash 50 cents.

Donations of supplies were as follows: Ritchie Grocer company, eight pounds of lard; Simonton Grain company, 20-pound sack of flour; John Shergouse, 20-pound sack of flour; Ouachita Baking company and Sure-best Baking company donated bread; Eureka stores, meat once weekly; Louisiana Ice Service and American Service company, ice once a week; Baker-Lawhon and Ford, one sack of meal; First Baptist church of West Monroe (circle 7) gave cookies; Sav-Mor Grocery, two pounds of coffee; "Doc" West, large quantity of peas and corn to can; Quality Coffee shop, one pound of coffee; Frank Varino, 10 pounds of meal.

The First Baptist churches of Monroe and West Monroe give a monthly program at the home that is enjoyed by the inmates.

Colored donations were: Circle No. 3 of the Tabernacle Home Mission board, $1 worth of sugar; Riverside Baptist church, $2.50 in groceries; city-wide usher board, $2 worth of groceries.

A religious service is conducted each Thursday by Rev. Morris Tyler, stated Belle Sherman, caretaker.

BRIDE FROM THE SKY

BY HELEN WELSHIMER

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER I

Judy Allen met Sandy Ammerman quite by accident at La Guardia airport that night.

It was damp and the beacon lights shone through a mist that dimmed the radiance of the incoming planes.

One minute Judy's bright eyes were focused on the timetable in her hands. A famous couturier, an exile, was due on the Clipper, and she had come to interview the refugee. The next minute a tall young aviator, gray-eyed and laughing, swung Judy around.

"Going somewhere tonight, Judy?" he asked, strong brown fingers closing over hers. "If you aren't, how about tagging along with me?"

"Going somewhere tonight, Judy?" he asked. Because Sandy Ammerman's touch always made Judy's heart swing like a pendulum, she covered her confusion with gaiety. "No, darling, I stay places. But you're in uniform. That means up. Where?"

Because Sandy Ammerman's touch always made Judy's heart swing like a pendulum whose beat was growing wild, Judy covered her confusion with gaiety.

"No, darling, I stay places. But you're in uniform. That means up. Where?"

The laughter didn't leave the gray eyes, but his fingers closed possessively on her arm as he swung her around. "Then you'll see me off, won't you? It won't take two minutes. Not even half of one. The engine's warmed up, the propeller's spinning. . . ."

"But, Sandy, where are you going?" she asked, as he guided her into the wet night. "Yesterday you thought you were taking a technical job with an aeronautic company—staying on the ground mostly, I mean. And—Oh, Sandy, won't you ever stay put?"

Judy knew the gray eyes darkened, knew that a little pulse beat sharply at Sandy's temple, but the man's voice was low, slow, mocking as usual when he spoke.

"Sorry, honey, but that's the way I am. It's San Francisco tonight, and I'm testing a new oil for Skyways, Incorporated."

"Sure it's safe?" Even as she asked, Judy reminded her heart that it was completely absurd for it to grow excited because a perfectly capable aviator, who had done outside inverted loops and turned a somersault in a condemned ship to show that it was safe, was starting out again. He would reach Mars or the Municipal airport at San Francisco or any place he chose.

Now the man's voice grew serious, a little tender. "No, Judy, not safe as you know safety. You like a desk, your name on the door of your office, your by-line in that journal about waistlines and beauty creams. I prefer the sky."

"I know. . . ." She had knocked around the stars with Sandy. Never on a rainy night, though. Never when there was no shining web to catch a sleepy moon. But there was no time for remembrances now. In a few seconds Sandy would swing long legs over the door and hop down the runway.

"Judy sweet, I'll send you a card from the Municipal airport, but I'll probably get back before it does," he said. "And by the way, my darling, you are in love with me, even if you won't admit it. Otherwise why would you draw a perfectly nice pair of eyebrows together? See you one week from today. Is it a date?"

"Of course it's a date, silly. I'll bring a folding chair and sit by the runway and everybody will say, 'Oh, that's a foolish maiden who put her stock in oil.'"

"You won't lose, Judy." His arms were strong around her, his kiss was cool, hard, swift. "I love you," he murmured.

Then he was gone, a fleet ship running down the apron, circling as it left the field, starting westward. Judy waved though she knew he could not see her.

She was silent for a moment, leaning against the wind, looking high. Under the green flowers on her sailor, russet curls, glistening in the shining night, took on a new-penny luster.

But her eyes were somber. When you loved a man you might as well admit it, at least to yourself, she was thinking. No fun keeping a secret there. Anyway, Sandy knew her heart did acrobatics when he came around. Not always—just nearly always. But marriage was something else. How could a girl marry a man who wandered . . . to Spain . . . to China . . . any place that intrigued him? What if his shoulders were broader than other shoulders, and his rough, bright hair wouldn't stay combed? What if he had come through Harvard with honors in science?

If she could transfer her feeling for Sandy to someone else, Philip Rogers, for instance. And why couldn't she, she wondered, as she came back to the waiting room. Philip was good-looking, too. Not carelessly attractive as Sandy was. More polished, though. There were at least 14 girls around the office who would buy a new perfume and a dinner frock worth five times its price in silk or lace, for the sake of a date with Phil.

The couturier was not on the ship. With a small, weary sigh, Judy realized that she would have to hunt up another designer for her column's interview. She had half a dozen names of stylists who swung the fashion pendulum. She would make an appointment with one of them tomorrow.

She turned her low gray roadster toward the spires of Manhattan. As usual she caught her breath at the shining turrets that marched so high. Sandy was far above them. Free from columns and interviews and not caring that there was a patterned world below him—a world where people moved on green lights, stopped for red, and earned their daily bread by regular routine. Sandy was flying high with his dreams—and his new parachute.

For a moment her eyes were misty, violet now. Sandy's parachute was the best of all parachute inventions, several aeronautic officials had said. Yet no company had tried to buy it. She herself had seen Sandy make several perfect landings since the days when he had flown into her life. Some day he probably would break his neck. Some day after he had flown to Bali, Guatemala, the East Indies and a few other places.

And then she could settle down quite comfortably at her flat-topped mahogany where she was an associate editor on Under Twenty. She could have a career. She could dress beautifully because the magazine preferred its editors to be slightly glamorous. She could go to dinner, to see the Lunts and Helen Hayes, to hear the symphony, and watch the Russian Ballet.

Yet, all the time she knew in a windy corner of her heart that nothing ever could be fun without Sandy. She was telling herself that two mornings later as she stood on the southwest corner of Washington Square, waiting for a lumbering green bus to take her to work.

Children were rolling hoops in the wide paths of the park. Here and there a game of marbles was in progress. The trees in the square were turning green, and a hurdy gurdy was playing a song carried into a new April from an older spring. A flower vendor pushed a cart of blossoms down the street, and Judy found a coin in her round rose bag and bought a bunch of violets.

Pinning them to the silver fox cape she had worn that morning—the editors preferred the staff to look well-dressed on the days that people who were "names" were being interviewed or photographed—she bought a morning newspaper.

Always after that she was to remember the warm happiness of that moment, the way the sunlight threw gold rugs across the street, and her own reflection in the mirrored entrance of a store . . . the rose hat, tilted on the back of her curls like a huge pancake.

She had no premonition of danger when she opened the newspaper. She intended to scan the headlines, then concentrate on the name for her interview.

The next moment the world revolved around a one-column news story, a story not four inches long. If there hadn't been an active congress and new strikes . . Oh, what did it matter that two or three years ago it would have carried a headline? There were too many other things happening today for anyone to care what luck anybody had or didn't have! Especially a gay young aviator who let himself streak across the sky on an oil that wasn't oily!

Maybe she was going to be very ill on the Fifth avenue bus. Maybe she was going to die. But first she must read those lines. After that, nothing would matter.

TRIBUTE TO THE 85TH

Monroe, La.
Sept. 6, 1941.

To The Editor:

A Monroe parent was recently asked by a member of the 85th Q. M. what they might do to show their appreciation to the people of Monroe for the wonderful hospitality that has been shown them since their recent arrival here.

In reply, this parent feels that the fine, gentlemenly manner in which these young men have conducted themselves, both in private homes and at various social functions, is the greatest and best way they could possibly say, "thank you."

The writer has had the privilege of associating with numbers of the boys from the 85th Q. M. and has entertained them in his home, and again, he salutes them and their officers for assisting in making Monroe's first efforts in U. S. O. the success that it is today.

The boys in this group are a jovial, sincere, healthy lot and we want them to continue to feel at home in Monroe and to know that we, too, have had fun in knowing them and in doing our small bit to make their recreation wholesome and happy.

Sincerely,
A PARENT.

NATURE'S RADIANCE

Monroe, La.
Sept. 6, 1941.

To The Editor:

Located on a side street just off DeSiard, and almost within a stone's throw of one of the leading hotels, is a little lunch stand. This stand, with its low rambling roof and rough walls unadorned, would offer little to attract the passer-by or prospective patron; but dressed as it is, in well planned clusters of beautiful blue and red Morning Glory vines that completely cover its roof and walls, it suggests a place of cleanliness and good cheer.

Returning home from an early morning shopping errand a few days ago, I chanced to pass this stand, and its roof and its walls—front, sides and back—were a solid cluster of beautiful Scarlet O'Hara and Blue Heaven Morning Glory blossoms, showing forth in all their beauty, brilliance and glory.

This unusual setting brough to mind what John Wesley, who, with his mother, Susanna Wesley, was the founder of Methodism, said as he rode his beloved horse into a village while on one of his ministerial missions. Reining his horse before the home of Josiah and Sarah Wedgwood, he exclaimed; "Here dwells a man who lives close to God. He has flowers and a garden."

The unusual setting presented another picture. It made us realize that Nature knows no favorites and radiates its beauty, fragrance and wonder from the abode of the humble the same as from the mansions of the mighty.

Very truly yours,
W. N. BIRD.

To The Editor:

Do you think it good business for the people of this parish to pay taxes so police jurors can draw three cents of the taxpayers' money so close to their noses that will head a dollar ten feet long? I for one surely do not.

The sewing room was closed, or so one of the honorable members said to me, when I contacted him; in his own words he said, "Yes, we closed her down."

Now I will give you a few facts and figures. The government was paying $70,000 annually to the workers of this job against $1,700 out of the 'parish treasury.' Monroe and West Monroe were putting up the balance of $6,000; in fact the government was just exchanging $70,000 for $6,000.

I was in conference with Mr. John Breard; he said it looked like bad business to close the sewing room down. I also talked to Mr. H. H. Benoit, mayor of Monroe; he also said it was bad business to close the sewing room.

Now, Mr. Voter, I think if the police jurors don't get busy and get that payroll back, each of you had better be looking around for someone to take their place in 1944.

There were 64 women (most of them were middle-aged women) on this job who today are without work; no hopes of securing work. Why? Because they are past the age of working in stores, etc.; if they have the ability and know they can fill other places the merchants and public say 'No, we are not employing people of your age.' What can they do? Some have dependents, others have no one but themselves, they have in better days paid taxes, they like to be independent, and not to have to depend on their children (as their children have wives and children depende[nt] on them), that's the way they a[re] placed today. Why? Because th[e] 'police jurors' were so tight the[y] wouldn't dig up that little $1,700 [a] year. But they will run out here [in] the back woods and spend $1,0[00 on] a road that will not accommo[date] more than two or three famili[es to] get three or four votes.

The sewing room paid to women $5,980 a month which [was] paid back to the merchants for clothes, etc., besides paying ren[t for] a place to live. Every nickel earned was spent in Monroe and W[est] Monroe, besides they made garm[ents] —$2,000 worth each month—wh[ich] were distributed among the poor cl[ass] of people who could not buy the[m]. Now I suppose the police jurors ha[ve] plenty to eat and wear, yet it seem[s] they have no sympathy for the poo[r] hungry families, those women cut [off] from their jobs, just for the sake [of] saving a few measley dollars.

Now, Mr. Police Juror, with all d[ue] respect for everybody concerned, ju[st] answer this through the press, if y[ou] can justify yourselves. It is up [to] you. I hope to hear from someo[ne] else.

Just a tax-payer.

T. B. GROUP GIVEN MOVIE MACHIN[E]

The Ouachita Tuberculosis and Pu[b]lic Health association, through t[he] generosity of a friend who modest[ly] desires that the name be withhe[ld] from publication, has just receiv[ed] a motion picture machine which w[ill], it is believed, prove a great help [in] furthering the work of the associ[a]tion.

It will show actual scenes in co[n]nection with the war waged on tube[r]culosis before local groups in schoo[ls], P.-T. A. assemblies, churches, ha[lls] and at the local G. B. Cooley Tub[er]culosis sanatorium.

Miss Bernice Wright, executive se[c]retary, states that the gift is mo[st] deeply appreciated and that it w[ill] prove most valuable.

SINGING MEET TO BE HELD SUNDA[Y]

The first Sunday of the mon[th] singing convention sponsored by t[he] Missouri Pacific Booster club will [be] held in the First Christian church [at] 1:30 p.m. today.

The change from the Booster clu[b] house is made necessary through t[he] fact that this building is now bei[ng] used temporarily in connection wi[th] the army maneuvers.

Musicians and music lovers fro[m] several states are expected to atte[nd] and a good program has been pr[e]pared, those in charge assure.

DEFENSE SCHOOL HERE RECEIVES $3,675 GRAN[T]

A federal grant of $3,675 has bee[n] approved for further equipping [the] South Grand street defense trainin[g] school, it was announced yesterda[y] by State Superintendent of Educati[on] John E. Coxe.

Since the school has been expe[ri]encing a shortage of welders, [the] welding shop will increase its trai[n]ing stations from 13 to 21.

At present, 78 men are enrolled [in] the welding classes, which are of thr[ee] types: pre-employment "refresher" f[or] the unemployed with past experienc[e], supplementary to regular emplo[y]ment; and NYA. Welders, cutte[rs], tackers and fitters are being train[ed] for New Orleans and Gulf coast shi[p]building industries and for metal fa[b]rication, general contract and weldi[ng] work.

A similar federal grant of $14,654 f[or] equipment for the national defen[se] training center at Southwestern Lo[u]isiana institute, Lafayette, shortly [to] be open for classes, has also been a[p]proved, Coxe said.

GOLDFISH AIDED BY COLD WATER

Memories Found To Be Much Better Than When In Warm Liquid

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Writer)

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—(AP)—If you want your goldfish to develop a good mind, put him in cold water.

This was explained to the American Psychological association today by John W. French, Princeton university, who has been studying how to make a goldfish remember.

Goldfish, in case you didn't know, are smart and can be taught to do cute tricks. French taught several dozen to swim a maze.

This was a system of tunnels, all brightly lighted, having several blind alleys, and one proper exit. It led into a shaded chamber, whose tones a goldfish likes after garish light. In this chamber the fish received a bite of food.

These goldfish were good. In 30 tries, on the average, one every four minutes, they learned the maze so well they could do five runs without an error. A fish was allowed to poke a nose into a blind alley, but if he went in enough to admit any part of his tail, that was an error.

Having learned, the goldfish were stored for a day in a milk-bottle of water. In some bottles the water was 83 Fahrenheit, in some 60 and some 39.

After this day at a fixed water temperature, the fish were taken out again and tried in the same maze, to see if the temperatures had any effect on their memories. The maze water was at room temperature.

The results were startling. The fish from the 83 degrees water made almost twice as many errors as those from the 39 degree bottles. Mentally the warm water goldfish were virtually half-wits. The 60 degree water fish came out midway between the other two groups in remembering.

French did not say how often a goldfish should be put in cold water to be kept really bright.

The scientific reason for this experiment is a search for animals on which reliable measurements can be made of the effects of temperature on mind. It's not beyond reason to expect that something useful to humans can be learned.

BLIND MAN INVENTS PARACHUTE DEVICE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 6.—(AP)—A blind inventor, Harry P. Trusty, has demonstrated a device for getting a parachute squad out of a transport plane in a hurry.

"It seems to do the job," was the terse comment of J. M. English, resident technical officer observing the test for the British air commission yesterday.

Sandbags with parachutes attached were placed on the seats which moved on a track leading to a door of the airplane and sent them off into space.

"We can do the same thing with fully armed troops," said Trusty, "and can send 24 of them out of a transport plane in six seconds."

ROLLEIGH'S MEN HONORED GUEST

Big Ball Given For Them By City Of Austin While On Maneuvers

The Second Battalion of the 204th coast artillery, anti-aircraft regiment, commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Louis F. Rolleigh, of Monroe, and composed of batteries from Monroe, Ruston, Minden, and Natchitoches, now stationed at Camp Hulen, Tex., spent five days on maneuvers in the Bastrop State park, a mountainous pine woodland about 30 miles from Austin, Tex.

During the maneuvers, the men spent a day and night in Austin, where they were royally entertained. The boys were encamped in Zilker park, one of Austin's show places and recreation resorts. They had free access to the pool and to the University of Texas.

One of the outstanding events was the dance at Baron Springs pavilion, which was a formal invitation affair presided over by the mayor and his wife as well as by presidents of civic clubs. A select list of young girls responded upon special invitation accompanied by their chaperones. This event was the first that Austin people had staged for soldier entertainment.

The men, at last reports, are back at camp with fond memories of their recent visit. Right now they are black-topping the parking areas to facilitate handling the 37 m.m. guns

BRIDE FROM THE SKY

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER I

Judy Allen met Sandy Ammerman quite by accident at La Guardia airport that night.

It was damp and the beacon lights shone through a mist that dimmed the radiance of the incoming planes.

One minute Judy's bright eyes were focused on the timetable in her hands. A famous couturier, an exile, was due on the Clipper, and she had come to interview the refugee. The next minute a tall young aviator, gray-eyed and laughing, swung Judy around.

"Going somewhere tonight, Judy?" he asked, strong brown fingers closing over hers. "If you aren't, how about tagging along with me?"

"Going somewhere tonight, Judy?" he asked. Because Sandy Ammerman's touch always made Judy's heart swing like a pendulum, she covered her confusion with gaiety. "No, darling, I stay places. But you're in uniform. That means up. Where?"

Because Sandy Ammerman's touch always made Judy's heart swing like a pendulum whose beat was growing wild, Judy covered her confusion with gaiety.

"No, darling, I stay places. But you're in uniform. That means up. Where?"

The laughter didn't leave the gray eyes, but his fingers closed possessively on her arm as he swung her around. "Then you'll see me off, won't you? It won't take two minutes. Not even half of one. The engine's warmed up, the propeller's spinning. . . ."

"But, Sandy, where are you going?" she asked, as he guided her into the wet night. "Yesterday you thought you were taking a technical job with an aeronautic company—staying on the ground mostly, I mean. And—Oh, Sandy, won't you ever stay put?"

Judy knew the gray eyes darkened, knew that a little pulse beat sharply at Sandy's temple, but the man's voice was low, slow, mocking as usual when he spoke.

"Sorry, honey, but that's the way I am. It's San Francisco tonight, and I'm testing a new oil for Skyways, Incorporated."

"Sure it's safe?" Even as she asked, Judy reminded her heart that it was completely absurd for it to grow excited because a perfectly capable aviator, who had done outside inverted loops and turned a somersault in a condemned ship to show that it was safe, was starting out again. He would reach Mars or the Municipal airport at San Francisco or any place he chose.

Now the man's voice grew serious, a little tender. "No, Judy, not safe as you know safety. You like a desk, your name on the door of your office, your by-line in that journal about waistlines and beauty creams. I prefer the sky."

"I know. . . ." She had knocked around the stars with Sandy. Never on a rainy night, though. Never when there was no shining web to catch a sleepy moon. But there was no time for remembrances now. In a few seconds Sandy would swing long legs over the door and hop down the runway.

"Judy sweet, I'll send you a card from the Municipal airport, but I'll probably get back before it does," he said. "And by the way, my darling, you are in love with me, even if you won't admit it. Otherwise why would you draw a perfectly nice pair of eyebrows together? See you one week from today. Is it a date?"

"Of course it's a date, silly. I'll bring a folding chair and sit by the runway and everybody will say, 'Oh, that's a foolish maiden who put her stock in oil.'"

"You won't lose, Judy." His arms were strong around her, his kiss was cool, hard, swift. "I love you," he murmured.

Then he was gone, a fleet ship running down the apron, circling as it left the field, starting westward. Judy waved though she knew he could not see her.

She was silent for a moment, leaning against the wind, looking high. Under the green flowers on her sailor, russet curls, glistening in the shining night, took on a new-penny luster.

But her eyes were somber. When you loved a man you might as well admit it, at least to yourself, she was thinking. No fun keeping a secret there. Anyway, Sandy knew her heart did acrobatics when he came around. Not always—just nearly always. But marriage was something else. How could a girl marry a man who wandered . . . to Spain . . . to China . . . any place that intrigued him? What if his shoulders were broader than other shoulders, and his rough, bright hair wouldn't stay combed? What if he had come through Harvard with honors in science?

If she could transfer her feeling for Sandy to someone else, Philip Rogers, for instance. And why couldn't she, she wondered, as she came back to the waiting room. Philip was good-looking, too. Not carelessly attractive as Sandy was. More polished, though. There were at least 14 girls around the office who would buy a new perfume and a dinner frock worth five times its price in silk or lace, for the sake of a date with Phil.

The couturier was not on the ship. With a small, weary sigh Judy realized that she would have to hunt up another designer for her column's interview. She had half a dozen names of stylists who swung the fashion pendulum. She would make an appointment with one of them tomorrow.

She turned her low gray roadster toward the spires of Manhattan. As usual she caught her breath at the shining turrets that marched so high Sandy was far above them. Free from columns and interviews and not caring that there was a patterned world below him—a world where people moved on green lights, stopped for red, and earned their daily bread by regular routine. Sandy was flying high with his dreams—and his new parachute.

For a moment her eyes were misty, violet now. Sandy's parachute was the best of all parachute inventions, several aeronautic officials had said. Yet no company had tried to buy it. She herself had seen Sandy make several perfect landings since the days when he had flown into her life. Some day he probably would break his neck. Some day after he had flown to Bali, Guatemala, the East Indies and a few other places.

And then she could settle down quite comfortably at her flat-topped mahogany where she was an associate editor on Under Twenty. She could have a career. She could dress beautifully because the magazine preferred its editors to be slightly glamorous. She could go to dinner, to see the Lunts and Helen Hayes, to hear the symphony, and watch the Russian Ballet.

Yet, all the time she knew in a windy corner of her heart that nothing ever could be fun without Sandy. She was telling herself that two mornings later as she stood on the southwest corner of Washington Square, waiting for a lumbering green bus to take her to work.

Children were rolling hoops in the wide paths of the park. Here and there a game of marbles was in progress. The trees in the square were turning green, and a hurdy gurdy was playing a song carried into a new April from an older spring. A flower vendor pushed a cart of blossoms down the street, and Judy found a coin in her round rose bag and bought a bunch of violets.

Pinning them to the silver fox cape she had worn that morning—the editors preferred the staff to look well-dressed on the days that people who were "names" were being interviewed or photographed—she bought a morning newspaper.

Always after that she was to remember the warm happiness of that moment, the way the sunlight threw gold rugs across the street, and her own reflection in the mirrored entrance of a store . . . the rose hat, tilted on the back of her curls like a huge pancake.

She had no premonition of danger when she opened the newspaper. She intended to scan the headlines, then concentrate on the name for her interview.

The next moment the world revolved around a one-column news story, a story not four inches long. If there hadn't been an active congress and new strikes . . Oh, what did it matter that two or three years ago it would have carried a headline? There were too many other things happening today for anyone to care what luck anybody had or didn't have! Especially a gay young aviator who let himself streak across the sky on an oil that wasn't oily!

A federal grant of $3,675 has bee[n] approved for further equipping [th]e South Grand street defense trainin[g] school, it was announced yesterd[ay] by State Superintendent of Educati[on] John E. Coxe.

Since the school has been expe[ri]encing a shortage of welders, [the] welding shop will increase its trai[n]ing stations from 13 to 21.

At present, 78 men are enrolled [in] the welding classes, which are of thr[ee] types: pre-employment "refresher" f[or] the unemployed with past experienc[e;] supplementary to regular emplo[y]ment; and NYA. Welders, cutte[rs,] tackers and fitters are being train[ed] for New Orleans and Gulf coast shi[p]building industries and for metal fa[b]rication, general contract and weldi[ng] work.

A similar federal grant of $14,654 f[or] equipment for the national defen[se] training center at Southwestern Lo[u]isiana institute, Lafayette, shortly [to] be open for classes, has also been a[p]proved, Coxe said.

Biggest Unsatisfied Demand In History Of Industry Forecast

By David J. Wilkie

DETROIT, Sept. 6.—(The World Special News Service)—Automobile manufacturers, cutting down their production of cars for the defense emergency period, foresee the piling up of the largest unsatisfied demand for their product ever known.

None of the nation's car markers has any idea how long the emergency will continue; all are convinced car production will be curtailed through 1943 and perhaps longer.

Every one of the car markers firmly believes the motor car industry will have a vital part in the return to a normal peacetime economy. It is with this thought in mind that they are more concerned right now with continuing automotive research in their laboratories than they are with the volume of cars to be produced during the 1942 and 1943 model periods.

The number of passenger cars that can be manufactured during those years will depend mainly upon the amount of raw materials that can be spared from the defense effort. Few, if any, of the car makers believe that the combined total car output of the next 24 months will equal that of the model year just closed.

That view would be altered only, say sources in the confidence of the car manufacturers, by the sudden discovery that the nation's steel production capacity can be increased far more than is now indicated.

Throughout the past year those engineers who could be spared from the enormous defense job assigned to the motorcar manufacturers have sought to develop metals and other materials to replace those required for the machines of war. They were as successful as most of them hoped to be, but of course, they did not develop a substitute for steel; neither did they foresee a year ago the doubling and trebling of the defense orders initially placed with the motor industry.

In other words the requirements of the armament program have proved to be far greater than the car manufacturers originally expected. They proceeded through most of the 1941 model period on the assumption that the original 20 per cent curtailment ordered in car output would hold through 1942. Now there is more than a little doubt in trade quarters that the total production for the year ahead will reach 2,500,000 vehicles. That would be less than 50 per cent of the 1941 model output.

If they make 2,500,000 vehicles during the next 12 months the volume will not be enough to replace cars sent to the scrap heap. In 1940 the replacement demand totaled 2,600,000 cars; in the 10 years up to and including 1940 the average was 2,338,661 units.

The end of the present emergency, as the motor car makers visualize it, will find them with enormous production facilities geared to manufacture the machinery of war in huge volume; it will also find raw material on hand in extraordinary abundance, they believe.

The car manufacturers believe this capacity, coupled with the big accumulated demand for cars, will have an important part in the nation's orderly return to a peacetime economy.

MAKES PROGRESS

HENRY R. WISE

PROGRESS MADE BY WISE IN AIR CORPS

Harry Robert Wise, 23, a Monroe youth who enlisted in the air corps at Maxwell field, Alabama, through the Monroe army recruiting office on November 14, 1939, has been making excellent progress in the air corps, according to word recieved recently from his present station, the air corps gunnery school at Panama City, Fla.

Young Wise was accepted for enlistment by Staff Sergeant H. B. McNemar and was sent to Montgomery, Ala., to be enlisted. His ratings and promotions are listed as follows:

Appointed specialist sixth class on February 1, 1940; corporal on September 1, 1940; sergeant, November 1, 1940, and then to the grade of staff sergeant on June 1, 1941. He was transferred from Maxwell field to Panama City June 1 of this year.

Staff Sergeant Wise, in a recent letter to one of his aunts in this vicinity, Mrs. Florence Stiltner, R. F. D. 1, West Monroe, with whom he had made his home before entering the air service, stated that he was delighted with the service and that he felt well pleased with his excellent progress. He is a keen-minded young man, clean cut, well-developed both physically and mentally, and during his time in the air corps he has been an inspiration to many of the younger youths entering that branch of the service. He has acquired a host of friends in the service.

DR. INGLEDUE IS LEAVING MONROE

Popular College Instructor To Direct Radio Station In Findlay O.

Dr. Grace Ingledue, instructor of speech at Northeast Junior college for the past six years, who resigned this week to assume an important radio post in Findlay, O., returned to Monroe Saturday for a visit of one week before assuming her new duties.

Dr. Ingledue will become president of the new radio station now being installed at Findlay, O., known as WFIN, and will also serve as production manager.

The station is a regional one with 1,000-watt power, operating on a frequency of 133 kilocycles, and will be the only one within 40 miles of Findlay, a city of 20,000 persons.

Dr. Ingledue has her doctor's degree from Louisiana State university; her master's from the University of Wisconsin and also master's degrees from both Butler university and Ohio Northern univeristy, one being in arts and the other in oratory.

She has been highly active while in Monroe, not only in college circles, but also in outside professional and social life. Among her activities has been the taking of an active part in Little Theater productions, in which she was regarded as a talented artist.

She stated that it required two years of efforts to obtain the license for the new radio station and up to a few weeks ago the result was in doubt. It is hoped to place the new station on the air about November 11.

NEVILLE BAND TO MEET ON MONDAY

All former members of the Neville High school band and prospective members are urged to attend the initial band practice called by Director Charles Gaushell for Monday at 8:30 a.m. Practice for music for the coming football games will be given and it is said to be important to have members all present.

Those from the grades who are entering high school are urged to attend and start off the year with enthusiasm. There will be some new players from other schools outside of Monroe who will enter Neville this fall and play in the band, Mr. Gaushell said.

All told, the outlook for the 1941-1942 band season is especially bright, Mr. Gaushell declared and he is anxious that the excellent record for performance of the band be maintained in the future as in times past.

CHURCH MEETING IN HOME

The Church of Christ in West Monroe as yet has not acquired a building of its own, but members meet in a private home, that of J. W. Wilson, 106 Herman street, West Monroe, each Sunday at 10:30 a.m. Members are invited to attend.

DODGE DEALERS GREET '42 CARS

Large Group From North Louisiana Guests At Luncheon Here

With 75 Dodge atomobile dealers from cities and towns of north Louisiana attending, Milner-Fuller, Inc., of Monroe, local dealers, arranged an elaborate chicken barbecue dinner at Northeast Junior college cafeteria Wednesday noon. Officials associated with the Dodge sales companies from several states attended. J. S. McDonald, district manager, Monroe, was master of ceremonies and introduced D. L. Beck, regional manager, of St. Louis, Mo., A. V. Strapps, district manager, of New Orleans, and Charles Turner, regional used car manager. Others present on the official staffs were Ted Hinkle, regional truck manager, St. Louis, Mo., and Rudy Tuesmith, district manager, Little Rock, Ark.

At the close of the meal, the party adjourned to the student lounge at the college where talks were made and motion pictures shown in the presentation of the newest Dodge car.

Mr. Beck stressed the point, in his welcoming address, that the 1942 model Dodge had best be introduced as the "New Dodge," not as the "1942 Dodge." He declared that the company is keeping the faith by aiding with defense equipment that the government requires, and that while this must come first, the needs of the owners of private cars also will be given careful consideration. He said that 20,000 Dodge trucks have been built and already taken over by the government for defense purposes.

That there will be a new Dodge for the coming year that will be better and more complete is assured, he said. The first of the new cars came from the factory on August 11. They contained no curtailment of Dodge quality.

He urged dealers to acquaint the public with the need of using alternate material—not using the word "substitute" for he said the alternate materials will measure fully up to the former materials employed in serviceability.

The volume of cars that can be built for the public is not known but he said that the early fall months should show about 56 per cent of last year's output.

Mr. Strapps urged salesmen to plan their sales just as a dealer plans his output. He urged the need of a good presentation and the explaining of minute details so that the public can grasp each of these in a satisfactory manner.

He also enjoined not to scare the public by saying that they had best buy now for no telling what lies ahead. He said no one pays his rent months ahead and so why scare with bugaboos when trying to sell cars.

The Dodge cars are the best product that the most capable engineers can produce, he assured. In closing he said that the salesmen should sell one-third as many trucks as passenger cars if a correct balance is to be maintained.

Mr. Turner, third speaker on the program, told of the cooperation of the company with the government in building trucks and other cars for transportation facilities of the army.

The motion picture, climaxing the program, was entitled "Keeping the Faith," and showed through the years how Dodge cars have maintained their enviable reputation as the best possible product of engineering skill.

The pictures ended with the showing of Jimmy Lynch, daredevil autoist, putting the new Dodge car through the most gruelling of tests and coming through practically unscathed under the most unusual and trying of conditions.

PARISH P.-T. A. HAS BARN DANCE PARTY

Fifty soldiers were entertained in the Brown Paper mill gymnasium at a barn dance, through courtesy of Bunn Beasley, general superintendent, Wednesday night. The place was decorated in appropriate style to carry out the general theme and punch was served in large tin cups, with cookies as an accompaniment. It is hoped to make the affair a weekly one for the next several weeks.

Mrs. D. L. Nicol, president of the Ouachita parish P.-T. A., commends Mrs. John Young, general chairman, for the success of the party. Chairmen and committee members were: Mrs. S. E. Morris, refreshments; Mrs. King Hunt and Mrs. C. C. Miller, girls and hostesses; Mrs. R. W. Church and Mrs. D. L. Nicol, arrangements; H. A. McDonald, J. F. Smith and Cuz Rogers, transportation; and all others who assisted in making a success of the dance.

Paul Patrick Spohrer, 23, Monroe

Alvin James Wages, Jr., 23, Norphlet.

Claude Milford and Clyde W. Williams, 19, Delhi (twins).

Brodie Byarm Davis, 18, Bastrop, was enlisted for regular army unassigned. A total of 23 young men have been accepted during the past week by Staff Sergeant McNemar for the above assignments. He expects the month of September to be a banner month for the local army recruiting station, and states that his office is prepared to handle all possible applicants who might be interested either in the air corps and for regular army unassigned.

There are more than 800 small planets, or planetoids, in the solar system.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

The picked young men who will one day fly Uncle Sam's military airplanes woke up one morning recently to find themselves called "aviation cadets" instead of "flying cadets" by war department order. It made little difference to them. They changed a few signs around, as the group above is doing, then went right on plugging for their "wings" and commissions in the air corps.

Ruling On U. S. Control Of Primaries Is Sought

Justice Department Quickly Takes Decision To Supreme Court

By Ben Grant

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The justice department has set about getting an answer to the long-debated issue of how far the federal government may go in regulating party primaries.

Specifically, it wants the supreme court to settle this question: Is the term "election" broad enough to cover the selection of candidates in a primary?

To get this decision, the department seized upon a Florida case which lawyers said went directly to the point. From the district court at Jacksonville, the government has taken it directly to the supreme court.

It involves an indictment charging three men with violating the Hatch act, which forbids "pernicious political activities." The grand jury's findings said the defendants threatened a WPA worker with loss of his job as the penalty for failing to support certain candidates in the 1940 Florida primary.

Judge Louie W. Strum of the Florida district court held the indictment invalid. He ruled that the phrase "in any election" as used in the Hatch act applied only to general elections, not to primaries.

Judge Strum conceded that in view of a recent supreme court decision in a Louisiana case, "congress no doubt possesses the power to extend the Hatch act to nominating primaries * * * ."

Senator Hatch, Democrat, New Mexico, author of the act, said that if the supreme court sustained Judge Strum "we'll amend the law to make it apply to primaries." On that proposal, he would run into trouble with many Southern members of congress jealous of their states' primary systems.

The justice department wanted a Southern case on which to make the test. Attorneys said they would argue that inasmuch as the Democratic primaries in Southern states are tantamount to elections, the Hatch act would be almost meaningless in that area if its effect were limited to general election campaigns.

The issue is broader in the South, therefore, than in other sections. Talk of regulating primaries by federal law brings cries of "interference" from Southern politicians. The old question of the negro's right to vote in Southern Democratic primaries is a side issue.

When the senate debated the Hatch bill two years ago, Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, asked, "Is it not true that all the provisions relating to primary elections were eliminated?"

"Unfortunately," Hatch replied, "in my opinion that is true."

"It is true, whether it is unfortunate or not, is it not?"

"It is quite true."

The house rejected an amendment by Representative Green, Democrat, Florida, to state specifically that the act should not be construed to cover primaries.

In the Louisiana case, decided last May, the supreme court held that the federal government's power to regulate elections included a state primary to select a nominee for congress. It was a 4 to 3 decision.

It was alleged that the defendants, as election commissioners, changed votes cast in a congressional primary. Justice Stone, in the majority opinion, declared that the "right of the elector to have his ballot counted at the primary" was for the federal government to protect.

In a dissenting opinion, Justice Douglas recalled that congress refused to assert authority over primaries in the Hatch act. He said the supreme court was "legislating" in taking the initiative in an extension of the federal authority to primaries.

Ever since that decision, lawyers and politicians have speculated on how far the court meant that congress could go.

The best known earlier case on the primary issue was a proceeding in 1921 against Senator Truman H. Newberry of Michigan. A lower court convicted the senator of violating the corrupt practices act in the Republican primary of 1918.

The lower court's finding was reversed by the supreme court, but justices divided so sharply on the grounds for the reversal that the issue of authority over primaries remained unsettled.

The court's opinion by Justice McReynolds said, "We cannot conclude that authority to control party primaries or conventions for designating candidates was bestowed on congress by the grant of power to regulate the manner of holding elections."

But Justices Pitney, Brandeis and Clarke declared, "To safeguard the final elections while leaving the proceedings for proposing candidates unregulated is to postpone regulation until it is comparatively futile."

Chief Justice White said, "I find it impossible to say that the admitted power of congress to control and regulate the election of senators does not embrace, as appropriate to that power, the authority to regulate the primary held under state authority."

Charles Evans Hughes, then in private practice, represented Senator Newberry. Twenty years later, as chief justice, he did not participate in the Louisiana case.

AVIATION CADETS IS NEWEST NAME

'Flying Cadets' Gives Way To Change In Army Nomenclature

Young men who are learning to fly the new planes of the United States army air corps are no longer "flying cadets"—they are now "aviation cadets," by recent war department order—but they still work as hard, learn as much, and experience the same adventures, no matter what they are called, Staff Sergeant H. B. McNemar, postoffice building, Monroe, said yesterday.

McNemar pointed out that the change of name involved little more than printing. "Aviation cadets" are as vitally important to the expansion of the air corps as "flying cadets" were and they are the same young men.

Qualifications for their appointment remain the same. To enter flying schools they must pass a physical examination and prove they have the necessary educational requirements. They must be unmarried, and between the ages of 20 and 26, he said.

Their pay as cadets remains $75 a month, with quarters, rations, clothing and medical and dental care thrown in, together with all expenses involved in their intensive course of training which leads to a second lieutenant's commission and pay ranging from $205.50 to $245.50 a month on active duty in the air corps.

And, McNemar added, the air corps needs more of them. Any young men who are interested, he said, will be welcomed at his office, where he will answer their questions.

CLUB PRESIDENT

Lela Fields (above) is president of the Commerce club at Northeast Junior college, having charge of the publication and distribution of the Student Handbooks. She is a graduate of the Ouachita Parish High school, class of 1940, and is now a sophomore at college. All former members of the Neville High school band and prospective members are urged to attend the initial band practice called by Director Charles Gaushell for Monday at 8:30 a.m. Practice for music for the coming football games will be given and it is said to be important to have members all present.

Those from the grades who are entering high school are urged to attend and start off the year with enthusiasm. There will be some new players from other schools outside of Monroe who will enter Neville this fall and play in the band, Mr. Gaushell said.

All told, the outlook for the 1941-1942 band season is especially bright, Mr. Gaushell declared and he is anxious that the excellent record for performance of the band be maintained in the future as in times past.

DODGE DEALERS GREET '42 CARS

Large Group From North Louisiana Guests At Luncheon Here

With 75 Dodge atomobile dealers from cities and towns of north Louisiana attending, Milner-Fuller, Inc., of Monroe, local dealers, arranged an elaborate chicken barbecue dinner at Northeast Junior college cafeteria Wednesday noon. Officials associated with the Dodge sales companies from several states attended. J. S. McDonald, district manager, Monroe, was master of ceremonies and introduced D. L. Beck, regional manager, of St. Louis, Mo., A. V. Strapps, district manager, of New Orleans, and Charles Turner, regional used car manager. Others present on the official staffs were Ted Hinkle, regional truck manager, St. Louis, Mo., and Rudy Tuesmith, district manager, Little Rock, Ark.

At the close of the meal, the party adjourned to the student lounge at the college where talks were made and motion pictures shown in the presentation of the newest Dodge car.

Mr. Beck stressed the point, in his welcoming address, that the 1942 model Dodge had best be introduced as the "New Dodge," not as the "1942 Dodge." He declared that the company is keeping the faith by aiding with defense equipment that the government requires, and that while this must come first, the needs of the owners of private cars also will be given careful consideration. He said that 20,000 Dodge trucks have been built and already taken over by the government for defense purposes.

That there will be a new Dodge for the coming year that will be better and more complete is assured, he said. The first of the new cars came from the factory on August 11. They contained no curtailment of Dodge quality.

He urged dealers to acquaint the public with the need of using alternate material—not using the word "substitute" for he said the alternate materials will measure fully up to the former materials employed in serviceability.

The volume of cars that can be built for the public is not known but he said that the early fall months should show about 56 per cent of last year's output.

Mr. Strapps urged salesmen to plan their sales just as a dealer plans his output. He urged the need of a good presentation and the explaining of minute details so that the public can grasp each of these in a satisfactory manner.

He also enjoined not to scare the public by saying that they had best buy now for no telling what lies ahead. He said no one pays his rent months ahead and so why scare with bugaboos when trying to sell cars.

The Dodge cars are the best product that the most capable engineers can produce, he assured. In closing he said that the salesmen should sell one-third as many trucks as passenger cars if a correct balance is to be maintained.

Mr. Turner, third speaker on the program, told of the cooperation of the company with the government in building trucks and other cars for transportation facilities of the army.

The motion picture, climaxing the program, was entitled "Keeping the Faith," and showed through the years how Dodge cars have maintained their enviable reputation as the best possible product of engineering skill.

The pictures ended with the showing of Jimmy Lynch, daredevil autoist, putting the new Dodge car through the most gruelling of tests and coming through practically unscathed under the most unusual and trying of conditions.

PARISH P.-T. A. HAS BARN DANCE PARTY

Fifty soldiers were entertained in the Brown Paper mill gymnasium at a barn dance, through courtesy of Bunn Beasley, general superintendent, Wednesday night. The place was decorated in appropriate style to carry out the general theme and punch was served in large tin cups, with cookies as an accompaniment. It is hoped to make the affair a weekly one for the next several weeks.

Mrs. D. L. Nicol, president of the Ouachita parish P.-T. A., commends Mrs. John Young, general chairman, for the success of the party. Chairmen and committee members were: Mrs. S. E. Morris, refreshments; Mrs. King Hunt and Mrs. C. C. Miller, girls and hostesses; Mrs. R. W. Church and Mrs. D. L. Nicol, arrangements; H. A. McDonald, J. F. Smith and Cuz Rogers, transportation; and all others who assisted in making a success of the dance.

Paul Patrick Spohrer, 23, Monroe

Alvin James Wages, Jr., 23, Norphlet.

Claude Milford and Clyde W Williams, 19, Delhi (twins).

Brodie Byarm Davis, 18, Bastrop, was enlisted for regular army unassigned. A total of 23 young men have been accepted during the past week by Staff Sergeant McNemar for the above assignments. He expects the month of September to be a banner month for the local army recruiting station, and states that his office is prepared to handle all possible applicants who might be interested either in the air corps and for regular army service.

There are more than 800 small planets, or planetoids, in the solar system.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

The picked young men who will one day fly Uncle Sam's military airplanes woke up one morning recently to find themselves called "aviation cadets" instead of "flying cadets" by war department order. It made little difference to them. They changed a few signs around, as the group above is doing, then went right on plugging for their "wings" and commissions in the air corps.

Ruling On U. S. Control Of Primaries Is Sought

Justice Department Quickly Takes Decision To Supreme Court

By Ben Grant

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The justice department has set about getting an answer to the long-debated issue of how far the federal government may go in regulating party primaries.

Specifically, it wants the supreme court to settle this question: Is the term "election" broad enough to cover the selection of candidates in a primary?

To get this decision, the department seized upon a Florida case which lawyers said went directly to the point. From the district court at Jacksonville, the government has taken it directly to the supreme court.

It involves an indictment charging three men with violating the Hatch act, which forbids "pernicious political activities." The grand jury's findings said the defendants threatened a WPA worker with loss of his job as the penalty for failing to support certain candidates in the 1940 Florida primary.

Judge Louie W. Strum of the Florida district court held the indictment invalid. He ruled that the phrase "in any election" as used in the Hatch act applied only to general elections, not to primaries.

Judge Strum conceded that in view of a recent supreme court decision in a Louisiana case, "congress no doubt possesses the power to extend the Hatch act to nominating primaries * * *."

Senator Hatch, Democrat, New Mexico, author of the act, said that if the supreme court sustained Judge Strum "we'll amend the law to make it apply to primaries." On that proposal, he would run into trouble with many Southern members of congress jealous of their states' primary systems.

The justice department wanted a Southern case on which to make the test. Attorneys said they would argue that inasmuch as the Democratic primaries in Southern states are tantamount to elections, the Hatch act would be almost meaningless in that area if its effect were limited to general election campaigns.

The issue is broader in the South, therefore, than in other sections. Talk of regulating primaries by federal law brings cries of "interference" from Southern politicians. The old question of the negro's right to vote in Southern Democratic primaries is a side issue.

When the senate debated the Hatch bill two years ago, Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, asked, "Is it not true that all the provisions relating to primary elections were eliminated?"

"Unfortunately," Hatch replied, "in my opinion that is true."

"It is true, whether it is unfortunate or not, is it not?"

"It is quite true."

The house rejected an amendment by Representative Green, Democrat, Florida, to state specifically that the act should not be construed to cover primaries.

In the Louisiana case, decided last May, the supreme court held that the federal government's power to regulate elections included a state primary to select a nominee for congress. It was a 4 to 3 decision.

It was alleged that the defendants, as election commissioners, changed votes cast in a congressional primary. Justice Stone, in the majority opinion, declared that the "right of the elector to have his ballot counted at the primary" was for the federal government to protect.

In a dissenting opinion, Justice Douglas recalled that congress refused to assert authority over primaries in the Hatch act. He said the supreme court was "legislating" in taking the initiative in an extension of the federal authority to primaries.

Ever since that decision, lawyers and politicians have speculated on how far the court meant that congress could go.

The best known earlier case on the primary issue was a proceeding in 1921 against Senator Truman H. Newberry of Michigan. A lower court convicted the senator of violating the corrupt practices act in the Republican primary of 1918.

The lower court's finding was reversed by the supreme court, but justices divided so sharply on the grounds for the reversal that the issue of authority over primaries remained unsettled.

The court's opinion by Justice McReynolds said, "We cannot conclude that authority to control party primaries or conventions for designating candidates was bestowed on congress by the grant of power to regulate the manner of holding elections."

But Justices Pitney, Brandeis and Clarke declared, "To safeguard the final elections while leaving the proceedings for proposing candidates unregulated is to postpone regulation until it is comparatively futile."

Chief Justice White said, "I find it impossible to say that the admitted power of congress to control and regulate the election of senators does not embrace, as appropriate to that power, the authority to regulate the primary held under state authority."

Charles Evans Hughes, then in private practice, represented Senator Newberry. Twenty years later, as chief justice, he did not participate in the Louisiana case.

AVIATION CADETS IS NEWEST NAME

'Flying Cadets' Gives Way To Change In Army Nomenclature

Young men who are learning to fly the new planes of the United States army air corps are no longer "flying cadets"—they are now "aviation cadets," by recent war department order—but they still work as hard, learn as much, and experience the same adventures, no matter what they are called, Staff Sergeant H. B. McNemar, postoffice building, Monroe, said yesterday.

McNemar pointed out that the change of name involved little more than printing. "Aviation cadets" are as vitally important to the expansion of the air corps as "flying cadets" were and they are the same young men.

Qualifications for their appointment remain the same. To enter flying schools they must pass a physical examination and prove they have the necessary educational requirements. They must be unmarried, and between the ages of 20 and 26, he said.

Their pay as cadets remains $75 a month, with quarters, rations, clothing and medical and dental care thrown in, together with all expenses involved in their intensive course of training which leads to a second lieutenant's commission and pay ranging from $205.50 to $245.50 a month on active duty in the air corps.

And, McNemar added, the air corps needs more of them. Any young men who are interested, he said, will be welcomed at his office, where he will answer their questions.

CLUB PRESIDENT

Lela Fields (above) is president of the Commerce club at Northeast Junior college, having charge of the publication and distribution of the Student Handbooks. She is a graduate of the Ouachita Parish High school, class of 1940, and is now a sophomore at college. Besides being president of the Commerce club, she is a member of Phi Theta Kappa, honor scholastic society; member of the Glee club and was on the Chacahoula staff.

HOME COUNCIL AT TALLULAH ELECTS

TALLULAH, La., Sept. 6.—(Special)—Officers reelected at a meeting of the Madison Parish Home Demonstration council, held at the courthouse here Wednesday, were Mrs. William La Fave, president; Mrs. Jim Parker, vice-president; Mrs. W. C. White, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. A. Tondevold, historian; Mrs. Erle Read, reporter and Mrs. M. C. Owens, parliamentarian.

Mrs. La Fave gave a report of the recent Farm and Home Week Short Course held in Baton Rouge and Mrs. Read gave a review of the autobiography by W. A. Percy, "Lanterns on the Levee."

STUDENT HANDBOOK IS BEING PUBLISHED HERE

The Commerce club at Northeast Junior college is publishing the Student Handbook, which will be distributed to all students on Monday, when college opens. The book will contain information especially valuable to freshmen. Various club activities are described therein.

Also, the rules and regulations of the college are listed.

The handbook is a small booklet that is used for frequent reference by students and faculty throughout the college year.

The publishing and distribution of the book is directed by Lela Fields, member of the sophomore class at the college.

War Profits? Not This Time!

It would be taking in too much territory, obviously, to suggest that no "war profits" are going to be made out of the war itself or the defense drive in the United States. Probably some men will make a lot of money out of it in one way or another, and some few of these may even keep some of it after the tax collector gets through. Some men have that knack, and one hears an occasional rumor suggesting that even in Germany, Italy, and Russia a few shrewd ones manage occasionally to rake in a few marks, lire, or kopecks.

It is probably inevitable that this will happen in a few instances. It is not going to be the rule this time, as it was in 1914-1916, the first two years of World war No. 1.

Best evidence is the rather remarkable performance of New York Stock Exchange stocks during the past two years.

This has happened, and it is almost unbelievable: The New York Herald-Tribune's composite stock index stood at 101.18 on August 31, 1939. Two years later, on August 31, 1941, it stood at 101.12. In other words, except for a rising flurry at the start of the war, and an almost exactly equal drop in May, 1940, when France collapsed, the stock market simply hasn't shown any reaction to the war at all. It stands after two years of the war exactly where it stood when the war started.

To anyone who recalls the feverish market speculation of the first two years of the World war, when there were no restrictions on neutral trade, and the munitions industry fattened on war orders from the allies, this seems incredible. In 1914 the stock exchange had to be closed, lest the rush of speculative trade overwhelm it. Today the problem is to keep the exchange open, so light is trading.

If it means anything, it means that nobody believes that the large companies whose stock is listed on the exchange are going to make any startling profits. While practically every one of them is working at capacity, and most of them showed increases in profits of some 20 per cent over 1939, even with that increase the profits are not impressive, and not spectacular enough to encourage speculation.

It would be too much to claim that defense is being achieved without "war profits." There may be, and probably will be some. But not on anything like the World war 1 scale and not as a general thing. The "take the profits out of war" campaign may not have yet achieved 100 per cent success, but if the people who buy and sell stocks are right, it's evidently gone a long way.

CUBA JOINS THE PARADE

Germany is always plaintively wondering why other nations won't treat her on terms of equality. The reason is plain. Germany won't act on terms of equality.

Cuba has now joined in the parade of countries sending Nazi consuls back home. Minister of State Cortina said "The government has been able to prove that German Consul Heisinger had engaged in activities apart from those inherent in his post and which affected the security of Cuba."

Same old story. Same old claim that they are somehow superior, privileged, unwilling to abide by the ordinary rules observed by others. Country after country has found such pretensions intolerable. Nobody wants to take away from Germany such a position in the world as it has earned by its legitimate achievements; for it to seize a position of special privilege—this, the world will not permit.

ARMY OPPORTUNITIES

One in every 100 soldiers in the "new army" will get an opportunity to receive a commission. The program of training in officer candidate schools is being expanded from 10,400 to 14,280 men a year.

After six months' training, any soldier in the ranks, selectee or volunteer, is eligible to try for appointment to such a school. The appointments go to men who have demonstrated qualities of leadership in actual service.

That's as it should be. True democracy, in military as in civil life, does not consist of "everybody on a dead level" but of "equal chance to all to rise according to ability." A universal service army, taking as it does a cross-section of young Americans, contains an unusual proportion of men of high intelligence and ability. It is reassuring to see that the army proposes to use them.

ALL OUT OF STEP BUT IOWA

The old World war story about the fond mother who watched the troops march by and noted that "they're all out of step but Jim" brings Iowa to mind. For Iowa, debt-ridden for years, is today virtually debt-free. And this time it looks as though all the other states were out of step.

Iowa owes money. It has the tag-end of a soldiers' bonus bond issue to pay off in 1942. But if it were to close down business today and pay all debts including the bond issue, there would be a cash balance of $10,000,000 and $1,000,000 in government bonds, to say nothing of lands and buildings owned. The state owed more than $27,000,000 in 1933.

In the army story, it was up to Jim to get in step with the rest. But in this case it looks as though Iowa was setting a cadence which other states might well follow.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6.—The other evening, I previewed a Republic picture ("Hurricane Smith") in which Jane Wyatt plays the femme lead—her first role of importance in half-a-dozen years. She's very good—no Bette Davis perhaps, but head and shoulders above the average Hollywood leading lady. Most of the critics present—hard-hearted cynics, all of them—agreed she is a potential top-flight star.

Where has she been all these years since her impressive debut with Ronald Colman in "Lost Horizon?"

Why, right here in Hollywood, most of the time, available for work—and not getting it. And, for the last three of those years, the same producers who overlooked her were screaming bloody murder about a talent shortage, and sending out scouts to spend thousands combing the byways for new faces. Ironic, isn't it?

I think you'll find the answer to the puzzle in Hollywood's strange phychology. Jane Wyatt is not aggressive enough to play the Hollywood game. Out here, in this somewhat screwy village, the people who get to the top are those who blow their own horns long and loud. Those who are too modest are overlooked. Those who are too genteel to kick in a producer's door and demand attention, seldom get it.

Ponder that situation and then consider all the pother you've read about the sensitive souls of the screen's great artists. If you're logical, you should find a sardonic chuckle or two.

OUR CHILDREN

MUCH TIME LOST BY INTERRUPTION

By Angelo Patri

How much of the school time, classroom time, is lost to the pupils in your school by interruptions from the office, the civic associations, the various boards for this cause and that? If yours is the usual school you will be astonished to find how much of this interruption there is, and how much it costs the children in terms of study and work and growth.

The school is the best organized social machine in the community. The teachers are trained and disciplined and have a fine sense of duty. The head of the school is a fine administrator, director and organizer. What is easier than to use this splendid machine for the special purpose of the benevolent group in search of help?

All kinds of drives head toward the schools. They are usually fine in motive, useful socially, but they cost the children classroom time; they take the teachers' time and strength from their work. They disrupt the school's valued routine. They cost the children more than the community gains in other ways.

When necessity demands, the school being a part of the life of the community, must fall in line, but too often somebody's pet project is viewed in the light of a necessity and the school's power levied upon accordingly. Collections of money, clothing, supplies for this group and that, take the teachers' time and absorb the children's energy and interest.

When a teacher has to collect, count, package, pack, label, ship and make up accounts, she cannot teach. If the work asked of her is of more importance than the progress of her pupils, well and good. But when is it? Why does not the association in charge do the work and keep out of the children's way?

Collections from school children are a great burden on teachers and parents. First there is the competition of the well-to-do children among themselves, and then among those less well-to-do. That kind of feeling —"I gave 10 cents and you brought only a penny—" is devastating. Good classroom work vanishes in the face of that feeling.

My experience tells me that collections of clothing for whatever cause should never be made in a school. This happened to me. The call went out for clothing for war sufferers during the first World war. Knowing no better, I passed the word along and the clothing came tumbling in, boxes, bundles, heaps, piled high in the basement.

The custodian came to the office, his face showing great concern. "Come downstairs and look at the mess," he said. "This stuff is most of it dirty; plenty of crawlers in it; nobody knows from whom it came nor in what state it is. I'd burn the lot. Quick. Before anything gets loose in the building."

I felt I could not destroy what I had asked for, so I called for an extermination company, trucked the stuff off, had it fumigated and cleansed and paid the bill, a sadder and wiser principal.

Before making use of the school, the teachers and the children for any drive, any cause, any collection, measure well and carefully the cost to the school. Then if you are sure you are right, go ahead.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday School Lesson for Sept. 14
Text: Revelation 7:9-17
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
(Editor of Advance)

From the Book of Revelation our lesson presents one of the most striking and beautiful passages to set before us the vision of the eternal God as man's source of help in time of persecution and trial.

Out of the world of harried and bitterly persecuted Christians the writer of the Book of Revelation beholds a vision in striking contrast. The very nature of the passage ought to emphasize in our minds the extent to which this is a vision. Yet we should remember that in this imaginary form it presents real and vital truth and the assurance of a great triumph of all that is pure and true and holy.

If we try to put the vision into the figures and terms that the prosaic western mind is inclined to conjure up when we read the Bible, we are led into difficulties. We can hardly portray in that matter of fact way this "great multitude which no man could number." What we do want to grasp in this vision is the fact that the writer himself was dealing with something, the immensity of which he could hardly grasp. Let us look at the meaning of the vision in some detail.

First, the company of the faithful in this ultimate triumph of right was in the vision of a great multitude. That in itself is comforting—to know the Gospel was not for a few but directed toward all men, so the Gospel triumph is not limited in its nature.

It is a good thought for fearful souls when they feel that the company of the faithful is not by any means a small one. Napoleon once said, with his cynical disregard of right, that God is on the side of the great battalions. Napoleon had his answer but it is good to know that the greatest battalions may be on the side of God. The seer and poet of the Book of Revelation saw by the throne of God a great multitude.

Second, this great multitude was of every nation. Someone has remarked upon the tendency of Britons to think of the Kingdom of God as synonymous with Great Britain. It is a narrowness of vision by no means confined to Britons. We Americans are too often wont to think as if our country were particularly the chosen of God, but God chooses the faithful out of every nation. There is no narrow nationalism in God's Kingdom.

Next, the company of triumphant saints were of all languages. There is no separation in God's Kingdom of men according to their race or speech. Here is the rebuke of this Christian seer to all narrow sectional prejudice.

Fourth, it was a company in white robes with palms in their hands, that is, it was a company clean and purified, bearing the symbols of triumph.

And fifth, it was a company of those who, coming out of great tribulations, had triumph. What a glorious picture it is that the writer gives—no more hunger, no more thirst, no more suffering, but the love and power of God wiping every tear from every eye!

As of May, 1941, the aircraft industry of the United States had a backlog of $4,305,217,656.

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson
(World Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—The fellow who picks out the names of new government agencies should give more consideration to their alphabetical initials so they could be more easily remembered. Take the new Economic Defense Board, the policy making group headed by Vice-President Henry A. Wallace. The letters E-D-B don't spell anything that can be pronounced by a linguist less versatile than a tongue-twisting Turk.

If the outfit could have been named Defense Economic Board, DEB would have meant something and had a certain amount of significance, now that Brenda Kelly is a sedate matron. Board of Economic Defense would have made a good bed to lie in, but that might be too significant a name for the bundling of cabinet officers in waging their pillow fight, mattress-jumping and cover-kicking escapades for all-out economic war.

However—

EDB has been meeting every Wednesday morning in the vice-president's office since the board was created by President Roosevelt a few weeks ago. Just what the board has done in these gab fests it has kept to itself. And while all the cabinet-member members except Frank Walker and Madame Perkins have been fairly regular attendants, the real work of the board won't get going until its executive director, Milo Perkins, fully recovers from his appendectomy and is able to start swinging.

Already Digging

Indications are that the board will let the executive director do all the work. Perkins is still confined to his house by doctor's orders, but his exceedingly active young mind has been racing all over the globe and of late he has been calling his henchmen in the department of agriculture, where he heads the Surplus Marketing administration, demanding data and doing some home gardening in the fertile fields of speculation.

Announcement of the creation of EDB was the signal for any number of bankers, business men and broad brains from the colleges to offer their services. They seem willing and even anxious to serve their government for a dollar a year or for nothing, plus expenses of course, so Milo—you have to call him Milo so he won't be confused with Madame Perkins—will have the pick of some of the country's most able economists.

At present, it is Milo Perkins' idea to keep this staff small. He wants to be his own liaison man, and if he runs EDB the way he ran SMA, he will be all over the place. Established government agencies—State, War, Navy, Agriculture and Commerce—will do the actual waging of the economic defense, but Milo Perkins will play an awful lot of quarterback for the team, a position at which he has already demonstrated talent.

He is known as one of the hardest working men in Washington. Ten and 12-hour days, with a cup of coffee brought into his desk every few hours. Then an armload of detail work carted home every night to shape up things to be done the next day. Six years at that pace was really his undoing, and a few months ago he had to quit, go under that knife and clear up some organic disturbances.

Milo Perkins' two big accomplishments in Washington have been the food stamp plan, which he conceived and organized, and the food and agricultural products purchase plan for the British, which he organized. In addition to these, he has been in charge of all marketing agreements and the program for removal of surplus crops. If "Food will win the war," as Secretary of Agriculture Wickard has stated, Milo Perkins knows his weapon as do few other economic warfare soldiers.

Mixes Business And New Deal

Since Milo Perkins was named as director of EDB, there has been a new interest in his speeches and writings. He is only 41, a self-made business man, a telephone salesman while working his way through high school in his home town of Milwaukee, then a bag salesman in Texas, and at 27, without a college education, president of his own bag company in Houston. Unlike many self-starters, Milo Perkins still remembers his own tough times on the way up. It was only natural that when Perkins quit his business and came to Washington he brought along a hard-headed business approach, tempered by social consciousness and a desire to give a better break to the underprivileged. As a right hand to Henry Wallace, he fit like a glove.

He had a reputation for being able to influence any kind of group, business men, farmers, families on relief. His views on economics are sometimes unorthodox. "I don't give a damn what the economists tell you," he has been known to say. "The common sense and the facts are these—and this is the way we're going to do it."

CIVIL SERVICE TO HOLD EXAMINATIONS

The United States Civil Service commission announces open competitive examination for the position of aircraft mechanic, ordnance, $8.08, $7.60, $7.12 a day. This examination is announced for filling vacancies in this position at the United States Naval Air station, Corpus Christi, Tex.

The examination is open to persons who have reached their 20th birthday but who have not yet passed their 62nd birthday. Applicants must have had not less than four years of progressive training and/or experience in the maintenance and repair of aircraft which must have included or been supplemented by not less than two years in aviation ordance repair. In lieu of each year of the general aircraft mechanical experience, there may be substituted one year of experience on the assembly line in a large production shop, one year of experience in bench, machine, and/or handtool work in a first-class shop, or one year of experience in the maintenance and/or repair of aircraft ordnance. The completion of six months training or experience at a school or repair station approved by the Civil Aeronautics Authority or at an air corps technical school may be substituted for one year of the required general aircraft mechanical experience. In the event of any substitution, however, not less than two years of experience in the maintenance and/or repair of aircraft ordnance must be shown.

Applications may be filed with the Recorder, Labor Board, U. S. Naval Air station, Corpus Christi, Tex., until further notice.

Additional information and application blanks may be obtained from the secretary, board of U. S. civil service examiners, postoffice, C. E. Thornhill, or from the recorder, Labor Board, U. S. Naval Air station, Corpus Christi, Tex.; or from the manager, Tenth U. S. Civil Service district, Customhouse, New Orleans.

CLAIBORNE CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

The Claiborne Home Demonstration club has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Mrs. J. R Frantem, president; Mrs. E. G. Simmons, vice-president; Mrs. Joe Hendricks, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. M. L. Defreese and Mrs. Simmons, council members. The election took place at the home of Mrs. Defreese, Tuesday afternoon.

Fifteen members answered to roll call telling the number of acres in cultivation on their farms.

Mrs. R. R. Pigett reported on her trip to the short course at Baton Rouge, "Care of Poultry" being her main subject.

Mrs. Jewel McQuiller discussed "Food for Defense" and the buying power of the dollar now and during the previous World war.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. J. M. Hattaway, September 16.

Panama Gives U. S. Sites For Protection of Canal

TWO artificial waterways form essential bulwarks in the fight of democracy against the axis. One is Suez, Britain's Mediterranean lifeline; the other, the Panama Canal, is even more vital to the defense of the British Empire and the United States.

The canal runs through the Canal Zone, a strip of land 10 miles wide leased to the United States by the Republic of Panama in 1904. It is the link between American defenses in the Atlantic and Pacific. Until this country has a two ocean navy, it is vital to the mobility and striking power of our armed forces.

A manifesto issued by the Panamanian government last March provided for the erection of defense sites in territory of Panama outside of the Canal Zone. Listening posts, searchlight stations and anti-aircraft defenses are being erected. Modern fire-fighting equipment, such as that shown in the stamp above issued by the Republic of Panama in 1937, will be important adjuncts to air defenses.

Although Panama has an overwhelmingly unfavorable trade balance, it survives economically, mainly through American tourist dollars.

LONG-TERM FARM LEASES ARE URGED

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 6.—(AP)—In an effort to show Mississippi landowners that a tenant who remains on the same land for more than five years means more revenue for both tenant and landowner, the Farm Security administration this month will launch a drive to obtain long-term leases for approximately 800 tenant farmers in the state.

District meetings to explain the program to landowners are scheduled September 16 and 17 at Greenwood, Pontotoc, Philadelphia, Gulfport and Vicksburg, and on September 18 and 19 at Grenada, Tupelo, Laurel and McComb.

Tenants who move from farm to farm annually cannot follow sound farm programs, and if they don't, the landowner loses money, State FSA Director Dallas C. Vandevere said.

Therefore the agency hopes to replace the one-year leases held by most of the low-income farm families now aided by FSA with leases running from five to 15 years.

To further increase the farm income of these families and of their landlords, the FSA plans for them a 7-point "tenure-improvement" program which includes farm and housing improvements, soil conservation, conservation and increase of woodlands, tenure security, proper financing, a live-at-home program raising food for the family and farm animals, improved financing to provide funds for current expenses and pay off old debts and the lending of FSA funds for farm improvements.

POSTAL GAINS NOTED

The Monroe postoffice continued its postal gains for the month of August when total business reached the sum of $16,238.56, against a total for August, 1940, of $14,685.38. This showed a gain of $1,553.18, or one of more than 10 per cent over figures of the same month in the previous year.

The American aircraft industry's production for the first half of 1941 reached 7,423 military planes.

New York Day by Day

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: With the Mistress of the House back from vacation in Minnesota, Daughter Pat visiting the Plowdens in South Carolina, and Mary working in a Radio City office the household starts its first non-school autumn season in about 17 years. . . . The flower garden indulges in one final burst of variegated glory before autumn frosts, and looks its best. . . . The grackles are back in force, chattering as they work in the yards, apparently consulting about arrangements for the flight southward. . . . Mornings are chilly, after heavy fall rains.

Tornadoes are so unusual in this part of the world that the New York papers didn't venture to classify a storm that hit New Jersey towns recently. They told how the witnesses saw a black cloud like an elephant's trunk lowering out of the sky, and how it advanced, sweeping all before it. . . . In Kansas, we had those things eating out of our hands, many years ago. They're tornadoes, often called cyclones, and they can be mean when they mean business. There were fewer of them during the last summer than usual, according to my observation.

While the tornado was raging in New Jersey, torrents were falling in New York, accompanied by high, gusty winds. I was driving downtown during the height of the storm. The heaviest gust hit as I was crossing the Henry Hudson bridge. An old-fashioned touring car, with wheels that look very high, was rolling in front of me. In the rear seat (tonneau?) sat a lady, apparently not more than 30 years old, in white shirtwaist, with standup collar, long hair done up in a knot on top of the back of her head.

Just as we approached the center of the bridge, an up-draft struck with great force. The fabric roof of that car lifted off and sailed away as gracefully as any parachute leaves the sky. We slowed down as the wind carefully deposited the roof on the waters of Spuyten Duyvil, far below. The old-fashioned party in the old-fashioned car drove on, laughing, while rain soaked every occupant of the car.

Friend Joe Israels and his wife, Aileen, have returned from a vacation trip on which I had hoped to accompany them. They drove to Roanoke island, where Sir Walter Raleigh planted the colony that disappeared. They saw Paul Green's production of the great pageant-play, "The Lost Colony," and came back all excited about early American history. Another season, I hope I may find time for the experience.

One of the finest wistaria vines in Manhattan covers the entire front of an old, four-story brownstone tenement on 123d street, close to Park avenue and the elevated structure of the New York Central railroad.

The main stem of the vine, which is over 40 years old, is as big around as a small tree.

Many an owner of a grand estate would give a night's sleep to be able to have such a vine to grace his country home. But somehow, flowers seem to flourish best for the more humble folk. Perhaps those people give more time and loving care to growth of the soil.

Recently I struck up an acquaintance which promises to become most interesting, just because of mutual interest in an old friend, now gone from among us.

I was introduced to Mr. Wallace H. Gibson, a business man of Walker street, because we both knew and loved Dexter Fellows, famous and beloved circus pressagent. We talked of Dexter, and the friendly mood into which we at once lapsed was evidence of the strong and friendly personality of that grand old gentleman, persisting long after his removal to another field of activity.

In this most important sense, the good do not die at all. No matter where Dexter's friendly smile may be cheering others to greater endeavor, his influence is still among us, here in the metropolis, making friends, lightning burdens, and causing us to look for the best in our fellow-citizens.

So I'm sending Mr. Gibson, at his request, a poem I wrote about Dexter shortly after his death, and we'll meet soon again, I hope, to talk of our old friend.

Jumping out of windows in Manhattan has declined shorply during the last two months.

The wise ones give two reasons. War spending has relieved some of the desperation among big spenders, who did most of the jumping. Also, even discouraged folk want to live long enough to see how all this turns out. It's the curiosity that causes one to sit through an interesting play, despite a toothache, to see the denouement.

War Profits? Not This Time!

It would be taking in too much territory, obviously, to suggest that no "war profits" are going to be made out of the war itself or the defense drive in the United States. Probably some men will make a lot of money out of it in one way or another, and some few of these may even keep some of it after the tax collector gets through. Some men have that knack, and one hears an occasional rumor suggesting that even in Germany, Italy, and Russia a few shrewd ones manage occasionally to rake in a few marks, lire, or kopecks.

It is probably inevitable that this will happen in a few instances. It is not going to be the rule this time, as it was in 1914-1916, the first two years of World war No. 1.

Best evidence is the rather remarkable performance of New York Stock Exchange stocks during the past two years.

This has happened, and it is almost unbelievable: The New York Herald-Tribune's composite stock index stood at 101.18 on August 31, 1939. Two years later, on August 31, 1941, it stood at 101.12. In other words, except for a rising flurry at the start of the war, and an almost exactly equal drop in May, 1940, when France collapsed, the stock market simply hasn't shown any reaction to the war at all. It stands after two years of the war exactly where it stood when the war started.

To anyone who recalls the feverish market speculation of the first two years of the World war, when there were no restrictions on neutral trade, and the munitions industry fattened on war orders from the allies, this seems incredible. In 1914 the stock exchange had to be closed, lest the rush of speculative trade overwhelm it. Today the problem is to keep the exchange open, so light is trading.

If it means anything, it means that nobody believes that the large companies whose stock is listed on the exchange are going to make any startling profits. While practically every one of them is working at capacity, and most of them showed increases in profits of some 20 per cent over 1939, even with that increase the profits are not impressive, and not spectacular enough to encourage speculation.

It would be too much to claim that defense is being achieved without "war profits." There may be, and probably will be some. But not on anything like the World war 1 scale and not as a general thing. The "take the profits out of war" campaign may not have yet achieved 100 per cent success, but if the people who buy and sell stocks are right, it's evidently gone a long way.

CUBA JOINS THE PARADE

Germany is always plaintively wondering why other nations won't treat her on terms of equality. The reason is plain. Germany won't act on terms of equality.

Cuba has now joined in the parade of countries sending Nazi consuls back home. Minister of State Cortina said "The government has been able to prove that German Consul Heisinger had engaged in activities apart from those inherent in his post and which affected the security of Cuba."

Same old story. Same old claim that they are somehow superior, privileged, unwilling to abide by the ordinary rules observed by others. Country after country has found such pretensions intolerable. Nobody wants to take away from Germany such a position in the world as it has earned by its legitimate achievements; for it to seize a position of special privilege—this, the world will not permit.

ARMY OPPORTUNITIES

One in every 100 soldiers in the "new army" will get an opportunity to receive a commission. The program of training in officer candidate schools is being expanded from 10,400 to 14,280 men a year.

After six months' training, any soldier in the ranks, selectee or volunteer, is eligible to try for appointment to such a school. The appointments go to men who have demonstrated qualities of leadership in actual service.

That's as it should be. True democracy, in military as in civil life, does not consist of "everybody on a dead level" but of "equal chance to all to rise according to ability." A universal service army, taking as it does a cross-section of young Americans, contains an unusual proportion of men of high intelligence and ability. It is reassuring to see that the army proposes to use them.

ALL OUT OF STEP BUT IOWA

The old World war story about the fond mother who watched the troops march by and noted that "they're all out of step but Jim" brings Iowa to mind. For Iowa, debt-ridden for years, is today virtually debt-free. And this time it looks as though all the other states were out of step.

Iowa owes money. It has the tag-end of a soldiers' bonus bond issue to pay off in 1942. But if it were to close down business today and pay all debts including the bond issue, there would be a cash balance of $10,000,000 and $1,000,000 in government bonds, to say nothing of lands and buildings owned. The state owed more than $27,000,000 in 1933.

In the army story, it was up to Jim to get in step with the rest. But in this case it looks as though Iowa was setting a cadence which other states might well follow.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6.—The other evening, I previewed a Republic picture ("Hurricane Smith") in which Jane Wyatt plays the femme lead—her first role of importance in half-a-dozen years. She's very good—no Bette Davis perhaps, but head and shoulders above the average Hollywood leading lady. Most of the critics present—hard-hearted cynics, all of them—agreed she is a potential top-flight star.

Where has she been all these years since her impressive debut with Ronald Colman in "Lost Horizon?"

Why, right here in Hollywood, most of the time, available for work—and not getting it. And, for the last three of those years, the same producers who overlooked her were screaming bloody murder about a talent shortage, and sending out scouts to spend thousands combing the byways for new faces. Ironic, isn't it?

I think you'll find the answer to the puzzle in Hollywood's strange phychology. Jane Wyatt is not aggressive enough to play the Hollywood game. Out here, in this somewhat screwy village, the people who get to the top are those who blow their own horns long and loud. Those who are too modest are overlooked. Those who are too genteel to kick in a producer's door and demand attention, seldom get it.

Ponder that situation and then consider all the pother you've read about the sensitive souls of the screen's great artists. If you're logical, you should find a sardonic chuckle or two.

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

How much of the school time, classroom time, is lost to the pupils in your school by interruptions from the office, the civic associations, the various boards for this cause and that? If yours is the usual school you will be astonished to find how much of this interruption there is, and how much it costs the children in terms of study and work and growth.

The school is the best organized social machine in the community. The teachers are trained and disciplined and have a fine sense of duty. The head of the school is a fine administrator, director and organizer. What is easier than to use this splendid machine for the special purpose of the benevolent group in search of help?

All kinds of drives head toward the schools. They are usually fine in motive, useful socially, but they cost the children classroom time; they take the teachers' time and strength from their work. They disrupt the school's valued routine. They cost the children more than the community gains in other ways.

When necessity demands, the school being a part of the life of the community, must fall in line, but too often somebody's pet project is viewed in the light of a necessity and the school's power levied upon accordingly. Collections of money, clothing, supplies for this group and that, take the teachers' time and absorb the children's energy and interest.

When a teacher has to collect, count, package, pack, label, ship and make up accounts, she cannot teach. If the work asked of her is of more importance than the progress of her pupils, well and good. But when is it? Why does not the association in charge do the work and keep out of the children's way?

Collections from school children are a great burden on teachers and parents. First there is the competition of the well-to-do children among themselves, and then among those less well-to-do. That kind of feeling—"I gave 10 cents and you brought only a penny—" is devastating. Good classroom work vanishes in the face of that feeling.

My experience tells me that collections of clothing for whatever cause should never be made in a school. This happened to me. The call went out for clothing for war sufferers during the first World war. Knowing no better, I passed the word along and the clothing came tumbling in, boxes, bundles, heaps, piled high in the basement.

The custodian came to the office, his face showing great concern. "Come downstairs and look at the mess," he said. "This stuff is most of it dirty; plenty of crawlers in it; nobody knows from whom it came nor in what state it is. I'd burn the lot. Quick. Before anything gets loose in the building."

I felt I could not destroy what I had asked for, so I called for an extermination company, trucked the stuff off, had it fumigated and cleansed and paid the bill, a sadder and wiser principal.

Before making use of the school, the teachers and the children for any drive, any cause, any collection, measure well and carefully the cost to the school. Then if you are sure you are right, go ahead.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday School Lesson for Sept. 14
Text: Revelation 7:9-17
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
(Editor of Advance)

From the Book of Revelation our lesson presents one of the most striking and beautiful passages to set before us the vision of the eternal God as man's source of help in time of persecution and trial.

Out of the world of harried and bitterly persecuted Christians the writer of the Book of Revelation beholds a vision in striking contrast. The very nature of the passage ought to emphasize in our minds the extent to which this is a vision. Yet we should remember that in this imaginary form it presents real and vital truth and the assurance of a great triumph of all that is pure and true and holy.

If we try to put the vision into the figures and terms that the prosaic western mind is inclined to conjure up when we read the Bible, we are led into difficulties. We can hardly portray in that matter of fact way this "great multitude which no man could number." What we do want to grasp in this vision is the fact that the writer himself was dealing with something, the immensity of which he could hardly grasp. Let us look at the meaning of the vision in some detail.

First, the company of the faithful in this ultimate triumph of right was in the vision of a great multitude. That in itself is comforting—to know the Gospel was not for a few but directed toward all men, so the Gospel triumph is not limited in its nature.

It is a good thought for fearful souls when they feel that the company of the faithful is not by any means a small one. Napoleon once said, with his cynical disregard of right, that God is on the side of the great battalions. Napoleon had his answer but it is good to know that the greatest battalions may be on the side of God. The seer and poet of the Book of Revelation saw by the throne of God a great multitude.

Second, this great multitude was of every nation. Someone has remarked upon the tendency of Britons to think of the Kingdom of God as synonymous with Great Britain. It is a narrowness of vision by no means confined to Britons. We Americans are too often wont to think as if our country were particularly the chosen of God, but God chooses the faithful out of every nation. There is no narrow nationalism in God's Kingdom.

Next, the company of triumphant saints were of all languages. There is no separation in God's Kingdom of men according to their race or speech. Here is the rebuke of this Christian seer to all narrow sectional prejudice.

Fourth, it was a company in white robes with palms in their hands, that is, it was a company clean and purified, bearing the symbols of triumph.

And fifth, it was a company of those who, coming out of great tribulations, had triumph. What a glorious picture it is that the writer gives—no more hunger, no more thirst, no more suffering, but the love and power of God wiping every tear from every eye!

As of May, 1941, the aircraft industry of the United States had a backlog of $4,305,217,856.

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson
(World Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—The fellow who picks out the names of new government agencies should give more consideration to their alphabetical initials so they could be more easily remembered. Take the new Economic Defense Board, the policy making group headed by Vice-President Henry A. Wallace. The letters E-D-B don't spell anything that can be pronounced by a linguist less versatile than a tongue-twisting Turk.

If the outfit could have been named Defense Economic Board, DEB would have meant something and had a certain amount of significance, now that Brenda Kelly is a sedate matron. Board of Economic Defense would have made a good bed to lie in, but that might be too significant a name for the bundling of cabinet officers in waging their pillow fight, mattress-jumping and cover-kicking escapades for all-out economic war.

However—

EDB has been meeting every Wednesday morning in the vice-president's office since the board was created by President Roosevelt a few weeks ago. Just what the board has done in these gab fests it has kept to itself. And while all the cabinet-member members except Frank Walker and Madame Perkins have been fairly regular attendants, the real work of the board won't get going until its executive director, Milo Perkins, fully recovers from his appendectomy and is able to start swinging.

Already Digging

Indications are that the board will let the executive director do all the work. Perkins is still confined to his house by doctor's orders, but his exceedingly active young mind has been racing all over the globe and of late he has been calling his henchmen in the department of agriculture, where he heads the Surplus Marketing administration, demanding data and doing some home gardening in the fertile fields of speculation.

Announcement of the creation of EDB was the signal for any number of bankers, business men and broad brains from the colleges to offer their services. They seem willing and even anxious to serve their government for a dollar a year or for nothing, plus expenses of course, so Milo—you have to call him Milo so he won't be confused with Madame Perkins—will have the pick of some of the country's most able economists.

At present, it is Milo Perkins' idea to keep this staff small. He wants to be his own liaison man, and if he runs EDB the way he ran SMA, he will be all over the place. Established government agencies—State, War, Navy, Agriculture and Commerce—will do the actual waging of the economic defense, but Milo Perkins will play an awful lot of quarterback for the team, a position at which he has already demonstrated talent.

He is known as one of the hardest working men in Washington. Ten and 12-hour days, with a cup of coffee brought into his desk every few hours. Then an armload of detail work carted home every night to shape up things to be done the next day. Six years at that pace was really his undoing, and a few months ago he had to quit, go under that knife and clear up some organic disturbances.

Milo Perkins' two big accomplishments in Washington have been the food stamp plan, which he conceived and organized, and the food and agricultural products purchase plan for the British, which he organized. In addition to these, he has been in charge of all marketing agreements and the program for removal of surplus crops. If "Food will win the war," as Secretary of Agriculture Wickard has stated, Milo Perkins knows his weapon as do few other economic warfare soldiers.

Mixes Business And New Deal

Since Milo Perkins was named as director of EDB, there has been a new interest in his speeches and writings. He is only 41, a self-made business man, a telephone salesman while working his way through high school in his home town of Milwaukee, then a bag salesman in Texas, and at 27, without a college education, president of his own bag company in Houston. Unlike many self-starters, Milo Perkins still remembers his own tough times on the way up. It was only natural that when Perkins quit his business and came to Washington he brought along a hard-headed business approach, tempered by social consciousness and a desire to give a better break to the underprivileged. As a right hand to Henry Wallace, he fit like a glove.

He had a reputation for being able to influence any kind of group, business men, farmers, families on relief. His views on economics are sometimes unorthodox. "I don't give a damn what the economists tell you," he has been known to say. "The common sense and the facts are these—and this is the way we're going to do it."

CIVIL SERVICE TO HOLD EXAMINATIONS

The United States Civil Service commission announces open competitive examination for the position of aircraft mechanic, ordnance, $8.08, $7.60, $7.12 a day. This examination is announced for filling vacancies in this position at the United States Naval Air station, Corpus Christi, Tex.

The examination is open to persons who have reached their 20th birthday but who have not yet passed their 62nd birthday. Applicants must have had not less than four years of progressive training and/or experience in the maintenance and repair of aircraft which must have included or been supplemented by not less than two years in aviation ordance repair. In lieu of each year of the general aircraft mechanical experience, there may be substituted one year of experience on the assembly line in a large production shop, one year of experience in bench, machine, and/or handtool work in a first-class shop, or one year of experience in the maintenance and/or repair of aircraft ordnance. The completion of six months training or experience at a school or repair station approved by the Civil Aeronautics Authority or at an air corps technical school may be substituted for one year of the required general aircraft mechanical experience. In the event of any substitution, however, not less than two years of experience in the maintenance and/or repair of aircraft ordnance must be shown.

Applications may be filed with the Recorder, Labor Board, U. S. Naval Air station, Corpus Christi, Tex., until further notice.

Additional information and application blanks may be obtained from the secretary, board of U. S. civil service examiners, postoffice, C. E. Thornhill, or from the recorder, Labor Board, U. S. Naval Air station, Corpus Christi, Tex.; or from the manager, Tenth U. S. Civil Service district, Customhouse, New Orleans.

CLAIBORNE CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

The Claiborne Home Demonstration club has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Mrs. J. R Frantom, president; Mrs. E. G. Simmons, vice-president; Mrs. Joe Hendricks, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. M. L. Defreese and Mrs. Simmons, council members. The election took place at the home of Mrs. Defreese, Tuesday afternoon.

Fifteen members answered to roll call telling the number of acres in cultivation on their farms.

Mrs. R. R. Pigett reported on her trip to the short course at Baton Rouge, "Care of Poultry" being her main subject.

Mrs. Jewel McQuiller discussed "Food for Defense" and the buying power of the dollar now and during the previous World war.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. J. M. Hattaway, September 16.

Panama Gives U. S. Sites For Protection of Canal

TWO artificial waterways form essential bulwarks in the fight of democracy against the axis. One is Suez, Britain's Mediterranean lifeline; the other, the Panama Canal, is even more vital to the defense of the British Empire and the United States.

The canal runs through the Canal Zone, a strip of land 10 miles wide leased to the United States by the Republic of Panama in 1904. It is the link between American defenses in the Atlantic and Pacific. Until this country has a two ocean navy, it is vital to the mobility and striking power of our armed forces.

A manifesto issued by the Panamanian government last March provided for the erection of defense sites in territory of Panama outside of the Canal Zone. Listening posts, searchlight stations and anti-aircraft defenses are being erected. Modern fire-fighting equipment, such as that shown in the stamp above issued by the Republic of Panama in 1937, will be important adjuncts to air defenses.

LONG-TERM FARM LEASES ARE URGED

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 6.—(AP)—In an effort to show Mississippi landowners that a tenant who remains on the same land for more than five years means more revenue for both tenant and landowner, the Farm Security administration this month will launch a drive to obtain long-term leases for approximately 800 tenant farmers in the state.

District meetings to explain the program to landowners are scheduled September 16 and 17 at Greenwood, Pontotoc, Philadelphia, Gulfport and Vicksburg, and on September 18 and 19 at Grenada, Tupelo, Laurel and McComb.

Tenants who move from farm to farm annually cannot follow sound farm programs, and if they don't, the landowner loses money, State FSA Director Dallas C. Vandevere said.

Therefore the agency hopes to replace the one-year leases held by most of the low-income farm families now aided by FSA with leases running from five to 15 years.

To further increase the farm income of these families and of their landlords, the FSA plans for them a 7-point "tenure-improvement" program which includes farm and housing improvements, soil conservation, conservation and increase of woodlands, tenure security, proper financing, live-at-home program raising food for the family and farm animals, improved financing to provide funds for current expenses and pay off old debts and the lending of FSA funds for farm improvements.

POSTAL GAINS NOTED

The Monroe postoffice continued its postal gains for the month of August when total business reached the sum of $16,238.56, against a total for August, 1940, of $14,685.38. This showed a gain of $1,553.18, or one of more than 10 per cent over figures of the same month in the previous year.

The American aircraft industry's production for the first half of 1941 reached 7,423 military planes.

New York Day by Day

Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: With the Mistress of the House back from vacation in Minnesota, Daughter Pat visiting the Plowdens in South Carolina, and Mary working in a Radio City office, the household starts its first non-school autumn season in about 17 years. . . The flower garden indulges in one final burst of variegated glory before autumn frosts, and looks its best. . . . The grackles are back in force, chattering as they work in the yards, apparently consulting about arrangements for the flight southward. . . Mornings are chilly, after heavy fall rains.

Tornadoes are so unusual in this part of the world that the New York papers didn't venture to classify a storm that hit New Jersey towns recently. They told how the witnesses saw a black cloud like an elephant's trunk lowering out of the sky, and how it advanced, sweeping all before it. . . . In Kansas, we had those things eating out of our hands, many years ago. They're tornadoes, often called cyclones, and they can be mean when they mean business. There were fewer of them during the last summer than usual, according to my observation.

While the tornado was raging in New Jersey, torrents were falling in New York, accompanied by high, gusty winds. I was driving downtown during the height of the storm. The heaviest gust hit as I was crossing the Henry Hudson bridge. An old-fashioned touring car, with wheels that look very high, was rolling in front of me. In the rear seat (tonneau?) sat a lady, apparently not more than 30 years old, in white shirtwaist, with standup collar, long hair done up in a knot on top of the back of her head.

Just as we approached the center of the bridge, an up-draft struck with great force. The fabric roof of that car lifted off and sailed away as gracefully as any parachute leaves the sky. We slowed down as the wind carefully deposited the roof on the waters of Spuyten Duyvil, far below. The old-fashioned party in the old-fashioned car drove on, laughing, while rain soaked every occupant of the car.

Friend Joe Israels and his wife, Aileen, have returned from a vacation trip on which I had hoped to accompany them. They drove to Roanoke island, where Sir Walter Raleigh planted the colony that disappeared. They saw Paul Green's production of the great pageant-play, "The Lost Colony," and came back all excited about early American history. Another season, I hope I may find time for the experience.

One of the finest wistaria vines in Manhattan covers the entire front of an old, four-story brownstone tenement on 123d street, close to Park avenue and the elevated structure of the New York Central railroad.

The main stem of the vine, which is over 40 years old, is as big around as a small tree.

Many an owner of a grand estate would give a night's sleep to be able to have such a vine to grace his country home. But somehow, flowers seem to flourish best for the more humble folk. Perhaps those people give more time and loving care to growth of the soil.

Recently I struck up an acquaintance which promises to become most interesting, just because of mutual interest in an old friend, now gone from among us.

I was introduced to Mr. Wallace H. Gibson, a business man of Walker street, because we both knew and loved Dexter Fellows, famous and beloved circus pressagent. We talked of Dexter, and the friendly mood into which we at once lapsed was evidence of the strong and friendly personality of that grand old gentleman, persisting long after his removal to another field of activity.

In this most important sense, the good do not die at all. No matter where Dexter's friendly smile may be cheering others to greater endeavor, his influence is still among us, here in the metropolis, making friends, lightning burdens, and causing us to look for the best in our fellow-citizens.

So I'm sending Mr. Gibson, at his request, a poem I wrote about Dexter shortly after his death, and we'll meet soon again, I hope, to talk of our old friend.

Jumping out of windows in Manhattan has declined shorply during the last two months.

The wise ones give two reasons. War spending has relieved some of the desperation among big spenders, who did most of the jumping. Also, even discouraged folk want to live long enough to see how all this turns out. It's the curiosity that causes one to sit through an interesting play, despite a toothache, to see the denouement.

ARTIN BOYS WIN RIP TO MEXICO

West Monroe Youths Are Rewarded For Summer Salesmanship Skill

Two West Monroe boys who are strict adherents to the "working-my-way-through-college" policy left this week for an all-expense trip to Mexico City, after winning the trip selling magazine subscriptions in various southern states during the summer.

They are Clarence and Albert Martin, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Martin of 309 Ludwig avenue, West Monroe, and they won their Mexican ...on through salesmanship competition with other boys of college ...e all over the south.

Seven other youths maintaining top records for selling magazine subscriptions accompanied the two Martin boys. They are expected to return from their 10-day trip next week-end.

Clarence, who has spent the past three summers testing his salesmanship ability with national magazines, will enter Louisiana State University this fall. His earnings for the first two summers that he worked paid his expenses at Northeast Junior College for two years and the money he made this summer will pay most of his expenses at L. S. U.

Albert, who began selling subscriptions last May, attended Ouachita Parish High School last year and will enter Northeast Junior College when he returns from Mexico. He will finance himself in college.

In their door-to-door policy of salesmanship, the two West Monroe youths were among a group of seven who, one morning during the summer, stormed the office of Arkansas' Governor Adkins. Result: a three-column picture of the boys, with the governor, appeared in the next day's Arkansas Democrat.

ECREATION CENTER FOR NEGRO SOLDIERS OPENS

A recreational center for negro soldiers has recently been established at the corner of Tenth and DeSiard streets.

Supervised by the colored soldiers entertainment committee, the center is operating in conjunction with a general committee and the U. S. O. Wholehearted support on the part of local and state officials of the U. S. O. is reported by the negro committee.

Sideshow

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 6.—(AP)—"Boots" was just another stray cat to Arthur W. Scott until—

He discovered "boots" had an acute instinct of differentiating between a burglar and honest citizen.

Now he watches Scott's hamburger stand at night.

By leaping violently into the air from his perch and turning somersaults he frightened one burglar away and brought about the capture of an ex-convict on another occasion.

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Park Caretaker E. E. Spencer now rings a large bell back of his home at 8:50 each night. He said he was tired of getting up at late hours to release young couples who had failed to heed warning of the 9 o'clock locking of the park gates.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The teacher shortage problem in Custer county is apparently acute.

Mrs. Henry Schroeder, wife of the superintendent of schools at Broken Bow, is coaching the football team at nearby Milburn.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 6.—(AP)—R. H. Mead reported his car stolen but he soon had it back from the police, and gladly. Officer Earl Brunskill, searching the car for clues to the thief, came across a worn traffic tag. Further inspection developed that Mead was just the man the police were looking for. There were nine warrants out for him for traffic violations. After he put up $90, he got his car back.

NORTON, Va., Sept. 6.—(AP)—A salesman entered a pharmacy and told a clerk: "My name is Green. Is Dr. Brown in?"

"Gray is my name," the clerk replied. "Dr. Brown is not in, but Dr. White, his assistant, is here."

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The navy has uncovered some hand-hewn oak timbers in dredging operations at the Brooklyn navy yard and thinks they may have been some acquired to build Civil war fighting ships.

Anyway, Rear Admiral Edward J. Marquart, yard commandant, said they wouldn't be wasted. They'll be used as keel wedges in building modern men-of-war.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Patrolman Terence B. McQuade found Dominic Bono, 50, a shoe repairer, testing the retrieving prowess of his beagle today with a live rabbit leashed with a piece of string to its right foreleg. Each time the yowling beagle closed in on the cottontail, Bono would pull the rabbit back with the string. Rabbit and beagle were taken to the society for prevention of cruelty to animals and Bono to week-end court where he pleaded guilty to a charge of cruelty to animals and was fined $15.

CIRCUS WILL BE HERE TOMORROW

Russell Brothers' 3-Ring Show To Give Matinee And Night Performances

There comes a time every so often when children and adults alike find a mutual field of entertainment and the townfolk read posters with big red letters and feel the urge to smell sawdust, hear the brass band, and see animals and trapeze performers. That time is at hand.

The circus is coming to town!

Tomorrow, under the auspices of the fireman's pension fund, Russell Brothers' Greater American circus will be presented on the Plum street show grounds in two performances.

The matinee show will begin at 2 p.m. and the night performance will be at 8 p.m. Doors will open at 1 p.m and 7 p.m.

Russell Brothers circus, a three-ring show featuring animals, trapeze acts, equestrian acts, and many others, boasts a large animal collection. Circus-goers will be privileged to view the zoological displays in the menagerie and see the main circus performance for the same price of admission.

Featured personalities in the main show will be Ernestine Clarke, "sweetheart of the equestrian world," Eddie Woeckener, "swing king of spangleland," and many other top performers.

The circus is under the management of Mrs. Pauline Russell Webb, who represents the fourth generation in her family to manage the three-ring show.

Mrs. Webb describes the Russell Brothers name as "the oldest show title in this country." Her great-grandfather started the circus during the Civil war.

MOTORBOAT KILLS MAN

BILOXI, Miss., Sept. 6.—(AP)—An unidentified, middle aged man, floating during a swim in Mississippi Sound off the community pier, was killed today when a motorboat struck him. Buddy Bass, on the pier, swam to the man and brought him to shore. Artificial respiration failed to revive him. Coroner A. L. Campbell said he died of a crushed skull and other injuries.

GRANTS FOR TRAINING MAY REACH $2,000,000

AMITE, La., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Increases in federal grants to Louisiana for training workers to take national defense jobs may swell the total such federal funds made available to the state to as much as $2,000,000, according to State Superintendent of Education John E. Coxe.

Making the prediction in a speech to Tangipahoa parish teachers, Coxe said $500,000 in grants already has been spent in Louisiana in training 16,000 men and women for defense jobs. Additional money is flowing steadily into the state for this purpose, he added.

IRON LUNGS ARE TO COME SOON

Orders Have Been Placed; Money For Expressage Will Be Needed

Orders for the "iron lung" and portable "lung," money for which was contributed by the public here, have been placed and shipment from Boston, Mass., and Los Angeles, Calif., has been promised in a few days' time, stated A. N. Robinson, chairman of the local unit of the Louisiana Crippled Children association.

The "lungs" will be shipped by express and upon arrival will be placed on display in the lobby of a local hotel and the public invited to make inspection. A member of the company manufacturing the "lungs" will accompany them here and will instruct local physicians and nurses in their correct use.

There is need for more money to pay for the express which will be considerable because of the weight of the "lungs" and also it is desired to have a fund allocated to purchase any parts that may be required later on. Checks can be received at either bank here for the "iron lung" fund, Mr. Robinson said.

Five more donations are acknowledged. They are as follows: Anne and Manny Fulson, $2; George Spyker, $1; Mer Rouge Men's Bible class, $10; Mrs. Nelson Abell, $1; and E. A. Conway, Jr., $10.

The last named is the son of the former secretary of state from whom the local charity hospital is named.

When the military training course for pilots hits its stride next year, the United States will be turning out more than 50,000 aviators every 12 months.

NAVY LAUNCHES 2 FAST CRUISERS

Deadly Craft Bring Nation Closer To Goal Of Two-Ocean Navy

(By Associated Press)

Two swift and deadly cruisers slid down the ways yesterday, bringing the navy a long step closer to its goal of a two-ocean fleet.

Speaking at one of the launching ceremonies—at a time when new tension was developing over a skirmish between the United States destroyer Greer and a German submarine—Undersecretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal asserted:

"The events in the North Atlantic make this a significant day for the American navy."

The launching of the light cruisers Atlanta at Kearny, N. J., and San Juan at Quincy, Mass., brought to 251 the total of all types of new fighting ships to go into the water thus far this year.

The rapid expansion brought the fleet up to a strength of 338 combatant vessels on August 1. The fleet at that time was made up of 15 battleships, six aircraft carriers, 37 cruisers, 168 destroyers, 112 submarines. That figure did not include several ships afloat but not actually in service, such as the new battleships North Carolina and Washington and other smaller craft.

Between the first of the year and yesterday, the navy launched 249 ships, put down 436 keels and put into service or made ready for service 213 more craft.

In addition to the building, launching and commissioning of the fighting ships, the navy has pushed a construction program for auxiliary vessels. Among such vessels was a 97-foot mine sweeper, launched at Millville, N. Y., yesterday.

Details of the two cruisers launched yesterday were naval secrets, but some information was made public. The Atlanta is so speedy, navy officers said, that only the darting mosquito boats can outrun her. She is partly streamlined, with the deck partly enclosing the forward funnel.

The San Juan has similar characteristics and speed. Her builders said she was armed with torpedo tubes and driven by twin-screw geared turbine machinery.

While the cruisers slid down the ways at Kearny and Quincy, ceremonies were going on at a Philadelphia yard to mark the laying of a keel for the 10,000-ton cruiser Wilkes-Barre.

At Kearny, the way on which the Atlanta stood was cleared for laying the keels of two destroyers. On nearby ways at the yard are the Juneau, sister ship of the Atlanta, and several destroyers.

WILLIE SULLIVAN RILEY

Willie Sullivan Riley, 65, of Route 2, Bastrop, died in a Monroe hospital at 4:50 a.m. Saturday.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. in the chapel of the Dixie Funeral Home, with Rev. R. J. Sweetman officiating. Interment will follow in the Carter Cemetery near Bastrop.

Mr. Riley is survived by his wife, Susie Riley; five daughters, Mrs. Newton Curtiss, Mrs. Roy Coleman, Mrs. J. P. Johnson and Miss Jean Riley, all of Bastrop, and Mrs. J. S. Simmons of Monroe; three sons, Frank, Clinton and Edward, all of Bastrop.

Pallbearers will be A. O. Ramsey, A. W. Coleman, J. P. McDuffy, Jude White, Charlie Palmer and Durwood Simpson.

R. R. MARTIN

R. R. Martin, 63, died at his residence on the Millhaven road late Saturday afternoon.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Martin; one son, Sherman Martin; three daughters, Mrs. Nora Garner, Mrs. Mae Tullos and Mrs. Alonza East, and two stepdaughters, Mrs. Pearl Atnip and Mrs. Marie Stanford.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete Saturday night, but services will probably be held sometime Sunday afternoon, under the direction of the Mulhearn Funeral Home.

SUPPER DATE CHANGED

The Pilot club will entertain 50 soldiers with a supper at the home of Mrs. Jewel McQuiller on South Grand street Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. Originally scheduled for Monday, the supper was postponed yesterday.

MISSISSIPPIAN IS GIVEN PARDON IN WASHINGTON

OLYMPIA, Wash., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Governor Arthur B. Langlie today pardoned Orson Seward, 34, of Iuka, Miss., who recently was sentenced to a maximum of 15 years in the Washington state penitentiary for theft in Yakima county five years ago.

The release was granted after hundreds of petitions from Iuka citizens and public officials were sent to Governor Langlie requesting leniency. Even Yakima county officials, including the judge who tried the case and the prosecutor who argued it, requested the pardon. And Anton Carlson, Yakima farmer who swore out the warrant for Seward, said he had no desire to press the charge.

Seward was convicted of grand larceny for the theft of several sets of harness.

The case was reopened recently when Seward, who went by the name of "Jack" Seward in Iuka, had his fingerprints taken in connection with a welding shop he was conducting for national defense work. The prints, checked by the federal bureau of investigation, disclosed Seward was wanted in Washington.

A Yakima deputy sheriff went to Iuka with extradition papers. He found the man was a leading citizen in the town of 500 residents. When he left Iuka with his prisoner, he reported, most of the town came down to the train to see them off.

In Yakima county superior court, Seward pleaded guilty and said he was ready to take his punishment.

THINKS HOUSE TO ACCEPT TAX ITEM

George Believes It Will Approve Lowered Base On Income Levies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Belief that the house would accept the senate's most important change in the revenue bill—an amendment lowering personal income tax exemptions—was expressed today by Chairman George, Democrat, Georgia, of the senate finance committee.

George said his information was that many members of the house ways and means committee had regarded the amendment favorably when the revenue bill was before them. "At that time," he added, "the treasury was not so strong for it."

Later, President Roosevelt recommended a broader income tax base and the senate approved an amendment cutting personal exemptions from $2,000 to $1,500 for married persons and from $800 to $750 for single persons. The treasury estimated the change would pour an extra $303,000,000 into the federal till and require an additional 4,911,000 persons to file income tax returns.

The $3,583,900,000 revenue measure, passed after three days of debate by the senate yesterday, will be considered by a joint senate-house conference committee next Wednesday. George predicted that an agreement would be reached in two or three days.

George said the senate changes likely to cause the most controversy were those knocking out a special 10 per cent tax on corporation profits and increasing surtaxes on corporation incomes.

Under the house bill, the 10 per cent levy would be applied to those companies whose profits were not sufficient to bring them under the schedule of excess profits taxes. After eliminating that tax, the senate increased corporation surtaxes from 5 to 6 per cent on the first $25,000 of net income and from 6 to 7 per cent on income over that amount. The net result was a gain in revenue estimated by the finance committee at $52,800,000.

George predicted that the current tax bill would be followed immediately by another making administrative changes in the tax laws, preventing husbands and wives in community property states from dividing income when making tax returns, and, probably, imposing higher taxes on mutual insurance companies.

The community income prohibition, which would have affected residents of Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, California, Idaho and Washington, was written into the revenue measure by the senate finance committee but was killed in the senate. The provision was estimated to raise $50,000,000 in revenue annually.

Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, who led the senate fight against the amendment, told reporters that opponents "will keep organized, and if the thing is brought up again we'll lick it again."

[M]ARTIN BOYS WIN [T]RIP TO MEXICO

[T]wo West Monroe Youths Are [R]ewarded For Summer Salesmanship Skill

[T]wo West Monroe boys who are [str]ict adherents to the "working-my-[wa]y-through-college" policy left this [we]ek for an all-expense trip to [M]exico City, after winning the trip [by] selling magazine subscriptions in [va]rious southern states during the [su]mmer.

They are Clarence and Albert Mar[tin], sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank [M]artin of 309 Ludwig avenue, West [Mo]nroe, and they won their Mexican [vacati]on through salesmanship com[pe]tition with other boys of college [ag]e all over the south.

Seven other youths maintaining top [re]cords for selling magazine subscrip[tio]ns accompanied the two Martin [bo]ys. They are expected to return [fr]om their 10-day trip next week-end.

Clarence, who has spent the past [th]ree summers testing his salesman[sh]ip ability with national magazines, [wi]ll enter Louisiana State University [th]is fall. His earnings for the first [tw]o summers that he worked paid [hi]s expenses at Northeast Junior Col[le]ge for two years and the money he [m]ade this summer will pay most of [hi]s expenses at L. S. U.

Albert, who began selling subscrip[tio]ns last May, attended Ouachita [pa]rish High School last year and will [en]ter Northeast Junior College when [he] returns from Mexico. He will [fi]nance himself in college.

In their door-to-door policy of sales[ma]nship, the two West Monroe youths [we]re among a group of seven who, [on]e morning during the summer, [st]ormed the office of Arkansas' Gov[er]nor Adkins. Result: a three-column [pi]cture of the boys, with the governor, [ap]peared in the next day's Arkansas [D]emocrat.

[R]ECREATION CENTER FOR NEGRO SOLDIERS OPENS

A recreational center for negro sol[di]ers has recently been established [at] the corner of Tenth and DeSiard [st]reets.

Supervised by the colored soldiers [en]tertainment committee, the center [is] operating in conjunction with a [ge]neral committee and the U. S. O. Wholehearted support on the part [of] local and state officials of the [U.] S. O. is reported by the negro [co]mmittee.

Sideshow

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 6.—(AP)—"Boots" was just another stray cat to Arthur W. Scott until—

He discovered "boots" had an acute instinct of differentiating between a burglar and honest citizen.

Now he watches Scott's hamburger stand at night.

By leaping violently into the air from his perch and turning somersaults he frightened one burglar away and brought about the capture of an ex-convict on another occasion.

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Park Caretaker E. E. Spencer now rings a large bell back of his home at 8:50 each night. He said he was tired of getting up at late hours to release young couples who had failed to heed warning of the 9 o'clock locking of the park gates.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The teacher shortage problem in Custer county is apparently acute.

Mrs. Henry Schroeder, wife of the superintendent of schools at Broken Bow, is coaching the football team at nearby Milburn.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 6.—(AP)—R. H. Mead reported his car stolen but he soon had it back from the police, and gladly. Officer Earl Brunskill, searching the car for clues to the thief, came across a worn traffic tag. Further inspection developed that Mead was just the man the police were looking for. There were nine warrants out for him for traffic violations. After he put up $90, he got his car back.

NORTON, Va., Sept. 6.—(AP)—A salesman entered a pharmacy and told a clerk: "My name is Green. Is Dr. Brown in?"

"Gray is my name," the clerk replied. "Dr. Brown is not in, but Dr. White, his assistant, is here."

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The navy has uncovered some hand-hewn oak timbers in dredging operations at the Brooklyn navy yard and thinks they may have been some acquired to build Civil war fighting ships.

Anyway, Rear Admiral Edward J. Marquart, yard commandant, said they wouldn't be wasted. They'll be used as keel wedges in building modern men-of-war.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Patrolman Terence B. McQuade found Dominic Bono, 50, a shoe repairer, testing the retrieving prowess of his beagle today with a live rabbit leashed with a piece of string to its right foreleg. Each time the yowling beagle closed in on the cottontail, Bono would pull the rabbit back with the string.

Rabbit and beagle were taken to the society for prevention of cruelty to animals and Bono to week-end court where he pleaded guilty to a charge of cruelty to animals and was fined $15.

CIRCUS WILL BE HERE TOMORROW

Russell Brothers' 3-Ring Show To Give Matinee And Night Performances

There comes a time every so often when children and adults alike find a mutual field of entertainment and the townfolk read posters with big red letters and feel the urge to smell sawdust, hear the brass band and see animals and trapeze performers. That time is at hand.

The circus is coming to town!

Tomorrow, under the auspices of the fireman's pension fund, Russell Brothers' Greater American circus will be presented on the Plum street show grounds in two performances.

The matinee show will begin at 2 p.m. and the night performance will be at 8 p.m. Doors will open at 1 p.m and 7 p.m.

Russell Brothers circus, a three-ring show featuring animals, trapeze acts, equestrian acts, and many others, boasts a large animal collection. Circus-goers will be privileged to view the zoological displays in the menagerie and see the main circus performance for the same price of admission.

Featured personalities in the main show will be Ernestine Clarke, "sweetheart of the equestrian world," Eddie Woeckener, "swing king of spangleland," and many other top performers.

The circus is under the management of Mrs. Pauline Russell Webb, who represents the fourth generation in her family to manage the three-ring show.

Mrs. Webb describes the Russell Brothers name as "the oldest show title in this country." Her great-grandfather started the circus during the Civil war.

MOTORBOAT KILLS MAN

BILOXI, Miss., Sept. 6.—(AP)—An unidentified, middle aged man, floating during a swim in Mississippi Sound off the community pier, was killed today when a motorboat struck him. Buddy Bass, on the pier, swam to the man and brought him to shore. Artificial respiration failed to revive him. Coroner A. L. Campbell said he died of a crushed skull and other injuries.

GRANTS FOR TRAINING MAY REACH $2,000,000

AMITE, La., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Increases in federal grants to Louisiana for training workers to take national defense jobs may swell the total such federal funds made available to the state to as much as $2,000,000, according to State Superintendent of Education John E. Coxe.

Making the prediction in a speech to Tangipahoa parish teachers, Coxe said $500,000 in grants already has been spent in Louisiana in training 16,000 men and women for defense jobs. Additional money is flowing steadily into the state for this purpose, he added.

IRON LUNGS ARE TO COME SOON

Orders Have Been Placed; Money For Expressage Will Be Needed

Orders for the "iron lung" and portable "lung," money for which was contributed by the public here, have been placed and shipment from Boston, Mass., and Los Angeles, Calif., has been promised in a few days' time, stated A. N. Robinson, chairman of the local unit of the Louisiana Crippled Children association.

The "lungs" will be shipped by express and upon arrival will be placed on display in the lobby of a local hotel and the public invited to make inspection. A member of the company manufacturing the "lungs" will accompany them here and will instruct local physicians and nurses in their correct use.

There is need for more money to pay for the express which will be considerable because of the weight of the "lungs" and also it is desired to have a fund allocated to purchase any parts that may be required later on. Checks can be received at either bank here for the "iron lung" fund, Mr. Robinson said.

Five more donations are acknowledged. They are as follows: Anne and Manny Fulson, $2; George Spyker, $1; Mer Rouge Men's Bible class, $10; Mrs Nelson Abell, $1; and E. A. Conway, Jr., $10.

The last named is the son of the former secretary of state from whom the local charity hospital is named.

When the military training course for pilots hits its stride next year, the United States will be turning out more than 50,000 aviators every 12 months.

NAVY LAUNCHES 2 FAST CRUISERS

Deadly Craft Bring Nation Closer To Goal Of Two-Ocean Navy

(By Associated Press)

Two swift and deadly cruisers slid down the ways yesterday, bringing the navy a long step closer to its goal of a two-ocean fleet.

Speaking at one of the launching ceremonies—at a time when new tension was developing over a skirmish between the United States destroyer Greer and a German submarine—Undersecretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal asserted:

"The events in the North Atlantic make this a significant day for the American navy."

The launching of the light cruisers Atlanta at Kearny, N. J., and San Juan at Quincy, Mass., brought to 251 the total of all types of new fighting ships to go into the water thus far this year.

The rapid expansion brought the fleet up to a strength of 338 combatant vessels on August 1. The fleet at that time was made up of 15 battleships, six aircraft carriers, 37 cruisers, 168 destroyers, 112 submarines. That figure did not include several ships afloat but not actually in service, such as the new battleships North Carolina and Washington and other smaller craft.

Between the first of the year and yesterday, the navy launched 249 ships, put down 436 keels and put into service or made ready for service 213 more craft.

In addition to the building, launching and commissioning of the fighting ships, the navy has pushed a construction program for auxiliary vessels. Among such vessels was a 97-foot mine sweeper, launched at Millville, N. Y., yesterday.

Details of the two cruisers launched yesterday were naval secrets, but some information was made public. The Atlanta is so speedy, navy officers said, that only the darting mosquito boats can outrun her. She is partly streamlined, with the deck partly enclosing the forward funnel.

The San Juan has similar characteristics and speed. Her builders said she was armed with torpedo tubes and driven by twin-screw geared turbine machinery.

While the cruisers slid down the ways at Kearny and Quincy, ceremonies were going on at a Philadelphia yard to mark the laying of a keel for the 10,000-ton cruiser Wilkes-Barre.

At Kearny, the way on which the Atlanta stood was cleared for laying the keels of two destroyers. On nearby ways at the yard are the Juneau, sister ship of the Atlanta, and several destroyers.

DEATHS

WILLIE SULLIVAN RILEY

Willie Sullivan Riley, 65, of Route 2, Bastrop, died in a Monroe hospital at 4:50 a.m. Saturday.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. in the chapel of the Dixie Funeral Home, with Rev. R. J. Sweetman officiating. Interment will follow in the Carter Cemetery near Bastrop.

Mr. Riley is survived by his wife, Susie Riley; five daughters, Mrs. Newton Curtiss, Mrs. Roy Coleman, Mrs. J. P. Johnson and Miss Jean Riley, all of Bastrop, and Mrs. J. S. Simmons of Monroe; three sons, Frank, Clinton and Edward, all of Bastrop.

Pallbearers will be A. O. Ramsey, A. W. Coleman, J. P. McDuffy, Jude White, Charlie Palmer and Durwood Simpson.

R. R. MARTIN

R. R. Martin, 63, died at his residence on the Millhaven road late Saturday afternoon.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Martin; one son, Sherman Martin; three daughters, Mrs. Nora Garner, Mrs. Mae Tullos and Mrs. Alonza East, and two stepdaughters, Mrs. Pearl Atnip and Mrs. Marie Stanford.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete Saturday night, but services will probably be held sometime Sunday afternoon, under the direction of the Mulhearn Funeral Home.

SUPPER DATE CHANGED

The Pilot club will entertain 50 soldiers with a supper at the home of Mrs. Jewel McQuiller on South Grand street Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. Originally scheduled for Monday, the supper was postponed yesterday.

MISSISSIPPIAN IS GIVEN PARDON IN WASHINGTON

OLYMPIA, Wash., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Governor Arthur B. Langlie today pardoned Orson Seward, 34, of Iuka, Miss., who recently was sentenced to a maximum of 15 years in the Washington state penitentiary for theft in Yakima county five years ago.

The release was granted after hundreds of petitions from Iuka citizens and public officials were sent to Governor Langlie requesting leniency. Even Yakima county officials, including the judge who tried the case and the prosecutor who argued it, requested the pardon. And Anton Carlson, Yakima farmer who swore out the warrant for Seward, said he had no desire to press the charge.

Seward was convicted of grand larceny for the theft of several sets of harness.

The case was reopened recently when Seward, who went by the name of "Jack" Seward in Iuka, had his fingerprints taken in connection with a welding shop he was conducting for national defense work. The prints, checked by the federal bureau of investigation, disclosed Seward was wanted in Washington.

A Yakima deputy sheriff went to Iuka with extradition papers. He found the man was a leading citizen in the town of 500 residents. When he left Iuka with his prisoner, he reported, most of the town came down to the train to see them off.

In Yakima county superior court, Seward pleaded guilty and said he was ready to take his punishment.

THINKS HOUSE TO ACCEPT TAX ITEM

George Believes It Will Approve Lowered Base On Income Levies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Belief that the house would accept the senate's most important change in the revenue bill—an amendment lowering personal income tax exemptions—was expressed today by Chairman George, Democrat, Georgia, of the senate finance committee.

George said his information was that many members of the house ways and means committee had regarded the amendment favorably when the revenue bill was before them. "At that time," he added, "the treasury was not so strong for it."

Later, President Roosevelt recommended a broader income tax base and the senate approved an amendment cutting personal exemptions from $2,000 to $1,500 for married persons and from $800 to $750 for single persons. The treasury estimated the change would pour an extra $303,000,000 into the federal till and require an additional 4,911,000 persons to file income tax returns.

The $3,583,900,000 revenue measure, passed after three days of debate by the senate yesterday, will be considered by a joint senate-house conference committee next Wednesday. George predicted that an agreement would be reached in two or three days.

George said the senate changes likely to cause the most controversy were those knocking out a special 10 per cent tax on corporation profits and increasing surtaxes on corporation incomes.

Under the house bill, the 10 per cent levy would be applied to those companies whose profits were not sufficient to bring them under the schedule of excess profits taxes. After eliminating that tax, the senate increased corporation surtaxes from 5 to 6 per cent on the first $25,000 of net income and from 6 to 7 per cent on income over that amount. The net result was a gain in revenue estimated by the finance committee at $52,800,000.

George predicted that the current tax bill would be followed immediately by another making administrative changes in the tax laws, preventing husbands and wives in community property states from dividing income when making tax returns, and, probably, imposing higher taxes on mutual insurance companies.

The community income prohibition, which would have affected residents of Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, California, Idaho and Washington, was written into the revenue measure by the senate finance committee but was killed in the senate. The provision was estimated to raise $50,000,000 in revenue annually.

Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, who led the senate fight against the amendment, told reporters that opponents "will keep organized, and if the thing is brought up again we'll lick it again."

DEFENDER OF A FAITH . . .

In the Middle Ages, they were called Crusaders—those defenders of the Right. Today, they're doughboys, and they fight with guns, planes and tanks instead of with swords, horses and armor. But they're only superficially different, for the significant fact still remains—Right still finds defenders! There still are people—now as hundreds of years ago—with the courage and vision that it takes to defend the right. MONROE SCORES RUN IN 10TH TO NOSE OUT BILLS

Locals Rally After Mississippians Tie Score In Ninth Inning

After battling ten innings in one of the hardest fought games of the Cotton States season here, the Monroe White Sox nosed out the Vicksburg

SECOND GAME TODAY

The Vicksburg Bills and the Monroe White Sox clash in the second game of their preliminary playoff series for the Cotton States title here this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Casino park.

Manager Doug Taitt last night announced he would send Theo Hoemann, big righthander, to the mound against the Bills, and Skipper Al Baker said he planned to use either Al Kelley, ace righthander, or Steve Fallon, a portsider.

After today's game the Sox and Bills will move over to Vicksburg tomorrow and will remain there until the series is completed. The first team winning three games will face the victor of the Greenville-Hot Springs playoff for the league crown.

Hill Billies, 5 to 4, to cop the opening battle of the league's championship series at Casino park last night.

The rousing battle saw the Sox overcome a two run Vicksburg lead in the seventh inning when they scored for the first time, and then the locals went ahead with two more tallies in the eighth.

Verne Williamson, Monroe's starting pitcher, held the invaders to seven hits but he weakened in the ninth when the Hill City aggregation rallied to score twice and knot the count at 4-and-4.

Then the tailend of the White Sox batting order came through in the tenth to clinch the victory. Ernie Potocar led off in the tenth with a single into left field. Jimmy Keith walked, and Reeder bunted safely to load the bases. Joe Eagar, who distinguished himself with four hits, including a double, in six times at bat, then lifted a high fly into center field and Potocar came home with the winning run after the catch.

The game was filled with many tense moments, and the large crowd was kept in an uproar during the closing stages of the battle.

Quite opposite from the nip-and-tuck tilt here was the Greenville-Hot Springs opener at the Spa where the Bathers romped to an easy 19-to-4 triumph over the Buckshots.

Monroe missed a wonderful chance to score in the first inning after a single by Bob Hill and bases on balls to Dale Englehorn and Pete Medak

EARLY SCRIMMAGE STAGED BY TECH VARSITY GRIDDERS

Coach Aillet Promises Lighter Work After Brisk Workout Saturday

RUSTON, Sept. 6.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech's varsity football players staged a scrimmage Saturday afternoon to end a fast first week of drills and learned from Head Coach Joe Aillet that the strenuous practice business would be lighter the coming week.

"The boys have come a long way in a short time," Coach Aillet said, "and their spirit is high."

The first general scrimmage of the season found the Bulldogs handicapped in team work because of a shortage of left halfbacks, the only man in that post being James Tinsley, senior of Haynesville. That situation developed after Johnny Perritt of Tyler, Tex., sustained a slight recurrence of a back injury, and because the army got the other two left halfback candidates, Milton (Monk) Clavier of New Orleans and Armour Ballance of Arcadia, both sophomores.

In fact, the army service has exacted an even dozen of the Tech varsity aspirants, as of Saturday, September 6. Besides Ballance and Clavier, the "in memoriam" list includes Delmar (Dude) Pierce, junior tackle, Newellton; Lloyd Scott, junior guard, Monroe; Harold Dickens, senior guard, Delhi; Travis Hammons, senior center, Choudrant; James Garner, junior end, Mansfield; Albert Parkes, junior end, Decatur, Miss.; Harry Widener, junior tackle, Panama City, Fla.; Witt Vascocu, senior tackle and alternate captain, Minden; Harmon Burgess, senior center, Mansfield; and Pat Riser, sophomore guard, Ruston.

The bugaboo of a lack of varsity-experienced men in the line continues to trouble Line Coach Cecil Crowley, although the sophomore material at hand offers some encouragement.

One matter that is not bothering the coaches, however, is that of a probable starting lineup. Coach Aillet said it is pretty definite that the starters will be as follows:

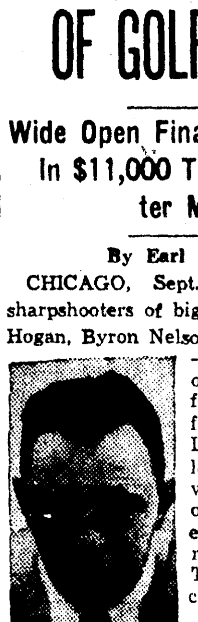
HOGAN, NELSON, SNEAD ON HEELS OF GOLF LEADER

Wide Open Final Round Seen In $11,000 Tam O'Shanter Meet

By Earl Hilligan

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Three sharpshooters of big-money golf—Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson and Sam Snead—closed in today on that surprising fairways sniper from the Ozarks, Leonard Dodson, laying the groundwork for a wide open final round engagement tomorrow in the $11,000 Tam O'Shanter championship.



Sam Snead

Dodson, whose marksmanship picked off scoring honors for the first two days, still was out in front with a 54-hole total of 206 strokes. But his one over par 73 today was just enough off his furious 36-hole pace of 133 to enable a number of pursuers to pull into position for what loomed as a rousing finish to the season's biggest golf money skirmish.

For right behind the 29-year-old leader from Kansas City were Nelson, at 208, Hogan at 209 and Snead at 210, three great money players who's demonstrated their ability to drive from behind when hundreds of dollars ride on every final round shot.

A great gallery of 12,000 fans had plenty of action in today's program, which ended with Nelson's bid for a third round tie with Dodson crumbling before three straight home nine bogies as his usually fine iron game let him down. His card was 36-36—72.

Hogan, one shot back, had a third round 70, clipping par two strokes going out and equalling regulation 36 on the home trip.

It was Snead, holder of the all-time season's money winning record of $19,534, who contributed the day's best bid. Ten shots back of Dodson after 36 holes, Slamming Sam smacked out a five under par 67, going out in 33 and coming home in 34, to pull into a spot from which he often has leaped to the first money award—which in this rich event is $2,000.

Four shots back of Snead, at 214, were Ralph Guldahl, twice former National Open champion, and Jimmy Hines of Great Neck, N. Y., Guldahl having a third round 71 and Hines a 70. That it will be a hot fight for the lucrative secondary awards tomorrow is seen from the number of players in the 215 slot, four, while there were no fewer than six who were at par 216, among them Lawson Little, 1940 National Open king.

Craig Wood, National Open champion, and Vic Ghezzi, the P. G. A. title-holder, were among those who held 217 aggregates.

FRESHMEN TO PLAY ON S. I. A. A. TEAMS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Because of widespread losses of athletics to the nation's armed forces, the 36 members of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletics association, are going to allow freshmen to play varsity football this fall.

The six-man executive committee of the association adopted a resolution yesterday allowing all schools to use at least four freshmen in varsity play. In addition, schools without 25 upperclassmen on varsity squads, can obtain this number through use of freshmen.

The committee at the association's annual meeting here last winter was empowered to take final action on any emergency arising from the defense program. The one-day session of the committee originally was scheduled for today.

Executive committee members are J. W. Provine of Mississippi college, H. E. Sturgeon of Presbyterian college, R. W. Johnson of West Tennessee Teachers college, G. G. Hughes of Southwestern Louisiana institute and R. T. Hinton of Georgetown.

Association schools are located in Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Tennessee, Kentucky, South Carolina, Virginia and Mississippi.

During 1940, the passenger cars of the United States traveled 498 billion passenger miles. Of this figure, more than half of the miles traveled were for business purposes.

Junior College Announces Revised Football Schedule

Ouachita And Arkansas Tech Cancel Games; Indians Hold Scrimmage

After sending the Northeast Junior college football squad through its first lengthy scrimmage session of the training period yesterday, Coach James L. Malone last night reported several changes in the 1941 schedule.

The schedule problem developed when Arkansas schools were unable to fill their dates with the locals because of rearrangements of their own schedules. The result is that Ouachita college of Arkadelphia, Ark., and Arkansas Tech have been scratched from the list.

In an effort to fill out the schedule, Coach Malone secured the strong Hinds Mississippi Junior college eleven and the Centenary Junior Gents but had to do a little shifting of dates with other opponents in order to get the new teams in.

The cancelling of the Ouachita college game left the October 10 date vacant.

The United States Air Corps of Pensacola, previously scheduled for November 7, will be here on October 24 instead, and the Centenary Frosh have moved into the October 30 date for a game here.

The moving up of the date with the Air Corps enabled the Tribe to schedule the Hinds Mississippi Junior colelge for a November 7 game here.

Southeastern Louisiana, previously scheduled for November 21, was moved up to November 14, filling the date vacated by Arkansas Tech.

The remainder of the schedule stands as originally announced, with Copiah-Lincoln, September 18; Kilgore Junior college, September 26; Northwest Mississippi Junior college, October 3; Henderson State Teachers, October 17; and East Central Missisippi Junior college, November 27.

Seven of the nine games scheduled will be played in Monroe. Southeastern will be played at Hammond and Kilgore at Kilgore, Tex.

With only seven lettermen and two squadmen back from the 1940 squad, Coach Malone will be depending heavily on freshmen to produce for the Tribe this season. The squad of 33 players to be carried will thus include not less than 24 freshmen. The new talent is lighter than in recent years and all prospects average around 18 years of age.

The tough scrimmage session yesterday ended two weeks of hard training work, and the squad of 40 candidates working for places on the team was cut to the 33-player limit at the close of the workout.

The squad listed to carry the Northeast Junior college colors through the season was announced by Coach Malone as follows:

Squadmen from last year—Leo Lively, Lake Providence, end; and Basil Fain, Tupelo, Miss., back.

Freshmen—Afton Cox, Weatherford, Tex., and "Shock" Shackleford, Monroe, centers; Cecil Sinclair, Sterlington, John Cox, Memphis, Bill Edgar, Sterlington, Buster Simmons, Monroe, and James Burgess, Monroe, guards; Billy Newton, Alice, Tex., William Short, Monroe, Charles Smith, Stuttgart, Ark., and Ben Kerr, Gary, Ind., tackles; Willard Smith, Houston, Tex., Lemar Bukenbus, DeQueen, Ark., "Bab" Guy, Memphis, and Dick Bell, Siloam Springs, Ark., ends; "Chink" Andria, Uniontown, Pa., and Tommy Sands, Wynne, Ark., quarterbacks; Clayton Brown, Monroe, and Clem Welsh, Monroe, fullbacks; and Bedford Smith, Little Rock, Ark., Bob Zenndel, Memphis, Lloyd Barrow, Wynne, Ark., Jack Bishop, Memphis, and Howard Williams, Uniontown, Pa., halfbacks.

Walter Zamji of Penn, Pa., is team manager, and Sam Ballard of Ida, La., is stock room manager.

'REGULAR' WILL WIN SAYS MEHRE

Ole Miss Coach Sees Tennessee, Alabama Or Tulane On Top

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Affable Harry Mehre, whose Mississippi Rebels have been picked by "experts" and rival coaches as a top contender for the Southeastern conference title, declined the nomination with thanks today and passed it to Tennessee, Alabama and Tulane.

"They're very kind to think so much of us," he said. "And we'll play good football. But Saturday in and Saturday out, we can't take that kind of punishment.

"I don't see why it shouldn't be settled among the 'regulars'—Tennessee, Alabama and Tulane—with Georgia added."

Mehre admitted Tennessee had "lost lots, which would hurt anyone." But, he added, "They haven't slackened up on their recruiting."

"The team will be greener and won't have the poise it had last year. But remember the great seniors of last season were sophomores on the 1938 team that Major Bob Neyland called the best Tennessee ever had.

"Alabama feels they're better set than last year—when they were mighty good. Georgia had a fine sophomore team that is coming into its own. Mississippi State lost plenty material but will be better than most people think. They should win two of their first three hard games, then will have time to iron out the kinks and will be hard to beat.

"Tulane—if they get by Boston college I think I'd pick them ahead of any others. They were good last season but had bad breaks and injuries. Losing to Boston college in the first game took the pepper out of them. They didn't lose anyone they'll miss. And they'll push us around.

"Us? Oh, we're too little."

DAVE PHILLEY WALKS IN MAJOR LOOP DEBUT

Outfielder Dave Philley, whose lusty batting and fielding performances helped the Monroe White Sox win their third consecutive Cotton States pennant, made his debut in the major leagues yesterday with the Chicago White Sox.

The Paris, Tex., youngster, who was sent here by Shreveport at the beginning of the season and stayed with the locals until three weeks ago, appeared in the Chicago lineup as a pinch-hitter for Third Baseman Lodigiani in the ninth inning of the game with the St. Louis Browns. Philley worked Pitcher Muncrief for a base on balls.

Philley, sold by Shreveport to Chicago, went to Shreveport from the local club and appeared in the Shreveport lineup a few times before moving on up to the Chisox.

TIGERS PREPARE FOR FIRST GAME

Green Neville Squad Showing Up Well In Pre-Season Workouts

The Neville High school Tigers, after four weeks training, begin polishing up on their offensive and defensive formations this week for their opening gridiron battle of the season next Saturday night when they meet the Louisiana Tech Frosh at Ruston at 8 o'clock.

The Neville team this year will be the "greenest" in the past two or three years, but the prospects are working hard and the morale is good, according to Coach Percy Brown.

The Dyer brothers, Jack and Bill, practically have the terminal positions sewed up, but they are getting good competition from Bobby Hayes, Bayne Khineman, "Pig" Newcomer, Bill Hardin and Elmer Richards.

Bud Slaughter and J. B. Simmons are slated for the tackle berths. Outstanding reserve tackles are Ben Marshall, Herbert Breard and Thomas Rhodes.

Hugo Moss and Franklin Rivers, the latter a back transferred to the line, are holding the lead in the battle for guard positions. Other prospective guards expected to see plenty of service are Charles Bee, C. F. Horton, Morris Phillips and James Jones.

Only Harold Williamson and Ray Ellerbe are after the pivot job, but Williamson is expected to get the starting call.

The starting backfield will probably find J. M. Head at quarterback, Sam Ladart and John Luffey at the halfback spots, and Billy Porter, former Minden gridder, at fullback.

Other backs being counted on as reserves for the season are J. L. Newcomer, J. Smith, Harry Frazer, Billy Whitfield and Manny Fulton. Frazer has been making a strong bid for a first team berth, and, even if he fails to oust the present favorites, he will no doubt be the Bengals' No. 1 reserve back.

The two-a-day workouts ceased with the completion of the past week's work, and beginning tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock Coach Brown will put his charges through only one workout daily.

The fourth United States census in 1820 showed the nation with a population of 9,638,453, compared to 7,239,881 in 1810.

KOVACS REACHES NATIONAL FINALS

California Net Star Beats McNeill And Will Meet Riggs Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Frank Kovacs, the tall young man from Oakland, Calif., who has been called the country's next super-tennis star, looked like that might be more than a rumor today as he crushed Don McNeill, the defending champion, 6-4, 6-2, 10-8, in the semi-finals of the National Tennis championships at Forest Hills.

The 21-year-old Kovacs impressed a near-capacity crowd of 12,000 with his brilliant performance, and established himself a solid favorite to defeat Bobby Riggs, of Clinton, S. C., in their final duel tomorrow.

Riggs, the steady, brainy little competitor who was champion in 1939, was forced to the absolute limit in turning back Ted Schroeder, 20-year-old Stanford university undergraduate, in their semi-final. The marathon scores were 6-4, 6-4, 1-6, 9-11, 7-5.

Helen Jacobs, grandest veteran of the women's brigade, went down fighting before Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke of New York, 6-3, 2-6, 6-1. Helen, 33, a four-time former champion and four-time runner-up, will be on the sidelines tomorrow when Mrs. Cooke tackles blonde Pauline Betz of Los Angeles for the title abandoned by Alice Marble.

Miss Betz had little difficulty defeating Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, 6-4, 6-3.

MISS JAMESON FAVORED TO WIN THIRD STRAIGHT

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Betty Jameson is a favorite to win her third straight women's national amateur golf championship, and she thinks that's the way it should be.

The young San Antonio, Tex., star, who has played less tournament golf this season than some of the others, is brimming with confidence in a charming, modest way.

"I'm hitting the ball better than I have all season," she said today after a practice round on the country club course, "and there's no reason why I haven't as much chance to win as I had the last two years, when I had less experience."

Miss JaJmeson faces plenty of competition, however, as nearly all of the nation's top-flight women swingers are in the 45th title tournament opening here on Monday.

Just about half the roster of 128 players are champions of something or other.

MONROE SCORES RUN IN 10TH TO NOSE OUT BILLS

Locals Rally After Mississippians Tie Score In Ninth Inning

After battling ten innings in one of the hardest fought games of the Cotton States season here, the Monroe White Sox nosed out the Vicksburg Hill Billies, 5 to 4, to cop the opening battle of the league's championship series at Casino park last night.

SECOND GAME TODAY

The Vicksburg Bills and the Monroe White Sox clash in the second game of their preliminary playoff series for the Cotton States title here this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Casino park.

Manager Doug Taitt last night announced he would send Theo Hoemann, big righthander, to the mound against the Bills, and Skipper Al Baker said he planned to use either Al Kelley, ace righthander, or Steve Fallon, a portsider.

After today's game the Sox and Bills will move over to Vicksburg tomorrow and will remain there until the series is completed. The first team winning three games will face the victor of the Greenville-Hot Springs playoff for the league crown.

The rousing battle saw the Sox overcome a two run Vicksburg lead in the seventh inning when they scored for the first time, and then the locals went ahead with two more tallies in the eighth.

Verne Williamson, Monroe's starting pitcher, held the invaders to seven hits but he weakened in the ninth when the Hill City aggregation rallied to score twice and knot the count at 4-and-4.

Then the tailend of the White Sox batting order came through in the tenth to clinch the victory. Ernie Potocar led off in the tenth with a single into left field. Jimmy Keith walked, and Reeder bunted safely to load the bases. Joe Eagar, who distinguished himself with four hits, including a double, in six times at bat, then lifted a high fly into center field and Potocar came home with the winning run after the catch.

The game was filled with many tense moments, and the large crowd was kept in an uproar during the closing stages of the battle.

Quite opposite from the nip-and-tuck tilt here was the Greenville-Hot Springs opener at the Spa where the Bathers romped to an easy 19-to-4 triumph over the Buckshots.

Monroe missed a wonderful chance to score in the first inning after a single by Bob Hill and bases on balls to Dale Englehorn and Pete Medak

EARLY SCRIMMAGE STAGED BY TECH VARSITY GRIDDERS

Coach Aillet Promises Lighter Work After Brisk Workout Saturday

RUSTON, Sept. 6.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech's varsity football players staged a scrimmage Saturday afternoon to end a fast first week of drills and learned from Head Coach Joe Aillet that the strenuous practice business would be lighter the coming week.

"The boys have come a long way in a short time," Coach Aillet said, "and their spirit is high."

The first general scrimmage of the season found the Bulldogs handicapped in team work because of a shortage of left halfbacks, the only man in that post being James Tinsley, senior of Haynesville. That situation developed after Johnny Perritt of Tyler, Tex., sustained a slight recurrence of a back injury, and because the army got the other two left halfback candidates, Milton (Monk) Clavier of New Orleans and Armour Ballance of Arcadia, both sophomores.

In fact, the army service has exacted an even dozen of the Tech varsity aspirants, as of Saturday, September 6. Besides Ballance and Clavier, the "in memoriam" list includes Delmar (Dude) Pierce, junior tackle, Newellton; Lloyd Scott, junior guard, Monroe; Harold Dickens, senior guard, Delhi; Travis Hammons, senior center, Choudrant; James Garner, junior end, Mansfield; Albert Parkes, junior end, Decatur, Miss.; Harry Widener, junior tackle, Panama City, Fla.; Witt Vascocu, senior tackle and alternate captain, Minden; Harmon Burgess, senior center, Mansfield; and Pat Riser, sophomore guard, Ruston.

The bugaboo of a lack of varsity-experienced men in the line continues to trouble Line Coach Cecil Crowley, although the sophomore material at hand offers some encouragement.

One matter that is not bothering the coaches, however, is that of a probable starting lineup. Coach Aillet said it is pretty definite that the starters will be as follows:

HOGAN, NELSON, SNEAD ON HEELS OF GOLF LEADER

Wide Open Final Round Seen In $11,000 Tam O'Shanter Meet

By Earl Hilligan

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Three sharpshooters of big-money golf—Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson and Sam Snead—closed in today on that surprising fairways sniper from the Ozarks, Leonard Dodson, laying the groundwork for a wide open final round engagement tomorrow in the $11,000 Tam O'Shanter championship.

Sam Snead

Dodson, whose marksmanship picked off scoring honors for the first two days, still was out in front with a 54-hole total of 206 strokes. But his one over par 73 today was just enough off his furious 36-hole pace of 133 to enable a number of pursuers to pull into position for what loomed as a rousing finish to the season's biggest golf money skirmish.

For right behind the 29-year-old leader from Kansas City were Nelson, at 208, Hogan at 209 and Snead at 210, three great money players who's demonstrated their ability to drive from behind when hundreds of dollars ride on every final round shot.

A great gallery of 12,000 fans had plenty of action in today's program, which ended with Nelson's bid for a third round tie with Dodson crumbling before three straight home nine bogies as his usually fine iron game let him down. His card was 36-36—72.

Hogan, one shot back, had a third round 70, clipping par two strokes going out and equalling regulation 36 on the home trip.

It was Snead, holder of the all-time season's money winning record of $19,534, who contributed the day's best bid. Ten shots back of Dodson after 36 holes, Slamming Sam smacked out a five under par 67, going out in 33 and coming home in 34, to pull into a spot from which he often has leaped to the first money award—which in this rich event is $2,000.

Four shots back of Snead, at 214, were Ralph Guldahl, twice former National Open champion, and Jimmy Hines of Great Neck, N. Y., Guldahl having a third round 71 and Hines a 70. That it will be a hot fight for the lucrative secondary awards tomorrow is seen from the number of players in the 215 slot, four, while there were no fewer than six who were at par 216, among them Lawson Little, 1940 National Open king.

Craig Wood, National Open champion, and Vic Ghezzi, the P. G. A. title-holder, were among those who held 217 aggregates.

FRESHMEN TO PLAY ON S. I. A. A. TEAMS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Because of widespread losses of athletics to the nation's armed forces, the 36 members of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletics association, are going to allow freshmen to play varsity football this fall.

The six-man executive committee of the association adopted a resolution yesterday allowing all schools to use at least four freshmen in varsity play. In addition, schools without 25 upperclassmen on varsity squads, can obtain this number through use of freshmen.

The committee at the association's annual meeting here last winter was empowered to take final action on any emergency arising from the defense program. The one-day session of the committee originally was scheduled for today.

Executive committee members are J. W. Provine of Mississippi college, H. E. Sturgeon of Presbyterian college, R. W. Johnson of West Tennessee Teachers college, G. G. Hughes of Southwestern Louisiana institute and R. T. Hinton of Georgetown.

Association schools are located in Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Tennessee, Kentucky, South Carolina, Virginia and Mississippi.

During 1940, the passenger cars of the United States traveled 498 billion passenger miles. Of this figure, more than half of the miles traveled were for business purposes.

Junior College Announces Revised Football Schedule

Ouachita And Arkansas Tech Cancel Games; Indians Hold Scrimmage

After sending the Northeast Junior college football squad through its first lengthy scrimmage session of the training period yesterday, Coach James L. Malone last night reported several changes in the 1941 schedule.

The schedule problem developed when Arkansas schools were unable to fill their dates with the locals because of rearrangements of their own schedules. The result is that Ouachita college of Arkadelphia, Ark., and Arkansas Tech have been scratched from the list.

In an effort to fill out the schedule, Coach Malone secured the strong Hinds Mississippi Junior college eleven and the Centenary Junior Gents but had to do a little shifting of dates with other opponents in order to get the new teams in.

The cancelling of the Ouachita college game left the October 10 date vacant.

The United States Air Corps of Pensacola, previously scheduled for November 7, will be here on October 24 instead, and the Centenary Frosh have moved into the October 30 date for a game here.

The moving up of the date with the Air Corps enabled the Tribe to schedule the Hinds Mississippi Junior college for a November 7 game here.

Southeastern Louisiana, previously scheduled for November 21, was moved up to November 14, filling the date vacated by Arkansas Tech.

The remainder of the schedule stands as originally announced, with Copiah-Lincoln, September 18; Kilgore Junior college, September 26; Northwest Mississippi Junior college, October 3; Henderson State Teachers, October 17; and East Central Mississipi Junior college, November 27.

Seven of the nine games scheduled will be played in Monroe. Southeastern will be played at Hammond and Kilgore at Kilgore, Tex.

With only seven lettermen and two squadmen back from the 1940 squad, Coach Malone will be depending heavily on freshmen to produce for the Tribe this season. The squad of 33 players to be carried will thus include not less than 24 freshmen. The new talent is lighter than in recent years and all prospects average around 18 years of age.

The tough scrimmage session yesterday ended two weeks of hard training work, and the squad of 40 candidates working for places on the team was cut to the 33-player limit at the close of the workout.

The squad listed to carry the Northeast Junior college colors through the season was announced by Coach Malone as follows:

Squadmen from last year—Leo Lively, Lake Providence, end; and Basil Fain, Tupelo, Miss., back.

Freshmen—Afton Cox, Weatherford, Tex., and "Shock" Shackleford, Monroe, centers; Cecil Sinclair, Sterlington, John Cox, Memphis, Bill Edgar, Sterlington, Buster Simmons, Monroe, and James Burgess, Monroe, guards; Billy Newton, Alice, Tex., William Short, Monroe, Charles Smith, Stuttgart, Ark., and Ben Kerr, Gary, Ind., tackles; Willard Smith, Houston, Tex., Lemar Bukenbus, DeQueen, Ark., "Bab" Guy, Memphis, and Dick Bell, Siloam Springs, Ark., ends; "Chink" Andria, Uniontown, Pa., and Tommy Sands, Wynne, Ark., quarterbacks; Clayton Brown, Monroe, and Clem Welsh, Monroe, fullbacks; and Bedford Smith, Little Rock, Ark., Bob Zenndel, Memphis, Lloyd Barrow, Wynne, Ark., Jack Bishop, Memphis, and Howard Williams, Uniontown, Pa., halfbacks.

Walter Zamji of Penn, Pa., is team manager, and Sam Ballard of Ida, La., is stock room manager.

'REGULAR' WILL WIN SAYS MEHRE

Ole Miss Coach Sees Tennessee, Alabama Or Tulane On Top

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Affable Harry Mehre, whose Mississippi Rebels have been picked by "experts" and rival coaches as a top contender for the Southeastern conference title, declined the nomination with thanks today and passed it to Tennessee, Alabama and Tulane.

"They're very kind to think so much of us," he said. "And we'll play good football. But Saturday in and Saturday out, we can't take that kind of punishment.

"I don't see why it shouldn't be settled among the 'regulars'—Tennessee, Alabama and Tulane—with Georgia added."

Mehre admitted Tennessee had "lost lots, which would hurt anyone." But, he added, "They haven't slackened up on their recruiting."

"The team will be greener and won't have the poise it had last year. But remember the great seniors of last season were sophomores on the 1938 team that Major Bob Neyland called the best Tennessee ever had.

"Alabama feels they're better set than last year—when they were mighty good. Georgia had a fine sophomore team that is coming into its own. Mississippi State lost plenty material but will be better than most people think. They should win two of their first three hard games, then will have time to iron out the kinks and will be hard to beat.

"Tulane—if they get by Boston college I think I'd pick them ahead of any others. They were good last season but had bad breaks and injuries. Losing to Boston college in the first game took the pepper out of them. They didn't lose anyone they'll miss. And they'll push us around.

"Us? Oh, we're too little."

DAVE PHILLEY WALKS IN MAJOR LOOP DEBUT

Outfielder Dave Philley, whose lusty batting and fielding performances helped the Monroe White Sox win their third consecutive Cotton States pennant, made his debut in the major leagues yesterday with the Chicago White Sox.

The Paris, Tex., youngster, who was sent here by Shreveport at the beginning of the season and stayed with the locals until three weeks ago, appeared in the Chicago lineup as a pinch-hitter for Third Baseman Lodigiani in the ninth inning of the game with the St. Louis Browns. Philley worked Pitcher Muncrief for a base on balls.

Philley, sold by Shreveport to Chicago, went to Shreveport from the local club and appeared in the Shreveport lineup a few times before moving on up to the Chisox.

Mrs. Lizzie Wyatt, Davidson county, N. C., was a granddaughter at 29.

TIGERS PREPARE FOR FIRST GAME

Green Neville Squad Showing Up Well In Pre-Season Workouts

The Neville High school Tigers, after four weeks training, begin polishing up on their offensive and defensive formations this week for their opening gridiron battle of the season next Saturday night when they meet the Louisiana Tech Frosh at Ruston at 8 o'clock.

The Neville team this year will be the "greenest" in the past two or three years, but the prospects are working hard and the morale is good, according to Coach Percy Brown.

The Dyer brothers, Jack and Bill, practically have the terminal positions sewed up, but they are getting good competition from Bobby Hayes, Bayne Khineman, "Pig" Newcomer, Bill Hardin and Elmer Richards.

Bud Slaughter and J. B. Simmons are slated for the tackle berths. Outstanding reserve tackles are Ben Marshall, Herbert Breard and Thomas Rhodes.

Hugo Moss and Franklin Rivers, the latter a back transferred to the line, are holding the lead in the battle for guard positions. Other prospective guards expected to see plenty of service are Charles Bee, C. F. Horton, Morris Phillips and James Jones.

Only Harold Williamson and Ray Ellerbe are after the pivot job, but Williamson is expected to get the starting call.

The starting backfield will probably find J. M. Head at quarterback, Sam Ladart and John Luffey at the halfback spots, and Billy Porter, former Minden gridder, at fullback.

Other backs being counted on as reserves for the season are J. L. Newcomer, J. Smith, Harry Frazer, Billy Whitfield and Manny Fulton. Frazer has been making a strong bid for a first team berth, and, even if he fails to oust the present favorites, he will no doubt be the Bengals' No. 1 reserve back.

The two-a-day workouts ceased with the completion of the past week's work, and beginning tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock Coach Brown will put his charges through only one workout daily.

The fourth United States census in 1820 showed the nation with a population of 9,638,453, compared to 7,239,881 in 1810.

KOVACS REACHES NATIONAL FINALS

California Net Star Beats McNeill And Will Meet Riggs Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Frank Kovacs, the tall young man from Oakland, Calif., who has been called the country's next super-tennis star, looked like that might be more than a rumor today as he crushed Don McNeill, the defending champion, 6-4, 6-2, 10-8, in the semi-finals of the National Tennis championships at Forest Hills.

The 21-year-old Kovacs impressed a near-capacity crowd of 12,000 with his brilliant performance, and established himself a solid favorite to defeat Bobby Riggs, of Clinton, S. C., in their final duel tomorrow.

Riggs, the steady, brainy little competitor who was champion in 1939, was forced to the absolute limit in turning back Ted Schroeder, 20-year-old Stanford university undergraduate, in their semi-final. The marathon scores were 6-4, 6-4, 1-6, 9-11, 7-5.

Helen Jacobs, grandest veteran of the women's brigade, went down fighting before Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke of New York, 6-3, 2-6, 6-1. Helen, 33, a four-time former champion and four-time runner-up, will be on the sidelines tomorrow when Mrs. Cooke tackles blonde Pauline Betz of Los Angeles for the title abandoned by Alice Marble.

Miss Betz had little difficulty defeating Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, 6-4, 6-3.

MISS JAMESON FAVORED TO WIN THIRD STRAIGHT

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Betty Jameson is a favorite to win her third straight women's national amateur golf championship, and she thinks that's the way it should be.

The young San Antonio, Tex., star, who has played less tournament golf this season than some of the others, is brimming with confidence in a charming, modest way.

"I'm hitting the ball better than I have all season," she said today after a practice round on the country club course, "and there's no reason why I haven't as much chance to win as I had the last two years, when I had less experience."

Miss JaJmeson faces plenty of competition, however, as nearly all of the nation's top-flight women swingers are in the 45th title tournament opening here on Monday.

Just about half the roster of 126 players are champions of something or other.

DAVIS SCATTERS NINE GIANT HITS FOR 4-1 VICTORY

Vander Meer Holds Cards To Two Blows And Reds Win, 2 To 0

BROOKLYN, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, who underrated the New York Giants last Saturday and dropped a double-header to their cross-town rivals, made no mistake today—blasting out a 4-to-1 victory that kept them on top the National league.

Curt Davis produced another fine pitching performance to add to his recent string, holding the Giants to nine scattered hits, and received potent support from Dolph Camilli and Pete Reiser.

Brooklyn made only seven safeties off three New York pitchers, but Camilli collected his 30th home run of the season to start the Dodgers in the right direction and Reiser supplied a double and a triple.

Manager Leo Durocher installed himself at shortstop for the game, to rest the light-hitting Peewee Reese, and used Lew Riggs and Jim Wasdell in place of Cookie Lavagetto and Joe Medwick to obtain additional left-handed hitting strength to oppose the Giants' starting hurler, Bill McGee.

The strategy proved effective to the delight of the 17,000 Flatbush fans.

Davis gave no walks and never lost control of the game. The Giants' only run came in the seventh when Young was safe on a fumble by Herman, moved to second on a scratch single by Joe Moore, to third on a wild pitch, and came home on Gabby Hartnett's infield out.

REDS BLANK CARDS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Cardinals didn't have a chance against Johnny Vander Meer's two-hit pitching today as they dropped a 2-to-1 decision to Cincinnati and fell two full games behind "dem bums" from Brooklyn.

The shut out burned a big hole in the Cardinal pennant hopes as the Dodgers sailed further into the lead with a 4-1 victory over the Giants.

Only a single by Johnny Hopp in the first inning and a double by Martin Marion in the fifth robbed Vander Meer, the only major league pitcher ever to hurl two successive hitless games, of his third no-hit performance.

He struck out 14 Cardinal batters with his blazing fast ball and crackling curves, only three short of the National league record set by Dizzy Dean against the Chicago Cubs in 1933. The major league strikeout record is 18 by Bobby Feller.

An error by Walker Cooper, the Cards' rookie catcher, set up the first Cincinnati score in the fourth inning and Harry Craft broke up the southpaw pitchers' duel between Vandy and Ernie White with his 10th home run of the season in the ninth.

In hanging up his 14th victory of the year, Vander Meer pitched to only 32 men and retired the Cards in order in the fourth, sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth innings.

Each man in the Cardinal lineup struck out at least once.

The two teams play a double header tomorrow.

PHILS SHADE BRAVES

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Tommy Livingston's pinch-hit single in the ninth inning gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 4-3 victory over the Boston Braves today.

Livingston's clean hit to center field, bringing home Bob Bragan who had singled and stolen second, came after Boston rallied to tie the count in the eighth on Max West's 11th home run.

Jim Tobin, seeking his 13th victory, went the route for the Braves. The Phils used three pitchers—Si Johnson Frank Melton and Ike Pearson, with Melton getting credit for the triumph.

PIRATES DOWN CUBS

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Vince DiMaggio's nineteenth homer of the season with two out and Elbie Fletcher on second base in the second inning gave the Pittsburgh Pirates an early lead today as they defeated the Cubs, 6 to 4.

Ken Heintzelman, who gave up only eight hits, landed on base twice himself and drove in three runs.

Babe Dahlgren threw a scare into the Pirate ranks when he banged out a two-run circuit clout in the eighth, with the score at 6 to 2, but Heintzelman tightened and finished strong. The homer was Dahlgren's 21st of the year.

Sulcer Harris of Baton Rouge and Joe Giacone of Bogalusa ripped off several long scoring runs and each made good touchdown passes while the third soph, Fullback Jeff Burkett of Laurel, Miss., put in a polished performance.

The workout climaxed the Bengals' first week of practice and even Coach Bernie Moore admitted the squad was well advanced in preparations for the opening game two weeks hence against Louisiana Tech.

Dampening the enthusiasm was news that three squadsmen had been declared ineligible due to scholastic difficulties. These are Blocking Backs Johnny Michael and Vincent Madonna, both of New Orleans, and Tackle Livy Eiland of Hodge, La.

Another lost prospect is Julius Michelson, 190-pound guard from Baton Rouge, whose time will be fully taken up studying medicine.

NEWSOM, BENTON HURL DETROIT TO DOUBLE TRIUMPH

Tigers Advance To Within Game And Half Of Faltering Cleveland

DETROIT, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Buck Newsom and Al Benton together gave up only 11 hits in pitching the Detroit Tigers to a double victory over Cleveland today, 7 to 2 and 6 to 2, and as a result the Tigers climbed to a game and a half behind the fourth-place Indians.

Newsom registered his twelfth win in the opener, holding the Indians in check until Detroit had built up a comfortable lead. He gave five hits, struck out 11 and permitted only two balls to be hit outside the infield in the first five innings.

Benton did almost as well in the nightcap and in addition his teammates capitalized on six Cleveland errors.

A'S, SENATORS SPLIT

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Athletics maintained their two and a half game hold on seventh place in the American league by dividing a double bill with Washington today, winning the opener 8 to 3 but going down before Emil Leonard in the nightcap, 8 to 4.

In notching his 16th victory of the season, Leonard, the Senators' knuckle-ball star, was batted freely by the Mackmen but his mates pounded Bill Beckman and Tom Ferrick for 14 blows, including Bob Oritz' first home run of the year with Travis aboard in the second inning.

BROWNS, CHISOX SPLIT

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox came back to capture the second game of a double header today, 7 to 1, after dropping the decision to the St. Louis Browns in the opener, 3 to 0.

The Browns' victory in the first game was their seventh straight over the White Sox. The split dropped the Sox into third place, a half game back of Boston.

RED SOX WHIP CHAMPS

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The New York Yankees made their first appearance as the new champions of the American league today and were defeated without much effort by the Boston Red Sox, 8 to 1.

The Red Sockers waded into the offerings of Marvin Breuer for three runs in the first inning and finished with four runs off Steve Peek in the ninth. In between, Jim Tabor pounded a home run in the sixth inning.

With this kind of an offensive Joe Dobson could have won about as he pleased—but it pleased him to pitch a strong, seven-hit game which kept the Yankees scoreless after the first inning.

A double by Phil Rizzuto and a single by Tom Henrich in the opening stanza was the total damage done by the Bombers.

Lamar Newsome opened the game with a homer into the left field stands. Lou Finney was safe on a fumble by Johnny Sturm and went all the way to third on a wild pitch. Ted Williams walked and Tabor singled to score Finney. Al Flair, rookie first baseman just up from Baltimore, beat out a hit to load the bases, and Williams scored on a forceout.

Breuer pitched good ball until removed for a pinch hitter in the seventh, but Boston broke loose against Peek in the ninth. Dom DiMaggio walked and Frank Pytlak singled him to third, then stole second himself. A fly by Dobson scored DiMaggio and advanced Pytlak to third. Newsome bunted, scoring Pytlak. Then Finney tripled and Williams singled for two final runs.

The victory gave the Red Sox undisputed possession of second place again.

TECH FROSH MEET NEVILLE SEPT. 13

RUSTON, Ya., Sept. 6.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech's freshman football players and the Neville High school gridders are scheduled to meet on the Ruston High school field Saturday night, September 13, in a game to be staged for the benefit of the local United Service Organizations.

Athletic Director Joe Aillet of Louisiana Tech said that army service men stationed in this vicinity would be admitted to the game without charge. A small admission price will be charged others, with proceeds to be given to the U. S. O. Tech season tickets will be accepted for admission, Coach Aillet said.

Although the fall semester at Tech will not open until October 2, candidates for the freshman football team will be registered at the college during the coming week, it was announced.

Coach Mike Wells and Assistant Coach Paul Bonin will have at their disposal about 15 yearling gridders for the game next week-end, it is said.

TICKET SALE DATES FOR SUGAR BOWL ANNOUNCED

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Sale of tickets to guarantors and bondholders for the 1942 Sugar Bowl football classic will be opened here Monday, October 20 and continue through Saturday, October 25, A. N. Goldberg, president of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports association, sponsor of Sugar Bowl week, announced today.

Sales to the general public will start November 1 while ticket sales to negro patrons will be held only on the day of the game, January 1, 1942, Goldberg said.

Tickets for out-of-town purchasers will be handled by mail as formerly, Goldberg said, with a suggestion that out-of-town orders not be sent in until about October 15.

Bondholders and guarantors given preference on seats are those who subscribed to the $550,000 debenture issue whose proceeds were used to enlarge Tulane stadium to 70,000 seating capacity for the Sugar Bowl football game.

DODGERS WIN, INCREASE LEAD AS CARDS LOSE

Indians Drop Pair In Plunge Toward Second Division

Vander Meer Holds Cards To Two Blows And Reds Win, 2 To 0

BROOKLYN, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, who underrated the New York Giants last Saturday and dropped a double-header to their cross-town rivals, made no mistake today—blasting out a 4-to-1 victory that kept them on top the National league.

Curt Davis produced another fine pitching performance to add to his recent string, holding the Giants to nine scattered hits, and received potent support from Dolph Camilli and Pete Reiser.

Brooklyn made only seven safeties off three New York pitchers, but Camilli collected his 30th home run of the season to start the Dodgers in the right direction and Reiser supplied a double and a triple.

Manager Leo Durocher installed himself at shortstop for the game, to rest the light-hitting Peewee Reese, and used Lew Riggs and Jim Wasdell in place of Cookie Lavagetto and Joe Medwick to obtain additional left-handed hitting strength to oppose the Giants' starting hurler, Bill McGee.

The strategy proved effective to the delight of the 17,000 Flatbush fans.

Davis gave no walks and never lost control of the game. The Giants' only run came in the seventh when Young was safe on a fumble by Herman, moved to second on a scratch single by Joe Moore, to third on a wild pitch, and came home on Gabby Hartnett's infield out.

REDS BLANK CARDS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Cardinals didn't have a chance against Johnny Vander Meer's two-hit pitching today as they dropped a 2-to-1 decision to Cincinnati and fell two full games behind "dem bums" from Brooklyn.

The shut out burned a big hole in the Cardinal pennant hopes as the Dodgers sailed further into the lead with a 4-1 victory over the Giants.

Only a single by Johnny Hopp in the first inning and a double by Martin Marion in the fifth robbed Vander Meer, the only major league pitcher ever to hurl two successive hitless games, of his third no-hit performance.

He struck out 14 Cardinal batters with his blazing fast ball and crackling curves, only three short of the National league record set by Dizzy Dean against the Chicago Cubs in 1933. The major league strikeout record is 18 by Bobby Feller.

An error by Walker Cooper, the Cards' rookie catcher, set up the first Cincinnati score in the fourth inning and Harry Craft broke up the southpaw pitchers' duel between Vandy and Ernie White with his 10th home run of the season in the ninth.

In hanging up his 14th victory of the year, Vander Meer pitched to only 32 men and retired the Cards in order in the fourth, sixth, seventh, eighth and ...th innings.

Each man in the Cardinal lineup t...ck out at least once.

The two teams play a double header tomorrow.

PHILS SHADE BRAVES

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Tommy Livingston's pinch-hit single in the ninth inning gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 4-3 victory over the Boston Braves today.

Livingston's clean hit to center field, bringing home Bob Bragan who had singled and stolen second, came after Boston rallied to tie the count in the eighth on Max West's 11th home run.

Jim Tobin, seeking his 13th victory, went the route for the Braves. The Phils used three pitchers—Si Johnson Frank Melton and Ike Pearson, with Melton getting credit for the triumph.

PIRATES DOWN CUBS

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Vince DiMaggio's nineteenth homer of the season with two out and Elbie Fletcher on second base in the second inning gave the Pittsburgh Pirates an early lead today as they defeated the Cubs, 6 to 4.

Ken Heintzelman, who gave up only eight hits, landed on base twice himself and drove in three runs.

Babe Dahlgren threw a scare into the Pirate ranks when he banged out a two-run circuit clout in the eighth, with the score at 6 to 2, but Heintzelman tightened and finished strong. The homer was Dahlgren's 21st of the year.

Sulcer Harris of Baton Rouge and Joe Giacone of Bogalusa ripped off several long scoring runs and each made good touchdown passes while the third soph, Fullback Jeff Burkett of Laurel, Miss., put in a polished performance.

The workout climaxed the Bengals' first week of practice and even Coach Bernie Moore admitted the squad was well advanced in preparations for the opening game two weeks hence against Louisiana Tech.

Dampening the enthusiasm was news that three squadsmen had been declared ineligible due to scholastic difficulties. These are Blocking Backs Johnny Michael and Vincent Madonna, both of New Orleans, and Tackle Livy Eiland of Hodge, La.

Another lost prospect is Julius Michaelson, 190-pound guard from Baton Rouge, whose time will be fully taken up studying medicine.

Tigers Advance To Within Game And Half Of Faltering Cleveland

DETROIT, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Buck Newsom and Al Benton together gave up only 11 hits in pitching the Detroit Tigers to a double victory over Cleveland today, 7 to 2 and 6 to 2, and as a result the Tigers climbed to a game and a half behind the fourth-place Indians.

Newsom registered his twelfth win in the opener, holding the Indians in check until Detroit had built up a comfortable lead. He gave five hits, struck out 11 a d permitted only two balls to be hit outside the infield in the first five innings.

Benton did almost as well in the nightcap and in addition his teammates capitalized on six Cleveland errors.

A'S, SENATORS SPLIT

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Athletics maintained their two and a half game hold on seventh place in the American league by dividing a double bill with Washington today, winning the opener 8 to 3 but going down before Emil Leonard in the nightcap, 8 to 4.

In notching his 16th victory of the season, Leonard, the Senators' knuckle-ball star, was batted freely by the Mackmen but his mates pounded Bill Beckman and Tom Ferrick for 14 blows, including Bob Oritz' first home run of the year with Travis aboard in the second inning.

RED SOX WHIP CHAMPS

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The New York Yankees made their first appearance as the new champions of the American league today and were defeated without much effort by the Boston Red Sox, 8 to 1.

The Red Sockers waded into the offerings of Marvin Breuer for three runs in the first inning and finished with four runs off Steve Peek in the ninth. In between, Jim Tabor pounded a home run in the sixth inning.

With this kind of an offensive Joe Dobson could have won about as he pleased—but it pleased him to pitch a strong, seven-hit game which kept the Yankees scoreless after the first inning.

A double by Phil Rizzuto and a single by Tom Henrich in the opening stanza was the total damage done by the Bombers.

Lamar Newsome opened the game with a homer into the left field stands. Lou Finney was safe on a fumble by Johnny Sturm and went all the way to third on a wild pitch. Ted Williams walked and Tabor singled to score Finney. Al Flair, rookie first baseman just up from Baltimore, beat out a hit to load the bases, and Williams scored on a forceout.

Breuer pitched good ball until removed for a pinch hitter in the seventh, but Boston broke loose against Peek in the ninth. Dom DiMaggio walked and Frank Pytlak singled him to third, then stole second himself. A fly by Dobson scored DiMaggio and advanced Pytlak to third. Newsome bunted, scoring Pytlak. Then Finney tripled and Williams singled for two final runs.

The victory gave the Red Sox undisputed possession of second place again.

TECH FROSH MEET NEVILLE SEPT. 13

RUSTON, Ya., Sept. 6.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech's freshman football players and the Neville High school gridders are scheduled to meet on the Ruston High school field Saturday night, September 13, in a game to be staged for the benefit of the local United Service Organizations.

Athletic Director Joe Aillet of Louisiana Tech said that army service men stationed in this vicinity would be admitted to the game without charge. A small admission price will be charged others, with proceeds to be given to the U. S. O. Tech season tickets will be accepted for admission, Coach Aillet said.

Although the fall semester at Tech will not open until October 2, candidates for the freshman football team will be registered at the college during the coming week, it was announced.

Coach Mike Wells and Assistant Coach Paul Bonin will have at their disposal about 15 yearling gridders for the game next week-end, it is said.

TICKET SALE DATES FOR SUGAR BOWL ANNOUNCED

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Sale of tickets to guarantors and bondholders for the 1942 Sugar Bowl football classic will be opened here Monday, October 20 and continue through Saturday, October 25, A. N. Goldberg, president of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports association, sponsor of Sugar Bowl week, announced today.

Sales to the general public will start November 1 while ticket sales to negro patrons will be held only on the day of the game, January 1, 1942, Goldberg said.

Tickets for out-of-town purchasers will be handled by mail as formerly, Goldberg said, with a suggestion that out-of-town orders not be sent in until about October 15.

Bondholders and guarantors given preference on seats are those who subscribed to the $550,000 debenture issue whose proceeds were used to enlarge Tulane stadium to 70,000 seating capacity for the Sugar Bowl football game.

REISER REGAINS LEAD IN BATTING

Dodger Star Passes Johnny Hopp In Battle For Hitting Title

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—A couple of the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals keep passing the National league's batting leadership back and forth just like their teams are doing in the pennant competition.

Now it is Pete Reiser of the Dodgers who is back on top of the circuit's hitters and Johnny Hopp of the Cardinals, who was leading last week, has sunk to second.

Maybe the two rookies are dizzy from the ups and downs of their teams—a lot of other people are—but at any rate this pair just keeps going around in circles.

Reiser spurted nine points during the week to reach .333 before today's games. He was in fourth place a week ago, but this sudden zoom lifted him into the lead, which he has held off and on all season.

Hopp had a .333 average last week, but slipped to .326 in recent days and landed in second place, which Nick Etten of the Phillies vacated by dropping seven points to .322. This was just a notch above Johnny Mize, the veteran slugger of the St. Louis Cardinals who has managed to keep close enough to the top to be dangerous.

Behind Mize was a gap until the other batting hopefuls came along closely grouped. Dixie Walker of Brooklyn had .316; Stan Hack of Chicago .315; Arky Vaughan, Pittsburgh .315; Ducky Medwick, Brooklyn .312; Jim Brown, St. Louis .312; and Enos Slaughter, St. Louis .312.

Along with regaining the percentage batting lead, Reiser took practically a monopoly on other honors. He has scored the most runs, 100, hit the most triples, 12, and tied with Mize for the most doubles, 36.

However, his teammate, Dolph Camilli, held onto two of the most coveted batting titles—the home run and the runs batted in leadership. He has smacked 29 round trippers and knocked in 97 runs.

Hack has made the most hits, 164, and is second in run scoring with 89. Mize is second in runs batted in with 96.

A new name appeared among the departmental leaders during the week as Danny Murtaugh, fleet second baseman of the Phillies, captured the base-stealing lead with three thefts in a doubleheader against the Dodgers. He now has stolen 17, two more than Lee Handley of Pittsburgh and Lonnie Frey of Cincinnati, rivals for the lead all season.

Ernie White of St. Louis ascended to the pitching throne with 17 victories and four defeats after Elmer Riddle of Cincinnati was defeated. The latter's record now is 15 and 4.

RETURNS

MOBLEY TO MEET DRAGON TUESDAY

Light Heavyweight Champion, 'Mystery Man' Tangle At Arena

Rex Mobley, king of the world's light heavyweight wrestlers, will meet the Black Dragon, unmasked but unidentified mystery man of the ring, in the main event on a "soldiers' night" program at the Monroe arena, Tuesday night.

Promoter Gus Kallio announced that service men in uniform, would be admitted to the arena at a 20-cent rate, less than half the general admission price.

On the same card with Mobley and the Dragon will be Balk Estes, rugged ex-promoter of Baton Rouge, and Billy Venable, the Toledo Bulldog, who are scheduled to get together in the curtain-raiser at 8:30 o'clock.

Mobley, who has successfully defended his light heavy crown against Jack Curtis on two occasions here within the past five weeks, is meeting the Dragon in a non-title scrap, but the only reason the Dragon isn't getting a crack at the championship is because he is a bit too heavy for the light heavyweight class.

The Black Dragon is again scheduled to appear without his mask. He was unmasked here a few weeks ago when he suffered his first defeat in several appearances here, and the following week appeared in a match with Billy Venable minus his headgear. However, the Dragon has not yet revealed his identity and is not expected to do so Tuesday.

The main event promises to be one of the season's roughest battles since both Mobley and the Dragon are capable of standing considerable punishment and neither holds back in displaying his own powers.

Estes last week gave the fans a rousing exhibition in his battle with Les Chapman, and the Toledo Bulldog is expected to furnish Estes the opposition needed to make him extend himself even more than he did against Chapman.

The main event will have a 90-minute time limit, two falls to win, and the semi-final, also two falls to win, will have a 45-minute time limit. Aldin "Butch" Martin will referee both bouts.

BOWLING TILTS

In the hardest fought bowling series of the season here Ladart's Spaghetti Garden aggregation had to battle five and a half hours Friday night before defeating the Eureka Grocers, 4 to 3, in a seven-game series for the championship of the Businessmen's Bowling league.

The series would have taken much longer to play but for the fact that Ladart's with a 3-to-2 edge after the fifth game, forfeited the sixth to the Grocers in order to speed up play and then copped the seventh and the title.

Team captains were the outstanding scorers of the series with Captain Steidel of Ladart's bowling 1,012 for the series, and Captain J. C. Holloway of Eureka posting a score of 1,002. The best single game score was the 256-pin mark chalked up by Bob Cohen, Ladart's, in the fourth game. The summaries (sixth game forfeited to Eureka):

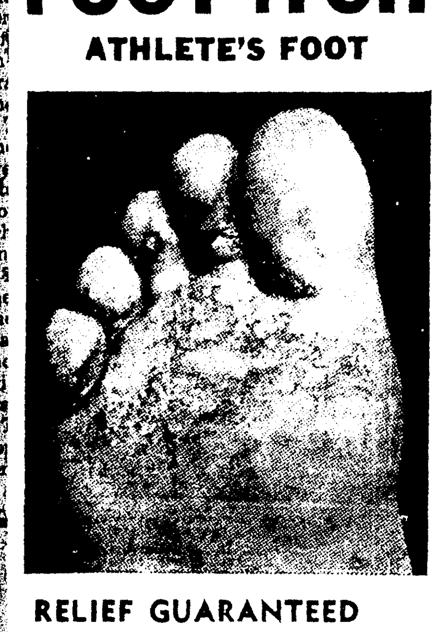
STARTING TIME OF ROSE BOWL GAME IS MOVED UP

PASADENA, Calif., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Tournament of Roses officials have advanced the starting time of the next Rose Bowl game January 1 fifteen minutes because of new football rules allowing free substitution of players.

Officials, estimating that the frequent change of players would lengthen the game a quarter of an hour, set the kickoff for 2 p.m. instead of 2:15.

For clear visibility and a tough life, the noses of bombers are made of a crystal-clear plastic. It is able to withstand the terrific pressure of boring through the sky at 375 miles an hour.

FOOT ITCH
ATHLETE'S FOOT



Beware of It Spreading

Often the disease travels all over the bottom of the feet. The soles of your feet become red and swollen. The skin also cracks and peels, and the itching becomes worse and worse.

Get relief from this disease as quickly as possible because it is both contagious and infectious and it may go to your hands or even to the under arm or crotch of the legs.

Why Take Chances?

The germ that causes the disease is known as Tinea Trichophyton. It buries itself deep in the tissues of the skin and is very hard to kill. A test made shows it takes 15 minutes of boiling to destroy the germ, whereas, upon contact, laboratory tests show that H. F. will kill the germ Tinea Trichophyton within 15 seconds.

H. F. was developed solely for the purpose of relieving Athlete's Foot. It is a liquid that penetrates and dries quickly. You just paint the affected parts. H. F. gently peels the skin, which enables it to get to parasites existing under the outer cuticle.

RELIEF GUARANTEED OR MONEY BACK

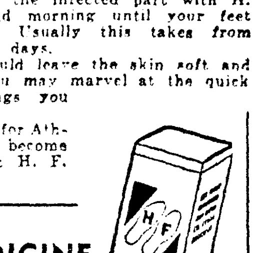
According to the Government Health Bulletin No. E-28, at least 50% of the adult population of the United States are being attacked by the disease known as Athlete's Foot.

Usually the disease starts between the toes. Little watery blisters form, and the skin cracks and peels. After a while, the itching becomes intense, and you feel as though you would like to scratch off all the skin.

Itching Often Relieved Quickly

As soon as you apply H. F. you may find that the itching is relieved. You should paint the infected part with H. F. night and morning until your feet are better. Usually this takes from three to ten days.

H. F. should leave the skin soft and smooth. You may marvel at the quick way it brings you relief.



Don't wait for Athlete's Foot to become serious. Get H. F. today.

JONESBORO-HODGE ELEVEN AT WORK

Tigers Open Season Against Fair Park Indians Next Friday

JONESBORO, La., Sept. 6.—(Special)—Although the delayed school opening will force the Jonesboro-Hodge Tigers to play two home games without benefit of a student body, the 25 candidates for the 1941 Bengal gridiron machine are hard at work in preparation for their season opener with the Fair Park Indians of Shreveport here next Friday.

Without a breathing spell during the entire season, the Jonesboro-Hodge eleven, which has had two weeks training under Coaches C. E. Maroney and Hollis Hearne, meet two Class AA teams, a pair of Class C aggregations and seven Class A elevens.

Nine lettermen are back from the 1940 teams and prospects are good for one of the finest lines ever to represent the school.

Linemen back are Garlan Allison and Othal Hathaway, each with two years experience as running mates at the guard positions; Lescar Harlan and James Fowler, promising tackles and Fred Howell, a rapidly developing end. New material for the line includes A. C. Shackleford and Jimmy Knight, both battling for the pivot job; Ray Anders and Tom Cox, relief guards at the present; and O. B. Lockhart, James Wafer and Ernest Howell, ends.

Three backfield performers who won letters last season are back. They are Theo Shively, Richard Tewell and Max Stewart. Other backs to share the burden this year will be Dalton Abercrombie, Roland Dennis and Hannon Shively.

The Jonesboro-Hodge schedule:

Sept. 12—Fair Park, here.
Sept. 19—Columbia, here.
Sept. 26—At Minden.
Oct. 3—At Mansfield.
Oct. 10—Rayville, here.
Oct. 17—At Haynesville.
Oct. 24—Arcadia, here.
Oct. 31—At Homer.
Nov. 7—Winnfield, here.
Nov. 14—Farmerville, here.
Nov. 21—At Ruston.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(The Special News Service)—Joe McCarthy doesn't intend to bring up any players from the Yankees' farms for fall inspection, even though he could afford to let the kids kick away a few games now. . . . Joe says the Yanks have so many open dates he'll have a hard time giving the regulars enough exercise. . . . And we might ask how long it would take to inspect any replacements that might be needed on a club that won the way the Yanks did. . . . Art Fletcher, who claims this is the greatest Yankee team he ever "managed," still performs his regular task of chasing balls for the pitchers during batting practice while he's handling McCarthy's job, too. . . . Painless golf (for the spectators) got a trial today at the Tam O'Shanter Open. Reports on the progress of leading players were broadcast via short wave right to the 19th hole. . . . Fred Fitzsimmons is looking around Brooklyn for a good spot to open a bowling establishment. . . . Joe Louis didn't seem a bit worried about Lou Nova's "bullet punch" when they met to sign the contracts yesterday, but he had an eye on Lou's fancy necktie. . . . Joe reckons he can take care of the situation with his "same old punch."

SPORTING GESTURE

When Alec Moore signed as matchmaker for the Montreal Forum recently, he announced he wouldn't stage any shows until after September 23, the date assigned to Promoter Jimmie McKimmie for staging a fight between Dave Castilloux and Harry Hurst. "Jimmie has tried hard to bring boxing back," Moore explained, "and he deserves a chance of rematching these two good fighters. He can use the Forum if he wants."

THOSE YOU KNOW

When Al Weill says one of his fighters should retire, he's not fooling. . . . He recently turned down an offer of $1,000 for Lou Ambers to fight Ray Lunny in San Francisco without even telling Ambers about it. . . . Gene Stack, the first big league ball player to be drafted, has gained 18 pounds on army grub and he's worried about being too fat to make good with the White Sox when he gets out of the army. . . . Ted Williams brought a new pistol back with him from the Red Sox' last western trip and wants to practice with it in Fenway park before games. Some say that's why some of the lights on the scoreboard were out the other day. . . . Del Baker and Jack Zeller of the Tigers both figure the Cards will beat out the Dodgers, though they agree it would be a fine thing for baseball to have Brooklyn in the world series. . . . Dizzy Dean played 10 holes of golf in one over par in Lincoln, Neb., a while ago and started tossing challenges at Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth. . . . Al Bernard, the Texas middleweight, took time out from training for Jackie Donovan to shoot in the Syracuse Herald-Journal hole-in-one tournament. . . . He missed his first shot completely and on the second moved the ball about a half-foot. . . . Then he claimed the prize because the best other shots were more than six inches away—from the cup.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Bus Ham, Oklahoma City Oklahoman: "Don Faurot (of Missouri) is one football coach in all this broad land of ours who hasn't tried to beat the call to arms. . . . He hasn't tried to talk his boys out of going into some branch of service."

SPORTPOURRI

J. P. Wynne of the Lock Haven (Pa.) Express appoints us a committee of one to persuade the football Giants, Dodgers, etc. to change their names to something more easily distinguishable as football clubs. We hereby decline the appointment, knowing how tough a time the boys in Pittsburgh have had renaming just one team. . . . Mrs. Tony Musto still thinks Tony can lick Joe Louis. To which the one in the family who tried it merely says, "That's the woman of it, hey?" . . . The Boston college athletic offices now are located in the barns of the Liggett estate, which was added to the B. C. campus. . . . Wonder if Denny Myers supervised remodeling the dog house to make sure he'd have a comfortable place if the Eagles don't win enough games?

LEAP YEARS

Leap year does not come every four years. Any year whose number is divisible by 4 is a leap year, usually, but if the number is divisible by 100, it must also be divisible by 400 to be a leap year.

Roy Bueschen Again Tops Cotton States Sluggers

Guy Pruitt Back In Second Place; Theo Hoemann Tops Hurlers

Outfielder Roy Bueschen, Greenville, pushed his batting average up eleven points in the latest tabulation of Cotton States statistics to regain the leadership in the slugging department with an average of .371.

Bueschen has made 196 hits in 528 times at bat for his pacesetting mark, while Guy "Red" Pruitt, Monroe, has made 181 safeties in 497 trips plateward for an average of .364. Pruitt was batting .362 last week and was in third place while Roy Marion, Hot Springs, third now with .361, was leading with .366.

Rosie Cantrell, Helena, is fourth with .352, and Merv Connors, Texarkana, is fifth with .351.

Other honors are fairly well distributed.

Bueschen has the most total bases, 321; Cantrell the most hits, 203; Coleman Powell, Hot Springs, the most runs, 136; Mike Powers, Hot Springs, the most doubles, 47; Connors the most homers, 28; Bill Kramer, Greenville, the most runs batted in, 134; Ray Zimmerman, Vicksburg, and Jimmy Lucas, Helena, share first in triples with 16 each; and Lucas is co-holder of the lead in stolen bases, having copped 28 sacks which is the same number swiped by Woody Head, El Dorado.

Theo Hoemann, Monroe, has the best pitching record with ten victories and only three defeats.

OUACHITA VALLEY

RUSTON MEETS BROWN

The Ruston Volunteers invade Brown park this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock for an engagement with Manager Jack Bagwell's Brown Paper mill Brownies. "Lefty" Counts has been named as the Browns' hurler for the day.

Games this week will mark the close of the Ouachita Valley league's regular schedule. Other games today find Springhill at Camden and Crossett and Hodge at Springhill.

MONROE SCORES IN 10TH TO WIN

had loaded the sacks, but the Bills nipped the threat.

Skipper Al Baker's Hill Billies forged ahead in the third frame when Catcher Al Wieland tripled against the center field fence and came home on a single by Don Merusi. They stretched their lead with another run in the sixth without benefit of a hit. Clark Hack walked and went to second on a wild pitch. Hal Lee grounded out, advancing Hack to third, and Hack came home when Freddie Reinhart grounded out, Eagar to Medak.

The Taittmen managed to hit safely in every inning except the ninth, but they were shut out by Johnny Jaust, the Vicksburg left-hander, until the seventh inning, when they managed to knot the score.

Eagar, the slugging star of the game, opened the seventh as he laced a double down the third base line. Hill grounded to Eddie Checkley at short and Checkley threw to third in an attempt to stop Eagar but all hands were safe. Guy "Red" Pruitt dropped a single into short left field, scoring Eagar and when Ray Zimmerman had trouble fielding Pruitt's drive, Hill raced on to third. Hill came home after Medak flied out to Zimmerman.

With one out, Keith drew a base on balls to start the fireworks in the eighth. Williamson bunted down the third base line and Merusi, after fielding the ball, threw wild in an attempt to stop Keith at second, allowing Keith to race on to third. Eagar came through with his fourth hit of the night to drive Keith home, and Hill followed with another single to score Williamson.

Jaust was relieved by Elmer Wenning after Hill's last blow, but, while Wenning was pitching to Pruitt, Eagar was out at the plate after he and Hill had attempted a double steal.

Williamson, who had held the Bills to five hits for eight innings, got into trouble in the ninth. With one out, Eddie Checkley singled. Weiland drew a base on balls, and Wenning singled into left field, scoring Checkley. A wild pitch advanced Weiland to third. Will Reeder replaced Williamson on the mound, and Merusi flied out to Englehorn, but Weiland came home after the catch with the run the sent the game into the extra inning:

WILLIAMS SEEKS SLUGGING HONORS

Boston Socker Not Only Leads In Hitting But Is Tops In Homers

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Ambitious Ted Williams, who almost had been conceded the 1941 American league batting championship, now is out running for slugging honors.

Big Ted of Boston belted five home runs during the last week to take over the leadership in the long hitting department in this week's listing of averages. Through Friday, Williams had 34 circuit blows and was one ahead of Charlie Keller of New York. Williams also climbed into second place in total bases, with 292, compared with Joe DiMaggio's 310.

And along with his fence-busting Ted hit so consistently that his average jumped four points to .411, equaling his high for the season, and a neat 51 points head of Cecil Travis, of Washington, his nearest competitor.

DiMaggio, out of action for two weeks with an injury, has lost his top in runs batted in to Keller, who has 120. Joe Kuhel of Chicago has climbed into a tie with DiMaggio in doubles, with 38.

DiMaggio might go back into second place in the batting records, however, if Travis continues to slip. For two consecutive weeks Travis has dropped until his current .360 is only four points ahead of DiMaggio's.

Jeff Heath of Cleveland held on to fourth place with .343 and was followed by Dick Siebert, Philadelphia, .340; Barney McCosky, Detroit, .329; Roy Cullenbine, St. Louis, .327; Sam Chapman, Philadelphia, .326; Taft Wright, Chicago, .321; and Phil Rizzuto, New York, .318.

Left Gomez retained honors as the league's No. 1 pitcher on a percentage basis with a 13-4 record and Bobby Feller held on to his distinction as having won the most games—22. Feller also leads the strikeout parade with 235.

Boston's .281 mark was tops for team hitting and Cleveland led the fielding percentages with .977. New York has completed 167 double plays to head that department.

KILL OR CURE

KINSTON, N. C.—(AP)—Glenn Swicegood, farm agent, tells of a man whose children had been plagued with summer colds and bought a herd of goats to cure the kiddies' colds.

"The man said he had heard many times that a cold would not stay on the same premises with a goat. When I arrived at the house a week later three of the goats were gamboling on the top of an automobile and a couple were wrecking a rose arbor—but the children's colds were gone."

LAKE PROVIDENCE STARTS PRACTICE

Night Work Scheduled For Panther Football Squad By New Coach

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., Sept. 6.—(Special)—Night football practice has been instituted for Lake Providence High school grid prospects, and 26 candidates for the 1941 Panther eleven reported to Coach "Slim" Cassibry for work this week.

Assisting Coach Cassibry is W. T. Robinson, former L. S. U. athlete who coached at Forest High school last year.

Candidates for the Panther eleven and their weights are Robert Lively, 175; Homer Ezell, 175; "Red" Wright, 135; Holliman Shockley, 175; "Shotgun" Donovan, 130; Charles Reed, 130; Cleo Garner, 160; Salvador DeVincenzi, 150; Roy Sullivan, 140; J. STREETCAR BRIDES

BASEL, Switzerland.—(AP)—Lack of gasoline for automobile wedding processions has inspired the streetcar people to furnish a special car with strawberry red drapes, curtains and plush seats. There is a special seat for bride and bridegroom. Provision is made also for refreshments on the way to or from the church.

Economy being the motive, the wedding coach is hooked on behind a regular passenger trolley. It runs right on schedule, even if the bridegroom is late.

ICE FACTS

Glass may be as smooth as ice, but you can't skate on it because it is not the smoothness of the ice that makes it slippery. It is the film of water that forms between your skate and the ice, due to pressure.

LONG TIME TO GO

Although climatic and geologic conditions are changing on the earth, man should be able to inhabit it comfortably for at least a million years, according to scientists.

REISER REGAINS LEAD IN BATTING

Dodger Star Passes Johnny Hopp In Battle For Hitting Title

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—A couple of the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals keep passing the National league's batting leadership back and forth just like their teams are doing in the pennant competition.

Now it is Pete Reiser of the Dodgers who is back on top of the circuit's hitters and Johnny Hopp of the Cardinals, who was leading last week, has sunk to second.

Maybe the two rookies are dizzy from the ups and downs of their teams—a lot of other people are—but at any rate this pair just keeps going around in circles.

Reiser spurted nine points during the week to reach .333 before today's games. He was in fourth place a week ago, but this sudden zoom lifted him into the lead, which he has held off and on all season.

Hopp had a .333 average last week, but slipped to .326 in recent days and landed in second place, which Nick Etten of the Phillies vacated by dropping seven points to .322. This was just a notch above Johnny Mize, the veteran slugger of the St. Louis Cardinals who has managed to keep close enough to the top to be dangerous..

Behind Mize was a gap until the other batting hopefuls came along closely grouped. Dixie Walker of Brooklyn had .316; Stan Hack of Chicago .315; Arky Vaughan, Pittsburgh .315; Ducky Medwick, Brooklyn .312; Jim Brown, St. Louis .312; and Enos Slaughter, St. Louis .312.

Along with regaining the percentage batting lead, Reiser took practically a monopoly on other honors. He has scored the most runs, 100, hit the most triples, 12, and tied with Mize for the most doubles, 36.

However, his teammate, Dolph Camilli, held onto two of the most coveted batting titles—the home run and the runs batted in leadership. He has smacked 29 round trippers and knocked in 97 runs.

Hack has made the most hits, 164, and is second in run scoring with 99. Mize is second in runs batted in with 96.

A new name appeared among the departmental leaders during the week as Danny Murtaugh, fleet second baseman of the Phillies, captured the base-stealing lead with three thefts in a doubleheader against the Dodgers. He now has stolen 17, two more than Lee Handley of Pittsburgh and Lonnie Frey of Cincinnati, rivals for the lead all season.

Ernie White of St. Louis ascended to the pitching throne with 17 victories and four defeats after Elmer Riddle of Cincinnati was defeated. The latter's record now is 15 and 4.

BOWLING TILTS

In the hardest fought bowling series of the season here Ladart's Spaghetti Garden aggregation had to battle five and a half hours Friday night before defeating the Eureka Grocers, 4 to 3, in a seven-game series for the championship of the Businessmen's Bowling league.

The series would have taken much longer to play but for the fact that Ladart's with a 3-to-2 edge after the fifth game, forfeited the sixth to the Grocers in order to speed up play and then copped the seventh and the title.

Team captains were the outstanding scorers of the series with Captain Steidel of Ladart's bowling 1,012 for the series, and Captain J. C. Holloway of Eureka posting a score of 1,002. The best single game score was the 256-pin mark chalked up by Bob Cohen, Ladart's, in the fourth game.

The summaries (sixth game forfeited to Eureka):

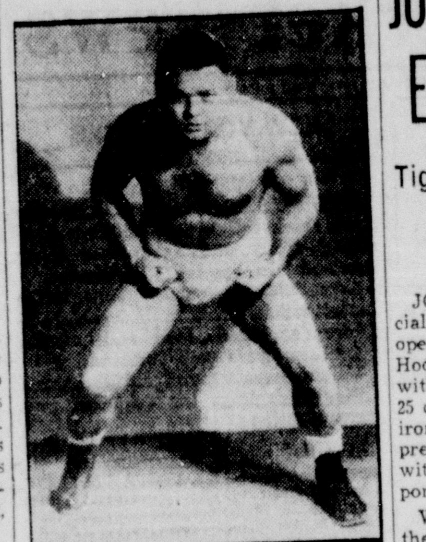
RETURNS



Billy Venable (above), the Toledo Bulldog, returns to the Monroe wrestling arena Tuesday night to meet Balk Estes, former Baton Rouge promoter, in the semi-final on a card that features the main event battle between Rex Mobley, light heavyweight champ of the world, and the Black Dragon.

MOBLEY TO MEET DRAGON TUESDAY

Light Heavyweight Champion, 'Mystery Man' Tangle At Arena

Rex Mobley, king of the world's light heavyweight wrestlers, will meet the Black Dragon, unmasked but unidentified mystery man of the ring, in the main event on a "soldiers' night" program at the Monroe arena, Tuesday night.

Promoter Gus Kallio announced that service men in uniform, would be admitted to the arena at a 20-cent rate, less than half the general admission price.

On the same card with Mobley and the Dragon will be Balk Estes, rugged ex-promoter of Baton Rouge, and Billy Venable, the Toledo Bulldog, who are scheduled to get together in the curtain-raiser at 8:30 o'clock.

Mobley, who has successfully defended his light heavy crown against Jack Curtis on two occasions here within the past five weeks, is meeting the Dragon in a non-title scrap, but the only reason the Dragon isn't getting a crack at the championship is because he is a bit too heavy for the light heavyweight class.

The Black Dragon is again scheduled to appear without his mask. He was unmasked here a few weeks ago when he suffered his first defeat in several appearances here, and the following week appeared in a match with Billy Venable minus his headgear. However, the Dragon has not yet revealed his identity and is not expected to do so Tuesday.

The main event promises to be one of the season's roughest battles since both Mobley and the Dragon are capable of standing considerable punishment and neither holds back in displaying his own powers.

Estes last week gave the fans a rousing exhibition in his battle with Les Chapman, and the Toledo Bulldog is expected to furnish Estes the opposition needed to make him extend himself even more than he did against Chapman.

The main event will have a 90-minute time limit, two falls to win, and the semi-final, also two falls to win will have a 45-minute time limit.

Aldin "Butch" Martin will referee both bouts.

STARTING TIME OF ROSE BOWL GAME IS MOVED UP

PASADENA, Calif., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Tournament of Roses officials have advanced the starting time of the next Rose Bowl game January 1 fifteen minutes because of new football rules allowing free substitution of players.

Officals, estimating that the frequent change of players would lengthen the game a quarter of an hour, set the kickoff for 2 p.m. instead of 2:15.

FOOT ITCH
ATHLETE'S FOOT

RELIEF GUARANTEED OR MONEY BACK

According to the Government Health Bulletin No. E-28, at least 50% of the adult population of the United States are being attacked by the disease known as Athlete's Foot.

Usually the disease starts between the toes. Little watery blisters form, and the skin cracks and peels. After a while, the itching becomes intense, and you feel as though you would like to scratch off all the skin.

Beware of It Spreading

Often the disease travels all over the bottom of the feet. The soles of your feet become red and swollen. The skin also cracks and peels, and the itching becomes worse and worse.

Get relief from this disease as quickly as possible because it is both contagious and infectious and it may go to your hands or even to the under arm or crotch of the legs.

Why Take Chances?

The germ that causes the disease is known as Tinea Trichophyton. It buries itself deep in the tissues of the skin and is very hard to kill. A test made shows it takes 15 minutes of boiling to destroy the germ, whereas, upon contact, laboratory tests show that H. F. will kill the germ Tinea Trichophyton within 15 seconds.

H. F. was developed solely for the purpose of relieving Athlete's Foot. It is a liquid that penetrates and dries quickly. You just paint the affected parts. H. F. gently peels the skin, which enables it to get to parasites existing under the outer cuticle.

Itching Often Relieved Quickly

As soon as you apply H. F. you may find that the itching is relieved. You should paint the infected part with H. F. night and morning until your feet are better. Usually this takes from three to ten days.

H. F. should leave the skin soft and smooth. You may marvel at the quick way it brings you relief.

Don't wait for Athlete's Foot to become serious. Get H. F. today.

JONESBORO-HODGE ELEVEN AT WORK

Tigers Open Season Against Fair Park Indians Next Friday

JONESBORO, La., Sept. 6.—(Special)—Although the delayed school opening will force the Jonesboro-Hodge Tigers to play two home games without benefit of a student body, the 25 candidates for the 1941 Bengal gridiron machine are hard at work in preparation for their season opener with the Fair Park Indians of Shreveport here next Friday.

Without a breathing spell during the entire season, the Jonesboro-Hodge eleven, which has had two weeks training under Coaches C. E. Maroney and Hollis Hearne, meet two Class AA teams, a pair of Class C aggregations and seven Class A elevens.

Nine lettermen are back from the 1940 teams and prospects are good for one of the finest lines ever to represent the school.

Linemen back are Garlan Allison and Othal Hathaway, each with two years experience as running mates at the guard positions; Lescar Harlan and James Fowler, promising tackles and Fred Howell, a rapidly developing end. New material for the line includes A. C. Shackleford and Jimmy Knight, both battling for the pivot job; Ray Anders and Tom Cox, relief guards at the present; and O. B. Lockhart, James Wafer and Ernest Howell, ends.

Three backfield performers who won letters last season are back. They are Theo Shively, Richard Tewell and Max Stewart. Other backs to share the burden this year will be Dalton Abercrombie, Roland Dennis and Hannon Shively.

The Jonesboro-Hodge schedule:
Sept. 12—Fair Park, here.
Sept. 19—Columbia, here
Sept. 26—At Minden.
Oct. 3—At Mansfield.
Oct. 10—Rayville, here.
Oct. 17—At Haynesville.
Oct. 24—Arcadia, here.
Oct. 31—At Homer.
Nov. 7—Winnfield, here.
Nov. 14—Farmerville, here.
Nov. 21—At Ruston.

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(The Special News Service)—Joe McCarthy doesn't intend to bring up any players from the Yankees' farms for fall inspection, even though he could afford to let the kids kick away a few games now. . . . Joe says the Yanks have so many open dates he'll have a hard time giving the regulars enough exercise. . . . And we might ask how long it would take to inspect any replacements that might be needed on a club that won the way the Yanks did. . . . Art Fletcher, who claims this is the greatest Yankee team he ever "managed," still performs his regular task of chasing balls for the pitchers during batting practice while he's handling McCarthy's job, too. . . . Painless golf (for the spectators) got a trial today at the Tam O'Shanter Open. Reports on the progress of leading players were broadcast via short wave right to the 19th hole. . . . Fred Fitzsimmons is looking around Brooklyn for a good spot to open a bowling establishment. . . . Joe Louis didn't seem a bit worried about Lou Nova's "bullet punch" when they met to sign the contracts yesterday, but he had an eye on Lou's fancy necktie. . . . Joe reckons he can take care of the situation with his "same old punch."

SPORTING GESTURE

When Alec Moore signed as matchmaker for the Montreal Forum recently, he announced he wouldn't stage any shows until after September 23, the date assigned to Promoter Jimmie McKimmie for staging a fight between Dave Castilloux and Harry Hurst. "Jimmie has tried hard to bring boxing back," Moore explained, "and he deserves a chance of rematching these two good fighters. He can use the Forum if he wants."

THOSE YOU KNOW

When Al Weill says one of his fighters should retire, he's not fooling. . . . He recently turned down an offer of $1,000 for Lou Ambers to fight Ray Lunny in San Francisco without even telling Ambers about it. . . . Gene Stack, the first big league ball player to be drafted, has gained 18 pounds on army grub and he's worried about being too fat to make good with the White Sox when he gets out of the army. . . . Ted Williams brought a new pistol back with him from the Red Sox' last western trip and wants to practice with it in Fenway park before games. Some say that's why some of the lights on the scoreboard were out the other day. . . . Del Baker and Jack Zeller of the Tigers both figure the Cards will beat out the Dodgers, though they agree it would be a fine thing for baseball to have Brooklyn in the world series. . . . Dizzy Dean played 10 holes of golf in one over par in Lincoln, Neb., a while ago and started tossing challenges at Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth. . . . Al Bernard, the Texas middleweight, took time out from training for Jackie Donovan to shoot in the Syracuse Herald-Journal hole-in-one tournament. . . . He missed his first shot completely and on the second moved the ball about a half-foot. . . . Then he claimed the prize because the best other shots were more than six inches away—from the cup.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Bus Ham, Oklahoma City Oklahoman: "Don Faurot (of Missouri) is one football coach in all this broad land of ours who hasn't tried to beat the call to arms. . . . He hasn't tried to talk his boys out of going into some branch of service."

SPORTPOURRI

J. P. Wynne of the Lock Haven (Pa.) Express appoints us a committee of one to persuade the football Giants, Dodgers, etc. to change their names to something more easily distinguishable as football clubs. We hereby decline the appointment, knowing how tough a time the boys in Pittsburgh have had renaming just one team. . . . Mrs. Tony Musto still thinks Tony can lick Joe Louis. To which the one in the family who tried it merely says, "That's the woman of it, hey?" . . . The Boston college athletic offices now are located in the barns of the Liggett estate, which was added to the B. C. campus. . . . Wonder if Denny Myers supervised remodeling the dog house to make sure he'd have a comfortable place if the Eagles don't win enough games?

LEAP YEARS

Leap year does not come every four years. Any year whose number is divisible by 4 is a leap year, usually, but if the number is divisible by 100, it must also be divisible by 400 to be a leap year.

Roy Bueschen Again Tops Cotton States Sluggers

Guy Pruitt Back In Second Place; Theo Hoemann Tops Hurlers

Outfielder Roy Bueschen, Greenville, pushed his batting average up eleven points in the latest tabulation of Cotton States statistics to regain the leadership in the slugging department with an average of .371.

Bueschen has made 196 hits in 528 times at bat for his pacesetting mark, while Guy "Red" Pruitt, Monroe, has made 181 safeties in 497 trips plateward for an average of .364. Pruitt was batting .362 last week and was in third place while Roy Marion, Hot Springs, third now with .361, was leading with .366.

Rosie Cantrell, Helena, is fourth with .352, and Merv Connors, Texarkana, is fifth with .351.

Other honors are fairly well distributed.

Bueschen has the most total bases, 321; Cantrell the most hits, 203; Coleman Powell, Hot Springs, the most runs, 136; Mike Powers, Hot Springs, the most doubles, 47; Connors the most homers, 28; Bill Kramer, Greenville, the most runs batted in, 134; Ray Zimmerman, Vicksburg, and Jimmy Lucas, Helena, share first in triples with 16 each; and Lucas is co-holder of the lead in stolen bases, having copped 28 sacks which is the same number swiped by Woody Head, El Dorado.

Theo Hoemann, Monroe, has the best pitching record with ten victories and only three defeats.

had loaded the sacks, but the Bills nipped the threat.

Skipper Al Baker's Hill Billies forged ahead in the third frame when Catcher Al Wieland tripled against the center field fence and came home on a single by Don Merusi. They stretched their lead with another run in the sixth without benefit of a hit. Clark Hack walked and went to second on a wild pitch. Hal Lee grounded out, advancing Hack to third, and Hack came home when Freddie Reinhart grounded out, Eagar to Medak.

The Taittmen managed to hit safely in every inning except the ninth, but they were shut out by Johnny Jaust, the Vicksburg left-hander, until the seventh inning, when they managed to knot the score.

Eagar, the slugging star of the game, opened the seventh as he laced a double down the third base line. Hill grounded to Eddie Checkley at short and Checkley threw to third in an attempt to stop Eagar but all hands were safe. Guy "Red" Pruitt dropped a single into short left field, scoring Eagar and when Ray Zimmerman had trouble fielding Pruitt's drive, Hill raced on to third. Hill came home after Medak flied out to Zimmerman.

With one out, Keith drew a base on balls to start the fireworks in the eighth. Williamson bunted down the third base line and Merusi, after fielding the ball, threw wild in an attempt to stop Keith at second, allowing Keith to race on to third. Eagar came through with his fourth hit of the night to drive Keith home, and Hill followed with another single to score Williamson.

Jaust was relieved by Elmer Wenning after Hill's last blow, but, while Wenning was pitching to Pruitt, Eagar was out at the plate after he and Hill had attempted a double steal.

Williamson, who had held the Bills to five hits for eight innings, got into trouble in the ninth. With one out, Eddie Checkley singled. Weiland drew a base on balls, and Wenning singled into left field, scoring Checkley. A wild pitch advanced Weiland to third. Will Reeder replaced Williamson on the mound, and Merusi flied out to Englehorn, but Weiland came home after the catch with the run the sent the game into the extra inning:

WILLIAMS SEEKS SLUGGING HONORS

Boston Socker Not Only Leads In Hitting But Is Tops In Homers

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Ambitious Ted Williams, who almost had been conceded the 1941 American league batting championship, now is out running for slugging honors.

Big Ted of Boston belted five home runs during the last week to take over the leadership in the long hitting department in this week's listing of averages. Through Friday, Williams had 34 circuit blows and was one ahead of Charlie Keller of New York. Williams also climbed into second place in total bases, with 292, compared with Joe DiMaggio's 310.

And along with his fence-busting Ted hit so consistently that his average jumped four points to .411, equaling his high for the season, and a neat 51 points head of Cecil Travis, of Washington, his nearest competitor.

DiMaggio, out of action for two weeks with an injury, has lost his top in runs batted in to Keller, who has 120. Joe Kuhel of Chicago has climbed into a tie with DiMaggio in doubles, with 38.

DiMaggio might go back into second place in the batting records, however, if Travis continues to slip. For two consecutive weeks Travis has dropped until his current .360 is only four points ahead of DiMaggio's.

Jeff Heath of Cleveland held on to fourth place with .343 and was followed by Dick Siebert, Philadelphia, .340; Barney McCosky, Detroit, .329; Roy Cullenbine, St. Louis, .327; Sam Chapman, Philadelphia, .326; Taft Wright, Chicago, .321; and Phil Rizzuto, New York, .318.

Left Gomez retained honors as the league's No. 1 pitcher on a percentage basis with a 13-4 record and Bobby Feller held on to his distinction as having won the most games—22. Feller also leads the strikeout parade with 235.

Boston's .281 mark was tops for team hitting and Cleveland led the fielding percentages with .977. New York has completed 167 double plays to head that department.

KILL OR CURE

KINSTON, N. C.—(AP)—Glenn Swicegood, farm agent, tells of a man whose children had been plagued with summer colds and bought a herd of goats to cure the kiddies' colds.

"The man said he had heard many times that a cold would not stay on the same premises with a goat. When I arrived at the house a week later three of the goats were gamboling on the top of an automobile and a couple were wrecking a rose arbor—but the children's colds were gone."

LAKE PROVIDENCE STARTS PRACTICE

Night Work Scheduled For Panther Football Squad By New Coach

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., Sept. 6.—(Special)—Night football practice has been instituted for Lake Providence High school grid prospects, and 26 candidates for the 1941 Panther eleven reported to Coach "Slim" Cassibry for work this week.

Assisting Coach Cassibry is W. T. Robinson, former L. S. U. athlete who coached at Forest High school last year.

Candidates for the Panther eleven and their weights are Robert Lively, 175; Homer Ezell, 175; "Red" Wright, 135; Holliman Shockley, 175; "Shotgun" Donovan, 130; Charles Reed, 130; Cleo Garner, 160; Salvador DeVincenzi, 150; Roy Sullivan, 140; J. STREETCAR BRIDES

BASEL, Switzerland.—(AP)—Lack of gasoline for automobile wedding processions has inspired the streetcar people to furnish a special car with strawberry red drapes, curtains and plush seats. There is a special seat for bride and bridegroom. Provision is made also for refreshments on the way to or from the church.

Economy being the motive, the wedding coach is hooked on behind a regular passenger trolley. It runs right on schedule, even if the bridegroom is late.

EACH ACCUSED BY OTHER IN ATTACK

also is trying with all means at his disposal to provoke incidents in order to incite the American people into war against Germany."

Although state department and navy officials were silent on the German communique, Chairman Connally, Democrat, Texas, of the Senate foreign relations committee said "the Nazis might as well learn now that we are going to defend our ships and our citizens."

"The fact that the Nazis admit a German submarine was involved," he added, "amounts to an admission that it was acting under orders of the Nazi government in firing on our destroyers.

"This spirit of assassination, disregard for the rights of other nations and arrogant contempt for the United States dragged us into the last war.

"We do not want to become involved in the present war, but if our ships or citizens are attacked we are going to defend them."

Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, a member of the Senate foreign relations committee and one who has not voted consistently for administration foreign measures, directly challenged the truth of the Nazi statement.

"My opinion is that the Germans have made some misstatements in their communique," he said. "I can hardly believe that the president would order our warships to attack in an effort to incite the people into war. Beyond that, there is little that can be said until all the facts are known."

In any event, the German pronouncement cleared up any lingering doubt as to the nationality of the submarine involved in the incident with the Greer, something which had to be established conclusively before this country could make a diplomatic protest.

Where the conflicting claims are concerned, the American government would, of course, stand upon the report given to it by the commanding officer of the Greer.

On the basis of the statement of the Greer's commander that the U-boat fired first, there was speculation in congressional circles whether this was an indication of a new policy on the part of Germany. Some time ago Adolf Hitler announced that any ships which his submarines encountered in blockade areas would be sunk. The application of this policy to American warships, however, has obviously been held in abeyance.

Some suggested, that if Germany now intended to attack American ships, its purpose might be two-fold: to increase the effectiveness of its blockade of England, and simultaneously to bolster its axis-partner Japan.

Since Germany invaded Russia, Japan has become surrounded with actual or potential enemies. Moreover, the United States is shipping war supplies between the islands of the Japanese archipelago to Vladivostok and the Russian army.

German U-boat activities against American naval vessels on the Atlantic, if continued and made general, might have the effect of attracting American warships from the Pacific to the Atlantic, consequently easing the pressure on Japan.

There was a disposition on the part of some to believe that the Germans actually were without any knowledge of the Greer incident beyond what has been disclosed by the American government.

Expressing this view, Connally said the German communique was merely "a ruse to make it appear that the U-boat had not been sunk."

The Greer steamed into Reykjavik, Iceland, yesterday with her officers and crew expressing a belief that they had sunk the U-boat without a trace. The German statements if true, would show this not to be the case, since reports of the encounter would have to come from the submarine.

The German communique gave this detailed version of the skirmish:

It was a running battle that began at 12:30 p.m. when a German submarine "was attacked within the German blockade area by water bombs at 62:31 degrees north and 27.06 west (approximately 250 miles southwest of Iceland) and pursued continually."

The U-boat, it went on to say, was not in a position to determine the nationality of the destroyer and "in justifiable self-defense discharged two torpedoes at 2:39 p.m.

"The destroyer continued the pursuit with water bombs unsuccessfully until midnight."

ARMY UNITS WILL TAKE REST TODAY

war games, greatest in the nation's history, will begin September 15 and end October 1.

Sunday will be a holiday for maneuvering troops.

'HONEYMOON' PERIOD IS DECLARED AT END

WITH THE THIRD ARMY IN LOUISIANA, Sept. 6—(AP)—Intense training of anti-tank organizations has ended the "honeymoon" period of the armored divisions in the American war games, Major-General George S. Patton said today, although startling stabs by his men in steel helped bring a sudden week-end armistice in the maneuvers of the Third army.

The Second armored division commanded by Patton, ramming its way into the Kisatchie National forest northwest of Alexandria, was slowed by anti-tank defenses of 37 and 75-millimeter guns and land mines but moved forward with irresistible power.

Alexandria itself was startled as it has never been since becoming a center of army training when a dawn attack on the city, defended by "Red" troops, brought huge Blue columns pouring through the streets in such force that a major traffic snarl was averted only by the prompt action of maneuver umpires in calling a halt to the proceedings.

The mechanized division's striking power was so forceful that it captured the entire 61st field artillery battalion of the First cavalry division which included 30 anti-tank guns placed to protect the mounted troops' withdrawal.

[illegible] anti-tank defense of the army had been companies of battalions acting as an organic part of regiments or divisions.

But great groups of specially trained artillerymen with truck-drawn guns are being welded into quick-striking tank-destroyers that seek out the mechanized divisions before they get set to hit. These groups of about 2,000 men each are to operate with the field armies.

General Patton, commenting on the task always confronting his armored forces, said:

"The job of catching infantry and artillery unaware is getting harder as the training in anti-tank defense progresses."

While the destroyer groups are being trained the army is producing self-propelled, front-firing tank chasers that can go into action as soon as they sight targets instead of having to unlimber towed guns and wheel them around.

After resting through tomorrow the 250,000 men in the Third army games will resume activity Monday in the final preliminaries before the giant maneuvers against the Second army's 250,000 men starting September 15 and continuing two weeks.

LONG'S PROGRESS EQUIPMENT SOLD

121-2 cents each, numerous desks, chairs, light fixtures, filing cabinets, fans, a mat case, an addressing machine and the Progress' mailing list and stencils.

Other items sold to various purchasers included an Elrod rule-casting machine, for $1,000, a mat roller, two proof presses and about 25,00 pounds of metal, leads and rules.

Long was a majority stockholder in The Progress, which he bought from former Governor Richard W. Leche in June, 1939, when Leche resigned and Long was elevated from lieutenant-governor to governor, which office he held about a year until succeeded by Governor Sam H. Jones, who defeated him in a bitter contest.

The Progress, established by Huey P. Long in 1931 as a political organ, was suspended immediately after Earl Long left office, and today's sale in bankruptcy was ordered by E. E. Talbot, United States referee in bankruptcy. Assets were listed at $43,000 and liabilities at $36,542.

The press sold today once belonged to the late former President Gerardo Machado of Cuba, and later was sold to a Madrid, Spain, newspaper, but not delivered there. It was brought to Louisiana by Leche in 1936 when he rehabilitated The Progress, and eventually printed a large 132-page edition on the last anniversary of his taking office.

The Progress had a violent career, blossoming from small beginnings into the national limelight and circulation after Huey P. Long went to the Senate, and began his "share the wealth" crusade. At that time it was printed in Meridian, Miss.

Throughout its career Long's enemies alleged that state employes were forced to subscribe to the paper, thus giving it strong support. These charges continued after Leche took it over.

"Kingfish" Long established the newspaper in 1931 to advance his political fortunes. After he went to the United States Senate in 1932, he distributed it nationally, using it to plague his enemies, criticize President Roosevelt and plug his "share the wealth" program.

It was moving toward the million circulation mark in 1935 when Long was shot to death in Baton Rouge. It was revived by Richard W. Leche after he became governor in May, 1936, and a great modern press able to print 72,000 12-page papers hourly installed.

In June, 1939, Leche resigned under fire. He later was convicted and sentenced to a 10-year federal term for mail fraud. The case is now before the supreme court.

When the publication first appeared, the New Orleans Times-Picayune, opponent of Huey Long, carried a statement from him denying that he had ordered a 20 per cent cut in state employes' salaries to finance it. State employes subscribed to it almost in a bloc.

GERMANS ADMIT TORPEDOES FIRED

not only to report the position of German ships and U-boats in violation of neutrality but, beyond that, to attack them.

"Mr. Roosevelt, in this way, is trying by all means at his disposal to provoke incidents in order to incite the American people into war against Germany."

The communique, ending two days of official silence, acknowledged that the submarine's torpedoes went wide of their mark. On the other hand, the submarine was able to get somewhere for her commander to report.

There was some disposition in informal comment in Berlin, therefore, to question whether the episode would aggravate relations between Germany and the United States.

However, some sources regarded the incident as loaded with dynamite.

Subsequently events established that the warship must have been the Greer and that point no longer was subject to dispute. But the communique said that at the time "the German U-boat was not in a position to determine the nationality of the attacking destroyer."

It was not stated precisely why the submarine, despite daylight hours, could not determine that the destroyer was American.

Anyway, it was contended, that was beside the point in view of the assertion that the U-boat was being attacked. Besides its defense of the submarine's conduct on that score, the communique pointed out that the incident occurred in waters proclaimed by the German government as a war zone and that the submarine commander properly could have presumed that the warship was British.

In the Wilhelmstrasse view, therefore, it was asserted, Germany was confronted with a deliberate effort to provoke an episode which would incite a war fervor in the American people.

REDS SAY NAZIS ARE HURLED BACK

the counter-attacks at Kiev and Odessa, the other great cities to which the Germans have approached closely. They were said to be repulsing or holding the besiegers.

The communique did not elaborate on the deeds of the air force yesterday but the terrific role the Red artillery is playing was seen in the official report that "thousands of German soldiers, hundreds of tanks, armored cars and lorries, scores of artillery mine-throwers and machine-gun batteries have been annihilated by the accurate fire of our guns."

The communique said that on one single day—last Thursday—the Soviet artillery killed at least 15,000 German officers and men and destroyed over 100 guns of various caliber, and much other material.

Marshal Voroshilov's Leningrad troops have driven the Germans from an entire sector along a railway in a three-day battle, Red Star reported.

Another unit there crossed the river "Ch" and pushed southward, destroying a Nazi artillery company and a regiment of troops, Red Star said; a third surrounded a German panzer force of 40 tanks, and a fourth swept around behind the Germans farther south to cut their highway communications.

Two other units were credited with destroying German equipment in frontal smashes.

The artillery of both sides thundered through the fog which hung low over the marshy site of Russia's second city.

Despite the poor visibility, 30 German planes tried to bomb military objectives outside Leningrad and 17 of them were shot down, Red Star said.

In the Novgorod district about 100 miles south of Leningrad, guerrillas were credited with discovering two German airdromes which the Red air force promptly bombed, destroying 74 planes on the ground and killing many of the crews.

At an undisclosed part of the central front, a great battle was reported still in progress, with the Red air force strongly supporting the infantry. One Russian air squadron there destroyed 42 grounded German planes, 110 tanks and 600 other vehicles and killed more than 3,000 Nazis in the past few days, Soviet accounts said.

Possibly this battle was in the Gomel sector, since that was the last central point mentioned in a Russian communique and has been the scene of repeated Soviet counter-offensives.

Farther south, the Ukrainian capital of Kiev, which was an established town before history was written, stood firm against the invaders who have threatened it for many weeks.

Russian artillery paved the way for counter-attacks which thrust the German infantry out of the village of "K" in front of Kiev, Red Star reported. Red army infantry then drove the demoralized Germans five kilometers (about three miles) outside the village, it added.

JAPAN DISMISSES U-BOAT MATTER CALMLY

(By Associated Press)

The United States and Germany maintained conflicting claims today as to the circumstances of a torpedo-depth bomb skirmish in the North Atlantic Thursday with an official Berlin statement asserting—in phrases of interest to Japan under the Axis pact—that the United States destroyer Greer was the aggressor.

Japan is pledged under the German-Italian-Japanese treaty of Berlin signed September 27, 1940, to help in the Axis "with all political, economic and military means when one of the three contracting powers is attacked by a power at present not involved in the European war or in the Chinese-Japanese conflict."

The Greer incident was dismissed, however, by the Tokyo newspaper Hochi as "nothing but that a belligerent destroyer was attacked by a submarine in belligerent waters." The newspaper declared the United States gave up neutrality in the occupation of Iceland.

German dispatches said a long-range bombardment of Leningrad continued, with electric power plants and a munitions factory effectively hit. Strong luftwaffe units also were declared to have scattered strong troop concentrations in the area.

British naval forces in the Mediterranean struck anew in an effort to halt reinforcement of Axis armies in North Africa.

The British admiralty announced in London that the 11,398-ton Italian liner Esperia had been torpedoed and sunk on a south-bound voyage near Tripoli, Libya, as one of "an exceptionally strongly escorted convoy." She was described as of a troop-ship type.

Only Friday the admiralty announced the torpedoing and "almost certain" sinking of a liner tentatively identified as the 23,635-ton Duilio.

Britain admitted, however, the loss of her 30th submarine in the war, the P-33. Unlisted in navy manuals, it apparently was of a new type.

The location of these sub-stations is not announced for publication and they are likely to be removed from day to day as the troops are reassigned to other communities.

Thus it will be seen that all outgoing soldier mail is to be handled from the Monroe postoffice as base, but that none of the incoming mail is handled here.

The sub-stations are open six days a week and there is detailed at each one a regular mail clerk who is provided with supplies such as any regular postoffice possesses, selling stamps, issuing money orders and conducting a regular routine business.

ROOSEVELT WILL GIVE BROADCAST

world but would remain a military secret.

They are policies which the chief executive has enunciated in press conferences and in a Labor day speech last Monday.

Mr. Roosevelt failed to mention Japan and the crisis in the Far East in the Labor day address, and some individuals thought they might command a share of attention Monday.

Conjectures on the possible range of the address went so far as to cover the chances that the president might be getting ready to ask his countrymen to take up arms against Hitler and his allies but there was absolutely no basis for putting such a step in any category but pure speculation and guesswork.

Whether the German communique today had crystallized a presidential decision to go on the air Monday was not ascertained, although Hassett indicated that Mr. Roosevelt had not made up his mind suddenly.

The address will be delivered from the White House in Washington at 9 p.m. eastern standard time, and will be carried by all major radio companies.

The Nazi communique was regarded by some individuals at the temporary White House as confirming the American government's opinion, hitherto expressed only by implication, that a German U-boat deliberately tried to sink the Greer.

The navy announced that two torpedoes were fired at the destroyer, while she was en route to Iceland with mail, and that she had dropped depth charges immediately.

Hassett said it was "only to be expected" that the Germans would attempt to blame the United States for the engagement.

The Nazis said today that a submarine, justifiably defending herself from attack within the German blockade zone, had launched two torpedoes at a destroyer on Thursday about 200 miles southwest of Iceland.

Nationality of the destroyer could not be determined, the communique said, but the ship was violating neutrality.

The question was raised here how the commander of the undersea craft could have reported that the destroyer acted in violation of neutrality unless he was able to determine that she was a ship of a non-belligerent nation. If the officer was able to make such a determination, it was argued, it would appear that he also could have determined the nationality of the destroyer.

But the president, who arrived here from Washington to spend the weekend with his mother, maintained strict silence on the entire Greer incident.

charge of French police, was delegated to go urgently to Paris. The reason was not disclosed immediately.

The cabinet was believed to have taken up with Marshal Petain the question of lineup of government functionaries under the present Vichy regime.

It was learned that beginning October 1 Max Ungrand, the interior ministry's representative at Paris, will strengthen his staff with two new officials designated to place more emphasis on the preservation of order.

In another reorganization today Vice-Premier Admiral Jean Darlan gained more power as Marshal Petain's administrative service was attached to his office. By this Darlan received possible direction of a proposed network of commissars of public power, a new general staff of national defense and other new services.

A Bordeaux summary court for Communists started functioning today with five Red suspects being sentenced to four years' imprisonment. A Poiters court sentenced some railroad workers yesterday to three to 10 years in prison for Communist activity.

At Peribuex six received sentences ranging up to 20 years at hard labor on like charges.

The Paris special courts continue to grind out cases. Two more were sentenced to jail terms yesterday.

Gabriel Peri, former deputy who escaped after he had been sentenced with 43 other Communists before the German invasion, has been recaptured and faces trial.

New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Cotton futures today rebounded from a slight reaction brought on by the three-fold pressure of profit taking, liquidation in anticipation of the government crop report and week-end evening up operations. Trade demand found offerings light.

The market eased a little on light hedge selling. A contributing factor was believed to be the growing inclination of southern farmers to hold crops for better prices.

Late prices were one to three points higher; October 17.42; May 17.89 and July 17.86.

The May position reached 18 cents for the first time since January, 1930, as late trade buying and covering found offerings scarce.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The stock market picked at mild recovery straws today and again was fairly successful in specialized instances.

Come-back tendencies crept into the list at the start but considerable diffidence appeared later and closing quotations were well jumbled.

Volume was around 225,000 shares, although dealings for the most part were sluggish.

also is trying with all means at his disposal to provoke incidents in order to incite the American people into war against Germany."

Although state department and navy officials were silent on the German communique, Chairman Connally, Democrat, Texas, of the Senate foreign relations committee said "the Nazis might as well learn now that we are going to defend our ships and our citizens."

"The fact that the Nazis admit a German submarine was involved," he added, "amounts to an admission that it was acting under orders of the Nazi government in firing on our destroyers.

"This spirit of assassination, disregard for the rights of other nations and arrogant contempt for the United States dragged us into the last war.

"We do not want to become involved in the present war, but if our ships or citizens are attacked we are going to defend them."

Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, a member of the Senate foreign relations committee and one who has not voted consistently for administration foreign measures, directly challenged the truth of the Nazi statement.

"My opinion is that the Germans have made some misstatements in their communique," he said. "I can hardly believe that the president would order our warships to attack in an effort to incite the people into war. Beyond that, there is little that can be said until all the facts are known."

In any event, the German pronouncement cleared up any lingering doubt as to the nationality of the submarine involved in the incident with the Greer, something which had to be established conclusively before this country could make a diplomatic protest.

Where the conflicting claims are concerned, the American government would, of course, stand upon the report given to it by the commanding officer of the Greer.

On the basis of the statement of the Greer's commander that the U-boat fired first, there was speculation in congressional circles whether this was an indication of a new policy on the part of Germany. Some time ago Adolf Hitler announced that any ships which his submarines encountered in blockade areas would be sunk. The application of this policy to American warships, however, has obviously been held in abeyance.

Some suggested, that if Germany now intended to attack American ships, its purpose might be two-fold: to increase the effectiveness of its blockade of England, and simultaneously to bolster its axis-partner Japan.

Since Germany invaded Russia, Japan has become surrounded with actual or potential enemies. Moreover, the United States is shipping war supplies between the islands of the Japanese archipelago to Vladivostok and the Russian army.

German U-boat activities against American naval vessels on the Atlantic, if continued and made general, might have the effect of attracting American warships from the Pacific to the Atlantic, consequently easing the pressure on Japan.

There was a disposition on the part of some to believe that the Germans actually were without any knowledge of the Greer incident beyond what has been disclosed by the American government.

Expressing this view, Connally said the German communique was merely "a ruse to make it appear that the U-boat had not been sunk."

The Greer steamed into Reykjavik, Iceland, yesterday with her officers and crew expressing a belief that they had sunk the U-boat without a trace. The German statements if true, would show this not to be the case, since reports of the encounter would have to come from the submarine.

The German communique gave this detailed version of the skirmish:

It was a running battle that began at 12:30 p.m. when a German submarine "was attacked within the German blockade area by water bombs at 62:31 degrees north and 27.06 west (approximately 250 miles southwest of Iceland) and pursued continually."

The U-boat, it went on to say, was not in a position to determine the nationality of the destroyer and "in justifiable self-defense discharged two torpedoes at 2:39 p.m.

"The destroyer continued the pursuit with water bombs unsuccessfully until midnight."

war games, greatest in the nation's history, will begin September 15 and end October 1.

Sunday will be a holiday for maneuvering troops.

'HONEYMOON' PERIOD IS DECLARED AT END

WITH THE THIRD ARMY IN LOUISIANA, Sept. 6—(AP)—Intense training of anti-tank organizations has ended the "honeymoon" period of the armored divisions in the American war games, Major-General George S. Patton said today, although startling stabs by his men in steel helped bring a sudden week-end armistice in the maneuvers of the Third army.

The Second armored division commanded by Patton, ramming its way into the Kisatchie National forest northwest of Alexandria, was slowed by anti-tank defenses of 37 and 75-millimeter guns and land mines but moved forward with irresistible power.

Alexandria itself was startled as it has never been since becoming a center of army training when a dawn attack on the city, defended by "Red" troops, brought huge Blue columns pouring through the streets in such force that a major traffic snarl was averted only by the prompt action of maneuver umpires in calling a halt to the proceedings.

The mechanized division's striking power was so forceful that it captured the entire 61st field artillery battalion of the First cavalry division which included 30 anti-tank guns placed to protect the mounted troops' withdrawal.

defense of the army had been companies of battalions acting as an organic part of regiments or divisions.

But great groups of specially trained artillerymen with truck-drawn guns are being welded into quick-striking tank-destroyers that seek out the mechanized divisions before they get set to hit. These groups of about 2,000 men each are to operate with the field armies.

General Patton, commenting on the task always confronting his armored forces, said:

"The job of catching infantry and artillery unaware is getting harder as the training in anti-tank defense progresses."

While the destroyer groups are being trained the army is producing self-propelled, front-firing tank chasers that can go into action as soon as they sight targets instead of having to unlimber towed guns and wheel them around.

After resting through tomorrow the 250,000 men in the Third army games will resume activity Monday in the final preliminaries before the giant maneuvers against the Second army's 250,000 men starting September 15 and continuing two weeks.

LONG'S PROGRESS EQUIPMENT SOLD

12 1-2 cents each, numerous desks, chairs, light fixtures, filing cabinets, fans, a mat case, an addressing machine and the Progress' mailing list and stencils.

Other items sold to various purchasers included an Elrod rule-casting machine, for $1,000, a mat roller, two proof presses and about 25,00 pounds of metal, leads and rules.

Long was a majority stockholder in The Progress, which he bought from former Governor Richard W. Leche in June, 1939, when Leche resigned and Long was elevated from lieutenant-governor to governor, which office he held about a year until succeeded by Governor Sam H. Jones, who defeated him in a bitter contest.

The Progress, established by Huey P. Long in 1931 as a political organ, was suspended immediately after Earl Long left office, and today's sale in bankruptcy was ordered by E. E. Talbot, United States referee in bankruptcy. Assets were listed at $43,000 and liabilities at $36,542.

The press sold today once belonged to the late former President Gerardo Machado of Cuba, and later was sold to a Madrid, Spain, newspaper, but not delivered there. It was brought to Louisiana by Leche in 1936 when he rehabilitated The Progress, and eventually printed a large 132-page edition on the last anniversary of his taking office.

The Progress had a violent career, blossoming from small beginnings into the national limelight and circulation after Huey P. Long went to the Senate, and began his "share the wealth" crusade. At that time it was printed in Meridian, Miss.

Throughout its career Long's enemies alleged that state employes were forced to subscribe to the paper, thus giving it strong support. These charges continued after Leche took it over.

"Kingfish" Long established the newspaper in 1931 to advance his political fortunes. After he went to the United States Senate in 1932, he distributed it nationally, using it to plague his enemies, criticize President Roosevelt and plug his "share the wealth" program.

It was moving toward the million circulation mark in 1935 when Long was shot to death in Baton Rouge. It was revived by Richard W. Leche after he became governor in May, 1936, and a great modern press able to print 72,000 12-page papers hourly installed.

In June, 1939, Leche resigned under fire. He later was convicted and sentenced to a 10-year federal term for mail fraud. The case is now before the supreme court.

When the publication first appeared, the New Orleans Times-Picayune, opponent of Huey Long, carried a statement from him denying that he had ordered a 20 per cent cut in state employes' salaries to finance it. State employes subscribed to it almost in a bloc.

GERMANS ADMIT TORPEDOES FIRED

not only to report the position of German ships and U-boats in violation of neutrality but, beyond that, to attack them.

"Mr. Roosevelt, in this way, is trying by all means at his disposal to provoke incidents in order to incite the American people into war against Germany."

The communique, ending two days of official silence, acknowledged that the submarine's torpedoes went wide of their mark. On the other hand, the submarine was able to get somewhere for her commander to report.

There was some disposition in informal comment in Berlin, therefore, to question whether the episode would aggravate relations between Germany and the United States.

However, some sources regarded the incident as loaded with dynamite.

Subsequently events established that the warship must have been the Greer and that point no longer was subject to dispute. But the communique said that at the time "the German U-boat was not in a position to determine the nationality of the attacking destroyer."

It was not stated precisely why the submarine, despite daylight hours, could not determine that the destroyer was American.

Anyway, it was contended, that was beside the point in view of the assertion that the U-boat was being attacked. Besides its defense of the submarine's conduct on that score, the communique pointed out that the incident occurred in waters proclaimed by the German government as a war zone and that the submarine commander properly could have presumed that the warship was British.

In the Wilhelmstrasse view, therefore, it was asserted, Germany was confronted with a deliberate effort to provoke an episode which would incite a war fever in the American people.

REDS SAY NAZIS ARE HURLED BACK

the counter-attacks at Kiev and Odessa, the other great cities to which the Germans have approached closely. They were said to be repulsing or holding the besiegers.

The communique did not elaborate on the deeds of the air force yesterday but the terrific role the Red artillery is playing was seen in the official report that "thousands of German soldiers, hundreds of tanks, armored cars and lorries, scores of artillery mine-throwers and machine-gun batteries have been annihilated by the accurate fire of our guns."

The communique said that on one single day—last Thursday—the Soviet artillery killed at least 15,000 German officers and men and destroyed over 100 guns of various caliber, and much other material.

Marshal Voroshilov's Leningrad troops have driven the Germans from an entire sector along a railway in a three-day battle, Red Star reported.

Another unit there crossed the river "Ch" and pushed southward, destroying a Nazi artillery company and a regiment of troops, Red Star said; a third surrounded a German panzer force of 40 tanks, and a fourth swept around behind the Germans farther south to cut their highway communications.

Two other units were credited with destroying German equipment in frontal smashes.

The artillery of both sides thundered through the fog which hung low over the marshy site of Russia's second city.

Despite the poor visibility, 30 German planes tried to bomb military objectives outside Leningrad and 17 of them were shot down, Red Star said.

In the Novgorod district about 100 miles south of Leningrad, guerrillas were credited with discovering two German airdromes which the Red air force promptly bombed, destroying 74 planes on the ground and killing many of the crews.

At an undisclosed part of the central front, a great battle was reported still in progress, with the Red air force strongly supporting the infantry. One Russian air squadron there destroyed 42 grounded German planes, 110 tanks and 600 other vehicles and killed more than 3,000 Nazis in the past few days, Soviet accounts said.

Possibly this battle was in the Gomel sector, since that was the last central point mentioned in a Russian communique and has been the scene of repeated Soviet counter-offensives.

Farther south, the Ukrainian capital of Kiev, which was an established town before history was written, stood firm against the invaders who have threatened it for many weeks.

Russian artillery paved the way for counter-attacks which thrust the German infantry out of the village of "K" in front of Kiev, Red Star reported. Red army infantry then drove the demoralized Germans five kilometers (about three miles) outside the village, it added.

JAPAN DISMISSES U-BOAT MATTER CALMLY

(By Associated Press)

The United States and Germany maintained conflicting claims today as to the circumstances of a torpedo-depth bomb skirmish in the North Atlantic Thursday with an official Berlin statement asserting—in phrases of interest to Japan under the Axis pact—that the United States destroyer Greer was the aggressor.

Japan is pledged under the German-Italian-Japanese treaty of Berlin signed September 27, 1940, to help in the Axis "with all political, economic and military means when one of the three contracting powers is attacked by a power at present not involved in the European war or in the Chinese-Japanese conflict."

The Greer incident was dismissed, however, by the Tokyo newspaper Hochi as "nothing but that a belligerent destroyer was attacked by a submarine in belligerent waters." The newspaper declared the United States gave up neutrality in the occupation of Iceland.

German dispatches said a long-range bombardment of Leningrad continued, with electric power plants and a munitions factory effectively hit. Strong luftwaffe units also were declared to have scattered strong troop concentrations in the area.

British naval forces in the Mediterranean struck anew in an effort to halt reinforcement of Axis armies in North Africa.

The British admiralty announced in London that the 11,398-ton Italian liner Esperia had been torpedoed and sunk on a south-bound voyage near Tripoli, Libya, as one of "an exceptionally strongly escorted convoy." She was described as of a troop-ship type.

Only Friday the admiralty announced the torpedoing and "almost certain" sinking of a liner tentatively identified as the 23,635-ton Duilio.

Britain admitted, however, the loss of her 30th submarine in the war, the P-33. Unlisted in navy manuals, it apparently was of a new type.

roe in a storage car. The contents of this car are loaded onto waiting mail trucks and distributed at the nine sub-postoffice stations located in the Monroe area, or APO, as they are called (army postoffices).

The location of these sub-stations is not announced for publication and they are likely to be removed from day to day as the troops are reassigned to other communities.

Thus it will be seen that all outgoing soldier mail is to be handled from the Monroe postoffice as base, but that none of the incoming mail is handled here.

The sub-stations are open six days a week and there is detailed at each one a regular mail clerk who is provided with supplies such as any regular postoffice possesses, selling stamps, issuing money orders and conducting a regular routine business.

TRAIN STOPPED TO GIVE STORK CHANCE

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 6.—(AP)—A speeding freight train gave the stork right-of-way just in the nick of time today. Seeing an ambulance dashing toward a crossing, Engineer R. J. Louviere throttled the freight to a quick stop.

Exactly a minute after the ambulance arrived at Our Lady of the Lake Sanitarium, an eight-pound baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Piper, their second child. While he's passing out the traditional cigars, Piper has a whole box reserved for Louviere.

world but would remain a military secret.

They are policies which the chief executive has enunciated in press conferences and in a Labor day speech last Monday.

Mr. Roosevelt failed to mention Japan and the crisis in the Far East in the Labor day address, and some individuals thought they might command a share of attention Monday.

Conjectures on the possible range of the address went so far as to cover the chances that the president might be getting ready to ask his countrymen to take up arms against Hitler and his allies but there was absolutely no basis for putting such a step in any category but pure speculation and guesswork.

Whether the German communique today had crystallized a presidential decision to go on the air Monday was not ascertained, although Hassett indicated that Mr. Roosevelt had not made up his mind suddenly.

The address will be delivered from the White House in Washington at 9 p.m. eastern standard time, and will be carried by all major radio companies.

The Nazi communique was regarded by some individuals at the temporary White House as confirming the American government's opinion, hitherto expressed only by implication, that a German U-boat deliberately tried to sink the Greer.

The navy announced that two torpedoes were fired at the destroyer, while she was en route to Iceland with mail, and that she had dropped depth charges immediately.

Hassett said it was "only to be expected" that the Germans would attempt to blame the United States for the engagement.

The Nazis said today that a submarine, justifiably defending herself from attack within the German blockade zone, had launched two torpedoes at a destroyer on Thursday about 200 miles southwest of Iceland.

Nationality of the destroyer could not be determined, the communique said, but the ship was violating neutrality.

The question was raised here how the commander of the undersea craft could have reported that the destroyer acted in violation of neutrality unless he was able to determine that she was a ship of a non-belligerent nation. If the officer was able to make such a determination, it was argued, it would appear that he also could have determined the nationality of the destroyer.

But the president, who arrived here from Washington to spend the week-end with his mother, maintained strict silence on the entire Greer incident.

charge of French police, was delegated to go urgently to Paris. The reason was not disclosed immediately.

The cabinet was believed to have taken up with Marshal Petain the question of lineup of government functionaries under the present Vichy regime.

It was learned that beginning October 1 Max Ungrand, the interior ministry's representative at Paris, will strengthen his staff with two new officials designated to place more emphasis on the preservation of order.

In another reorganization today Vice-Premier Admiral Jean Darlan gained more power as Marshal Petain's administrative service was attached to his office. By this Darlan received possible direction of a proposed network of commissars of public power, a new general staff of national defense and other new services.

A Bordeaux summary court for Communists started functioning today with five Red suspects being sentenced to four years' imprisonment. A Poiters court sentenced some railroad workers yesterday to three to 10 years in prison for Communist activity.

At Peribuex six received sentences ranging up to 20 years at hard labor on like charges.

The Paris special courts continue to grind out cases. Two more were sentenced to jail terms yesterday.

Gabriel Peri, former deputy who escaped after he had been sentenced with 43 other Communists before the German invasion, has been recaptured and faces trial.

21ST SOLDIER KILLED

ALEXANDRIA, La., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Corporal Chester A. Grotton, 24, Gardiner, Me., died today in the station hospital at Camp Livingston from injuries suffered yesterday in the maneuver area. His was the 21st soldier fatality since the war games started in Louisiana. He was a member of Company M, 103rd Infantry, 43rd division.

INFLATED LIZARDS

Chuckwalla lizards of the southwestern deserts of the United States inflate themselves in rocky crevices. This makes it impossible to pull them out, so Indians capture them by puncturing their bodies with wires.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Heavy trading and speculative buying on expectations of a lower government indicated crop figure Monday carried prices of the distant positions in cotton futures here today over the 18-cent mark for the first time since December, 1929.

Closing prices were steady, 1 to 9 points net higher.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15-16 inch cotton at 10 designated southern spot markets today was 10 points higher at 17.27 cents a pound; average for the past 20 market days was 16.12; middling 7-8 inch average was 17.06.

New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Cotton futures today rebounded from a slight reaction brought on by the three-fold pressure of profit taking, liquidation in anticipation of the government crop report and week-end evening up operations. Trade demand found offerings light.

The market eased a little on light hedge selling. A contributing factor was believed to be the growing inclination of southern farmers to hold crops for better prices.

Late prices were one to three points higher; October 17.42; May 17.89 and July 17.86.

The May position reached 18 cents for the first time since January, 1930, as late trade buying and covering found offerings scarce.

Futures closed 8 to 13 higher.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The stock market picked at mild recovery straws today and again was fairly successful in specialized instances.

Come-back tendencies crept into the list at the start but considerable diffidence appeared later and closing quotations were well jumbled.

Volume was around 225,000 shares, although dealings for the most part were sluggish.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

In reference to the government regulations we are very proud indeed to say that this did NOT affect our used car operation as it was the same rules and regulations as we have been doing business in the past.

We have not advanced the price of our used cars. Down payments and terms are the same as ever.

Visit our used car department TODAY and see the finest selection of used cars in Northeast Louisiana.

Cards Of Thanks (1)

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our everlasting gratitude to our many friends for the beautiful floral offerings, kind deeds, and expressions of sympathy extended us at the death of our beloved father and brother, John Larson Ragland.

We are especially grateful to the members of the First Baptist church for their many courtesies; Rev. L. T. Hastings for his consoling words, and the Dixie Funeral home for their devoted services.

Atlantic Ocean Island Bristles With United States And British Guns

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Drew Middleton of the London Associated Press bureau, who covered the B. E. F. in France and reported subsequent war developments in Britain, has arrived in Iceland. He tells in this dispatch of military activities on the north Atlantic island.)

By Drew Middleton

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Within a few short months this Atlantic ocean island has been turned into a United States-British Gibraltar of the north.

Iceland bristles today with guns, air fields dot the countryside and warships of America and Britain comb surrounding waters in ever-watchful patrols.

Newly-arrived observers are impressed at once with the defenses of this keystone in a communications arch over which arms and materials pass from America to Great Britain. Gibraltar itself and Malta in the Mediterranean are scarcely more strongly held than this barren land, which is half again the size of Ireland.

Censorship, of course, will not permit disclosure of the number of men or the amount of equipment here, but it can be said that the American, British and Norwegian forces on the island exceed the number of trained troops Britain had to repel invasion in the summer of 1940.

United States marines in olive-green uniforms occupy an important place in Iceland's defense plans. Their guns and tanks have taken up positions alongside the British.

The British appear to have great respect for the marines, who settled on the island as though it were the most natural place in the world to be.

In planning the defenses of Iceland no possibility has been overlooked.

The island is within range of troop-carrying planes based on the European continent, and the long nights would afford protection for a hostile flotilla creeping down past Greenland to effect a landing in the north.

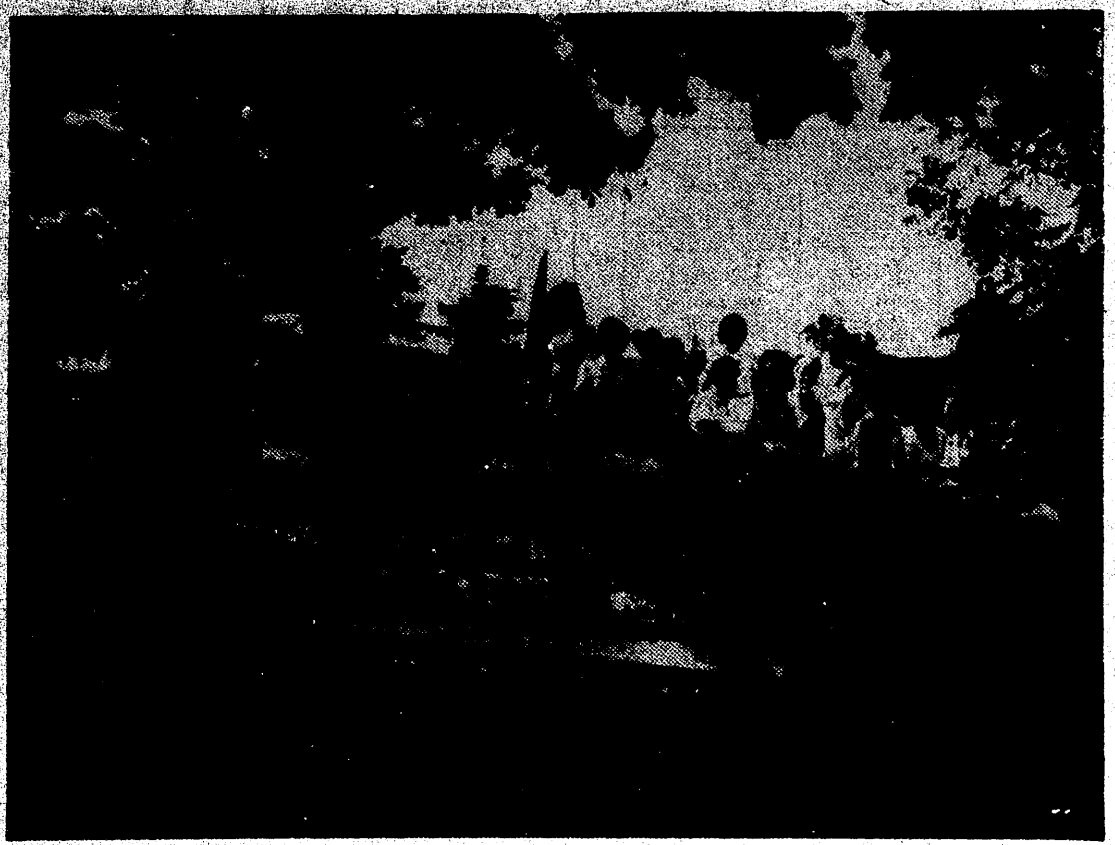
American and British officers have studied these problems, and have made their plans accordingly.

So well have these forces done their work that submarine sinkings in this part of the Atlantic have dropped to a new low. One report has it that not a single merchant ship has gone down along the northern route from the United States to Great Britain in the past seven weeks.

'LIBERTY OR—DEATH'

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Sept. 6.—(AP)—A stranger strolled into the midst of a political argument on the Adair county courthouse lawn and shouted, "Give me liberty or give me death"—and dropped dead. He remained unidentified today. W. C. Summers, Adair county coroner, attributed death to heart disease.

LABOR DAY'S PRIZE FLOAT



The above float was entered in the Labor day parade by the Women's International Union Label league No. 570 of Monroe. Members who are seen seated on the float are the following: Mrs. J. A. Newburn, Mrs. J. C. Hamilton, Mrs. C. M. Dray, Mrs. Ted Woods, Mrs. E. D. Ory, Mrs. Ila Frost, Mrs. Ethel Anderson, Mrs. J. W. O'Brien, Mrs. R. W. Cash, Mrs. H. L. Thompson, Mrs. Jeff Clark, and Mrs. S. E. Mequet.

LOCAL CHEST IS AID TO Y. W. C. A.

Comprises Important Link In Civic Activity Of Monroe

One of the important participating agencies in the Twin City Community chest is the Young Women's Christian association. The local "Y" comprises two active business girl's clubs with a membership of more than 100.

In the Young Women's Christian associations of the United States of America there are over four hundred associations which have regularly organized work with business and professional girls. In these associations there are approximately 60,000 young women who are members of business and professional girls' clubs. These groups plan and execute their own programs in line with the expressed interests of the members, in the light of the purpose of the Y. W. C. A., and in cooperation with the interests common to all business girls in the Y. W. C. A.'s.

The Business Girls' clubs provide a wide and varied program of activities to meet the needs of their members. Girls who want to add to their knowledge in cultural realms; those who want social good times; those who want to develop recreation skill; those who wish avenues of creative expression through the arts, as music, dramatics, creative writing, and crafts; those who want vocational help; those who want health information; those who want help in the field of marriage and family relationships—all these girls will find leisure-time interest groups from time to time which will meet their needs.

Since most of these girls are employed in business and professional jobs, it is natural that many of their common concerns countrywide are related to their work life, either directly or indirectly. Because of rapidly shifting social and economic conditions during the last two decades and particularly since 1929, business and professional women face a world which is quite different from the one they have learned to expect.

Some business girls in the association find tremendous challenge in that part of their program which helps them to see their role in society, and which gives opportunities for work on special concerns with other groups which have the same interests. This community of interest is found sometimes with other groups in the association, sometimes with other groups in the community. However, it is with groups such as their own in other associations that they find the greatest community of interest. Their concern about their own personal security is expressing itself in an increased interest in the larger group, and in ways and means of working on basic problems.

ACTRESS EXPECTS MARITAL SUCCESS

Gene Tierney Says John D. Rockefeller Gave Her Right Formula

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Film Actress Gene Tierney says she's sure her marriage to Count Oleg Cassini will last, because it's based on a friendly tip from John D. Rockefeller.

When Gene married the former Washington, D. C., dress designer last June, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Tierney, New York socialites, publicly expressed displeasure.

"Look," said Gene, in an interview at her studio. "Here's a secret I never told anybody.

"My husband and I have a sure-fire, time-tested axiom that makes our marriage a cinch to last. Don't laugh I got the hunch from John D. Rockefeller, who was happily married for 60 years or so, wasn't he?

"Rockefeller said, 'A friendship founded on business always lasts but a business founded on friendship usually ends in the bankruptcy of both business and friendship.'

"My huband and I are business partners, in a way. He designs my costumes, and I act in them. Maybe I'd have married him even if he had been a movie star, which thank heaven he's not.

"The point is, we stumbled into John D.'s formula for success. Sixty years—whoops! If Rockefeller could do it why not Tierney?"

Gene said Director Josef von Sternberg almost fainted when he first saw Cassini's costumes for her to wear in "The Shanghai Gesture"—"but it was from joy—he's really crazy about the designs, and so am I.

"Is my husband going to create costumes for other actresses? Indeed, and why not? It's his career. But of course I'll come first."

Gene added that one of these days she was going to take time out to have three babies i na row. Having babies did a lot for Margaret Sullavan, she said, and, anyway, she wants 'em. Babies, she said, are pretty good marriage insurance.

FRAZERS LEAVE ON LONG MOTOR TRIP

Harry G. Frazer and Mrs. Frazer have left for Tulsa, Okla., and will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Warner for a few days. The party then plans to proceed by motor to Detroit, Mich., where they will attend the annual meeting of the American Institute of Accountants.

Following the meeting they will make a short trip through Canada before returning home.

Ellen Kent Millsaps And Kenneth Carpenter Banfield, Jr., Are Married

Rites Characterized By Quiet Simplicity

Wedding Solemnized In Home Of Bride's Parents Here; Rev. Ernest Holloway Officiates

The quiet simplicity and charming intimacy of a home wedding characterized the ceremony which joined Miss Ellen Kent Millsaps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Flournoy Millsaps of Monroe, to Kenneth Carpenter Banfield, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carpenter Banfield, Sr., of Baton Rouge. The wedding was solemnized September 2 at 6:00 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents at 1900 Riverside drive by Rev. Ernest Holloway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

A concert of prenuptial music was rendered by Mrs. C. S. Gaushell at the piano. She played several pieces of appropriate music, including Liebestraum, preceding the ceremony. The bride entered to the "Wedding March" from Wagner's "Lohengrin." Music formed a soft background for the nuptial vows.

The home was decorated with white asters, tube roses and southern smilax in artistic arrangements. The couple knelt on a white satin prie-dieu to take their vows.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, F. F. Millsaps. She wore a gown of white net and lace whose utter simplicity made it striking. She wore a coronet of tube roses. Her bridal bouquet was fashioned of gardenias, orchids and tube roses.

The ceremony was followed by an informal reception in the home of the bride's parents, with the same close friends and members of the two families who attended the wedding present. Mr. and Mrs. Millsaps, the bride and bridegroom, Mrs. Janey Banfield, and Miss Jordena Flournoy, great-aunt of the bride, received guests.

The bride's table was decorated in white and silver. It was covered with white lace and held a tiered bride's cake iced in white and embossed in silver.

After cutting the cake, the bride changed to an advanced fall model of black crepe with white accessories, which she wore on the wedding trip.

Mrs. Banfield attended Hollins college in Virginia and Louisiana State university. She is a member of Kappa Delta social sorority.

Mr. Banfield is a graduate of the Louisiana State university school of law. He also studied law at the University of Paris, France. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity.

The couple will be at home to friends at 673 Hypolite street, Baton Rouge.

Among the out-of-town guests who were present at the wedding were Mrs. Janey Banfield, Edward Robertson, Joseph Gladney and John Calhoun of Baton Rouge, and Mrs. George Miller of Alexandria.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Martin of Winnsboro announce the marriage of their daughter, Vivian, to L. A. Hamilton. The ceremony was performed in Waskam, Tex., August 15.

Plays To Be Sponsored By University Women

The 1941-42 season of Clare Tree Major Productions will be sponsored this year by the Monroe Branch of the American Association of University Women. In previous years, the P.-T. A. has been responsible for the local presentations.

Four plays will be given this season. "Sleeping Beauty" will be presented December 11; "Toby Tyler," January 22; "Poor Little Rich Girl," February 26; and "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," April 9.

The plays will be given at 4 p.m. at the Neville High school auditorium. Tickets will be available later in the fall.

The Clare Tree Major Theater for Children is now in its 18th season, playing to over a million children annually from coast to coast. Six companies of adult professional players bring color, fantasy, joy, and—what is more important—cultural and ethical development to the children of America.

The plays are swift moving, full of action and vivid characterization. Costumes and settings are of high standards, with a generous use of the gay colors which children love. Clare Tree Major plays do not preach. But they do present—reinforced by the glamour of the theater—high standards of conduct which children unconsciously imitate. The plays bring to life the great stories of literature, "Little Women," "Mrs. Wiggs," "Penrod," and the plays are faithful to the books in both mood and characterization.

As an educational movement, the Clare Tree Major Theater for children has the enthusiastic support of boards of education, and of those leaders in American life who associate themselves with movements which, after careful scrutiny, are shown to be educationally sound and intellectually honest.

The Clare Tree Major Theater operates under a non-profit, educational charter granted by New York state. Part of its ideal of integrity is that it shall be self-supporting, as it has been from its inception. For seventeen years through good times and bad, Clare Tree Major Theater has held firm to her own purpose—that the children of America shall grow up under the cultural influence of good theater.

First Meeting Is Held By Twin City Council

A large and enthusiastic group met at the Ouachita parish courthouse for the first meeting of the Twin City P.-T. A. Council Thursday at 4 p.m., with the president, Mrs. W. S. Vincent, presiding. A special feature of the meeting was the attendance of all the membership and hospitality committees from each local unit.

Mrs. Fagan Cox, the state P.-T. A. president, addressed the group on ways to increase membership. Mrs. Cox stressed the point that children must be considered as citizens of tomorrow. Members should have an understanding of P.-T. A. program policies and achievements to enable them to present effectively the opportunities offered through participation in such an organization. She urged that the drive for membership begin early and that plans be made to complete the enrollment according to the state program. Membership committees should cooperate with other committees in order to secure more effective work, Mrs. Cox stressed.

Mrs. Eulalie McCoy, as membership chairman of the council, asked that all local units put on an intensive drive for members. A committee was appointed by the president to write letters of approval concerning the educational survey in Louisiana.

Mrs. C. C. Lindley, fifth district director, expressed pleasure concerning the spirit of cooperation being shown in promoting new units throughout the district. She also welcomed Mrs. H. O. Hartman from the Lenwil school, where a new unit under her direction has been recently organized.

An informative discussion of "safety" was given by Mrs. G. B. Wilson, state chairman of safety.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. George Varino distributed copies of the year's program, which has been outlined by Mrs. C. C. Miller, Mrs. D. Nicol, Miss Kate Perkins, and Mrs. Varino.

Coffee Hour Here Is An Interesting Event

Mrs. Wood Thompson, Mrs. W. M King, Mrs. James Sparks Entertain For Mrs. Carey Thompson, Jr.

One of the most interesting events of the past few days was the coffee hour with which Mrs. Wood Thompson, Mrs. W. M. King, and Mrs. James Sparks entertained for Mrs. Carey Thompson, Jr., who before her recent marriage was Miss Isabel Christensen of Mobile, Ala.

The affair was held at the Lotus club.

Mrs. Carey Thompson, Jr., met guests in a costume combining colors of pale beige and hunter's green. She wore a bridal corsage of stephanotis.

Mrs. W. M. King wore a luggage tan chiffon gown with a corsage of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Wood Thompson wore green chiffon with a corsage of Gerber daisies. Mrs. James Sparks wore a tan chiffon gown with a corsage of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Carey Thompson, Sr., also received guests, and she wore a blue crepe dress with a corsage of white flowers.

The reception hall was decorated in flowers in varying shades of yellow. The drawing room combined shades of pink and lavendar in bouquets of mixed flowers.

The table was decorated entirely in white, carrying out the bridal theme. The centerpiece was a dainty wedding bouquet, fashioned of white asters and tube roses. A shower of garlanded tube roses extended from the central bouquet in all directions. At each corner of the table was a crystal cornucopia filled with white asters and tube roses. The entire table was reflected many times in standing mirrors.

Mrs. J. Q. Graves, wearing black chiffon with pink accents, and Mrs. Ben Downing, in a beige and red pique model, poured. Mrs. R. C Sparks, Jr., Mrs. William Conley, Mrs. R. L. Davis, Mrs. King Stubbs, Mrs. John Theus, Mrs. R. W. Hair, Miss Clara Virginia Terzia, and Miss Louise Gray assisted in serving. All wore corsages of roses.

In addition to coffee, assorted sandwiches, cakes, and confections were served.

Almost two hundred guests called during the morning.

Business, Professional Women To Start Program

Members of the Monroe Business and Professional Women's club will launch a vigorous program for the club year with their meeting at the Virginia Hotel, Tuesday night, at 8 o'clock. Members of the Board will meet at 7:30 p.m.

Plans for National Business Women's Week, which is to be observed throughout the nation, will be made. The chosen topic, "Strengthen Democracy for Defense," has been outlined in a yearbook, and the first program sounds the keynote, "What are We Defending?"

Based on the theme, the National Federation's president, Dr. Minnie L. Maffett states:

"Never before in history have events moved so fast as in the present hour. And never, in our time, has democracy been more seriously threatened.

"It has not been an easy task this year to prepare a program which is to serve as a guide for some 75,000 thinking women. The federation's membership is spread over a vast area. It would be most unusual if points of view did not vary across the continent; most unhealthy, too, if there were not differing opinions within a club's own membership.

"It would seem an almost impossible task if it were not for the fact that 'Strengthen Democracy for Defense'" is a program with which, we feel, every individual is in accord."

Color! FOR GRAY HAIR with CANUTE WATER

If you have gray hair, just wet it with Canute Water. A few applications will completely re-color it, similar to its former natural shade . . . in one day, if you wish. After that, attention only once a month will keep it young-looking.
Your hair will retain its naturally soft texture and lovely new color even after shampooing, perspiration, curling or waving. It remains clean and natural to the touch and looks natural in any light.
SAFE—No Skin Test Needed!
Canute Water is pure, colorless and crystal-clear. It has a remarkable record of 25 years without injury to a single person. In fact, scientific research at one of America's greatest Universities proved Canute Water to be perfectly harmless.
No Other Product Can Make All These Claims
Is it any wonder that we sell more Canute Water than all other hair coloring preparations combined?

Ellen Kent Millsaps And Kenneth Carpenter Banfield, Jr., Are Married

Rites Characterized By Quiet Simplicity

Wedding Solemnized In Home Of Bride's Parents Here; Rev. Ernest Holloway Officiates

The quiet simplicity and charming intimacy of a home wedding characterized the ceremony which joined Miss Ellen Kent Millsaps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Flournoy Millsaps of Monroe, to Kenneth Carpenter Banfield, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carpenter Banfield, Sr., of Baton Rouge. The wedding was solemnized September 2 at 6:00 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents at 1900 Riverside drive by Rev. Ernest Holloway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

A concert of prenuptial music was rendered by Mrs. C. S. Gaushell at the piano. She played several pieces of appropriate music, including Liebestraum, preceding the ceremony. The bride entered to the "Wedding March" from Wagner's "Lohengrin." Music formed a soft background for the nuptial vows.

The home was decorated with white asters, tube roses and southern smilax in artistic arrangements. The couple knelt on a white satin prie-dieu to take their vows.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, F. F. Millsaps. She wore a gown of white net and lace whose utter simplicity made it striking. She wore a coronet of tube roses. Her bridal bouquet was fashioned of gardenias, orchids and tube roses.

The ceremony was followed by an informal reception in the home of the bride's parents, with the same close friends and members of the two families who attended the wedding present. Mr. and Mrs. Millsaps, the bride and bridegroom, Mrs. Janey Banfield, and Miss Jordena Flournoy, great-aunt of the bride, received guests.

The bride's table was decorated in white and silver. It was covered with white lace and held a tiered bride's cake iced in white and embossed in silver.

After cutting the cake, the bride changed to an advanced fall model of black crepe with white accessories, which she wore on the wedding trip.

Mrs. Banfield attended Hollins college in Virginia and Louisiana State university. She is a member of Kappa Delta social sorority.

Mr. Banfield is a graduate of the Louisiana State university school of law. He also studied law at the University of Paris, France. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity.

The couple will be at home to friends at 673 Hypolite street, Baton Rouge.

Among the out-of-town guests who were present at the wedding were Mrs. Janey Banfield, Edward Robertson, Joseph Gladney and John Calhoun of Baton Rouge, and Mrs. George Miller of Alexandria.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Martin of Winnsboro announce the marriage of their daughter, Vivian, to L. A. Hamilton. The ceremony was performed in Waskam, Tex., August 15.

Plays To Be Sponsored By University Women

The 1941-42 season of Clare Tree Major Productions will be sponsored this year by the Monroe Branch of the American Association of University Women. In previous years, the P.-T. A. has been responsible for the local presentations.

Four plays will be given this season. "Sleeping Beauty" will be presented December 11; "Toby Tyler," January 22; "Poor Little Rich Girl," February 26; and "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," April 9.

The plays will be given at 4 p.m. at the Neville High school auditorium. Tickets will be available later in the fall.

The Clare Tree Major Theater for Children is now in its 18th season, playing to over a million children annually from coast to coast. Six companies of adult professional players bring color, fantasy, joy, and—what is more important—cultural and ethical development to the children of America.

The plays are swift moving, full of action and vivid characterization. Costumes and settings are of high standards, with a generous use of the gay colors which children love. Clare Tree Major plays do not preach. But they do present—reinforced by the glamour of the theater—high standards of conduct which children unconsciously imitate. The plays bring to life the great stories of literature, "Little Women," "Mrs. Wiggs," "Penrod," and the plays are faithful to the books in both mood and characterization.

As an educational movement, the Clare Tree Major Theater for children has the enthusiastic support of boards of education, and of those leaders in American life who associate themselves with movements which, after careful scrutiny, are shown to be educationally sound and intellectually honest.

The Clare Tree Major Theater operates under a non-profit, educational charter granted by New York state. 'Fascination Of Flower Arrangement' Theme Of Local Garden Club Program

Monthly Meeting Held At Hotel Frances Here

Mrs. Jack Bagwell In Charge Of Delightful And Instructive Presentation; Highlights Given

A program on the "Fascination of Flower Arrangements" was the feature of the September meeting of the Welcome Garden club at Hotel Frances. Mrs. Jack Bagwell, program chairman, presented the delightful and instructive program upon completion of a short business meeting which was conducted by the president, Mrs. H. V. Collins.

Because of the interest which every woman feels in flower arrangement, some of the high points of the lecture are reproduced here. Mrs. Charles Swain conducted the lecture, with Miss Carolyn Swain, assisted by Miss Carolyn Bagwell, operating the lantern slides with which it was illustrated:

"Nature expresses her most colorful moods in flowers, leaves, and weeds. These should be given a proper setting within our homes. Here is where flower arranging is a fascinating study and hobby everyone can enjoy.

"First, one needs the necessary paraphernalia, which includes good shears, a variety of holders of the pin type with needles very close together. These metal frogs are substantial enough to hold rigid the branches of shrubs and heavy stemmed flowers. Have some modeling clay to fasten flat holders to your bowl before you add water. Be sure the bowl, clay, and holder are all dry.

"The next step one must consider is those art elements known as 'line' and 'mass.' 'Line' refers to the contour of the composition as well as the general outline of the individual bloom, leaves, branches, and container. The term 'mass' refers to the distribution of color, and light and dark areas. Mass effects are obtained by an abundance of flowers, foliage and fruit with a rich blend of contrast or repetition in color. Flowers with simple round heads, like zinnias. marigolds, and petunias are best for massing.

"Color harmonies fall into three general groups:

"(1) Monochromatic harmony employs only one hue. This is supplemented with shades, tints, and tones of the same shade.

"(2) Sequence harmony is one in which adjoining hues on the color scale are used together. For instance, orange, yellow, and green may be used.

"(3) Complementary harmony employed color combinations based on contrasts, such as red and turquoise."

The building of several flower arrangements were shown on the screen; one for a formal dining table, one for a buffet, and one a pyramidal composition. The first was a dining table arrangement composed of calla leaves, callas, yellow gladioli, and yellow-green iris seed pods. Stress was laid on the fact that "one must consider silhouete first and then scale in building an arrangement of composition. Scale means that all material should be of the proper size and quantity for the container used, as a composition can be entirely thrown out of balance by too much material. One must consider the weight and amount of foliage on one side of an imaginary line to balance the other side.

"The focus is the central point of emphasis to which the eye is naturally led, and in this arrangement two large calla lilies were used right up in front. Then yellow gladioli were added for color and to accent the calla's yellow stamen. The seed pods gave an interesting contrast of texture and a slight change of color

"One important point is a well-chosen background in related color value which adds greatly to the general effect. In arranging flowers, be observant of the way Nature herself arranges things in growth. When using figurines it is important to study the scale of the figurine in combination with material to make the figurine appear life size. If you watch your color schemes there is nothing more interesting than the correct combination underneath or on either side of your loveliest picture. The flowers should draw out the color and texture qualities of your picture and yet not overbalance it. In using solo flowers such as water lilies, orchids, and iris, one must exercise great care so as not to disturb their beautiful design. In order to keep water lilies open, one may gently hold back the petals while dripping hot candle wax close to the stamens. Also, pump water into their stems. This treatment will make them stay awake for several days.

Many lovely types of the beautiful Fostoria crystal suitable for flowers were thrown on the screen. It was shown that shallow containers are very useful and effective for many interesting types of arrangements. A heavy crystal vase with Colonial flutings was good for a mass formation of a typical Victorian bouquet.

Before the lecture was given Mrs. Bagwell passed out cards for the flower arrangement quiz bee, which was answered by members at the conclusion of the lecture. The two members holding a perfect score were Mrs. Vance J. Rhodes and Mrs. E. B. Johnson. Mrs. Rhodes, chairman of the club's flower arrangement committee, drew the prize, which was a vase.

The projector for the illustrated lecture was furnished through the courtesy of Miss Julia C. Wossman.

Mrs. Charles Swain, Mrs. F. E. Black, and Mrs. E. B. Johnson were appointed to act as the visiting committee for the month. Because of the length of the lecture, the regular program was put off until a later date.

Announcement Of Garden Club Program Is Made

Recent announcement has been made of the program of the Monroe Garden club for the new year. The club year will open for them tomorrow, when they will hold their first meeting at the home of Mrs. Carl McHenry. Joan Kathan Marries Walter M. Scott, Jr.

Wedding Of Widespread Interest Is Performed At Methodist Church In Tallulah

A wedding which was of widespread interest to friends in several states last week was that of Miss Joan Kathan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Joseph Kathan of Tendal, La., to Walter Marley Scott, Jr., of Albany, Ga., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Marley Scott, Sr., and grandson of the late Governor Henry L. Fuqua. The marriage took place at the Methodist church in Tallulah, La., August 28, in the evening, with the Rev. D. W. Poole, assisted by the Rev. Dean L. Maurer, rector of the Trinity Episcopal church in Tallulah, officiating at the impressive double ring ceremony.

Within the chancel stood tall white floor candelabra holding myriad burning tapers. Baskets of white chrysanthemums arranged against a background of greenery were placed among the candelabra, giving the seeming effect that the candles rose from the flowers. White candles tied with satin ribbon marked the pews which were reserved for the family of the bride and the bridegroom.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Carolyn Brown of Brinkley, Ark., sang "I Love You Truly," "Because," and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. James Gilfoil of Omega, La. During the exchange of vows, "Liebestraum" was softly played. For the processional, Wagner's "Wedding March" from "Lohengrin" was played. The recessional to which the wedding party left the church was Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

The matron of honor was Mrs. Emmett Craig, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. John Fershtand of Fort Worth, Tex., cousin of the bride, Mrs. L. T. Davis of Kerrville, Tex., and Miss Peggy Claughton. They wore identical models fashioned of ice blue marquisette and lace. The bodice was made on close-fitting lines with a square neck, short puffed sleeves, and lace inserts. The skirt was very bouffant. The bridesmaids' bouquets were of pink carnations and delphinium. Matching clusters of delphinium and corn flowers were worn in their hair.

The bridegroom had as his best man his cousin, Warren Patrick, of Albany. The bridegroomsmen were Lieutenant Harry Goldman of Camp Jackson, S. C., Lieutenant James H. Collins of Jackson, Miss., and Carneal Goldman of Waterproof, La. Ushers were Arthur G. Bray and Emmett Craig of Tallulah. They wore white suits with black ties and boutonnieres of pink carnations.

The bride's mother wore a model combining blue lace and net with a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother was gowned in a black and white crepe with a corsage of pink roses.

The bride walked to the chancel steps with her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore traditional white satin. It was made with a deep lace yoke, a high, close-fitting neck, and long sleeves which ended in lily points over the hands. The fitted bodice was fastened with tin, satin-covered buttons down the back to the point where the skirt was joined to it. The skirt ended in a sweeping cathedral train. The double finger-tip veil of illusion was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis against a gathered background of white tulle. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls. For something old and borrowed, she used a rose point lace handkerchief belonging to one of her au..ts.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Refreshments were served from a lace-covered table which held a beautifully-embossed tiered wedding cake. It was flanked at either end by gleaming green tapers in crystal holders.

After cutting the cake, the couple left for a wedding trip in the Ozark mountains. The bride wore for traveling an early fall model black suit with a white lace blouse and black accessories. Her corsage was of white orchids.

The bride is a graduate of Tallulah High school. She attended Stevens college and Southern Methodist university, where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Phi sorority.

The bridegroom graduated from Castle Heights college, Lebanon, Tenn., and attended Louisiana State university, where he was a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott will reside in Albany, where Mr. Scott is an instructor at Darr Aero Tech.

Among the out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Waldemar Landry, Miss Dorothy Landry, Miss Anne Grayson, Mrs. Henry L. Fuqua, and Henry L. Fuqua, of Baton Rouge, La.; Mrs. Robert C. Howell and Robert C. Howell, Jr., of Tucson, Ariz.; Mrs. Carneal Goldman of Waterproof, La.; Miss Vera Skinner of St. Joseph, La.; Mr. and Mrs. James E. Pitcher and Miss Jane Pitcher of Minden, La.; Dr. John Fershtand of Fort Worth, Tex.; Mrs. F. G. Meehan of Hope, Ark.; Mrs. A. L. Lacy, Jr., of Kerrville, Tex.; Miss Anne Lacy of Longview, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jones and Miss Evelyn Jones of Jackson, Miss.; Mrs. George Aitkin and George Aitkin, Jr., of Helena, Ark.; Mrs. J. B. Patrick and Patsy Patrick of Albany, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Lane of Shreveport and Monroe are now in Terrell, Tex., where Mr. Lane is an instructor in the Royal Air Force detachment of the Army Air corps. The detachment is composed of British men between the ages of 18 and 30 who are being instructed by American pilots.

DELTA BETA SIGMA PRESIDENT . . .

Miss Bennie Hughes, who will serve the local chapter of Delta Beta Sigma sorority in her recently acquired capacity as president.

Monroe Girls Hold High Positions On Campuses

This month many of Monroe's girls are leaving their homes to attend college and among them are several who attended college last year and who will occupy prominent positions on the campuses this year.

Miss Mary Lavinia Inabnet, who will be a junior at Randolph-Macon Women's college at Lynchburg, Va., will be president of her class for the year of 1941-42. She is also pledge mistress of the Chi Omega sorority chapter there. Miss Inabnet will leave Monroe several days before registration of juniors at Randolph-Macon, begins since she is a leader of a training group for the orientation of freshmen students.

Quite a sizable niche in L. S. U. campus life has been carved out by Miss Lelia Dean Frazier for herself. This coming year she will occupy the enviable position of co-ed vice-president for the student body. She is also a member of the Panhellenic council, of Mortar Board, and is a senior advisor.

Another student at L. S. U. who is outstanding for various achievements is Miss Che Che Hinkle, a senior this year. She will be the co-ed representative on the Student Council from the college of arts and sciences. Miss Hinkle transferred to L. S. U. from Northeast Junior college as a junior last year, and received the annually awarded cup as being the most outstanding transfer of the year.

At Northeast Junior college this year, Miss Carolyn Husted will serve as president of the Purple Jacket club, an organization requiring a leader of marked ability. Miss Juanita Lippmin of Monroe held the post last year.

Prenuptial Parties For Bride-Elect Are Started

A round of pre-nuptial parties for Miss Julia Carroll of West Monroe, bride-elect, was started when Miss Dorothy Prince and Miss Beulah Doerr entertained for her with a breakfast at Miss Prince's home.

Miss Carroll, wearing a fall suit of brown and white, Miss Prince, wearing a navy sheer frock, and Miss Doerr, in a rose bemberg crepe dress, received guests against a background of massed roses.

The breakfast table reflected a great deal of ingenuity in its unusual centerpiece. A miniature house of the type a newly-married couple would want was placed on a realistic lawn of green. Tiny furniture completely furnished the house. On the lawn were small flower beds fashioned of real flowers of mixed varieties. A mirror fish pond reflected miniature trees. The final touch was added by a clothes line hanging in the back yard and draped with flapping doll's clothes, freshly washed.

Each place card was spread by a tiny doll's knife, fork, and spoon.

Breakfast over, the bride-elect was presented with a book titled "Household Hints," in which each guest wrote a contribution to a well-run house.

A surprise shower of linens was the next thing with which the group was concerned. Little Miss Gerry Lynn Lester, dressed in a maid's uniform, pulled out a wagon which held a doll's house with presents bulging out of every window and door.

Among the guests were: Miss Carroll, Mrs. J. D. Carroll, Miss Martha Carroll, Mrs. Sybil Lee, Mrs. D. N. Barron, Mrs. P. A. Colvin, Mrs. H. A. Lester, Miss Nita Johnston, Miss Johnette Register, and Mrs. A. E. Prince.

Announcement Is Made Of Thompson-Cox Rites

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Clay Dell Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Cox of Chatham, La., to Benion J. Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Thompson of Swartz, La. The ceremony was performed June 7 in Rayville, La.

The bride wore a light blue summer model with blue and white accessories.

Her sole attendant was Miss Ouida Crawley of Monroe. She wore a green chiffon frock.

Best man was Bruce Sandler.

The couple are making their home at Fort Benning, Ga., where the bridegroom is a staff sergeant in the United States army.

Graves Hundley, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Hundley of Monroe, is in Montgomery, Ala., where he is stationed at Maxwell field. Mr. Hundley already holds a civilian pilot's license, and is now training for an army license.

There the group attended the Chicago Association of Dancing Masters, and studied under outstanding dancing teachers. Many other things of outstanding interest also occupied their time while there.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Willard left Saturday for an auto trip through the South and East, terminating in a visit with relatives at Keene, N. H. The length of the vacation will be determined by the date of the opening of the fall term of school, since Mrs. Willard teaches at the Georgia Tucker school.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Smith, 307 North Second street, have returned from an extensive trip with emphasis laid on visits in Tennessee, Kansas, and Chicago, Ill. While in Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Smith attended many plays and gleaned many new ideas for use during the coming term of activity in the Monroe Little Theater, of which Mr. Smith is director. He announces that his studio is now open for the new season.

Another B. M. I. Ex-Student Makes Good

Mr. Ricks finished Neville High School in 1935, attended Northeast Junior College for one year, and entered B. M. I. on September 4, 1937. After completing his College Accounting, Mr. Ricks studied Advanced Accounting here. He is now with the United Carbon Company Swartz, Louisiana.

The following is an excerpt from a letter from Mr. Ricks: "Now that I am no longer engaged in the artful task of seeking knowledge at the Bish Mathis Institute, I can look back and see the time spent there as the most profitable period of my life. I surround it with a kind of glory and shall try to preserve it forever.

"Many of my friends have asked me for my opinion of Bish Mathis Institute, but no single person's opinion is broad enough to embrace all angles of such a varied institution.

"The most outstanding quality of your school is the lack of monotony. A student is continually kept moving—new faces, changes in schedule, extra-curricular activities. As each new phase of learning is entered into, one realizes it is a specialized course of study.

"Believe me to be a substantial supporter of Bish Mathis Institute."

Joan Kathan Marries Walter M. Scott, Jr.

Wedding Of Widespread Interest Is Performed At Methodist Church In Tallulah

A wedding which was of widespread interest to friends in several states last week was that of Miss Joan Kathan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Joseph Kathan of Tendal, La., to Walter Marley Scott, Jr., of Albany, Ga., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Marley Scott, Sr., and grandson of the late Governor Henry L. Fuqua. The marriage took place at the Methodist church in Tallulah, La., August 28, in the evening, with the Rev. D. W. Poole, assisted by the Rev. Dean L. Maurer, rector of the Trinity Episcopal church in Tallulah, officiating at the impressive double ring ceremony.

Within the chancel stood tall white floor candelabra holding myriad burning tapers. Baskets of white chrysanthemums arranged against a background of greenery were placed among the candelabra, giving the seeming effect that the candles rose from the flowers. White candles tied with satin ribbon marked the pews which were reserved for the family of the bride and the bridegroom.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Carolyn Brown of Brinkley, Ark., sang "I Love You Truly," "Because," and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. James Gilfoil of Omega, La. During the exchange of vows, "Liebestraum" was softly played. For the processional, Wagner's "Wedding March" from "Lohengrin" was played. The recessional to which the wedding party left the church was Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

The matron of honor was Mrs. Emmett Craig, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. John Fershtand of Fort Worth, Tex., cousin of the bride, Mrs. L. T. Davis of Kerrville, Tex., and Miss Peggy Claughton. They wore identical models fashioned of ice blue marquisette and lace. The bodice was made on close-fitting lines with a square neck, short puffed sleeves, and lace inserts. The skirt was very bouffant. The bridesmaids' bouquets were of pink carnations and delphinium. Matching clusters of delphinium and corn flowers were worn in their hair.

The bridegroom had as his best man his cousin, Warren Patrick, of Albany. The bridegroomsmen were Lieutenant Harry Goldman of Camp Jackson, S. C., Lieutenant James H. Collins of Jackson, Miss., and Carneal Goldman of Waterproof, La. Ushers were Arthur G. Bray and Emmett Craig of Tallulah. They wore white suits with black ties and boutonnieres of pink carnations.

The bride's mother wore a model combining blue lace and net with a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother was gowned in a black and white crepe with a corsage of pink roses.

The bride walked to the chancel steps with her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore traditional white satin. It was made with a deep lace yoke, a high, close-fitting neck, and long sleeves which ended in lily points over the hands. The fitted bodice was fastened with tiny satin-covered buttons down the back to the point where the skirt was joined to it. The skirt ended in a sweeping cathedral train. Another B. M. I. Ex-Student Makes Good

Mr. Ricks finished Neville High School in 1935, attended Northeast Junior College for one year, and entered B. M. I. on September 4, 1937. After completing his College Accounting, Mr. Ricks studied Advanced Accounting here. He is now with the United Carbon Company, Swartz, Louisiana.

The following is an excerpt from a letter from Mr. Ricks: "Now that I am no longer engaged in the artful task of seeking knowledge at the Bish Mathis Institute, I can look back and see the time spent there as the most profitable period of my life. I surround it with a kind of glory and shall try to preserve it forever.

"Many of my friends have asked me for my opinion of Bish Mathis Institute, but no single person's opinion is broad enough to embrace all angles of such a varied institution.

"The most outstanding quality of your school is the lack of monotony. A student is continually kept moving—new faces, changes in schedule, extra-curricular activities. As each new phase of learning is entered into, one realizes it is a specialized course of study.

"Believe me to be a substantial supporter of Bish Mathis Institute."

'Dive Bomber' Opens Today At The Paramount Theater

Fred MacMurray lights his cigarette between flights in the technicolorful "Dive Bomber," opening today at the Paramount.

This is Alexis Smith—newcomer to the silver screen! She causes hearts to miss beats and Errol Flynn vies with Fred MacMurray for lovely Alexis' charm in "Dive Bomber," filmed in technicolor, opening today at the Paramount.

Errol Flynn is cruising in the air but his mind is not on the controls. Lovely Alexis Smith occupies his thoughts and cause enough for high blood pressure. "Dive Bomber" is the newest starring vehicle of Errol Flynn and starring honors are shared with Fred MacMurray. Opening today on the Paramount screen.

"Mata Hari," one of the most popular of Greta Garbo's early successes, is brought back to the Capitol for a Monday showing. Ramon Novarro has the male lead in this dramatic story of Europe's most famous woman spy.

"Puddin' Head" plays at the Capitol today only with Judy Canova songthrilling Slim Summerville and Eddie Foy, Jr.

Dive Bomber Epic Of Air Shows Here

Errol Flynn, Fred MacMurray Head Brilliant Cast

EVERY type of fighting and observation plane used by the United States navy, including the newest super-bombers and fastest pursuit and interceptor planes off the assembly lines, were used in filming the new picture opening at the Paramount today—Warner Bros. "Dive Bomber," all-in-color special in which Errol Flynn and Fred MacMurray are co-starred.

But what is more important from the navy standpoint is that the entire picture was filmed without interruption of any training or flight routine necessary under the current emergency defense program.

To see that this was so, and also to see that Warner Bros. got every possible help, official Washington assigned Commander J. R. Poppen and Commander Seth Warren, U. S. N., to work with Director Michael Curtiz and the company in filming "Dive Bomber," parts of which were made in Pensacola and at Pearl harbor, in addition to those scenes made at the San Diego base.

The cast, in addition to Flynn and MacMurray, includes Ralph Bellamy, Regis Toomey, Robert Armstrong, Allen Jenkins, Herbert Anderson, Craig Stevens and a score of other young leading men in minor cadet and pilot roles. Only woman in the cast is the startlingly lovely Alexis Smith who appears briefly but memorably to stir up a little trouble between Flynn and MacMurray.

Real stars of the air epic are the planes themselves, and the big ships that serve them. Many of the scenes were made aboard one of the larger plane carriers, the Enterprise, which happened to be stationed at San Diego while the Warner Bros. company was on location there.

Strictest rules governed all members of the film troupe while at the base. Members of the cast and crew, without exception, had to wear special photographic identification badges at all times, carry California automobile drivers' licenses (which bear finger prints of the licensee), and stay within the area in which the company was working for the day.

Warner Bros. studio location aides, under veteran Bill Guthrie, one-time federal "G-Man," say that the "Dive Bomber" location presented them problems they had never before encountered in their long and varied experience.

One great headache came from providing adequate living quarters for the 150 members of the company, which was unusually large. Accommodations finally were arranged at the Del Coronado and two other hotels nearby.

Flynn himself lived aboard his yacht, the Sirocco, on which he sailed to San Diego several days before the picture's start.

"Dive Bomber" opens a three-day engagement at the Paramount today.

"Navy Blue and Gold," the authentic story of the United States Naval academy and its football romances, returns to the screen for a Friday-Saturday showing at the Paramount. James Stewart, Robert Young and Florence Rice head the stellar cast with the strong support of Lionel Barrymore, Billie Burke, Tom Brown, Paul Kelly and Samuel S. Hinds.

A new star bursts onto the horizon: Red Skelton, the comic of the "Dr. Kildare" pictures makes his starring debut in "Whistling in the Dark." Ann Rutherford, Conrad Veidt, Virginia Grey, "Rags" Ragland, Eve Arden and Henry O'Neill learn that it's fun to "roar with Red Skelton." Playing Wednesday and Thursday at the Paramount.

John Barrymore plays the mad Hollywood producer in a roaring comedy version of how movies are born. The two ladies "Jawn" is "pushing away" are Frances Farmer and Virginia Dale. They each have half of the "great profile." The picture playing Tuesday at the Capitol is "World Premiere."

REVIEW OF STARS

Tonight, each star will rise in the east almost four minutes earlier than it did last night. At the same hour, it will be one degree farther west. Thus, as the season passes, all the stars pass in review across the evening sky.

"Underground," stirring and dynamic expose of the people's movement within Germany against their false leader, shows Wednesday and Thursday at the Capitol, with Jeffrey Lynn and Peter Dorn playing brothers.

In South seas technicolor, Dorothy Lamour and Jon Hall make one team while Philip Reed and Katherine DeMille complete the above foursome in "Aloma of the South Seas," having it's midnight premiere Saturday night at the Paramount.

'Puddin' Head' Stars Judy Canova, Slim Summerville, Eddie Foy

REPUBLIC scenarists have contrived another charmingly zany plot for Judy Canova's latest film, "Puddin' Head," which is scheduled at the Capitol today.

This time they have made Judy the unwitting owner of a valuable strip of Manhattan real estate—which becomes all the more valuable when the United Broadcasting System, through an error, trespasses one foot on her property in the building of their new skyscraper.

Nicholas Q. Nickolas vice-president of the company, and his lame-brained son, Junior, are in mortal fear that Matilda Nichols, owner of the station, will learn of this faux pas and blame it onto them, so they set about to persuade Judy to sell.

As it turns out, Judy hasn't even known that she owns the land; apparently it has been willed to her by some long-forgotten relative. But now she doesn't want to sell! She has always wanted to live in a big city and she means to take advantage of her opportunity to do so, moving her Uncle Lem and herself, bag and baggage, together with a consignment of pigs and chickens and other fauna, to the center of Manhattan's business district.

Nicholas and Junior, still afraid to tell Matilda, do their best to either scare or cajole Judy into selling, and, failing in this, engage the services of Prince Karl, a frayed of cuff but glib of tongue Russian nobleman. Handsome Prince Karl is faced with the prospect of either paying $2,500 in back alimony to his ex-wife a week hence, or going to jail. Naturally he is very eager to undertake Nicholas' proposition that he persuade Judy to sell—when $5,000 is the prize!

The action follows thick and fast from this point, with a multitude of laughs leading to a hilarious denouement.

MRS. M. R. COON NAMED LEADER OF DREW CLUB

Mrs. M. R. Coon was elected president of the Drew Home Demonstration club at a meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. F. Davis. Other officers included Mrs. H. E. McCormick, vice-president, and Mrs. C. A. Avant, secretary-treasurer.

Council members are Mrs. P. M. Donald and Mrs. Faye Ingram. Mrs. W. F. Davis was named reporter. Leaders for 4-H club activity are Mrs. J. W. Bayles, Mrs. J. L. Armon, Mrs. C. A. Avant. Other leaders will be named at another session.

Reporting on the short course were Mrs. Ingram, Mrs. Avant, Mrs. Hallie Fisher, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Donald. Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, parish agent, spoke on nutrition and national defense.

Mrs. H. E. McCormick will be hostess at the October 2 meeting.

Nicholas and Junior, still afraid to tell Matilda, do their best to either scare or cajole Judy into selling, and, failing in this, engage the services of Prince Karl, a frayed of cuff but glib of tongue Russian nobleman. Handsome Prince Karl is faced with the prospect of either paying $2,500 in back alimony to his ex-wife a week hence, or going to jail. Naturally he is very eager to undertake Nicholas' proposition that he persuade Judy to sell—when $5,000 is the prize!

The action follows thick and fast from this point, with a multitude of laughs leading to a hilarious denouement.

MRS. M. R. COON NAMED LEADER OF DREW CLUB

Mrs. M. R. Coon was elected president of the Drew Home Demonstration club at a meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. F. Davis. Other officers included Mrs. H. E. McCormick, vice-president, and Mrs. C. A. Avant, secretary-treasurer.

REVIEW OF STARS

Tonight, each star will rise in the east almost four minutes earlier than it did last night. At the same hour, it will be one degree farther west. Thus, as the season passes, all the stars pass in review across the evening sky.

"Underground," stirring and dynamic expose of the people's movement within Germany against their false leader, shows Wednesday and Thursday at the Capitol, with Jeffrey Lynn and Peter Dorn playing brothers.

In South seas technicolor, Dorothy Lamour and Jon Hall make one team while Philip Reed and Katherine DeMille complete the above foursome in "Aloma of the South Seas," having it's midnight premiere Saturday night at the Paramount.

WHY KEEP ON PAYING FOR A HOME, YET NOT HAVE IT?

If you were to apply the money you now pay for rent toward the building of a new home—a home of your own—you could be living in it now, and owning it completely in twenty-five years or less, depending on how much you pay each month. Is it worthwhile? Come in and let's talk it over. No obligation, of course.

WELL, HOW IS HE, DOC?
WORST CASE OF FROSTBITE I EVER SAW. HE'LL HAVE TO GO THROUGH LIFE WITHOUT ANY EARS.
I HAD TO AMPUTATE BOTH EARS AND IT APPEARS THAT THERE IS OTHER FLESH ABOUT THE FACE AND HANDS THAT MAY HAVE TO COME OFF.
MR. VENOM, WHO IS THIS MAN? HAVE YOU REPORTED THIS TO THE AUTHORITIES?
LISTEN, DOC, HE'S A FRIEND OF MINE. NOW, HERE'S A FIST FULL OF CASH. YOU DO THE DOCTORING AND I'LL DO THE PAYING.
WHAT IN THE WORLD IS THAT TERRIBLE ODOR IN HERE? IT'S SICKENING.
OH, THAT'S FROM SOME COW HIDES HE WAS WRAPPED IN WHEN I BROUGHT HIM HERE. I'LL TOSS THEM OUT.
MEANWHILE, AT THE COLD STORAGE LOCKER PLANT.
IT ISN'T SO MUCH THE VALUE OF THE HIDES THAT WERE STOLEN, MR. TRACY, BUT WHEN I CAME IN AND FOUND THIS DRIVER WASHING BLOOD STAINS OFF THE FLOOR I THOUGHT I'D BETTER CALL YOU.
I'VE TOLD YOU ALL I KNOW. MY PARTNER FOUND THE MAN HALF FROZEN AND HE TOOK HIM AWAY.
IT IS EASY TO SEE A BODY WAS LYING THERE. THE FROST LINE ON THE FLOOR FORMS A PERFECT OUTLINE.
WE'RE GOING TO HOLD YOU IN CUSTODY FOR AWHILE. YOU MAY BE HELPFUL.
LITTLE FACE INJURED HIS ANKLE. THAT WOULD TIE UP WITH THE BLOOD STAIN WHERE THE FEET LAID.

REDS CLAIM OFFENSE ON MUDDY FRONT

Fair Enough by WESTBROOK PEGLER

If anyone should snap the question at me, right sudden, "What about Russia then?" I would have to go into a huddle with myself to unscramble the issue, but I think I could deliver, nevertheless. Of course that is a dumb, lumpy way of stating the question, but that is the way people do state it, except that usually they start it off with the word "Yah." Like this: "Yah, what about Russia then?"

It is as if anyone who is pro-Russian in the war must also be pro-Communist and therefore anti-American and all that.

Well, I think Adolf Hitler has been our best friend in this war from the hour that he attacked Stalin, because he certainly took the heat off our friends, the British, by doing so and some of the heat off us, too, and recruited an enormously tough and surprising smart player for our teams, meaning Ivan, the Faceless Man from Moscow.

Politically, I trust Ivan no further than I trust Hitler, but this is war, not politics, and the Russians certainly can't be accused of engaging in monkey business this time just to deceive us. They wouldn't sacrifice all those men and all that territory and military material just to delude the fool Americans and I subscribe to the hope that appears to have been expressed by that British official and seems to have raised so much hell among the British Communists and unioneers, that the Russians and the Nazis will chew one another to tatters.

The future politics we just have to leave to the future, but I insist that we ought to remind ourselves every day that the Russians are no friends of anyone, even though they happen to be on our team. They can't quit our team now and thus for once we hold the upper hand on them. If they throw us down they throw themselves right into the sausage grinder and if they do that they are just nuts and nobody can anticipate and plan against acts of a crazy country.

But meantime, at home, I think we ought to keep after the Communists

ALEXANDRIA TO BECOME MODEL PLANE CENTER

City Park Auditorium Being Transformed Into Information Bureau

ALEXANDRIA, La., Sept. 8.—(AP)—High air force officers visiting here said Alexandria will become a model air center during the coming Second army-Third army maneuvers.

Major-General Herbert A. Dargue, Third air task force commander, and Brigadier-General William H. Frank, Third interceptor command leader, said the city park auditorium is being converted into the most elaborate air raid information center ever established in this country and that Esler field at Camp Beauregard is being transformed into a model of what the perfect camouflaged fighter base should be.

At the time, Brigadier-General William Ord Ryan, 10th pursuit wing commander, and Lieutenant-Colonel Edgar (Bromo) Selzer, Third air base group commander, prepared to receive 80 of the army's latest 400-M. P. H. fighters tomorrow from March Field, Calif.

Esler field's gates were ordered closed to the public until further notice. It was said the public later will be invited to inspect the fighter base.

When the Second and Third armies clash about September 15, Esler field's fighters—Republic P-43, Curtiss P-40 and Bell P-39 types—will be ordered to intercept "enemy" bombers on time table orders issued from the city park information center at which ground-observer spotting data will be gathered from Houston and New Orleans where filter centers of lesser size will be established.

But the highlight of Esler field's "war" career is expected to be an airborn attack by paratroops. The 501st parachute battalion from Fort Benning, Ga., will receive its first maneuvers test in the war games.

NAZIS REITERATE U-BOAT ATTACKED

BERLIN, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Germany's official statement that the U-boat which fired two torpedoes at the United States destroyer Greer was attacked first by the warship was pronounced by a spokesman today as an "unchallengeable statement of facts."

On the surface, there was no indication of extraordinary agitation over the matter, but German sources, nevertheless, would not say the incident was closed.

Asked whether it might lead to any diplomatic steps, a spokesman replied, "I'm asked too much."

Both the spokesman and the Berlin press rejected the Washington reiteration that the submarine was the aggressor and repeated the charge of the communique Saturday that the incident was part of a deliberate policy to push the United States closer to war.

"It ought to be obvious to the world that it is not the German interest or wish to maintain a quarrel with the United States," the spokesman observed.

It might be a shrewd guess, he said, that the "British-Russian aggression" against Iran had cooled war fervor in the United States and that new circumstances had been devised "to pour oil on the fire."

Under a big headline across its front page saying "Roosevelt's blatant lie about destroyer," one newspaper called the Greer incident "a new provocation" by the president.

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Governor Sam Jones today had unanimous senate approval of the $540,000 loan he sought for the state finance department, after anti-administration Senator Joe T. BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Governor Sam Jones today in answering State Senator Joe T. Cawthorn's criticism against polling the legislature for authority to borrow $540,000 for operating the state finance department declared the DeSoto parish solon had "found out Bob Maestri wasn't popular in North Louisiana."

The loan, supplying the finance department with operating funds for disbursing relief payments, pensions and other vital expenditures, won decisive approval from the legislature, the voting in the senate being unanimous after Cawthorn yesterday delivered favorable votes in a block from all senators who had not already voted.

"The seat got too hot for Joe," Jones said in a statement. "He found out Bob Maestri wasn't popular in North Louisiana and he found out fighting welfare payments and hospitals wasn't popular either.

"The senators who were brought in by subterfuge quickly got out and Bob Maestri was left up the blind alley where Joe led him.

"Instead of the boasted 22 senators, they wound up with thirteen. And the noise you heard was the thirteen getting on the band wagon for welfare payments and open hospitals."

Thirteen was the number of senators Governor Jones was reported as feeling were outright oppositionists although they too cast their votes with the majority favoring the loan, which the treasury began negotiating today.

FARM OUTPUT HIKE PLANNED

Wickard's Program Calls For Largest Production In History

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard announced today a 1942 farm program calling for "the largest production in the history of American agriculture" to meet the expanding food needs of this country and nations resisting the axis.

Production goals set up under the program call for the largest output in history of such vitamin and mineral-rich products as pork, eggs, evaporated milk, dry skim milk, cheese, poultry, vegetables, and such edible-oil producing crops as peanuts and soybeans.

Although providing for bigger crops in many products, the 1942 program continues rigid production and marketing controls for commodities of which there are large reserves, namely cotton, wheat and tobacco.

The sharply-expanded food production program is based, Wickard said, on a "thorough canvass of the needs for improved nutrition in this country and the needs of the nations that still stand between this country and Hitler."

Prospects point, the secretary said,

AMERICANS BEST INFORMED ON WAR

BOLTON LANDING, N. Y., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Americans are better informed about war news than any other people members of the New York State Publishers Association were told today by Charles E. Honce, general news editor of the Associated Press.

Honce discussed the difficulties of foreign censorship and transmission, but concluded that "the news gets through, pretty nearly all of it—at least all of any consequence."

"I have talked to many correspondents newly returned from Europe, and I have been amazed, but also gratified, by the fact that there was very little or real moment that they could tell off the record that already hadn't appeared in their news dispatches," he explained.

8 Injured, 3 Seriously, In 6 Accidents In Monroe Area

Grover Takewell, Swartz, Badly Hurt, Still Unconscious

Eight persons were injured, three of them seriously, in six traffic accidents in and around the Twin Cities the past week-end as the movement of army vehicles placed an additional hazard on normal week-end travel.

Three persons were in the St. Francis sanitarium Monday as the result of an accident about 6 o'clock Sunday morning about 12 miles east of Monroe where Highway 80 runs through Lafourche swamp. Grover Takewell of Swartz, driver of one of the automobiles involved in the accident, according to state police, was reported by attending physicians to be the most seriously injured of the three. At noon Monday Takewell had not regained consciousness since the accident. The extent of his injuries was unknown.

Also injured in the wreck were Elton Houck, manager of the Joy theater here, and Miss Annie Beth Clark, cashier at the theater. According to state police, both machines were travelling west on the highway and the car driven by Houck smashed into the rear of Takewell's car. Takewell's machine, a Plymouth coach, was extensively damaged on the right front and the left rear. Houck was

MORE THAN 100 IN FRANCE HELD FOR OUTBREAKS

Two Prominent French Lawyers Among Those Taken Into Custody

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Sept. 8—(AP)—More than 100 Jews and two prominent French lawyers, one of them a minister of justice in the old republic, were reported today to have been seized as hostages by German occupation authorities in Paris because of attacks on members of the German army.

It was in these new mass arrests that the Germans took the two once-prominent lawyers, former Justice Minister Pierre Masse, who is a Jew, and Theodore Valensi, a former deputy, who is a native of Corsica.

Vichy no longer tried to hide the gravity of the strife in the occupied zone or the fact that reprisals are only making things worse.

"We can expect to see street incidents multiply," the official government news agency told its papers.

The agency reproduced an extract from the Paris "Cri du Peuple," comparing the situation in Paris with open warfare.

Authorized Vichy sources charged that the outbreaks, particularly shootings in Paris, were part of a Communist plot aimed at forcing Germany to withdraw troops from the eastern front.

They specified that the arrests followed a series of demonstrations August 15 and 16 in Jewish neighborhoods in the 15th and 20th arrondissements.

It was announced coincidentally that three hostages shot by the Germans at dawn last Saturday in retaliation for an attack on a German sergeant were Communists. Their names have not been disclosed.

Police, it was announced also, are searching for an accomplice of Paul Colette who they believed helped him obtain the weapon with which he shot the collaborationist leaders Pierre Laval and Marcel Deat.

At Versailles, where Laval and Deat are convalescing in a hospital, four male nurses in a nearby sanitarium have been arrested as suspected Communists.

Another Frenchman was disclosed

TWO SOLDIERS GET 90-DAY SENTENCES

PETERSBURG, Va., Sept. 8—(AP)—Harold E. Sylvester, 22-year-old Camp Lee soldier, whose arrest was protested by a crowd of fellow soldiers before their dispersal by tear gas Saturday night, was sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $50 today on charges of drunkenness and resisting arrest.

Sylvester, whose home is in South Portland, Me., told Police Justice E. F. Clements he had nothing to say.

Martin J. Landon, member of a nearby CCC camp, was sentenced to 90 days in jail on a charge of disorderly conduct after police testified he had cursed and urged the crowd "to take him (Sylvester) away" from the police.

Landon said he was a spectator but denied that he contributed to any disorder in the crowd of some 150 soldiers which milled about at the police station before local officers threw two tear gas grenades. Major-General James E. Edmonds, commanding officer of Camp Lee, said there was no riot, and that the crowd, "augmented by a number of civilians" became so great "that local authorities used tear gas to dispel it."

HUGE NEW ARMY TANK IS TESTED

30-Ton Juggernaut Pushes Over 10-Inch Trees Without Jolt

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When the army's newest and biggest tank—the M-3—was tested for the first time today, an Associated Press writer was given special permission to witness the performance inside one of the vehicles.)

By Jerry T. Baulch

WITH SECOND ARMY IN LOUISIANA, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The army's newest and biggest tank, the M-3, got its first trial in maneuvers today as the mightiest striking force of the First Armored division.

As one of three newsmen allowed to participate in the first field test of the 30-ton steel juggernaut, I rode the gunner's cradle inside one of them. I swayed easily in a rocking motion as we traveled 25 miles an hour over sandy roadways and through pine forests. With hardly a jolt we jumped ditches and smashed through 10-inch trees.

Many secrets were pointed out with a request that they not be described. I had ridden both the other types of tanks used by the United States army—the 14-ton light and the 18-ton medium tanks—but they lacked many things I found in the M-3.

The tank I rode was one of 13 in the First Armored division.

As I squeezed through a narrow porthole into my seat I found beside me a 37 MM. gun and a .30-caliber machine gun, which I could aim and fire automatically, using complicated

DIES SEEKS TO OUST HENDERSON AND FOUR AIDES

Asserts Five Should Be Dismissed Because Of Communistic Views

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Martin Dies and Leon Henderson locked horns today over the question of whether the boss of the office of price administration and four aides should be fired from the government service on the ground that they held or condoned Communistic views.

Dies, house member from Texas and chairman of the committee on un-American activities, made public yesterday a letter to President Roosevelt urging that Henderson and the four employes be dismissed immediately.

To this Henderson promptly replied that he would turn the accusations over to the civil service commission, and if the commission held the employes to be unfit he would discharge them as soon as he could get to a telephone. He added, however, that "summary punitive action on the basis of one man's opinion is as un-American a procedure as anything to which Mr. Dies has yet given his attention."

To Dies' contention that Henderson himself once had connections with Communist "front organizations or transmission belts," the price administrator declared at a press conference yesterday that he was not now and never had been a member of any Communist-controlled organization.

In the letter to the president, Dies declared that these employes of the office of price administration had at one time or another expressed Communistic views:

BRITISH CAPTURE GERMAN SUBMARINE

LONDON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—A German submarine has been captured in the Atlantic, damaged by aerial attack which forced it to the surface, the admiralty and air ministry announced today.

The U-boat lay in a gale-tossed sea while the British kept guard in the sky overhead until British warships could reach the scene and take over and bring the prize "successfully into harbor."

(The circumstances were such as might attend entrapment of the German submarine which clashed with the United States destroyer Greer, but the joint London communiques failed to note any connection, giving neither the precise location of the air attack, nor the date.

(Naval authorities in London, however, expressed doubt that the captured submarine was the one which fought with the Greer.

(A German version of the clash, accusing the American destroyer of the first blow, indicated that the U-boat had reached port after the incident of last Thursday. U-boats seldom risk wireless communication on the high seas.

(On the other hand, the search by air and sea for the U-boat, with the suggestion from American and British sources that the undersea craft could scarcely have penetrated the criss-crossing lines of the hunt, is still believed to be under way. The Greer fought the submarine 200 miles southwest of Iceland. The destroyer was en route there with mail for United States forces of occupation.)

Nation Joins With Chief Executive In Mourning Her Death

WASHINGTON, Sept 8.—(AP)—The senate adjourned today out of respect for Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, 86-year-old mother of the president who died at Hyde Park, N. Y., yesterday. A resolution expressing sorrow and extending sympathy to the president and members of his family was adopted unanimously.

By Douglas B. Cornell

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 8.—(AP)—The president's mother is dead; and a nation joined its chief executive in mourning today.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 8.—(AP)—The rector of the church where President Roosevelt and his mother have worshipped for many years disclosed today that the president came to Hyde Park this week-end on a premonition that he must see his mother at once.

The Rev. Frank Wilson, of St. James Episcopal church said that shortly after the president's mother died yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt told him that he must have had a hunch, for it wasn't until the last moment that he suddenly changed his plans and decided to come home this week-end.

The president had intended to come next week, not this, Mr. Wilson said, because he had been home only last week. But the other night he suddenly felt that he could not wait; that he must see his mother at once.

Mr. Wilson spoke of the strong bond that existed between the president and his mother and said that one of the last things Mrs. Roosevelt said to him before she left for Campobello early in the summer was, "I must take care of myself. I can't let anything happen to me now because I must not add any burden to the many he (the president) is carrying now."

LEGALLY DEAD 6 YEARS, MAN REALLY DIES

Daughter Summoned Too Late To Reach Him Before Death

DETROIT, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The story of a man declared legally dead six years ago by a court at Chicora, Pa., was told here today, following his actual death, by a daughter who had inherited his estate.

The daughter, Mrs. Thelma Ritzert, of Chicora, was called here by police after 68-year-old George Fox, realizing he was fatally ill, asked that she be summoned. Fox, who had worked as a department of public works truck driver, died Saturday night at Receiving hospital a short time before Mrs. Ritzert and her husband arrived.

Police said they learned that Fox had made a pact 13 years ago with Charles Kibler, rooming house proprietor, to keep secret his identity.

"We knew little about Mr. Fox," Kibler declared. "You could tell by the way he talked and the refined way he acted that he was well educated. He gave us the address of his wife and daughter, but only after we promised to notify them only in case

499,000 PLACED BY EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—State employment services placed 499,000 persons in defense and non-defense jobs during July, 62 per cent more than the same month last year, Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, reported today.

The July placements were six per cent above June, reversing the usual July decline in employment.

During the first seven months of 1941, McNutt said, the state services filled approximately 3,000,000 jobs, against 1,900,000 during the same period of the previous year.

Unemployment compensation benefit payments in July were reported at $29,300,000, with one or more checks being delivered to approximately 752,500 persons. McNutt said both figures were slightly less than June and around 50 per cent under July, 1940.

The report, however, showed an 8 per cent gain in the number of unemployment compensation claims filed in July indicating, the administrator said, that the decrease in benefit payments may not be so great in subsequent months. He said this increase was caused by seasonal unemployment, lay-offs in non-defense industries due to lack of materials and the initiation of new benefit years by claimants in many states.

10,710,000 COTTON BALES FORECAST

Official Government Prediction Shows Decline Over Last Month

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The agricultural department today forecast this year's cotton crop at 10,710,000 bales, based on September 1 conditions, compared with 10,817,000 bales forecast a month ago, 12,566,000 bales produced last year and an average of 13,246,000 bales in the ten years, 1930-39.

The September estimate is 107,000 bales less than the August forecast, the crop reporting board saying the indicated production had been reduced in the central part of the belt. This decline was offset somewhat by increases in Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Virginia and North Carolina.

"Weather was less favorable than average in the states from Georgia to Arkansas and boll weevils have caused serious injury to the crop throughout this area," the board said.

In Oklahoma and Texas favorable moisture conditions were said to have stimulated plant growth and weevil damage was said not to be generally serious this season. The crop in Oklahoma and Texas was reported about two weeks later than usual.

The board said that in Virginia and North Carolina hot weather held weevils in check and permitted the plants to set more bolls than were expected a month ago.

The condition of the crop on September 1 was 65 per cent of a normal, indicating a yield of 226.8 pounds to the acre, compared with a condition of 72 per cent a month ago and an indicated yield then of 224.4 pounds. The condition was 74 per cent of a

TAGGERT SUCCEEDS DR. C. T. DOWELL

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 8.—(AP)—W. G. Taggert, assistant director of the Louisiana state experiment stations and in charge of sugar cane research since 1923, has been appointed director of the stations effective September 15, it was announced today.

Widely known for his successful experiments in growing and processing sugar, Taggert succeeds Dr. C. T. Dowell, director since 1929, who becomes professor of agronomy on the college of agriculture's teaching faculty.

HEAVIEST RAID OF WAR MADE UPON BERLIN

Nazis Admit 27 Killed As Bombers Crash Through Defenses

VAST TREK ORDERED

Russia To Move 390,000 Of German Extraction To Siberia

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's high command reported late today that German troops had cut off Leningrad from all land connections and captured the railroad center of Schluesselburg, only 25 miles east of the old czarist capital.

Schluesselburg lies across the Neva river from Leningrad.

The Russians admitted that a fierce battle was raging outside Leningrad, with the Germans in major offensives at the west and south approaches of the city.

Leningrad itself has been under German shellfire since last Friday, the Nazis said.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The air ministry said today that 20 British bombers were missing from last night's raid on Berlin.

(By Associated Press)

German front-line dispatches acknowledged today that the Red armies guarding Leningrad were making a bitter village-by-village stand, under pounding by hundreds of Stuka dive bombers, while the Russians declared they were pressing the initiative on a broad sector of the muddy, rain-soaked front.

At home, the Germans felt the sting of one of the war's most violent aerial assaults on Berlin, in which the Nazis admitted 27 residents were killed as R. A. F. bombers broke through anti-aircraft defenses and dumped high-explosive and incendiary bombs on the Reich capital.

The British Press Association said the raid was the heaviest in bomb weight on Berlin since the war started. Besides the fatalities, the Germans said an undisclosed number suffered wounds and that it was feared the death toll might increase.

An official German announcement said 3,853 persons had been killed by air raids on Germany since the start of the war up to August 2.

R. A. F. pilots found Berlin shining in bright moonlight, the London air ministry reported, and "soon there were many fires" raging in the heart of the city. The attack lasted more than five hours, from midnight to almost dawn.

The air ministry said United States-built night fighters took part in the overnight offensive, raiding bases from the Netherlands to Brittany.

Two American-built planes also figured in the capture of a bomb-damaged German U-boat wallowing in a gale somewhere in the Atlantic, the London admiralty announced.

British naval authorities expressed doubt that the captured submarine was the Nazi underseas raider which fought the United States destroyer

URGES LIFTING GASOLINE BAN

Auto Association Manager Calls It 'Unnecessary Inconvenience'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The American Automobile association urged today that the eastern seaboard's 7 p.m. gasoline "curfew" be lifted, on the grounds that it was an "unnecessary inconvenience" which had had little or no effect in conserving the east's supply of motor fuel.

This was one of several recommendations made by Russell E. Singer, general manager of the association, to the special senate committee investigating the petroleum supply.

The eastern states, which derive millions of dollars annually from taxes on gasoline, were assured by the defense petroleum office today they need not fear a reduction in returns from the motor fuel levies because of

Activity Marks September Days

First Days Of Fall Season Find Great Activity In Every Section Of Society

Whirling through a week of unprecedented activity, Monroe faces another week that promises to be equally as busy, socially and otherwise. Uncle Sam's boys, descending upon us like seven-year locusts, found hotels and restaurants unable to cope with the situation. In several instances larders were depleted and customers were turned away.

Monroe is no longer the quiet little southern town of yore. War-like maneuvers have changed the atmosphere to such an extent that old settlers rub their eyes in wonderment. The streets are jammed with army trucks and almost overnight tented villages appeared in various sections of the city. Bombers roar overhead and on every street corner one sees little groups of uniformed men.

These visitors are being given a cordial welcome in every home and at every social affair. They were especially welcome at the Delta Beta Sigma ball on the terrace of the Frances hotel last Saturday night. The panoramic scene was rendered most interesting by the uniformed men on the ball room floor. The stag line was really something to be reckoned with as the girls were in the minority.

Mrs. Clyde Paine, sorority mother, and Mr. Edward Apperson, sorority advisor, acting in the capacity of chaperons, made teh proper introductions thus maintaining the traditional southern propriety.

Members of the Junior Charity league are bestirring themselves after a summer of more or less inactivity, and preparing for the busy season ahead. They discussed future activities over the luncheon table at the Virginia hotel on Saturday.

The presence of several out-of-town visitors created additional interest.

Included among the members and guests were: Mrs. John Standley, Mrs. Allen Guthrie, Mrs. Pearson Dunn, Mrs. George Weaks, Jr., Mrs. Sarah Rhymes, Mrs. Katheryne Jordon, Mrs. Douglas Miles, Jr., Mrs. James Sparks, Mrs. Vernon LaCour, Mrs. Douglas Parkes, Mrs. Hopie Mott, Miss Lela Germany, Miss Betty Reily, Mrs. T. H. Woods, Miss Dean McKoin, Miss Eleanor Faulk, Miss Roberta Neel, Miss Margie Farmer, Miss Nan Buckner, Miss Sara Cole Morrison, Miss Annie Laurie Breard, Miss Sara Larche, Miss Carrie Jo Hill, Miss Lallage Feazel, Mrs. J. L. Cummins, Mrs. Lelia Hale, Mrs. William Conley, Mrs. Robert May, Miss Clara Terzia, Mrs. C. B. Flinn, Miss Louise Gray, Miss Beverly Russell, Miss Mildred Breard, Mrs. Austin Prophit, Mrs. S. H. Womack, Mrs. Charles Womack, Mrs. Kenneth Inabnett, Mrs. Morton Braswell, Miss Ellen Hale, Miss Mary Buckner, Mrs. Milling Bernstein, Mrs. Helen Campbell, Miss Ann Lee Russell, Mrs. Joy Steele Lewis, Mrs. Beatrice Looney, Mrs. Robert Calvert, Miss Dorothy Calvert, Miss Mary Eversole, Miss Virginia Eversole.

At an impressive ceremony Tuesday evening, September 2, in the home of Rev. P. M. Gaddis of Alto, Miss Billie Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Brown of Mangham, became the bride of J. E. Chaney, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Chaney, Sr., of Rayville. The wedding was performed in the presence of members of the two families.

The bride was attractively gowned in a model of soldier blue with wine colored accessories. Her corsage was of gladiolas.

Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left for a brief wedding trip. They will reside in Rayville where Mr. Chaney is employed by the Rayville Hardware company.

Mrs. Childress Armstrong and daughter, Ann, of Delhi, have returned from a visit in the east. Mrs. Armstrong was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Brickell in their summer home in Ridgefield, Conn., and later joined her daughter in New York City for a visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Cullen. Mrs. Cullen is the former Mathilde Armstrong.

Mr. Brickell, well known literary critic and author, is editor of the annual O. Henry Memorial Award Prize Story Volume of 1941. He taught the novel class at the writers' conference in Durham, N. H., which closed last week, and there delivered one of his famous lectures on "Natchez" illustrating it with hand colored slides. Mr. Brickell is an authority on Natchez where he has spent much time writing and where he and his beautiful wife were distinguished guests at the pilgrimage last spring.

Mrs. Armstrong is a member of the Monroe Art association, the Monroe Sketch club, was one time secretary of the Mississippi Art association and ran a column on art in the Jackson (Miss.) Daily News. This interest prompted her to spend much time in the art museums and galleries in New York. She remarked that she saw nothing in the galleries more distinguished than the paintings of Stark Young, which have not yet been exhibited and which she saw in his home. Mr. Young is the author of the noteworthy book, "So Red the Rose," a story of Natchez and the south. Mrs. Armstrong says it is her belief that his remarkable ability as a painter is as great as his genius as a writer.

Captain Stuart G. Fries of the 42nd tank division, United States army, was the week-end guest of his cousin, Mr. C. H. Modes and Mrs. Modes. Mr. and Mrs. Modes enjoyed the novel experience of viewing the army tanks and mobile kitchens at headquarters in Tremont on Sunday. They were also dinner guests of Captain Fries at the officers' mess tent on Sunday.

Miss Mary Cecil Edwards of Montgomery, Ala., completed a visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Dunning and returned to her home last week.

Mrs. James Steele returned home last week from Boston where she enjoyed a visit of several weeks. Mrs. Thomas Flournoy, who accompanied Mrs. Steele to Boston, will remain there indefinitely.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Paine of Shreveport, en route home from a vacation in Mississippi, were the week-end guests of Mrs. J. B. Vaughan.

FULL SKIRTED

Here is a new design in the full skirted dress which is now so popular with junior girls. The long lines of the typically basque top are accented by two rows of buttons and braid, in military placement. The braid is repeated in three rows at the hemline of the wide gathered skirt. It's a dress which makes you look tiny-waisted and brings out your most feminine self. Grand for soft wool crepes, challis, soft rayon crepes or taffeta.

Pattern No. 8024 is designed for sizes 11 to 19. Size 13 requires 4 3-4 yards 39-inch material. A detailed sew chart is sent with the pattern, giving you complete directions for making the frock.

For this attractive pattern, send 15c in coin, your name, address, pattern number and size to News-Star—World Today's Pattern Service, 106 Seventh Avenue, New York, N. Y.

More fashions for fall are shown in the new Fashion Book, just out. Get your copy early by ordering today.

Of interest to friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Clara Mae Noble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Noble of Mangham, to Mr. Adrian C. Bowden, son of Jack Bowden of Winnsboro, at the home of Rev. Dana Terry in Winnsboro, on Saturday, August 30.

The bride wore a navy blue ensemble with harmonizing accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses. For something old, she wore the same ring worn by her mother and grandmother when they were married.

Misses Bessie and Lucille Noble served their sister as attendants.

Mr. William Douglas Bowden served as best man.

The bride is a member of the 1941 graduating class of Mangham High school.

The bridegroom is now stationed at Camp Polk in Leesville where the couple will make their home in the near future.

Mrs. Reese Major, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. A. B. Moore of Arkadelphia, plans to leave later in the week for an extended visit in Chicago and points in Canada, including Toronto and Montreal. En route home they will visit in Boston and New York City.

Friends will be glad to know that Billy Gladney, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gladney of Baton Rouge, has recovered sufficiently from a recent appendectomy at St. Francis sanitarium to be removed to the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Washburn.

PLANE WARNING SYSTEMS WILL RECEIVE TEST

Effectiveness Will Be Tried In War Games In Louisiana

By Rice Yahner

WITH THIRD ARMY IN LOUISIANA, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The army's principal aircraft warning systems, observation by civilians and location by a radio system like that being used in England, will be tested in the Louisiana war games, officers disclosed today.

Sixteen thousand citizens of Louisiana and east Texas, like others being organized throughout the nation, will take part Friday in a full dress rehearsal preliminary to the climax of the war maneuvers that will pit the Third army against the Second army for two weeks, beginning September 15.

Little has been said about the radio-locater system. It is known that it is an American variant of the one which has given England its greatest success in night aerial defense.

During the war games the army can study both systems, one highly technical and labelled "secret" and the other dependent on widespread civilian cooperation.

In the Louisiana warfare, the Third army will rely entirely on civilian observation. The 16,000 volunteers already have been assigned to 800 listening posts, reporting through information filter stations at Houston, Tex., and New Orleans.

The Second army, fighting its way down from Arkansas, will use the radio organization entirely within army control. Both systems will be given more extensive tests later along the more populous eastern seaboard.

The first of almost 1,000 planes that will participate in the grand maneuvers began arriving in Louisiana and Texas today from army and navy bases throughout the nation. Each of the armies colliding September 15 will have a miniature edition of America's fighting air force, ranging from comparatively slow observation ships to fighters capable of better than 400 miles an hour.

Almost every craft will be represented except the giant long-distance bombers, which even in actual warfare would not be attached to such a compact air support command, but would operate far afield in raids on enemy strongholds.

METEOR FRAGMENTS FOUND UNDER CRATER

DENVER, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Dr. H. H. Nininger, curator of meteors at Colorado Museum of Natural History, says he has established the presence of meteorites under a mesquite-covered crater in the San Luis valley of southwestern Colorado.

The meteoritic fragments were detected, he said last night, by magnetometers—devices that show the location of specific minerals through electrical impulses.

His field tests showed the fragments were located 40 to 50 feet under the floor of the crater, which is about 30 feet deep and roughly 300 feet in diameter.

The crater is at the western foot of the Sangre de Cristo range, near Crestone.

Dr. Nininger plans to bore a hole to the fragments in the hope that their composition may be determined.

Dr. Nininger said the Crestone crater probably was formed in the early 1890s when early settlers on the old Luis Maria Baca land grant wrote of being terror-stricken by a fearful roaring in skies lit by multi-colored fires.

PALERMO BOMBED BY BRITISH PLANES

ROME, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Waves of British planes bombed Palermo, Sicily, last night, killing 16 civilians and injuring 25, the Italian high command reported today.

Only minor damage was done by the raiders, one of which was shot down into the sea in flames by anti-aircraft guns, a communique said.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

The decision of the Soviet government to uproot some 390,000 people of German extraction from their homes on the lower Volga and start them off in a mass migration movement to Siberia must rank among the most extraordinary military operations of its kind in hstory.

Moscow explains that this action was necessitated by the presence of "tens of thousands" of fifth columnists among the population of the German Volga territory. The government charges that the people of this little republic have been harboring these saboteurs who were all set to start operations against the Reds when Hitler gave the signal.

The imagination bogs down in trying to envisage this trek across the great Russian Steppes and through the Ural mountains for some 2,000 miles to new homes. That's a mighty lot of people to move—more than the population of Indianapolis or Rochester or Louisville or Seattle—about as many as live in Kansas City—creeping up toward New Orleans and Cincinnati.

Even under the best of conditions this would present a titanic task. And now the fierce Russian winter is about to close in. The Soviet is short of rolling stock for its railroads, and how it is expected to move this great army is a mystery, not to mention transportation of any of household effects and farming implements.

If the operation is to be undertaken over snow-blocked roads, in the face of blizzards and devastating cold, we shall have such a story as rarely has been told. Perhaps, however, the bolshevists do figure on moving the people and their effects by train.

However that may be, this gives a fair measure of the determination of the Reds to fight the Nazi invaders to a finish—though we need no further proof than has been given already in the great defense offered by the Soviet armies and civilians. It is also a striking example of the alertness of the Muscovite government and its thoroughness. We have seen the bolshevists destroy whole cities and great engineering works as they retreated before the enemy, and now we find them moving a vast population—not a hundred or five hundred miles, but two thousand.

The presence of large numbers of spies in the German Volga republic presents a grave threat to the Russian military operations, for this is a strategic area. If you will look at your maps you will see that it straddles the Volga river only about 300 miles north of the Caspian sea.

Now the Volga is likely to be one of the main Red defensive lines, if they get pushed back that far. It provides a powerful position and it is, of course, vital that it shall not be infested by a swarm of Hitlerian fifth columnists.

Before the Germans reach the Volga there are other rivers, notably the Don, which also afford strong protection, and it might be disastrous to have these Nazi saboteurs on the Volga busy back of the Red army. By cooperation with German parachute troops they might even put a sizable fighting force into the field to attack the Reds from the rear.

I should say one of the main reasons for this drastic Soviet move is to afford protection for the Red positions in the Caucasus. The drive which a million and a half Nazi troops are making across the Ukraine is aimed at breaking through into the Caucasus, thereby breaking Russia's lifeline to the Persian gulf and the open seas, and also opening the gate for a drive down into Persia.

Someway the war seems very far away today, and little else matters except that the president's mother is dead. Mrs. James Roosevelt was held in affectionate regard by the entire nation. F. D. R.'s loss is ours. America's heart is with him in his great trouble.

JAPS VIEW U-BOAT CLASH SERIOUSLY

TOKYO, Sept 8.—(AP)—The Greer-Nazi submarine fight drew the attention of the Japanese press today from the United States-Japanese relations and even the shipments of American oil to Russia.

Commentators speculating on the sea battle's effects on Japanese policy thought the clash might have made necessary a new examination of the situation in the Pacific.

The government organ, Kokumin, interpreted the incident to mean Germany no longer thought it necessary to be patient with the United States. The incident portended, the paper added, a world-wide crisis in which "Japan's position has come to be exceedingly delicate and important."

Kokumin said contradictory American and German announcements regarding the naval fight made it doubtful whether Japan's tripartite obligations would take effect through extension of the incident. (This was a reference to Japan's commitment to go to the aid of Germany if the Reich is "attacked" by a power outside the present conflict.)

The Japanese press still ignored the arrival of three American oil tankers at Vladivostok.

L. T. I. OPENING IS PLANNED SEPT. 29

The Louisiana Training institute will resume classes on September 29, according to plans announced by Superintendent Elmer Slagle. He stated that while the maneuvers will not affect the institution, that the repairs and alterations that are in progress will require that the school rooms not be used at once. Also a large hay crop is yet to be harvested and the work of the boys is required in the fields.

Mr. Slagle stated that the faculty also has not been fully completed but that the list will be prepared during the present week.

On the western battlefront, Soviet ports said Russian troops, in some the fiercest fighting of the 79-day-l struggle, had driven the Germans om positions astride a vital highay leading to Leningrad. On the ntral front, a Red counter-offensive as said to be gaining momentum ter recapturing several important wns.

A Soviet communique at noon reorted that hard-riding Cossacks seiz-l a staff headquarters far behind the erman lines and listed a Nazi genal as killed. The communique also eclared that a sharp counter-attack outed an entire German battalion.

The Soviet bulletin said that deoite bad weather conditions, the enre front from the Baltic to the Black ea was active.

Hitler's high command asserted that ie Nazi-allied Finnish army, driving own on Leningrad from the north, ad reached the Svir river, paralleling ne Stalin canal which runs from a oint on Lake Ladoga, 80 miles northast of Leningrad, to Lake Onega.

While the Nazi high command was ilent on other details of the vast onflict, DNB news agency said waves f Stuka bombers were smashing at Leningrad's defenses in a gigantic and unending "rolling attack."

In the bloody land advance on Russia's second biggest city itself, the Germans conceded that their troops were encountering bitter resistance at every clump of trees and on every hillock. A Nazi war correspondent described the roads as engulfed in "bottomless mud," indicating that the drenching fall rains were seriously retarding Nazi mechanized warfare.

On the Ukraine front, the Russians reported that German attempts to pierce the defense of Kiev, the capital, and to storm the besieged Black sea port of Odessa were resulting in terrific casualties, with hundreds of big guns raining a deadly fire on Nazi troop concentrations, artillery and communication lines.

Behind the lines, Premier Joseph Stalin acted to stamp out the possibility of Nazi fifth column sabotage, ordering the transplanting of 390,000 persons of German extraction from their homes along the lower Volga river to Siberia.

The Russians explained the vast migration order by declaring that military authorities had discovered tens of thousands of diversionists and spies among the descendants of the German families whom Catherine the Great invited to settle along the Volga more than 200 years ago as a bulwark against the Tartar hordes.

The Kremlin accused the Germanic element of harboring these spies, and said the migration was imperative to avert possible disorders and bloodshed which would entail "measures of reprisal against the entire German population."

The Germans, who comprise 65 per cent of the population of the area—an autonomous republic of the Soviet Union—will be given land in various areas 1,600 to 2,000 miles farther east, the announcement said.

The Russians also reported capture of a German submarine in the Barents sea above the Arctic Circle and asserted their air force was frustrating all Nazi attempts to gain command of the skies.

The Soviet army organ, Red Star, declared 7,200 German planes have been destroyed since the start of the war—now in its 12th week—and the government paper Izvestia said the Nazi were losing aircraft faster than their factories could replace them.

DNB, official German news agency, declared 65 Russian troop transports and 27 Soviet naval vessels had been sunk in the Baltic during the past week.

In the Far East, Japan took a sober view of the clash between the United States destroyer Greer and a German U-boat as affecting Japanese relations with the United States.

The government newspaper, Kokumin, interpreted the episode as meaning that Germany no longer considered it necessary to be patient with the United States and declared it portended a world-wide crisis in which Japan's position has come to be exceedingly delicate and important."

Treading lightly, however, Kokumin added that conflicting German and American versions of the sea fight made it doubtful whether Japan's obligations under the axis alliance would be invoked through any extension of the incident. By terms of the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo pact, Japan is committed to go to the aid of Germany if the Reich is "attacked" by a power outside the present conflict.

In Berlin, a Nazi spokesman said it was an "unchallengeable statement of facts" that the German U-boat which fired two torpedoes at the Greer was attacked first by the American warship. Washington said flatly that the U-boat was the aggressor.

Japanese commentators speculated that the clash might require a new examination of the situation in the Pacific, but Tokyo newspapers still ignored the arrival of the American oil tankers at Vladivostok, carrying aviation gasoline to Russia.

normal a year ago and the final yield, 252.5 pounds, while the 1930-39 ten-year September 1 average condition was 63 per cent and the average yield, 205.4 pounds.

Of the 23,519,000 acres in cultivation July 1, the department reported that 3.8 per cent had been abandoned after that date, leaving 22,633,000 acres for harvest. The average abandonment in the ten years, 1931-40, was 1.9 per cent of the acreage in cultivation July 1. The area picked last year was 23,861,000 acres.

The census bureau reported that 504,125 running bales, excluding linters and counting round as half bales, of cotton of this year's growth had been ginned to September 1, compared with 605,764 bales a year ago, and 1,401,691 bales two years ago.

The acreage remaining for harvest, condition of the crop on September 1, indicated acre yield and indicated production in 500-pound gross weight bales, by states, follow:

Missouri 402,000 acres; condition 76 per cent of a normal, indicated acre yield 450 pounds, and indicated production 378,000 bales; Virginia 34,000; 83, 315 and 22,000; North Carolina 783,000; 69, 315 and 516,000; South Carolina 1,185,000; 43, 166 and 411,000; Georgia 1,863,000; 51, 161 and 628,000; Florida 66,000; 57, 101 and 14,000; Tennessee 689,000; 77, 355 and 511,000; Alabama 1,839,000; 63, 200 and 768,000; Mississippi 2,406,000; 62, 272 and 1,366,000; Arkansas 2,038,000; 71, 320 and 1,361,000; Louisiana 1,052,000; 46, 175 and 384,000; Oklahoma 1,625,000; 74, 185 and 627,000; Texas 7,922,000; 70, 175 and 2,888,000; New Mexico 118,000; 86, 495 and 122,000; Arizona 239,000; 87, 453 and 226,000; California 352,000; 83, 640 and 470,000; all other states 20,000; 79, 412 and 18,000. Lower California (Old Mexico) 179,000; 96, 240 and 90,000 (Lower California not included in California figures, nor in United States total).

The census bureau reported ginnings to September 1, by states, with comparative figures for a year ago, as follows:

Alabama 88,828 running bales this year, compared with 37,191 running bales to September 1 last year; Arizona 10,701 and 6,255; Arkansas 25,380 and 62; California 210 and 379; Florida 7,123 and 5,101; Georgia 124,947 and 94,586; Louisiana 27,066 and 4,120; Mississippi 78,817 and 3,038; Missouri 7,540 and (blank); Oklahoma 108 and 151; South Carolina 13,565 and 15,754; Texas 117,862 and 438,527; all other states 1,978 and 600.

Ginnings to September 1 included 16 round bales, counted as half bales, compared with 141 a year ago, and 16,880 two years ago.

OVERLOOKED NICKEL BRINGS HIS ARREST

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 8.—(AP)—That one nickel overlooked by a holdup man in a filling station till turned out to be an expensive oversight.

It enabled Marion Nichols, the operator, to call police from his pay phone.

The resulting broadcast reached a squad car as the patrolmen, who had stopped a speeding taxicab, were questioning the driver and the passenger who held a water gun in his hand.

The cab, the broadcast informed the officers, had been commandeered by the robber as he left the filling station.

FULL SENATE APPROVAL OF LOAN IS MADE

mansion yesterday, Cawthorn issued a sharp criticism of the method used to obtain the money.

He said Governor Jones had "condemned from every stump in this state" the borrowing of money through the state board of liquidation with legislative approval.

The board of liquidation at Governor Jones' request authorized polling of the legislature on the loan, which will substitute for the state finance department's $750,000 appropriation, nullified by a court decision. The department had faced a breakdown in disbursing welfare payments, pensions, and operating funds for hospitals, the penitentiary and other state agencies.

The senators whose votes Cawthorn delivered, including those affiliated with the Old Regular political group in New Orleans, were Nicholas Carbajal, George Reitmeyer, Richard Wingrave, Phil Arras, Aubrey Gaienne, A. J. Schwabe, all of New Orleans; Louis Folse, St. Bernard parish; Jules Fisher, Jefferson; Marshall Woodard, Bienville; Dudley LeBlanc, Vermilion; W. B. Oliver, Morehouse; Ernest Clements, Allen; A. A. Fredericks, Natchitoches; Drayton Boucher, Webster; Oscar Guidry, Acadia; and Cawthorn.

Senators Guidry and Fredericks had previously been reported by Governor Jones as having voted favorably.

"We are more than glad to vote to help these institutions, although we do not agree with the methods adopted by the governor in attempting to raise these funds," Cawthorn said in a signed statement.

"The people will recall that this is the same process which Jones condemned from every stump in this state, and we feel that if democracy had really returned to Louisiana, Jones would have called the legislature together, and permitted a fair study of the state's general conditions, as he promised he would do when he was a candidate.

"We would like to advise the governor that if he will call the legislature in extra session, we will assist Jones in aiding him to fulfill other broken, and apparently forgotten, campaign promises, such as a $30 per month pension, twelve months' pay for the teachers, a full crew bill, and a real hospital and road program.

"The manner in which the governor went about polling the legislature was, to say the least, rather unusual. The ballots were given to Steve Alford, who has nothing to do with the legislature, who made the rounds, using threats, coercion, promising jobs, and doing everything possible to force the members of the senate to vote for this loan.

"We were not consulted by Mr. Alford. In fact, some of us were not even sent ballots—thereby necessitating our signing the same ballot in order to be able to vote at all. Some of our group of 22 senators who received these ballots, knowing that we had agreed unanimously to vote for authorization of the $540,000 welfare department loan, sent in their ballots, and this accounts for Governor Jones' claim to having 24 favorable votes.

"Never in the history of this state has such an uncouth, ruthless, undemocratic system been used. It is indeed sad that such a system had to be inaugurated by a reformist, such as Jones."

Cawthorn asserted the group "by demonstrating to the governor that we would no longer tolerate the inefficient and incompetent manner in which state funds were being dispensed," had succeeded in "saving the people of this state a total sum of $650,000."

He referred to an original plan of the administration to ask for legislative authority to borrow $1,190,000 from banks, a total which besides $540,000 for the finance department, would have provided $150,000 for the crime commission, also deprived of funds through court actions, and $500,000 for the New Orleans charity hospital.

Cawthorn declared Governor Jones "reversed his position, abandoned his program and revised it to cover only $540,000 for the finance department" after 22 senators "signed a pledge to kill the proposal for the crime commission" and the hospital, which the DeSoto parish senator pointed out has an appropriation of $3,267,000.

COMPANY READY TO INSTALL MACHINES

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 8.—(AP)—The Shoup Voting Machine company declared in court today it was willing to supply New Orleans immediately with voting machines if Judge James D. Womack ruled that the New Orleans commission council's pledge to finance the city's share of the cost was a legally enforceable commitment.

This declaration was incorporated in a petition of itnervention filed by Charles Rosen, New Orleans attorney for the company.

Judge Womack ordered briefs on the legal issues submitted within a week.

He extended his restraining order against further steps for purchase or rental of the machines for ten days, indicating a decision might be expected within that time.

The case on trial is the fourth to be filed against the purchase of the machines and the most comprehensive, attacking not only the proposed financial arrangements but the state's right to order the devices used in New Orleans and leave the matter optional elsewhere.

The petition of Plaintiff Alphonse Peck, Lafayette city employe, cited both state and federal constitutions as invalidating the "reform voting act" passed at Governor Sam Jones' behest by the 1940 legislature.

Solution Of Yesterday's Puzzle

F. D. R.'S AGED MOTHER DIES

yesterday at the rambling old house which has been the Roosevelt family home for three quarters of a century. She would have been 87 years old on September 21.

Her death, attributed largely to her advanced years, resulted in the postponement from tonight until Thursday night (at 8 p.m. central standard time) of a presidential radio address which the White House said would be of "major importance."

The speech, it is expected, will embrace a discussion of the entire international situation and, in particular, the naval action last Thursday between an American destroyer and a German submarine off Iceland.

From the Franklin D. Roosevelt library, some 200 yards from the family home, the Stars and Stripes flew at half staff today.

From lowly citizens and from many highly placed in the life of the nation, came messages of sympathy for the president. Telegraph offices were flooded, and special wires were set up to handle them.

From late Saturday night on, President Roosevelt and the first lady had kept a sorrowful watch by the bedside of his mother. They were with her when the end came shortly after noon yesterday.

So was the family physician, Dr. Scott L. Smith, who said the mother of the chief executive had had "an acute circulatory collapse, due principally to her advanced age."

She had been in a coma for twelve hours.

The funeral, limited to relatives and to old neighbors and friends, will be held at the family residence tomorrow.

Mrs. Roosevelt will be buried in the family plot in the churchyard of picturesque St. James Episcopal church. Several generations of Roosevelts have worshipped at the little church, and behind it, under a canopy of aged oaks and elms, is buried the president's father.

The chief executive was only 18 when his father, James Roosevelt, died in 1900, and he and his mother have been exceptionally close. Her home has been his home all his life.

Proudly she had seen her son inaugurated as the only three-term president of the United States. Yet she had never quite approved of politics as a career for him. To her, he was more "My boy, Franklin," than "the president."

The matriarch of Hyde Park was supposed to have been one individual who subdued the vociferous Huey Long, the late senator and "Kingfish" from Louisiana, at a dinner party.

Other guests said he had monopolized the conversation, expounding his ideas of government and passing along advice to the president, until Mrs. Roosevelt turned to a neighbor and said in a stage whisper:

"There was only one reason why I didn't want Franklin to go into politics. He has to deal with such peculiar people."

She had taken in stride such historic events as the visit in June, 1939, of King George and Queen Elizabeth of England. And she was not hesitant to interrupt her son, even when he was conferring with a distinguished personage in his cluttered study, if she wanted to know what he desired for lunch.

But then, Sara Delano had some royal blood, as a descendant of the Prince of Seyrri of France and of the Delanos, who originally spelled the name De Lannoy.

The first of the family to come to America, in 1621, was Philip Delano. Mrs. Roosevelt's father, Warren Delano, who engaged in banking and commerce, came from a long line of merchants of the Far East trade. When she was eight, she and her mother took a four-month trip to China on the clipper ship "Surprise" and for a time lived with her father in Hongkong.

In 1880, when she was 26, she was married to James Roosevelt, a lawyer with rail and financial interests, who was exactly twice her age. Six years later he bought Hyde Park house, high above the Hudson, whose original portion was begun in 1748.

There in her second-floor bedroom, overlooking the Albany post road and a segment of a 1,200 acre estate, Mrs. Roosevelt died.

Her son is expected to inherit a considerable fortune, along with Hyde Park house and the part of the estate not already in his home. At his death, the stone and stucco home and its grounds are to be transferred to the government.

For a person of her age, Mrs. Roosevelt had been in exceptionally good health, although several years ago she broke a hip in a fall and had used a cane since then.

Only a week ago she had returned from her summer home at Campobello, New Brunswick. She had not been feeling well and her condition became worse Friday night aand critical some 24 hours later. The president arrived from Washington Saturday morning and had a final long visit with his mother.

Mrs. Roosevelt's only surviving sister, Mrs. Price Collier of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., visited her yesterday noon. Her brother, Frederic A. Delano, chairman of the national resources planning board, arrived from Washington yesterday morning.

FARM OUTPUT HIKE PLANNED

to a new boom in agricultural exports, particularly of such commodities as dairy and poultry products, pork, lard, fats and processed fruits and vegetables. Britain alone, he said, is expected to need from 6 to 8 per cent of total American farm production. Other exports are expected to require an additional 2 per cent.

This volume of exports would be double those of the current year.

The program would lift all restrictions on production of sugar in this country. Rigid marketing quotas have been in effect since 1934. The department indicated it did not want to risk any possible shortage due to shipping troubles. Normally this country imports about two-thirds of its sugar.

Wickard said the department soon would inaugurate a nation-wide campaign for "complete mobilization" of the farmers to put the program into operation. Production goals of the various agricultural regions will be discussed at a series of regional conferences scheduled for Salt Lake City September 15 and 16; Chicago September 18 and 19; New York September 24 and 25; and Memphis September 29 and 30.

"Every farmer in the United States will be contacted by local farmer committeemen," Wickard said, "to determine the extent to which each can contribute to agriculture's task in national defense."

The secretary said the department would support prices of commodities involved in the expansion program at not less than 85 per cent of parity until December 31, 1942. Parity is a term used to describe administration price goals for agricultural products. Most of the commodities affected are now selling for parity or higher. Officials expect them to continue at near present levels.

While nothing was said about farm program finances, aides of Wickaard said that prospective favorable prices should in themselves give farmers sufficient inducement to increase production. Present plans call for distribution, as in past years, of $500,000,000 in soil-conservation payments among farmers abiding by AAA soil-building practices, and of supplementary parity payments on any of the five "basic" crops—cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco and rice—which failed to bring full parity returns. Parity payments authorized for this year total $212,000,000.

8 INJURED IN MONROE AREA

driving a Pontiac coach, which was damaged on the right front.

Due to the severity of the injuries to the three, state police had not been able to talk with any of them at noon and a complete report of the accident was not available.

An accident on the Loop road Sunday at about 6:30 p.m. injured four persons, three of them being admitted to the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic here, where two were treated for injuries and released. Involved in the wreck were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Painich of West Monroe, John McCoy, connected with a Monroe radio station, and two soldiers, passengers in McCoy's car. Mr. Painich was treated for a fractured right knee cap and released soon ater admission to the clinic and McCoy, who suffered lacerations of the scalp, was not admitted. Mrs. Painich was still in the clinic at noon Monday, where attending physicians said she was suffering from bruises and shock. The injured soldier, Fred Fehling, who suffered from shock, was removed Monday to the army's evacuation hospital at Jonesboro. The other soldier was not reported injured.

State police who investigated the accident said that McCoy's car was going east on the Loop road and that the machine driven by Painich was turning into the Loop road from Forsythe avenue at the time of the crash. McCoy's automobile was struck on the left front and hurled down the embankment of Bayou DeSiard. The front end of the Painich car was damaged, state police said.

Another accident involving a machine driven by Dr. J. R. Fergurson, 118 DeSiard street, and another driven by Miss Susie Jewell Colvin of Ruston, took place about 11 o'clock Sunday night at the intersection of South Second street and the Winnsboro road. None of the occupants of the two machines was reported injured. According to Monroe police, Dr. Fergurson's machine was proceeding west on the Winnsboro road and Miss Colvin's machine was going south on South Second street. Dr. Fergurson, police said, apparently made a wide left turn into South Second street, striking Miss Colvin's car at the intersection. Both cars were reported proceeding at a small rate of speed and were only slightly damaged, police said.

In another accident, Clarence Fisher of West Monroe was reported knocked from a motorbike he was riding Saturday night when struck by an automobile in front of the Monroe hotel here. Physicians at the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic, where Fisher was Monday, said he was suffering from a severe leg injury.

Paul Prestage of Baucomville was arrested by state police and charged with driving while intoxicated and with using a car without the owner's permission, following an accident shortly after midnight Saturday on the Baucomville road, according to state police. According to police, Prestage took a machine belonging to Felix Hernandez, 213 Alpha street, West Monroe, Saturday night and drove it to Baucomville. While driving back to West Monroe, Prestage ran into a car in which Hernandez was attempting to overtake him, bouncing off the machine in which Hernandez was driving and striking an army truck. No one was injured, according to state police. Prestage was released when he made bonds of $150 on each count.

State police also said that a mule was killed late Saturday night just out of West Monroe on highway 80, apparently when struck by an army truck. However, the machine which struck the animal had left the scene when state police arrived.

To my right a gunner manned a 75 MM. gun; above my head the tank commander, Captain Ben G. Crosby, reserve officer from Lexington, Ky. manned a machine gun with a special turret for aiming at airplanes. Below to the front sat veteran Sergeant James H. Goodwin of Indianapolis, who drove the tank and operated two fixed machine guns by pressing triggers on the two driving levers.

I sat on cushioned seats. Composition rubber prevented my head from banging against steel walls, and the white walls of the turret made the 30-ton monster seem much roomier and cooler inside than the 14 or 18-ton tanks. It has a precise niche for each of its seven-man crew of gunners, loaders, radio operator and commander.

In battle the only vision outward is through prismic sights, new to tanks, to keep out bullet splinters that can fly through sight openings in older tanks.

and the fellow-travelers who lack the courage of their political convictions and show them up as Martin Dies has been doing persistently all this time and throw them out of government jobs and ride them out of private employment, too, and out of dominant positions in the unions.

This brings me to the subject of Communists and fellow-travelers in the government and the unions. I know the president has taken occasion a couple of times to denounce Communism, but the Nazis and Fascists have never been anything like the numerical representation and influence in our government and the social, and, for lack of a more correct word, intellectual life of Washington that the Communists have had.

No question about it, the president and Mrs. Roosevelt and Mr. Ickes certainly have a high tolerance for Communists and fellow-travelers and I am very sorry. After Hitler attacked Stalin and Winston Churchill hopped on the air with his quick salute and welcome to the Russians in which he specifically rejected Communism, our president made a similar distinction, but that was the last we heard of it. Since then our government has been more emphatically anti-Nazi than ever before, but our anti-Communism is no more than just a stipulation in the record. You may be absolutely certain that our Kremlinites are crawling into the administration in ever-greater numbers.

I see no excuse for gratitude to the Communists who were knifing our country up to the hour of Hitler's war on Russia but then dropped their opposition to American defense and their clamor of capitalist imperialism and started yelling up the war in the United States for Russia's sake. We had their number before, but we checked and confirmed it then, and I think we ought to regard them, like our Bundists and other Nazis, as enemies if they are aliens, and as traitors if they are citizens, and treat them just as we treat the Nazis.

That is why I include in my answer to the question, "Yah, what about Russia then?" the proviso that we must keep a suspicious eye on our own government lest we find that in the name of efficiency and more effective collaboration we have adopted the mental attitude and many of the government works which are common to both Hitlerism and Stalinism and inimical to the American way.

the 10 per cent curtailment program now effective.

Ralph K. Davies, acting petroleum coordinator, said that gasoline sales in September should equal those in the corresponding month last year, and the tax returns should be about the same.

In answer to questions by newspapermen, he explained that while the September supply available for sale was cut 10 per cent under July, the July sales in the 17 states were 11.3 per cent above the same month in 1940, and on that basis the September supply should be no less than September last year.

Meanwhile defense and other government officials took sides on the question of whether an 1,800-mile pipeline should be built to connect Texas and Louisiana oil fields with the east as a means of insuring ample oil supplies for Atlantic coast states.

Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the maritime commission, and Ralph W. Budd, defense transportation commissioner, argued that the project would require 750,000 tons of steel badly needed for defense purposes. Secretary of the Interior Ickes and his acting petroleum coordinator, Ralph K. Davies, contended that the line would carry 250,000 barrels of petroleum a day to the east and end the shortage problem.

The conflicting views have been aired at hearings of the special senate committee investigating petroleum shortages.

LEGALLY DEAD 6 YEARS, MAN REALLY DIES

he died. He made a point that we were to act only if he died, not merely if he became sick."

Mrs. Ritzert, amazed by the story of her father's secluded life in Detroit, told police "we had given him up for dead long ago when we could not locate him, and never heard from him."

"Shortly before the court awarded his estate, mainly life insurance, to mother, she died," Mrs. Ritzert said. "I then inherited it. Imagine my surprise finally to hear from him, like a ghost out of the past. And then to come here and find him dead—really, it seemed, a second time."

She said her father formerly was a coal operator, with an interest in three mines, and "his income sometimes ran as high as $12,000 a month." Police said she told them she could give no reason for his disappearance.

An announcement in a Nates newspaper said he was put to death because his action "aided enemy forces in view of the fact that prisoners were given the possibility of joining partisans of de Gaulle or the British army."

SEVEN ARE KILLED

LONDON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Seven persons, returning from channel cliffs where they had watched the R. A. F. bombardment of Boulogne, were killed today when a German raider dropped bombs on this side of the channel.

Into The Third Year

It is always under the delusion that the end will be achieved swiftly and with a minimum of loss that leaders throw their countries into war. The World War was to have been a punitive expedition of Austrian forces into Serbia to teach the Serbs a lesson and, perhaps, steal a little territory. Instead, it lasted four years and cost 10,000,000 lives.

Japan's invasion of China had a time allowance of six months. But more than four years have passed and Japan, although deep in China, economically bankrupt and burdened down by countless problems, is far from its objective of conquest of the Chinese. And now the blow at the independence of Poland has broadened out to become another World War, covering Europe, reaching out to the Far East and to Africa, carrying its perils even to the Western Hemisphere, and now entering upon its third year.

The war to date may logically be divided into two major phases, each occupying about a year of time and each holding its own significance and effect upon the world. There was that first phase of uninterrupted Nazi triumphs, when nation after nation went under and the conviction grew, with adequate justification, that the German military machine was invincible, that Hitler's army had developed an offensive power that could not be resisted, and that even England would fall.

In fact, even in high quarters there was discussion of the removal of the fleet and of the government to Canada as the bombings grew more terrible and plans for invasion advanced. In this period of successive disasters and deepening gloom among the friends of democracy everywhere, there was only one gleam of hope. It was found in the spirit of the English people, who were not dismayed.

Since then there has been a consistent, slight but perceptible improvement. It is reflected in Britain's increasing air power, in the resistance of Russia and in the growing restiveness of subjugated nations, whose boldness increases as they seem to detect signs of weakness in Hitler's regime of blood and iron.

Accordingly, the third year of the war opens under somewhat more heartening circumstances and there is at least some basis for the hope that a reversal in Hitler's fortunes is beyond the horizons. But the war will not be won until Great Britain, whose help to Russia has been as meager and ineffective as her help to France, Norway, Poland and Greece, shows initiative and daring and ceases to place her reliance in other countries.

Reports that Britain is "disappointed" in the help from the United States are not surprising and are not to be taken seriously. Britain will always be disappointed in help, no matter how generous, that falls short of outright rescue from the consequences of her own cautiousness and inaction.

Russian resistance is providing for Britain the opportunity to exert to its full advantage the tremendous striking power built up during two years of relative inactivity. Unless this opportunity is seized, Britain may have cause to be disappointed in the help coming from other nations.

Manhattan
By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—In a small, second hand book store in Third avenue I picked up a volume of Shakespeare for a dime. It was the Yale Shakespeare series and its title was Othello, the Moor of Venice. On the fly leaf, in neat, precise hand, was the signature: Harold Hutchinson, 1927, Middle Mass-Room 28."

When I saw this I thought back to a chap I knew at the University of Virginia. His name was John McQuade. McQuade was a transfer from Dartmouth. We came to know each other because we were members of the same fraternity and lived at the same house. One day, during the summer—this must have been in 1924—he introduced me to another Dartmouth man, a friend of his whose name was Harold Hutchinson. . . . "Hal," he called him. . . . We three went on a party together, then separated. . . . Years later—that is to say, five or six years after we were out of school—someone asked me if I remembered Hal Hutchinson. I said, "yes." They said, "He's dead. He was killed in an accident. In a plane. He crashed in a plane."

I tucked that information into a corner of my mind and did not use it again until I saw Hal's name on the fly leaf of this book. It said, "Harold Hutchinson, 1927, Middle Mass-Room 28." After giving it some thought, I am sure that '27 was his class, that room 28 in Middle Mass was where he lived at Dartmouth. . . . If any member of his family sees this and would like to have this volume, I will be glad to forward it to them. It would be easy to check the signature and the marginal notes throughout the book, which are numerous and probably in Hal's own hand.

The other night about 1:30 I went down into Greenwich Village and was watching the show in El Chico when a grey, short-haired cat of ambiguous ancestry appeared suddenly out of nowhere, trotted across the floor and disappeared behind the piano on the bandstand, where the orchestra was busily playing a flamenco dance. The pianist never batted an eye, nor did any of the players or the actors.

"Did you see what I saw?" I asked Ben Collada, my host.

"That was Smoky," replied Ben, "she's got five kittens behind that piano."

Later after the show, the pianist conveniently got up so that I could squeeze behind the piano and have a look. The five little fellows were busily taking a midnight feed. They were about a week old. They were born right there on the bandstand. Ben provided Miss Smoky with a nice, big roomy box upstairs in the office but she would have none of it. As fast as the kittens were taken upstairs she would seize them by the nape of the neck and hustle them back downstairs.

"That settled it," declared Ben. "She wants them back of that piano and there they're going to stay."

"What are you going to do with them," I asked him "Keep 'em," he replied. "There are only five of the little kittens; besides, I like cats."

Smoky already has her own feeding routine worked out nicely. She just strolls into the chef and meows. . . . He feeds her on chicken, ham and cream.

TEACHERS GIVEN MISTAKEN ADVICE

It often occurs to me that no professional worker is exposed to so much mistaken advice as the teacher. When there is a difficulty requiring a lawyer's service he is asked for help and it usually is accepted gratefully and its routine carefully followed.

Few laymen venture to advise their lawyers, and if they do they are soon made to realize their error. When illness strikes the family the doctor is called. His every word falls on eager, straining ears and his directions are followed to the last syllable.

"The doctor's order," is sufficient reason for the most unheard of upheaval in family custom. "The doctor knows. The lawyer is smart. Why else do I hire him?"

This is not true as to the teacher. Anybody feels competent not only to advise, but to criticize and demand and order whatever a teacher tries to do. Now why?

There is no training more severe than that of the professional teacher. There is no stricter discipline than that which a teacher applies to himself. There is no body of professional people whose ethics are higher, whose record of public service is cleaner than that of the teaching body of these United States.

But anybody with the use of his tongue can deplore, deride, denounce the most earnest of teachers. If you think this is overdrawn listen for one day to what you hear people around you saying to and about the teacher in your own school. Then take heed to yourself.

A delicate, sensitive, fast-thinking child enters school. He learns the course of study rapidly. "Skip him a class. He is ahead of his group," says his family.

"Better not," says the teacher. "Better enrich his daily work and let him take his full time in classes."

Does the family agree cheerfully? They emphatically do not; and what they say and what they do in their disagreement is amazing. And extremely discouraging to the trained and devoted teacher.

Backward children need less work, and more pointed lessons, shorter hours, than the quick learners require. Nerve-strained adolescents need adjusted programs that ease their loads. Tired children need more free time and fewer school hours, a lighter course of study, or complete vacation from school. Sick children need special care, perhaps special classes, certainly medical supervision.

Some children need two terms work in the same grade. All children need as much in school as their tastes, abilities and their health demand, be that more or less than the usual routine allowance. Rarely does the trained and experienced teacher who advises any such procedure meet with willing cooperation from the family and parents concerned.

Parents would help their children more than they know if they had more confidence in the school, more faith in the teacher than they ordinarily show. If instead of flying into a rage and denouncing the teacher as ignorant, selfish, partial, partisan and what not, the distressed parents could bring themselves to feel that the teacher is as important and trustworthy and efficient as the doctor, the dentist and the lawyer upon whom they confidently depend, the children would arrive at their goal sooner and in better heart.

Get a good teacher, well trained, dedicated to his profession: pay him well and leave the children to his care. You won't regret it.

'THINK WE SHOULD SLOW DOWN?'

IN WASHINGTON

By Sigrid Arne
(Pinch-Hitting for Jack Stinnett)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Lucy Monroe has a new defense job, probably the strangest in the whole program.

Lucy, a slim New York brunette with a good soprano voice, has been asked to Paul Revere it across the country to encourage people to sing the good, old songs that mean America. Maybe she already has been through your community.

She sings a solo or two at big meetings. Then she swings into something like "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," motions for the crowd to join in, and shortly she's the center of a whirlpool of sound which sends chills up the spine.

Lucy's young life has been devoted to the typical songster's routine: voice, diction, librettos, wardrobe. She is smart enough to know that this job is something else again. She knows she's becoming the center of an emotional vortex that may become hard to handle.

Her phone rings all day with people who want her to sing some favorite song. Her mail is loaded with manuscripts of new ones. She gets all sorts of red-white-and-blue gifts. She's taken the color scheme for her wardrobe.

'Star Spangled Soprano'

Lucy's first big community sing was a dinger. It was "I'm An American" day in Central park, New York. The city's fireball mayor, Fiorello La Guardia, asked her to solo "The Star Spangled Banner" and then to lead the crowd. The crowd turned out 700,000 strong: probably the largest ever collected in this land.

La Guardia knew Lucy Monroe because she has become a habit with American Legion conventions. She sang the "Star Spangled Banner" at their 1937 meeting. Now she's invited each year. The Rainbow Division has made her their "official daughter." The Veterans of the Foreign Wars made her their "official soprano."

She kept thinking she was headed for confections like "La Boheme" but then she was asked to sing the national anthem daily at the New York World's Fair. She got the tag, "The Star Spangled Soprano." RCA has made her "director of patriotic music," and La Guardia has appointed her to his Civilian Defense program, and given her an office, with orders to report to the commander of the second corps area.

Knows 75 Patriotic Airs

She is a fresh-mannered, friendly girl who sticks to orange juice and delighted surprise at being alive. She didn't quite know what a "director of patriotic music" does, but she figured she ought to know what this country's patriotic songs are. She knows about 75 of them.

Lucy opened her cross country tour with a sing-fest with the National symphony, and a few days of interviewing Washington's defense bigshots about songs. She thinks General George Marshall is "cute." He asked that she put "In the Good Old Summer Time" on her programs.

Postmaster General Frank Walker wants "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," and La Guardia prefers "Keep the Home Fires Burning." Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau can't forget his job. He wants "Buy Any Bonds Today."

REGISTRATION AT SCHOOL STARTED

Registration is starting at once at St. Matthew's parochial school, although the opening date is still not fully decided, but it may possibly be as early as September 22. Those who register are asked to do so in the morning hours this week.

Music and kindergarten will be offered this year and will prove, it is believed, a drawing card for the school. Those pursuing music studies can enter at any time throughout the year, it was stated. The kindergarten will care for children whose ages are four to five and one-half years.

Sister Elizabeth is principal of the high school and she is assisted by Sister Patricia, Sister Martina, Sister Fidelis and Miss Katherine Boecher, the latter being librarian.

The grammar school principal is Sister Philomena and she has as assistants the following teachers: Sisters Julian, Mary Ann, Mary Florence, May Raphael, Mary Charles and Genevieve.

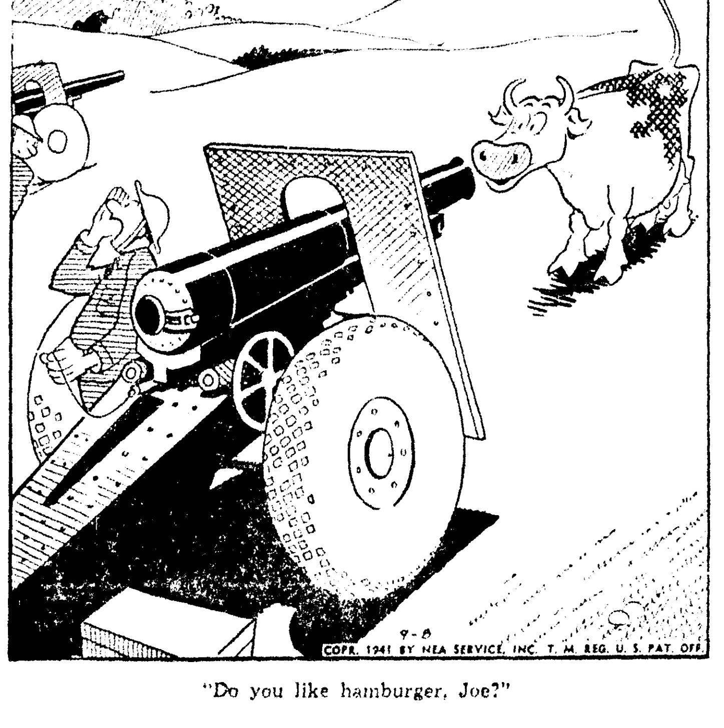
IRAN TOLD QUICK ACTION REQUIRED

LONDON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Although no deadline has been fixed for Iranian acquiescence to British-Russian demands, an authoritative source said today, a favorable response must be forthcoming "in a very short time" if Iran is to avoid sterner measures by occupying British and Russian forces.

The most recent communication to Teheran is understood to have insisted upon expulsion or internment of all Germans and Italians and others having any connection with the axis, whether as official agents or private citizens.

It is assumed here that a number of axis operatives already are in custody of the British and Russians.

FUNNY BUSINESS



"Do you like hamburger, Joe?"

15 Years Ago

Sept. 8, 1926

The faculty of the city schools for the ensuing year was announced by Superintendent E. L. Neville today. Like the staff of the parish schools there are to be several new members at the term starting September 13. One of these will be Paul J. Neal, who comes from Georgetown college in Kentucky to assume charge of athletics, filling a need that has been manifest for a long time. In addition to acting as coach he will teach science. Mrs. Lowena Lacoste is another new teacher, she is to teach mathematics and is a graduate of L. S. U.

Zoning and city planning struck at least a temporary snag, at the meeting of the junior board of the Chamber of Commerce when it was shown by City Attorney H. H. Russell that the two laws passed by the recent legislature were in his opinion such as to limit the powers of cities in this extent to a considerable degree. The matter of street marking, however, the next important matter was approved and the city commission urged, through a resolution, to proceed at once with the markings, employing a four-way metal sign at street corners. The matter of a community chest was debated and received favorable mention. C. E. McKenzie president of the junior board presided.

MADE UP TO KILL
by Kelley Roos

Chapter 32

Who?

"IT WAS that party this afternoon," Jeff went on. "God! If only I'd been awake. It's so simple. She stood in the window, Haila, she stood there for ten minutes. And then, after she moved away . . . after she moved away, the shot came through. She draped herself in the window, a perfect target for the Esquador Hotel, and nothing happened. But after she moved away . . . not till then, was the shot fired. Don't you see what it means, Haila? That bullet wasn't meant to kill Carol!"

"Wasn't meant to . . ."

"That shot was fired through the window to keep us thinking that Carol was the intended victim."

"But if it wasn't Carol, then who was the murderer trying to kill?"

"Eve. Eve North was the victim all along. And the murderer made his mistake the first night, not the second. His mistake was when he poisoned Carol, not when he stabbed Eve."

"Eve North." I shook my head. It was too much for me.

"It was Eve who was supposed to have been killed. And she was! Carol's safe. And you're safe, so go to bed. I'll call you in the morning."

He left me in the doorway and I could hear him taking the steps three at a time. I glanced at the closed bedroom door and then at my watch. It was twenty minutes to three.

I got sheets and blankets out of the hall closet, stuffed one of the big sofa pillows into a case and made up my bed on the studio couch.

I didn't think I would disturb Carol.

Theater At Three

THE monotonous drumming of rain at the window awakened me and I sat up wondering why I felt glum and sour and hang-overish. Then I remembered. Carol was in my room and she and I had a few things to straighten out and there was no use putting it off longer. I went quietly to the bedroom and opened the door.

The room was empty and the bed had either been made or not slept in at all. There was a little gap between my row of dresses in the closet where Carol's clothes had hung and a vacant space on the shelf where I had stuck her suitcase. A sprinkling of powder and a few blond hairpins wedged into the cracks of the dresser drawer were all that remained of Carol's belongings.

I breathed a sigh of relief and experienced my first kindly feelings toward her since Jeff had exploded his bombshell the night before. I was sincerely grateful for her quiet exodus, for I had dreaded the chat that was scheduled more than I cared to admit.

Well, that was that. And the next time I befriended a gal she would be a Golden Eagle Scout or a certified Sunday School teacher.

I bathed and dressed and with a cup of strong black coffee at my elbow and the long neglected Though Heavens Fall on my lap, I calmly settled myself to wait for Jeff's call.

On page four I gave up. Every character was saying: "Carol was never meant to be killed. . . . Nobody tried to kill Carol. . . . It was Eve all along, Eve who was the victim. . . . She sat in the window ten minutes . . . a perfect target . . . and then she moved away. . . . Carol's safe . . . a dipsomaniac . . . a thief . . . she blackmails people . . . but no one tried to kill her. . . ."

I shut Though Heavens Fall in disgust and flung it at the telephone. Twelve-thirty and Jeff hadn't called. Keep me informed, would he? Call me in the morning, keep in constant touch with me, was that what he had said?

I dialed his number and there was no answer. I called it every five minutes until one o'clock and then I decided to do some sleuthing on my own.

I called Steve Brown's hotel and the desk clerk said there was no answer. Tommy Neilson wasn't in his room. Philip Ashley told me in brief, unpleasant terms that he didn't give a damn about Mr. Jeff Troy's whereabouts. I dialed the Rehearsal Club number and succeeded in getting Alice McDonald away from an important script.

"This is Haila," I said. "Alice, have you seen anything of Jeff?"

"I've been locked up in my room all morning with an important script that . . ."

"I know. Thanks. I thought maybe Jeff had called you. So long."

"Haila! Wait a second!"

"Yes?"

"Why would Jeff call me?"

"No special reason, I just thought maybe he had."

"Haila, I saw Carol Blanton walking down Fifty-third Street alone this morning. Isn't that . . . dangerous?"

"No, it's all right. I mean . . . maybe you were mistaken, Alice. Good-by."

I hung up and for ten minutes paced the floor. I was wondering if I should call Greeley Morris and what would happen if I did when the phone shrilled in my ear. I jumped a mile before I picked it up.

"Hello, you big bum!"

"This is Alice. Jeff just called me, Haila. But he was in a hurry. I didn't have a chance to tell him about you."

"Where was he?"

"I don't know where he called from. But he's going to be at the theater at three. He asked me to get hold of Phoebe Thompson and Ashley and tell them to be there, too. I don't know what's happening, do you? He was very mysterious."

"Well, you know more than I do."

"Will you be there?"

"I haven't been invited."

"Don't be silly! Jeff seemed in a terrible rush. You're in this as much as anybody."

I replaced the phone and leaned back. Alice, Phoebe, Ashley and Jeff! Well, either Jeff was going to have the girls teach him and Steve to dance or something was going to happen. And he was going to let it happen without me. That's what he thought!

I changed into some old clothes, put on my plaid trench coat and started out. It was still raining in a steady downpour, but it wasn't a cold rain and it felt clean and soft on my face. I splashed over to Broadway. Before I got there the rain had turned to snow and the pavements were mush covered. The day darkened and the lights shone mistily through skyscraper office windows.

Through the great oval glass of a restaurant I thought I could smell the fragrance of the steaming coffee that was being served inside. At once I was hungry and cold and I stopped uncertainly to peer at my watch. Not quite two-thirty. There was plenty of time for a sandwich and a cup of coffee. Then, with a nice display of will power, I turned my head and went on. It would be better to arrive at the theater a little early than a little late. I wanted to see Jeff's flush of pleased surprise when he got there and spied me.

On Stage Again

ALICE McDONALD was standing at the entrance of the Colony stage alley. With her mannish black rubber slicker, an old felt hat pulled down over her eye and overshoes on low-heeled brogans, she looked ready for a hurricane.

"Nice day, Alice, for you, what."

"I love it, the wind and the rain."

"Anyone here yet?"

"No, nobody. Let's go in."

"You bet."

"Oh, Nick's here. Asleep in his chair at the door as usual. We'll be careful not to waken the poor old man."

Together we sloshed down the alley, almost dark now, and through the stage door. Nick was at the low table just inside, his pipe in his mouth and his head bent over a sheaf of papers. He was sound asleep. There wasn't a movement from him as we slipped by and went out onto the stage.

Nothing had been changed since that tragic night when I had opened the door on stage right and found Eve North's dead body huddled behind it. Even the small hand props scattered about the room were as we had left them, the scarlet-tipped stubs of cigarettes that I had smoked still in the ash trays. Half hidden by the blotter on the desk was the note that I had written while old Ben Kerry and I had played that last scene.

Except for a single shadeless rehearsal lamp that stood ludicrously in the center of that lovely set and filled it with a bleak white glare, it was all the same. It seemed strange to me, for no reason at all, that so much could have happened to all of us who played there while it remained serenely unchanged.

Alice's hand tightened on my arm and we walked over to the light. "Haila," she said softly, "has Jeff found out anything? Does he know . . ."

"I haven't seen him since last night." I pulled my arm away from her. I didn't care for Alice when she got intense.

"He knows who the murderer is, doesn't he?"

"Jeff doesn't confide in me, the big goop."

"He knows; that's why he's having everyone meet here. He's told you who it is, hasn't he?"

"I said that . . ."

"I know. You won't tell me. It's because you don't like me, Haila. You've never liked me; you're jealous of me—because I come from a family of great actors, because of my heritage!"

I turned my back on her and started for the door. I wasn't going to listen to a performance by a frustrated actress. I had taken three steps when she clutched my arm and swung me around.

Then suddenly, the light wavered, as if it had been a candle, and went out.

MAJOR GRAY PAYS VISIT TO MONROE

Major C. P. Gray, Jr., of the medical corps of the 204th coast artillery anti-aircraft batteries, stationed at Camp Hulen, Tex., paid a brief visit to his parents and friends Sunday when he flew to Monroe in a bomber plane. Lieutenant G. L. Pritchard, of Randolph Field, Tex., accompanied him as pilot.

Major Gray took a week-end outing by flying from Camp Hulen to New Orleans Saturday night, thence to Jackson, Miss., where he had Sunday dinner with his wife, and then stopped at Monroe for a few minutes before flying back to Camp Hulen.

The major, well browned by his camp life, was in the best of spirits as he greeted his parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Gray, Jr., and his sister, Miss Louise Gray, at Selman airport, Sunday at 2:45 p.m. He said that everything was going well at Camp Hulen and that the Monroe boys were being well cared for. Right now, he said, most of the men are away on maneuvers and this made it possible for him to take leave at a week-end.

He recently completed in Philadelphia a special medical study of tropical diseases, their cause, prevention and cure.

2 BUSES WILL BE OPERATED TO TECH

Allen A. Phillips, operator of a bus line between Monroe and Louisiana Tech, will have two bonded buses in operation this year. He is now taking reservations over phone 58.

The buses will arrive in time for the 8 a.m. classes in Ruston. One will leave Tech at 3 p.m. and the other bus at 4 p.m. each day.

Tech is scheduled to reopen on October 2.

Louisiana ranked first, Wisconsin second and Ohio third in the fur production of the United States for 1939.

nroe put the game on ice in the frame Sunday, largely through enerosity of the Bills. Al Kelley, burg ace, started on the hill for illies and failed to last through nning. Although his mates let down on two occasions, some base blows helped blast the hander from the mound. Man- Al Baker went to the rescue and y in good shape for the re- der of the game.

Sox used three hurlers, Man- Doug Taitt apparently not tak- ny chances on losing the lead the Sox piled up in the first . Ted Hoemann, Verne William- and Will Reeder were the three moundsmen.

er Joe Eagar had rolled out to the Monroe half of the first in- g, Bob Hill singled to left center. Dooley worked Kelley for a pass Dale Englehorn sacrificed them base. Guy Pruitt also walked oad the bases. Then with Pete ak up and the count two strikes L... [illegible] Medak struck at a pitch h hit the dirt in front of the plate. ball bounded past Catcher Al and and Hill scored and Medak hed first safely. That loaded the s again, and Ernie Potocar nptly slapped a single into left and the bases were cleared and car came all the way home him- when Left Fielder Ray Zimmer- let the ball get through him. he Bills got their only run in the rth when Zimmerman singled to center, went to third on Clary k's double down the left field foul and scored on Hal Lee's fly to ter.

Monroe's final tally was scored in fifth. Englehorn, who got three s to lead the Sox batting, beat out infield single. Pruitt singled to cen- , sending Englehorn to second. th the bunt sign on, Baker threw le to Medak and Englehorn, who started toward third, was caught second on a fine throw by Al iland. However, Medak and Poto- r walked in succession and Keith gled to score Pruitt.

Both teams threatened in the late nings but Baker pulled out of the several holes and Taitt's jockeying of his pitchers proved effective in halting Vicksburg's rallies.

DODGERS RUN LEAGUE LEAD TO 3 GAMES

Double Win Over Giants Comes As Cards Split Two With Reds

By Sid Feder
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Around and about in the National league today, the boys and girls were wondering if maybe the Brooklyn Dodgers weren't suffering from hallucinations.

"Who," they were asking, "do those Brooklyns think they are—the Yankees?"

Now, the Dodgers insist they haven't been reading the Yanks' mail to find the Bronx Bombers' secret. However, the fact remains that what was once a sizzling pennant race, as close as the instalment man chasing his monthly payment for the piano, has now become actually about as close as Bill Terry and the baseball writers.

At this writing, "dem bums" are bouncing along on a three-game lead, and they'll hold it all day today, for the whole outfit, National and American leagues both, take a holiday. Tomorrow, the Brooklyns head west, make a brief stop in Chicago, and then hold their absolute-last "crooshal" series with the second-place Cardinals Thursday, Friday and Saturday in St. Louis.

And if the Dodgers reach St. Loo with their three-game edge still in one piece, or a reasonable facsimile thereof, the hustle guys from the Mississippi must sweep the three-game set to even keep hoping they'll hit the jackpot.

The bottom didn't quite fall out of the House of Cards during the week-end, but the foundation took on a marked resemblance to grape jelly when Cincinnati grabbed Saturday's single contest and split yesterday's twin bill by picking up a 5-2 decision in the nightcap after the Gas Housers did some gas-housing to win the opener, 11-7.

While this was going on, the Dodgers were proving—to Bill Terry in particular and 34,361 slightly daffy Ebbets field customers in general—that Brooklyn is still in the league. They did this by sweeping a three-game set with the Giants climaxing the job with yesterday's impressive double header win.

In the opener, the Brooks just up and knocked the ears off their ancient enemies, 13-1. Kirby Higbe tossed a six-hitter to become the National league's first 20-game pitching winner of the year. Dolph Camilli clouted his 31st and 32nd homers and knocked in five runs.

The nightcap, however, was a horse from a different garage. The Terry Terriers whacked Whitey Wyatt for three runs in the seventh inning to take the lead. However, in the ninth, Ducky Medwick's single sent two tallies home to tie, and in the tenth Pete Reiser poked out a hit to push a run across for a 4-3 Brooklyn win.

The Cards won their opener only after they almost tossed it away. They were rolling along on a 6-1 edge until the Reds blew Howard Krist right out of there with a five-run game-tying spree in the seventh.

But St. Louis came back with five markers in the same inning, and from there on it was just a breeze. The nightcap, cut to eight innings by darkness, saw Elmer the Great Riddle toss a seven-hitter for the Cincinnati win.

To the Yankees, who already have their American league championship stowed away, all this hullabaloo was as much fun as the time your Aunt Agnes slipped down the cellar stairs carrying a basket of eggs. Murderers row slapped the second-place Boston Red Sox 8-5 yesterday to stretch their league lead to 20 1-2 games.

The St. Louis Browns exercised their jinx on the third-place Chicago White Sox again for a 3-1 win behind Denny Galehouse, and Tommy Bridges celebrated "Bridges' day" at Briggs stadium by treating himself to a six-hit elbowing job for a 4-1 Detroit victory over Cleveland. Washington climbed to a half-game from the doorway out of the cellar by trouncing the Athletics twice, 2-2 and 4-2.

Vallie Eaves served up a five-hitter and pitched the Chicago Cubs to a 3-1 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates. But the day's biggest laugh was the howl Casey Stengel turned loose when his Braves, the supposed hitless wonders, strayed 35 hits to pretty nearly all sections of Boston to pound the pathetic Phillies twice, 17-6 and 10-1.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By Associated Press)

Tommy Bridges and Bruce Campbell, Tigers—Bridges pitched six-hitter and Campbell drove in Detroit's four runs with a double and single to down Cleveland.

Vallie Eaves, Cubs—His five-hit pitching whipped Pirates.

Joe Grace, Browns—Singled to drive in deciding run in ninth for victory over White Sox.

Dolph Camilli, Kirby Higbe, Ducky Medwick and Pete Reiser, Dodgers—Camilli hit two homers, drove in five runs in first game as Higbe pitched six-hitter to whip Giants; Medwick's two-run ninth-inning single tied score in nightcap and Reiser's single in tenth frame sent winning run home.

Charley Keller, Yankees—Hit double, single, drove in two runs and scored two in defeating Red Sox.

Harry Gumbert, Cardinals, and Elmer Riddle, Reds—Gumbert pitched two-hit ball in 2 1-3 inning relief job and hit two-run homer in Cards' opener victory; Riddle tossed seven-hitter for triumph in nightcap.

Ken Chase and Early Wynn, Senators—Chase allowed six hits in 8 1-3 innings and doubled to send in winning run in ninth inning for opener victory over Athletics; Wynn hurled six-hitter to take nightcap.

Paul Waner and Tom Earley, Braves—Waner collected four hits, drove in two runs and scored four in opener decision over Phillies, Earley's six-hit pitching won nightcap.

PROS SAY 1941 IS GREAT YEAR

More Than 400,000 Fans Already Have Seen Money Golfers Play

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Professional golf has 1941 marked down as the greatest year in its history.

With some half-dozen tournaments remaining on the program, the game already has drawn more than 400,000 fans through 26 events according to Red Corcoran, tourney bureau manager of the P. G. A., with yesterday's $11,000 Tam O'Shanter Open windup providing a smashing high point to the season.

This tournament, first in a series which officials claim will see the event built up to one of some $20,000 value, went to Byron Nelson of Toledo on another of the great stretch finishes which have made him famous.

Two strokes back of Leonard Dodson of Kansas City after 54 holes, Nelson fired three birdies in a final round two under par 70 which brought him the championship and first money on a 72-hole total of 278 strokes, 10 under par.

Dodson, leader through the first three days of a tourney which drew 23,000 fans on its final day—a crowd said by Corcoran to be the greatest in American golf history—had a final round 73 for a 279 aggregate. This figure was matched by Ben Hogan, leading money winner of the season, who finished with a 70. Nelson's previous rounds were 67-69-72, with Dodson starting with 65-68-73 and Hogan 73-66-70.

The surprising play of Dodson, a long shot known better for his story spinning and wagering exploits, injected a great spark into the Tam O'Shanter event, which found him setting the better known stars a lively pace. A bogie five at the par four 15th hole yesterday, as Nelson was getting his four, cost Dodson a tie for the title. Hogan missed a 16-foot putt at the 18th green which would have earned him a tie with the Toledo ace.

Hogan, sharing $2,400 with Dodson, tightened the grip on his position as top money earner of the year, with $14,933 to his credit. He also made it a 55th straight tournament in which he has placed among the money winners.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.
(Pinch-Hitting for Eddie Brietz)

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Week's wash: The tennis moguls were sound alseep when 12,000 fans suddenly decided they wanted to see the National singles semi-finals Saturday. They had given most of the ticket sellers the day off and a lot of fans missed the Riggs-Schroeder match. . . . In a prominent spot on the bulletin board in the Yanks' clubhouse is a congratulatory wire from Babe Dahlgren, who was one of the "bums" who couldn't win last year. . . . Latest reports are that John Kimbrough may play with the Philadelphia Eagles this season if the club's negotiations with Douglas Hertz go through.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE

Joe Cronin: "It's a lazy man's job, that third base. All you do is stand there and wait for the drives. You can let 'em bounce off you anywhere and any time and still have time to throw out the guy at first." . . . Now who wants to bet Joe will be a bench manager next season?

CLEANING THE CUFF

Army's football scouts report that Joe Muha of V. M. I. is a lot better player than his brother, who did right well with Carnegie Tech, and they're afraid he may wreck the Cadets in the second game of the season. . . . Paul Menton, who's back on the job in Baltimore after looking over the Southeastern conference, reports that Harry Mehre really has what it takes at Ole Miss. . . . The Asahi baseball team of San Jose, Calif., composed of Japanese boys, has volunteered to play a game for the U. S. O. . . . Hot tip (maybe): Phil Rizzuto played with a pennant winner every one of his four years in the Yankees' farm system but his clubs always were licked in the playoffs. . . . Well, the Yanks won the pennant his first year up. . . . The draft and the schedules aren't the only thing bothering football coaches these days. Several eastern Pennsylvania colleges have had to cancel early-season games because of infantile paralysis in that region. . . . Pitcher George Barnicle, who couldn't catch on with the Braves, may become a golf pro. He's talking about a winter links tour with Footballer Ace Parker.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Nixson Denton, Cincinnati Times-Star: "Middle western football writers are to form an organization. Their principal objective is to protect themselves from college press agents."

FUTURE BOOK

Charley Berry, the former big-league catcher, may be coming up agaain as an umpire. He's just finished his first season in the International league and all eight clubs are satisfied. . . . Such smart observers as Charley Bachman and Gus Dorias tab Bill Jefferson, the Detroit Lions' halfback from Mississippi State, as one of pro football's coming stars. . . . The White Sox haven't left a first-class sandlot prospect in Detroit for the Tigers to look over. Scout Ray Myers recently signed nine youngsters there for 1942 tryouts with the Sox. . . . Bill Bytheway, 21-year-old pitcher in the Westmoreland county (Pa.) league, pitched four straight shutouts in the playoff series without giving more than three hits a game.

FRANKNESS NOTE

Joe Malcewicz, San Francisco fight promoter, recently advertised a bout between Jumbo Kennedy and Milton Levy as "probably the worst but positively the biggest match ever staged."

FIRE DAMAGES TWO KANSAS CITY SPANS

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Simultaneous fires damaged two bridges entering the huge Kansas City stock yards today and menaced the Twenty-Third street viaduct, a major traffic artery between the two Kansas Cities.

While a huge pile of driftwood blazed beneath the viaduct, firemen were called to a bridge carrying switch tracks into the heart of the yards, and to the Union Pacific railroad bridge at the north edge of the yards.

The two railroad spans are 300 feet apart and about half a mile from the viaduct which skirts the south edge of the yards. All cross the Kaw river.

Firemen were unable to determine the origin of the fires, which caused little damage.

FRANK KOVACS IS OUTSMARTED IN NET FINALS

Riggs Turns In Four Sets To Take National Tennis Singles Title

By Gayle Talbot

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP)—On no less an authority than the coach of the player he out-thought and humiliated in the final match for the national tennis championship yesterday, Bobby Riggs is the smartest tennis player who ever stayed up nights inventing new ways of confusing an opponent.

George Hudson, who has been coaching Frank Kovacs for eight years, made no effort to conceal his admiration for Riggs after the little guy had given Kovacs the undiluted works in the big match before 10,000 fans at Forest Hills. The scores were 5-7, 6-1, 6-3, 6-3.

"I'll swear," swore Hudson, "I've been playing and coaching tennis for 35 years and that Bobby is the smartest player I ever saw. There have been greater players, but not smarter. He had no right in the world to lick Frank like that, but he did it, and you've got to give him credit. What a brain that little rascal has."

Which adds up to quite a compliment for the 23-year-old Riggs, who captured the title in 1939 with what was then classified as an ordinary tennis game, lost it last year to Don McNeill, and came back yesterday to win it again over a player who would have been a 2-to-1 favorite if there had been a bookmaker within the sacred precincts of the West Side Tennis club.

"You got to admire the little guy," Hudson pursued. "He lost that first set to Kovacs on its merits. But he realized when the next set started that Frank was pressing—trying to win it quick. So he sat back and began waiting for Frank to miss. He won 12 straight points, and from then on it was too bad.

"The smartest thing the rascal did, thought, was when he talked Kovacs into playing the fourth set without an intermission. He knew if they stopped to rest I would get hold of Frank and make him ease up—make him use his slow, high-pounding service and get into the net. But Kovacs fell for it, and I lost my only chance to get out there and put him wise.

"Riggs told me later he expected to see me come running out there and tell Kovacs what was happening to him. But you can't do that in the championships, and Bobby knew it."

Because Hudson couldn't get to his bewildered pupil and inform him he was being out-smarted, the final three sets were among the dullest within memory of old Forest Hillers. Riggs simply skinned his befuddled young rival alive. Bobby's service was far better than in previous years, among other things. The last 13 times he served he lost only 10 points, and that is a record that belongs in the books.

But, apart from that, Riggs was far too good. He couldn't miss. His returns were "solid," whereas his gifted young opponent pounded them into the net and outside the lines.

TEETH OF QUINTS ALMOST IDENTICAL

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The detective writers tell you that teeth are almost as infallible guides to identification as fingerprints—but not those of the Dionne quintuplets.

Dr. Arnold D. Mason, dentist to the five little girls since birth, says plaster casts of their teeth are virtually identical.

"If I were to mix the imprints of their mouths, I would be at a loss to identify them," he told questioners as he arrived to address the Southern California Dental association.

"The mouth measurements vary only thousandths of an inch."

He has, with one exception, a complete set of the teeth the quints have lost. The missing one was Emilie's. Dr. Mason suspects she swallowed it.

He disclosed that the girls have originated a language all their own. They know French and English, but have combined the two with a pidgin speech of their creation, so that even their nurses can't always tell what they're talking about.

PLAYOFF WILL OPEN TONIGHT

Atlanta, Chattanooga, Nashville And Orleans In Southern Series

(By Associated Press)

Atlanta's pennant-winning Crackers, who fell one short of taking 100 games in the regular season, meet fourth-place Chattanooga while Nashville, this year's runner-up and 1940 pennant winner, bucks third-place New Orleans tonight in opening games of the Shaughnessy playoff.

New Orleans nosed into third spot by half a game yesterday by drubbing Chattanooga in a double bill, 9 to 1 and 5 to 3.

The initial series will be three games of five with the winner in each bracket clashing in a four-out-of-seven series. The final winner meets the Texas league playoff champion in the Dixie series.

Manager Paul Richards of Atlanta planned to send Emile Lochbaum, who was sold yesterday to the Brooklyn Dodgers, against veteran Buck (Iron Man) Marrow of Chattanooga in the first game in Atlanta.

At Nashville, Manager Larry Gilbert either will depend on his southpaw ace, Russell Meers, or Roxie Lawson, a recent pitching addition, in the initial contest with New Orleans. The Pelicans plan to use young Johnny Beazley, who won 16 and lost 12 during the regular season.

SELMA LEAFS BACK IN PLAYOFF FIGHT

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 8.—(AP)—The Selma Cloverleafs, after a disastrous start which saw them lose two straight games, are back in the running for a berth in the finals of the Southeastern league playoffs.

The Leafs, who finished second in the regular season, slapped down the Jackson Senators, 6 to 1, in Selma yesterday to make the semi-final playoff record two games to one in favor of Jackson.

The Leafs, behind Bucky Swift's seven-hit hurling, scored five of their runs in the sixth on six hits.

The clubs will resume the four-out-of-seven game series today. The Mobile Shippers, who led the league at the close of the season, earned a place in the finals by taking four consecutive games from the Pensacola Fliers.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Cotton futures made new highs for the season again here today as heavy trade and speculative buying appeared despite larger-than-expected government-indicated crop figures. Closing prices were very steady 33 to 37 points net higher.

New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Cotton futures soared into new high ground today despite bearish interpretations of the government crop estimates. The report was only 100,000 bales under the August estimate, while the trade had looked for a reduction of as much as 500,000 bales.

Strengthening of the holding movement in the south and sharp advances in other commidiites, together with heavy trade and speculative buying overshadowed early depressing influences.

Late afternoon values were up 11 to 22 points, October 17.61; December 17.82, and July 18.19.

Active-short covering and trade and New Orleans buying in last half hour lifted values to the best levels of the day.

Futures closed 22-30 higher.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubanks

NEW YORK, Sept 8.—(AP)—Stocks with a war rating, notably aircrafts, negotiated a brisk recovery offensive in today's market without much assistance from generally tired-looking leaders in other divisions.

Gains were reduced in most cases after mid-day and minus signs were liberally sprinkled over the tape at the close.

Transfers were around 600,000 shares, despite frequent slow-downs. It was one of the largest turnovers in a month.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Aircrafts put on a flight of their own in today's stock market and left many leaders stalled in the hangars.

Steadier tendencies appeared in the list at the start and, at the best, gains of fractions to 2 points were sprinkled over the ticker tape. Laggards, however, were plentiful near the fourth hour. Dealings slowed after a relatively active forenoon.

MATTRESS FUMES SMOTHER 3 TOTS

HARDWICK, Minn., Sept 8.—(AP)—Fumes from a smouldering mattress suffocated the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Orval Swenson at their home near here last night while the parents were away from the house.

The three children—Frances, 5; Orval, Jr., 3, and Merlye, 1—were sleeping in an upstairs bedroom.

Authorities said the mattress on the parents' bed, in the same room, unexplainably became ignited and the fumes filled the room, in which the windows were closed.

Sheriff Neil Roberts said Mr. and Mrs. Swenson had put the children to bed before leaving to attend a movie. They found the children's bodies when they returned about 11 p.m.

OCAL SOLDIER IS GIVEN PROMOTION

FORT BENNING, Ga., Sept. 8.—Special)—The promotion of Private irst Class Joseph L. Chaplin, of Mon- oe, to the grade of corporal, has been nnounced in orders issued in the h motorized division.

Corporal Chaplin is assigned to the ompany D, 29th infantry. Military uthorities stated that his promotion as based on his attention to duty nd soldierly qualities.

The 4th motorized division, com- anded by Major General Oscar W. riswold, is the only completely mo- orized division in the United States rmy. At present it is undergoing wo months of reorganization designed make it "the newest thing out."

Included in the new organization ill be both light and medium tanks, rmored cars, the new self-propelled -millimeter anti-tank guns, and new 5-millimeter howitzers. Organiza- on of the infantry battalions and giments will be changed, an anti- ank battalion will be added, and umerous other changes will be made.

When the division moves into North arolina for maneuvers in November, will be streamlined, hard-hitting orce which, although smaller than he existing organization, will have per cent more fire power than it ow has.

ETERMINATION WINS MI— AMERICA TITLE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 8. (AP)—Miss Rosemary La Planche of s Angeles, Calif., does not discour- ge easily and as a result she is the 41 Miss America.

Blonde Rosemary was a contestant n the 1940 pageant, but was runnerup o Miss Frances Marie Burke of Phil- delphia.

This year she came back again as Miss California. She realized her am- ition Saturday night when she was eclared the winner over 41 other ompetitors.

"I worked awfully hard to get back ere this year for a second try," Rose- ary said. "It meant studying and racticing night and day. To get here gain I had to overcome competition om 500 other California girls picked American Legion contests. And if hadn't won the title here this year was determined to come back again ext year."

Miss America 1941 is 19 years old, feet 5 1-2 inches tall and weighs 20 pounds. The tape shows she has 34-inch bust, 24 waist, 36 hips, 14 alf and 8 ankle.

She is interested in a movie career.

DISSATISFIED 20 YEARS, BUT WINS

SEATTLE, Sept. 8.—(AP)—For twenty ears Robert J. Moore of Tacoma has een fishing. And for 20 years Rob- rt J. Moore has been dissatisfied.

Sunday was no exception.

He caught a 22-pound salmon in El- ott bay while competing in the 11th nnual Seattle Salmon Fishing Derby.

So, while rowing back to the weigh- g-scales to report the catch, the issatisfied Mr. Moore let his line trail ehind his rowboat.

Before he reached the scales, he aught another weighing 28 pounds, ive ounces, which gave him first lace, the grand championship and an utomobile.

FOSTER CHILDREN

More than 20,000 children in Eng- nd are being brought up by 15,000 ster mothers, under supervision of ealth inspectors.

DR. A. E. PRINCE RESIGNS CHARGE

West Monroe Pastor To Become President Of Missouri College

Dr. A. E. Prince, pastor of the First Baptist church in West Monroe, tendered his resignation in that capacity at the morning service Sunday. He will assume the presidency of Hannibal-LaGrange college at Hannibal, Mo., at once, moving with his family to that city.

During the two and one-half years in which Dr. Prince has been a local pastor, there have been 400 additions to the church membership, and the finances of the church have been completely re-vamped and are in the best of condition now, it is stated. He has been active in state-wide Baptist circles for the past four years, at this time being president of the board of the Louisiana Baptist convention which post he is also resigning. In all civic affairs of the Twin Cities he has been prominent, which includes the Kiwanis club of West Monroe and other activities.

Dr. Prince is a graduate of several well known colleges and obtained his doctor's degree from Ewing college in Illinois. His bachelor's degree was granted by Hannibal-LaGrange college, to which institution he is now to return as president.

During the past summer, Dr. Prince has been dividing his time between the church here and the college as he has been raising a rather large sum to cover indebtedness, and his becoming president has hinged on his ability to liquidate outstanding accounts of the institution. This was accomplished last week and he is now free, he stated, to resign here and assume his new administrative duties.

DOUGHBOYS FLOCK INTO TWIN CITIES

The Twin Cities can expect a large influx of soldiers on Wednesdays and Sundays of the next three weeks, David C. Silverstein, chairman of the retail merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce, said Monday. Mr. Silverstein said that he had been informed by the commanding officer of the army's quartermasters corps here that Wednesday and Sunday of each week had been designated as rest periods for the many thousands of soldiers now on maneuver duty in this section.

"The Twin Cities can expect large numbers of soldiers here on Tuesday night, all day Wednesday, Saturday night, and all day Sunday," Mr. Silverstein said. Many soldiers, he said, also will be in the Twin Cities Friday nights.

Mr. Silverstein urged that hotels, eating places, and recreation establishments in the Twin Cities make arrangements to accommodate the soldiers on the days and nights they will be given leave. Days of this week and the next two weeks have been designated as rest periods, he said.

ANTHONY GIBBON NOW OIL EDITOR

Anthony Gibbon, formerly a resident of Monroe, where he was successively engaged in oil operations and newspaper work, now a resident of Houston, Tex., has just been named oil editor of the Houston Press.

Mr. Gibbon, in assuming his new duties, introduced himself to his readers as follows:

"The first job I ever had in the oil business was with the old Agwi company in Tampico in 1920, along with such men as O. L. Brace, now a consulting geologist in Houston, and E. G. Thompson, vice-president of Housh and Thompson.

"A slug in the leg soured me on Tampico and I went to Louisiana, where a Jackson outcrop in LaSalle parish intrigued me and I drilled six wells to open up the Urania-Tullos oil field in 1925, and the first commercial production in the Wilcox. I believe I started something there."

RUSSELL BROTHERS' CIRCUS COMES TO TOWN

Here are a few scenes Monroe residents witnessed as the Russell Bros. circus, one of America's largest, unloaded on the Plum street show grounds for two performances today at 2 and 8 p.m. Left, a pachyderm (elephant to you) lumbering out of his wagon; center, lady gymnast and clown prepare for the opening performance; right, driving of the final stakes for the tented city shown below in its entirety.

Circus Arrives For Two Performances Here Today

Large Crowd Watches Russell Bros. Set Up On Plum Street

Carrying all the traditional thrills of circus day, the Russell Bros. circus, one of America's largest, moved into Monroe from Shreveport at the crack of dawn Sunday morning and with no perplexing delays started the erection of an entertainment city of colorful canvas on the Plum street show grounds for two performances today at 2 and 8 p.m.

The hundreds of men, women and children who assembled on the grounds yesterday witnessed a free show which to many is as interesting as the actual circus performance. One by one the huge vans arrived and discharged their cargoes.

Ponderous elephants lumbered from their wagons, shaggy-haired camels and llamas alighted and stretched after their 100-mile move, while sleek horses and shetland ponies pranced in the sunshine awaiting the erection of the menagerie tent.

Laborers set to work hoisting poles, spreading canvas, driving stakes, and performing a multitude of other duties incidental to erecting the various tents —the sideshow of freaks and oddities, living and dressing tents, menagerie, and the all-important dining tent in which the large circus family of nearly 400 performers, workers, and technicians takes its meals.

The big top with a seating capacity of 5,000 was not hoisted until this morning in order to give circus employes a half day of rest, but everything was in readiness by noon today for the matinee. Doors to the menagerie will be opened again at 7 o'clock tonight giving Monroe circus fans an entire hour to see all the animals before the start of the big show.

Crowning features of the two-hour program include Buddy, the talking sea lion of almost human intelligence; the famous Clarke family of bareback riders, Miss Aerialetta and Frank Sheperd, top-ranking single trapeze artists; Miss Anna Brock, exponent of the muscle grind; the Acevedos from Argentine, the Orton and Brock troupes, Captain Welsh's performing elephants, and the Flying Clarkonians presenting the climax of all aerial achievements.

2 SERVICES ARE WELL ATTENDED

Homecoming And Singing Convention Held At Christian Church

Homecoming was observed at the First Christian church Sunday morning and the Missouri Pacific Booster club's singing convention was held there Sunday at 1:30 p.m. Both the morning and afternoon services were well attended.

The morning service, the homecoming one, was largely a tribute to the pastor, Rev. R. T. Watson, and his wife, who had just returned from a three-week vacation spent in Ohio and Michigan.

The singing convention was also well attended and the usual program of solos, quartets, and instrumental and vocal selections were given. Many attended from a distance.

The program was held at the church as the Booster clubhouse is now in use by the United States army during the maneuvers.

PLUCKY BOY GOES BACK TO HOSPITAL

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Plucky Carl Mason, who after spending nearly all his 11 years in bed looked forward to going to school for the first time to-today, won't be there. He is in a hospital again, his name on the danger list.

An ambulance sped him from his home at nearby Pembroke, Mass., to Massachusetts General hospital late last night. His father, Leon Mason, accompanied him.

The boy was placed under observation with a view to his possibly undergoing surgery, a hospital attache said.

Apparently recovered from tuberculosis of the spine, Carl learned to walk less than a year ago and had been away from the hospital only six weeks.

MADISON CLUB TO HAVE BIG OPENING

Announcement is made of the opening of the newly overhauled and remodelled Madison clubhouse, located two miles west of Tallulah on highway 80, on Wednesday at 9 p.m.

Len Williams and his nationally known N. B. C. orchestra will be presented for the opening event.

The clubhouse has been greatly improved and presents a first class dance floor.

The new management of the club will feature chicken and steak dinners and asserts that no finer meals can be had in north Louisiana than at this club.

The public is asked to make early reservation by telephone in order not to be disappointed at the opening night.

HIGH SCHOOLS ARE NOW REGISTERING

A large number of students entering the Ouachita Parish High school for the first time, thronged the offices of Principal Jack Hayes Monday morning for the purpose of registering. The entire week will be reserved for additional registrations. At Neville High school there were similar registrations in progress and will be held through the week, morning and afternoon, stated Principal Paul Neal.

The Neville High school band also had its initial rehearsals Monday morning, with good attendance of new members and those who comprised the band last year. Director Charles Gaushell was said to be well pleased with the outlook.

COLLEGE HOLDS OPENING EVENT

Freshmen Attend Orientation Session Held Monday Morning

The initial week's program for the fall semester was ushered in at Northeast Junior College Monday when freshmen attended the orientation program held in the college auditorium at 9 a.m. A second meeting of similar nature was conducted in the afternoon by Dean C. C. Colvert.

Registration for sophomores was initiated Monday noon and will be started for freshmen on Tuesday noon. The five buses of the college were placed in operation for the first time for the new school year Monday morning.

A large number of freshmen were present Monday morning for attendance at the orientation exercises but Dean Colvert stated that he is unable to forecast the number who will enter this fall. Also some will not enter until later in the month, as it will be possible to enroll at a later date, although the dean urges all who possibly can do so to register immediately.

Northeast Junior College is the only public educational institution that is starting the school year off on schedule, as the other schools here are delaying their opening because of the hazards presented by the army maneuvers that are in progress in and around Monroe during September.

MYSTERY TAKEN FROM HAMBURGER

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Now, they've gone and taken all the mystery out of the lowly hamburger.

The city has passed an ordinance requiring that hamburger "be made only from the straited muscles of meat, of beef origin, with only 15 per cent of beef fat added."

Inclusion of any mutton or pork, sulphites, sulphur dioxide, benzoate of soda or other chemical preservatives will be considered a law violation.

FRENCH TRUFFLES

Hogs are trained to locate and dig up truffles in France. The truffle is an underground fungus, used for omelets, sauces, poultry dressings and other dishes.

LAW-ENFORCING HEADS TO MEET

Sessions Will Be Conducted In Monroe And Other Louisiana Cities

During the month of September a series of meetings will be held in Louisiana cities by law enforcement officers to which all law enforcement officials are invited. The one in Monroe is scheduled for September 23. Other meetings, places and dates are as follows: Lake Charles, September 16; Lafayette, September 17; New Orleans, September 18; Baton Rouge, September 19; Shreveport, September 24; Leesville, September 25, and Alexandria, September 26.

These conferences are arranged to provide a definite means of mobilizing all law enforcement agencies in the work of national defense and internal security. The federal bureau of investigation, designated as a coordinating agency in national defense investigations on the part of law enforcement agencies, seeks to provide at these conferences opportunities for open forum discussions and provide a means to exchange ideas, experiences and suggestions.

These conferences have been held in the state of Louisiana and throughout the United States in previous months, and in the second quarter of the present year 6,913 different law enforcement agencies were represented, and the number of police officers attending totaled 14,917. Within the state of Louisiana 163 different agencies were represented and the conferences were attended by 497 police officers, which reflects the outstanding response, cooperation and concerted effort of municipal, parish and state police agencies within the state of Louisiana. Unquestionably, the proper handling of investigative and enforcement problems incident to national defense and internal security constitutes an important phase of the national defense work.

The topic theme of the new series of conferences will be "Sabotage Methods and How to Combat and Detect Them," and will include a general discussion of "Sabotage Investigations" and "Bombs and Explosives."

SOLDIER IS KILLED IN HOMER ACCIDENT

HOMER, La., Sept. 8.—(Special)—Private Frank Nemec, 23, of the 132nd Infantry, was instantly killed near here Sunday night when the army truck he was driving overturned when sideswiped by another car. Sergeant R. H. Baggech and Private Frank Kendzier, also of the 132nd Infantry, who were riding in the army truck with Nemec, were injured slightly, Coroner F. Palmer of Claiborne parish said.

The other car involved in the accident was driven by R. E. Powell of Homer. District Attorney T. Kinnebrew said. Also riding in the Powell car were five soldiers. All escaped injury.

The accident occurred about six miles from Homer on the Arcadia-Homer highway about 8 o'clock. District Attorney Kinnebrew said that the Powell car and the army truck sideswiped each other, causing the truck to overturn.

Crowd Of 5,000 Thrilled By Water Carnival Here

Eight Events In Spectacular Boat Races Keep People Gasping

A crowd of approximately 5,000 persons which lined both banks of the Ouachita river was thrilled by spectacular boat races which featured the annual Monroe water carnival Sunday.

The eight events on the program kept the big crowd on its feet with daring driving on turns, spectacular speed o nthe straightways and three spills. Ralph Tatum, driving at an approximate speed of 54 miles an hour in the Class C racing runabout event, was slightly injured when his boat overturned. A. L. LeBlanc, driving at nearly 60 miles an hour in the Class C hydroplane event, and Gene Lutz, Monroe, in the service racing runabout event, were uninjured when their craft overturned.

The most spectacular races of the program were the two heats of the Class C racing runabouts, the last two events on the program. Both heats were won by Howard Griffin, Monroe, over H. B. Jones, Jackson, by narrow margins.

Results of the races follow:

Class A hydroplane—P. Mayhew, Dallas, first; Johnnie Beaumont, Hattiesburg, Miss., second; Tommie Goodwin, Jackson, third.

Class B hydroplane—Leonard Mayhew, Dallas, first; A. L. LeBlanc, Jackson, second; Johnnie Beaumont, Hattiesburg, third; Ralph Tatum, Jackson, fourth; Tommie Goodwin, Jackson, out.

Class C hydroplane—H. B. Jones, Jackson, first; Howard Griffin, Monroe, second; P. Mayhew, Dallas, third; E. Herbert, Jackson, fourth; A. L. LeBlanc and Ralph Tatum, Jackson, out.

Class C second hydroplane—H. B. Jones, first, Howard Griffin, second; P. Mayhew, third; Toney, fourth; LeBlanc, Tatum and Herbert, out.

Class C service—John Pittman, Jackson, first; J. C. Lindsey, Shreveport, second; Johnson, third; Elmer Droddy, fourth; E. Rude, fifth; J. T. Davis, El Dorado, Kelly Vail, Jackson, W. H. Skater, Jackson, J. P. Case, Shreveport, Ermin Griffin, El Dorado, and C. E. Lutz, Monroe, out.

Class C open runabout—J. T. Davis, El Dorado, first; Cy Perkins, Monroe, second; John Pittman, Jackson, third; Ermin Griffin, El Dorado, fourth; Kelly Vail, Jackson, W. H. Skater, Jackson, J. L. Case, Shreveport, H. Marmaux, Shreveport, Howard Griffin, Monroe, Toney, Monroe, and Elmer Tatum, Jackson, out.

Class C runabout—Howard Griffin, Monroe, first; H. B. Jones, Jackson, second; L. A. LeBlanc, Jackson, third; J. T. Davis, El Dorado, fourth; Cy Perkins, Monroe, fifth; Ralph Tatum, out.

Free-for-all runabout — Howard Griffin, Monroe, first, L. A. LeBlanc, Jackson, second; J. T. Davis, El Dorado, third; Tatum, Perkins and Stanley Mitchell, Jr., El Dorado, out.

Following the completion of the program, an outboard motor was awarded Dr. L. L. Shlenker.

Sponsors of the water carnival were highly pleased with the success of affair and announced that it w... be an annual event with "bigger ... better programs."
